"The Board of Examiners is practically a self-perpetuating close corporation, entirely beyond the jurisdiction of the Mayor. This Board should be appointed by the Mayor and should not represent special interests, but be chosen from architects and engineers of high standing.

But it was not my present intention to suggest a new code, not to point out more than a few of what seemed to me to be the most glaring defects of the proposed one. I think I have said enough to show that if you sign this measure you will do the city a grave injury.

ERNEST FLAGG.

THE COOPER UNION PROTEST.

AT a general meeting of citizens called by the Allied Real Estate Interests at Cooper Union on Tuesday night, the building code which the Board of Aldermen has asked the Mayor to approve was condemned, in resolutions, for wantonly increasing the cost of building, for failing to provide publicity for the exceptions and modifications made by the Superintendent of Buildings, and for giving undue advantage to special interests.

The meeting had its curious aspects and stormy moments, which the daily journals of the following day sufficiently elaborated. Civic meetings at Cooper Union are regularly attended by a crowd of public-spirited citizens known as "minute men," who delight in oratorical controversies, no matter what the theme. They are ready to debate anything to the best of their ability in less than a minute's notice, or whenever they can edge in. They love to stand for even a brief moment in the public eye and to fancy they are voicing public opinion or somehow exercising an influence upon the course of local government. It is their pastime. They lend color and contribute excitement to a civic meeting whenever they get half a chance, and thereby save many from falling into dullness.

Representatives of the real estate and building lines who went to Cooper Union to hear public opinion expressed had the pleasure of meeting the "minute men." They also had the felicity of meeting a young engineer who claimed or accepted large responsibility for the building code; and if he came away as pleased as they, then there is nothing to regret. Emulating Mr. Jerome, he would have submitted to a heckling from those who did not like the code, but the "minute men" blew him away. One of the "patriots" was seized by the police, and dragged out, greatly to the indignation of those in the audience who had never been to a play at Cooper Union before, and did not understand.

The fact remains, in spite of irrelevant accidents, that the meeting was the impressive protest which it was intended to be. The arguments and charges made against the code were mainly such as have become familiar to the readers of this paper. Among the speakers was Mr. William Butler, a young lawyer whose clear, ringing voice, and logical and pointed remarks, has been a feature of the hearings in this campaign. He represented the Building Trades Employers' Association, and showed particularly the antagonism between the proposed Code and the Charter in regard to the large discretion with which it was proposed to empower the Superintendent of Buildings. Again, in the matter of the proposed licensing of trades, he doubted very much the power of the Board of Aldermen to do this.

Prof. William H. Burr, of Columbia, representing presumably the engineering profession of this city, when it came his turn to speak said he felt lonely in spite of the big audience because he represented no interest whatever. "I haven't even a brick or a piece of concrete or even a hollow tile," he said, "to throw at the Board of Aldermen. But I think it would be very difficult to find a reason for the limiting of reinforced concrete to buildings 85 feet high. There are such buildings here now rising to 135 feet which under this code have no right to exist, though they are performing their functions excellently. One such in West 39th st supports greater loads than most buildings in this city.

"There is no reason to suppose that it will not stand there for all time performing its functions, yet under this code it oughtn't to be there at all.

Such buildings as the Hudson Terminals could not be put up under this code. And that is a pretty serious matter. This code ought to be sent back for revision just on these provisions regarding concrete and reinforced concrete if there were no other reasons; but there are many others. There are a dozen, perhaps a score, of types of reinforced concrete, every one of which should be permitted under proper regulations.

"Such a responsibility as this code puts on the Superintendent of Buildings should not be centred in one individual, and I doubt very much whether any carefully thinking man would want to accept it. The fire test is 100 degrees higher than anything ever done in the past, and there isn't a fireproof floor in this city that could pass this code or be constructed under it."

Alderman Robert F. Downing, of Brooklyn, who says he was tricked into voting for the majority report in the Board, said Moore was the czar of the commission.

COMMITTEE KEPT IN DARK.

"He bulldozed us in the commission meetings for eighteen months, and now he's getting a dose of his own medicine," exclaimed Downing, and the crowd cheered.

"As a member of the Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen, I desire to enter a protest against the code which was jammed through the Board," began Downing. "In appearing here to-night I voice the sentiment of five members of the eleven in the building committee, and of thirty-eight members of the Board, representing 2,000,000 people.

During the eighteen months the building code was in preparation all the members of the committee but two were kept wholly in the dark. We were invited to but one public hearing of the commission, and that only in relation to the heights of buildings. We were requested to sign a code with which we were wholly unfamiliar, and of which only one copy was printed. It was high-handed Tammany gag rule."

TOO MUCH POWER FOR ONE MAN.

Downing declared that six of the eleven members of the Building Committee agreed to favor the minority report, but that one switched at the last minute. He said the power placed in the hands of the Superintendent of Buildings made him superior to the code and arbitrary dictator of what should or should not be permitted under it. It was too much power to place in any one man's hands, he declared.

A BIG BUILDER'S PROTEST.

Patrick Gallagher, a builder of armories and school houses, declared that the infamy of the code's provisions was emphasized by the power lodged in the Building Superintendent and in the Board of Registration provided by the code, which enabled its members, appointed by the Mayor, to say who should and who should not practice as builder, architect or engineer in New York.

Benjamin D. Traitel, president of the Building Trades Association protested against the code on behalf of 1,000 builders, who erected $2,200,000,000 worth of buildings in ten years.

All criticized the code severely, taking up particularly the restrictions placed upon reinforced concrete, cinder concrete and other materials. The discretionary powers granted to the Superintendent of Buildings were also condemned.

The resolutions of protest were presented by Senator Brush, of Brooklyn, and carried, and a committee of ten was directed to present them to the Mayor.

COMING AHEAD.—All the structural work on the Pennsylvania tunnels under Bergen Hill and the Hudson River has been completed. The concrete work has also been finished and both tubes are ready for track, and the installation of the electric power and signal systems.

THE MOST NOTABLE WORK OF THE ERA.

On July 19, 1909, at 10 a. m., the first train, carrying a number of invited guests, was run through the newly completed downtown tunnels of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Co. under the Hudson River from the terminal station at Cortlandt and Church sts on Manhattan Island to the Pennsylvania Railroad station in Jersey City. Public exercises were held at the City Hall in Jersey City upon the arrival of the train, which was greeted with cheers from a multitude of people and salutes of cannonry and steam whistles. At 3 p. m. on the same day the tunnels were opened to the public, and trains began running on a regular schedule. The connecting land tunnels between the Pennsylvania and Erie stations in Jersey City and the Hoboken station of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western will be opened on Aug. 2.

THESE downtown tubes have been built after the same design as for the new portions of the uptown pair. Each is fifteen feet three inches in diameter, and lies from sixty to ninety feet below the surface of the water, or from fifteen to thirty feet below the bed of the river. The total length of the sub-aqueous portion of the tube is approximately five thousand seven hundred feet, or about two and a half miles. They are circular tubes formed by a segmental cast-steel lining bolted together in the rear of the excavating shields as they were driven forward. The tubes are lined with concrete up to the level of the top of the cable ducts, but the top half is unlined.

CHARLES M. JACOBS,
Chief Engineer.

The Manhattan terminal station occupies the three floors below ground in the Hudson Terminal Buildings. There is, first, the great concourse, to which there are four main entrances and exits from the street, by wide inclined passages; and in this concourse there are stores of various kinds, with many more to come. Almost everything a traveler needs will be purchasable at the stores and booths, including meats, drugs, toilet articles, hardware, trunks, fruits, books, stationery and railroad tickets. These little shops occupy the space between the building columns and in the corners, leaving unobstructed broad aisles. Wall and column levels are painted light cream color above a white tile wainscoting, which is surmounted by a molding of dark green tile, ornamented with medallions of floral design. Rows of ceiling clusters of incandescent lamps inclosed in ground-glass bowls furnish the light.

The stations are built on the tangent form, which means simply that the tracks in the stations are perfectly parallel with the platforms. There are two platforms in each terminal, the arriving and departing. Passengers obtain egress and ingress on opposite sides of the cars, thereby avoiding the station delays heretofore so perplexing.

STEEL AND CONCRETE THROUGHOUT.

Steel and concrete alone enter into the construction of these subterranean stations. Vaulted arches rise on all sides. Four stairways, built of concrete, with balustrades of bronze, connect the concourse with the two loading and six lead up from each of the unloading platforms to the concourse. The platforms being 370 feet long permit the operation of eight-car trains. The third rail is mounted on porcelain insulators supported by iron brackets. It is protected by a 9-in. plank mounted above it. All special track work in the station is of Manard steel, furnished by the Pennsylvania Steel Company. The frogs are of solid construction and the switches are of the double-tongue type.

For ventilating the station and tubes dependence was placed mainly on natural means, but fans have been provided to accelerate the movement of air. The trains in their passing too and fro act as giant pistons whose every movement changes the atmosphere in the tunnel, forcing out the foul air, and creating a vacuum in the rear which draws in a supply of fresh air from the surface. It is for this sanitation system that the web-wall was built between the tracks in the subway portions of the system, in contradistinction to the system in vogue in the construction of other metropolitan subways. The ventilation of the offices in the buildings, above ground, is by a general ventilating scheme independent of the one for the station proper.

Below the train platform level is the substation (with dimensions of 87x59 ft.) for electric power, where the high tension alternating current from the power-house in Jersey City is converted into a 600-volt direct current for the third-rail circuits on the New York side, and also the machinery for light and power for the buildings. It is equipped with two 1,500-kw. rotary converters for the railroad work, and four 750-kw. rotaries for lighting and power in the buildings.

THE TERMINAL BUILDINGS.

While present attention is more particularly directed to the completion of the station proper and the opening of the tubes to travel, new interest and appreciation are also kindled in the great terminal buildings as a whole. Although the offices have been occupied for a year and more, the celebration of the week signalized the completion of the whole operation on the Manhattan side.

The twin buildings are united below the ground, and rise 22 stories above it, and cover 70,000 sq. feet of area. Their cubic contents are 14,500 cu. ft. above ground, and 3,650,000 below. Sixteen million, three hundred thousand bricks were used in the walls above the surface of the ground, 1,300,000 sq. ft. of tile partitions and 4,500 tons of architectural terra cotta. There are 5,200 doors in the building, and 5,000 windows, containing 120,000 sq. ft. of glass, enough to cover three square city blocks. The amount of concrete in the floor arches alone is 1,100,000 cu. ft., enough to pave Broadway from curb to curb one foot thick from the Battery to 42. st. There is over half a million sq. yds. of plastering, sixteen miles of plumbing, twenty-nine miles of steam pipe, fifty-six lineal miles of wood base, sixty-five miles of picture moulding, ninety-five miles of conduits and more than one hundred and thirteen miles of wiring, or more than enough to maintain a special telegraph line between New York and Philadelphia.

The lighting of the building requires 30,000 incandescent lamps, attached to 13,000 fixtures. Twenty-two of the thirty-nine Otis elevators are express cars, rising without a stop to the 11th floor. The remaining seventeen are local cars, stopping at every floor up to the 11th.

THE HONOR MEN.

"The end crowns the work." Tunnels and terminal together will be an enduring monument to its builders and master minds. The men who have been conspicuous in the promotion of the

The civil engineering features of the tunnels and the design of the stations have been worked out by Charles H. Jacobs, chief engineer, and J. Vipond Davies, deputy chief engineer, who have had direct supervision over the construction forces in the tunnel work. The architects of the twin buildings were the firm of Clinton & Russell, and the general contractor the George A. Fuller Company, which is also constructing that other great work, the Pennsylvania terminal. During a part of the time since the work began as many as 6,000 men have been employed. The design and installation of the power-house in Jersey City, substations, third-rail, feeders and miscellaneous electrical equipment and also the rolling stock were in charge of L. B. Stillwell, consulting engineer, and Hugh Hazelton, electrical engineer. The cost of the system when fully completed will be about $70,000,000.

CHICAGO'S LARGEST OFFICE BUILDING.

Architects D. H. Burnham & Co., of Chicago, have completed plans and specifications for what will be the largest office building in the city of Chicago. It will be erected by the People's Gas Light & Coke Co., and the whole project, including site, involves a total estimated cost of between $5,500,000 and $6,000,000. The building has been under consideration for two years, but actual construction was deferred because of difficulties in getting possession of some of the properties comprising the site. The plot has a frontage of 196 ft. on Michigan av and 172 ft. in Adams st. The new construction will involve difficult engineering problems, as it means the sinking of a caisson foundation.

The building will have twenty-one stories above ground, the limit in height in Chicago. Each floor will contain 33,712 sq. ft., about 10,000 sq. ft. less than an acre, and embracing in its total height over thirteen acres of floor space, providing 1,500 offices in which 3,000 to 5,000 people will do business and find employment during the working hours of the day. The facades are to be of granite and glazed terra cotta, the latter of a light hue, similar to that used in the Railway Exchange Building, and up to the top of the fourth story all the granite will be polished. The columns upon the main front (of which there will be eighteen), will be monoliths, each 26 ft. 6 in. in height, and 4 ft. 3 in. in diameter. The Webb Pink Granite Co., of Worcester, Mass., has secured the granite contract. Operations will commence on November 1.

Notes of Interest.

The electric illuminations along Riverside Drive during the Hudson-Fulton celebration will be unprecedented in brilliancy. A great battery of searchlights will be stationed at 110th st and operated from Sept. 25 until the end of the celebration. This battery will make the river as light as day for miles in either direction. When brought together into a single flare on the night of Oct. 9 it will be visible as far north as the Highlands. The Hudson-Fulton Commission is to stand the expense of this giant searchlight battery, and also that of a smaller battery of 400,000 candle power which will play on Grant's Tomb every night during the celebration. The plant outside of the city proper involves the lighting of the Hudson River Valley on the evening of Saturday, Oct. 9, from New York to Troy, by means of huge signal fires on mountain and hilltops.

The Central purposes constructing at 149th st and Park av a new passenger station to take the place of the present Mott Haven Station. The cost is expected to be in the neighborhood of $1,000,000, but the work will not be undertaken in the near future. At a public hearing before the Public Service Commission on the application of the Port Morris & Spuyten Duyvil Railroad to issue $2,500,000 bonds under a $20,000,000 mortgage, which it seeks to have the Commission authorize, it came out that the New York Central is planning to build at Spuyten Duyvil a tunnel cut-off some 671 feet long, to avoid the sharp curve where the tracks come out from the Spuyten Duyvil line onto the Hudson River Division.

NEW PRACTICALITIES IN ARCHITECTURE.

As Illustrated in the Great House with a Gothic Facade on Manhattan Square.

THE really notable apartment house of the day—the one which has most recently entered the class of completed buildings—rears its great Gothic facade in Manhattan Square, opposite the interminable fronts of the Museum of Natural History. The "Apthorpe" has passed from the center of the stage, preceded by the "Hendrick Hudson," and a long line of impressive houses, and the "Belnord" is not ready to come on. It is a veritable mine of possibilities for architects, as they may now do with this material what heretofore could only be done with stone, or not done at all when the estimated cost exceeded the appropriation.

In this great house on Manhattan Square the Gothic similitudes have been carried into the design and construction of the vaulted vestibule. Similarly the main hall on every floor is lined with Caen stone. Two suites of ten rooms each will be found on a typical floor, but in some instances the library is designed in the style of a studio, with a height equal to a story and a half. Consequently, the upper apartment in the combination has a studio whose floor level is half a story

APARTMENT HOUSE IN MANHATTAN SQUARE.
West 77th Street New York. Harde & Short, Architects.

External attractiveness is undoubtedly an asset in a fashionable apartment house, as the sacrifice of the essential maximum of "accommodation" is a liability. And this detail is in fact very good, well chosen, well adjusted, well "scaled." . . . How can the humane and sensitive passer fail to be grateful to the designer who has given him so much, not only that he must look at, but that he must find so well worth looking at.—Architectural Record.

Structurally, there are some of larger bulk than the Manhattan Square house, but none so large that are more richly ornamented.

The motive suggests a complete cathedral front, though, of course, the architects refrained from doing a great deal that would have carried the analogy farther. The design is worked out in limestone and terra cotta,—mainly, of course, in the latter; and among late examples of architectural terra cotta ornamentation, this facade is the most notable.

The problem of the architects in this particular assignment is common enough in New York—and is none the less difficult; because it is only one-quarter of a real chance to do something worth while. But what the architects have been able to achieve here is proof sufficient of the architectural refinements that are possible of interpretation with the aid of terra cotta.

below the regular floor level, and is reached by open stairs. It is an effect quite new, for city apartments at least, and constitutes one of the several distinctive features of this house. Another difference is in the fact that the restaurant, on the ground floor, has a connection with the kitchen and dining rooms of the hotel adjoining. For this house there needs to be no kitchen, and there is none; and consequently, no all-pervading culinary fumes, as in some large apartment houses. In each suite there is one servant's room, and on the fifteenth floor there are other rooms for the help. The studio room in one beautiful suite is trimmed in the English style with birchwood darkly stained, almost if not quite black, and having very heavy mouldings and carved work, but otherwise as yet undecorated. Floors in all master rooms are in quartered oak; and the rental figure given was $4,600 annually.

WHERE BUILDING MATERIALS ARE NEEDED

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS.—Plans have been drawn for new buildings to be erected at the locations given below; details as to cost of the new construction, the names and addresses of the architects and the owners are included in each item. This building news represents new construction, including alterations about to be commenced, in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, plans for the work having been filed this week in the Department of Buildings. The official plan number in each case is given at the end of each paragraph.

Building contractors and building material firms may be assured that the information herein given includes every building enterprise of every sort and description contemplated in the two boroughs. The news is absolutely complete, irrespective of cost, including both the highest and the lowest grade of operations. By carefully following the news printed in these columns weekly, contractors and building material firms can possess for their sales departments absolutely reliable and absolutely complete information as to new projects.

HOW TO USE PROFITABLY.—It is hardly necessary to do more than indicate the many ways in which this information may be used.

Architects, owners and contractors can be solicited personally for orders.

Trade literature can be distributed with the certainty of reaching its destination.

Buyers can be apprised of the values of materials and equipment.

Time should not be allowed to elapse in the prosecution of the work of salesmanship. Steps should be taken immediately to handle each case. Even orders not obtained in any single case frequently prepare the way for subsequent sales. Records should be kept of each of these "possibilities," and the results of work done tabulated. Figures will be thus obtained that will throw considerable light on the efficiency of sales methods in operation.

It will not be necessary for us to point out in detail how much information a well-informed building material firm or contractor can easily READ INTO THESE NEWS ITEMS, a constant repetition of which in our columns would only take up space without any equivalent advantages. For instance, the instructed reader does not need to be told what the average equipment would be for, let us say, a seven-story brick and stone loft building, 25x75, costing $35,000, to be built on East Broadway. Plainly an elevator is inevitable; steam heat is inevitable; fireproofing is quite problematic, considering the cost. Everyone can figure that lumber will go into such a building, and a certain amount of rough trim, plastering, window sashes, hardware, plumbing fixtures, etc., etc.

Moreover, it will be understood that as the information that we publish is of an early character, the details of construction and equipment are probably open to a good deal of discussion with the architect and the owner. Red brick might be substituted for white brick, limestone for terra cotta, or vice versa, one type of elevator for another type, and so on throughout all the elements of construction equipment and finish. These points will naturally be very closely followed by an aggressive sales department. Here is where salesmanship, the price and value of a firm's materials will count. THOUGHT AND AGGRESSIVENESS IN THE USE OF THIS INFORMATION THAT WE FURNISH WEEKLY WILL PRODUCE BUSINESS. Don't forget that the entire market for your goods in the two boroughs is here, placed under your eyes, not for reading, but for ACTION. Follow up the news!

The Building Outlook.

Business activity among the architects, is indicated in the schedule of plans filed with the Manhattan Bureau of Buildings during the week just ended. NEW ORLEANS.—Hale & Rogers, 11 East 24th st, Manhattan, have completed plans for the U. S. post office building to be erected at New Orleans, La., at a cost of $1,200,000. Bids will soon be called for. James Knox Taylor, Washington, D. C., is supervising architect.

LONG ISLAND CITY.—F. Y. Parsons, 1133 Broadway, Manhattan, is completing plans and will take bids for the 6-sty office building, 75x100 ft., to be erected at Anable av and Court sq, Long Island City, by Stuart Hirschmann, of 200 Broadway, Manhattan. Estimated cost, $125,000.

SPRINGFIELD, MASS.—Plans of E. C. & G. C. Gardner, of Springfield, are being figured for the new office building to be erected for the New England Telephone & Telegraph Co. It will be 60x107 ft., 4 stories and basement, of brick and steel, fireproof construction, with limestone and terra cotta trim, steam heat.

WILLIAM ST.—No architect has yet been selected for the new 12-sty office building to be erected at Nos. 123-133 William st, by the "125 William Street Company," in which Chas. H. Copping, 15 William st, Manhattan, and J. S. Smith, care Stokes Smith Co., 1011 Diamond st, Philadelphia, Pa., are investors.

Brief and Personal.

Orin F. Perry, general manager of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co., has returned from his vacation spent at Rockland, Me.

E. P. Gebhard, local manager for the Strasburg Manufacturing Co., returned from a visit to his company's lumber mill, in Strasburg, Va., on Thursday.

C. W. Troxwell, who has for five years been employed as outside man by the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co., resigned his position with that company this week and took a position of similar capacity with the Palmer Lime & Cement Co.

Vice Chancellor Garrison has granted an injunction restraining the P. Lorillard Tobacco Company from excavating further on the land of Henry Richards in the Marion section of Jersey City, where the tobacco company is preparing to erect a large plant.

L. L. Buck, M. Am. Soc., C. E., formerly chief engineer of the Bridge Department of Manhattan, died very suddenly from apoplexy at his home at Hastings-on-Hudson, N. Y., on July 17. Mr. Buck had charge of the construction of the Williamsburgh Bridge.

Kirk Brown, general manager of the Yale & Towne Mfg. Co., has resigned for the purpose of availing himself of another business opportunity. Walter C. Allen, general superintendent of the works, has been appointed to the position thus made vacant, with headquarters in New York.

Wm. L. Rouse, of 12 West 32d st, and L. A. Goldstone, 45 West 34th st, architects, have associated in the preparation of plans for three million dollars' worth of apartment houses to be erected in the Riverside Drive section. For a full description of locations and owners names see issues of July 17, page 112, and this week's issue.

The Cortlandt Engineering Co., contractors and electrical engineers, of 39 Cortlandt st, announces that it has signed contracts for the mechanical equipment, including boilers, engines, generators, switchboard, wiring, steam heating and elevators for the light manufacturing building to be occupied by the Champion Laundry Co., 56th st, near 10th av.

The building in Jersey City for June amounted to $740,452, an increase over June, 1908, of about nine per cent. This does not include the $800,000 permit for the P. Lorillard Co. tobacco plant, which is now being constructed in Marion. That permit not being included because of some small technicalities that have not yet been settled between the Superintendent of Buildings and the contractors.

The new county buildings committee is pressing the contractors hard to complete at least two of the court rooms in the new Court House, in Jersey City, in time for occupancy at the opening of the September term of the courts. The contract for the electrical fittings has been awarded to Cassidy & Sons, and they will begin work at once, and the marble setters went to work this week to get the two rooms in shape.

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT

And News Regarding Source of Supply

Week Inactive in Building Materials.

A noticeable falling off of local contract awards, coupled with the uncertainties attendant upon the ultimate fate of the Building Code, were factors that retarded material marts during the week. Iron advanced, the steel situation cleared somewhat, and brick weakened. Stone remained steady, with a slight improvement in suburban business. A report of country wide conditions prepared by the Cement Manufacturers Association, tended to inspire renewed confidence in this branch of the building interests which, of all others, has been the most disturbed during the summer. Despite the advance there was a remarkable buying movement in iron, especially in New England, the Hudson Valley and in Eastern Pennsylvania. This aggregated 100,000 tons. Money was easy, but despite that fact it was apparent that there is a tendency to hold back awards for new work. This, however, is taken to be merely a temporary condition resulting from local influences. Prices of materials are as low as they will probably go. After the present trepidation is overcome, there promises to be a fulfilment of the prophesy that the Fall will be a busy one. A noticeable improvement was felt in the demand for yellow pine, this even overshadowed the lead taken by spruce, cypress and white pine as reported last week, but the major part of the orders were from the suburbs.

Hudson River Hard Brick Prices Drop.

A drop of 25 cents per M in Hudson River common brick took effect on Monday and continued the week. Jerseys remained stationary, as did Hudson River light hards. The demand was a little less. Good brick making weather—that is, dry with plenty of sunshine and wind—enabled the manufacturers to catch up pretty well with their usual stocks. A better quality of brick is coming down the river, too. This drop is said to be a temporary one.

The Jersey market continued to be remarkably active with good contracts going ahead in Newark, Jersey City and Hoboken. This market is expected to increase, due to the building boom that is expected to follow the actual operation of the Hudson River tunnels; and it is said that some New York and the leading New Jersey architects have more work on hand than they can comfortably accomodate.

Most of this is in the nature of estimating on prospective structures in the cities just named. Hackensack valley manufacturers report big orders from local and Metropolitan markets. Unprecedented activity is reported in the Passaic and Hackensack valleys, in factory, office building, and considerable apartment house projects. A reliable authority states that there has been somewhat less activity in dwelling house construction in the extreme north section of New Jersey this year.

WHY BIG BUSINESS IS EXPECTED IN NEW JERSEY.

Of all the new business reported in New Jersey most of it is of a contract rather than of a speculative nature. If anything, there is an overproduction of dwelling houses there, due in a measure to foresightedness of property owners in anticipating the probable rush of Manhattanites to the suburbs with the inauguration of easier transportation facilities between the larger North Jersey cities and Gotham. But experts agree that this surplus will rapidly be transformed into a deficit, and that there will be even a greater demand for apartment houses than heretofore. Herein is where brick manufacturers expect the present demand will continue.

STRIKE DANGER ENTIRELY PASSED.

Subsequent developments in the Hudson River brickyard labor difficulties show that the danger of any such disagreement has been entirely removed. While the method of averting the threatened breach of agreement, is kept a secret it is generally understood that it was brought about by a compromise of the matters at issue, namely, pay and hours.

Lime has a good local market with some large orders in prospect.

Cement Association Report Encourages Trade.

Although Portland cement in cargo lots, in cloth, New York, is being sold at $1.33, the price fixed by agreement approved by local licensees, somewhat different figures are being given out at some of the local offices. The agreement has not been modified, neither has it been abridged. The rate of $1.33 is still the uniform selling price. In exceptionally large lots it might be possible to purchase cement a shade lower than $1.33, but as far as can be learned no agent whose firm is represented in the agreement signed last May will sell for less than the price fixed.

But despite the unsettled conditions in the cement business in the Eastern district, the business in cement throughout the country is growing constantly and wonderful advances have been made. The report prepared by officers of the association of cement manufacturers has encouraged mill owners and has been the bright ray in an otherwise darkened perspective.

INCREASES OF 83 PER CENT.

The value of building permits granted during the five months beginning from January 1 throughout the country indicate an increase of 83 per cent. over the first five months of 1908. The total values show an increase in 75 and a decrease in 13 of the 88 principle cities from which the data was obtained. This included cities in the States of New York, New Jersey and Connecticut. The increase in the use of cement in Greater New York, figured on the cost of building construction, was 157 per cent. Outside of the district of New York, and including the States of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Maryland, the gain in the use of cement was 71 per cent. The total value of building permits issued in New York, Pittsburg and Chicago exceeds the total value of the 85 other cities considered in the computation.

DEMAND DRAINING LEHIGH STOCKS

The remarkable demand for cement which is said to be felt everywhere, has caused a marked diminution of stock on hand in the Lehigh Valley storehouses. There are one million less barrels on hand at present than there were last year at this time. This is attributed to increased consumption, which, according to some authorities is just starting. Others, more conservative, believe it is due to increased sales resulting from the drop in prices in the Eastern district, while some are inclined to think it is due to a curtailment of production. The figures given in the report just issued to members of the association would indicate, it seems, that the conditions in the Lehigh Valley stockrooms is due to increased demand. None of the companies have reported a reduction of output during the price embargo but on the other hand, some have increased their output as told from time to time in this paper.

MANY MILLS REPORTED BUSY.

Reports from the Lawrence, Vulcanite, Alpha and Atlas mills show remarkable activity. The Alsen mills are working day and night. The crusher plant which was recently destroyed by fire entailing a loss of about $30,000 has been entirely rebuilt, enlarged and improved, was again put in service on Thursday. It now has a larger output than ever. This company recently closed a 100,000 barrel contract with the Gore Meehan Co. for the delivery of cement at Peekskill and Garrison, N. Y., for a portion of the acqueduct. This company has a Government contact to deliver 90,000 bbls. of cement at Black Rock, N. Y., to be used in harbor improvements. The Glens Falls Portland Cement Co. was awarded a 30,000-bbl. contract this week by the Acme Engineering Co. for barge canal work. This company's plant is located near the scene of this work. It is understood that there was keen rivalry among several companies for this contract.

Extensive Movement in Pig Iron.

A great buying movement has developed in the pig iron business since the first of the month. The consumption in the Eastern district alone has exceeded 350,000 tons. In consequence there has been a further advance of 25 to 50 cents a ton. No 2 Eastern, which recently advanced 50 cents at the furnace and $16.70 to $17.50 Jersey City, went up 25 cents more. This is said to be due to the fact that most of the furnaces are now on the old wage basis, that the cost of coke has advanced and cost of ore production is greater and that there is a big demand for pig iron just now. The present buying movement is not generally looked upon as a boom, however, but a healthy increase in business that had long been promised the furnaces but which never really materialized. Inquiries remain good, one for 8,000 tons from this vicinity during the week.

STATEMENT FROM MR. J. A. TOPPING.

Asked to verify for the Record and Guide the daily press despatches to the effect that the Republic Iron & Steel Co. had signed the wage scale submitted to it by the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers to be effective until July 10, 1909, Mr. J. A. Topping, Chairman of the Board of Directors of that company, gave this statement to this paper:

"The Republic Iron & Steel Co. made a settlement with the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers for its iron mills, which arrangement is in effect until July 1, 1909. The Amalgamated Association's jurisdiction, however, does not obtain in its steel works and steel finishing mills, this department of the Republic's plant having been and is now operating independently."

STRUCTURAL STEEL MARKET ACTIVE.

There continues to be a good quick order business in structural steel. Prices remain without change, however, although it is considered probable that an upward movement is not far off. The sheet metal market remains unchanged.

BIG BUSINESS IN THE MARKET.

The Passaic (N. J.) Steel Co. has taken a contract for 600 tons for an office building in New Brunswick, N. J. Snare & Triest are reported to have placed an order for 2,000 tons of structural steel with Morris & Wheeler, of Philadelphia, to cover construction of the Cuban piers there, but are still in the market to have this material fabricated. The Pennsylvania Tunnel and Terminal Co. has an inquiry out for twenty signal bridges.

Yellow Pine Feels Uplift.

A general uplift was reported in yellow pine during the week. The price of spruce is stiffening while there is still a good demand for North Carolina pine. There is no tendency toward a general advance in price of lumber at present and neither is there any indication of a reduction. The yards in New York are not busy although there is a fair demand in New York for long leaf pine for use in concrete mould making.

Prices of Slate Likely to Advance.

Owing to an increasing demand for structural slate, and the fact that the prices fixed during the late depression have never been readjusted, an increase in the cost of that commodity is likely to occur at any time. It is said that some of the quarries are hardly making enough to warrant taking the stone out. The general stone market is reported to be doing well, but there have been few big contracts placed during the week. Prices remain unchanged.

Is the Bryant Building a Tower?

In connection with the announcement that the W. G. Cornell Company, plumbing and heating contractors, specializing in big contracts and rush work, with offices in the Everett Building, had been awarded the contract for the installation of plumbing in the Bryant Building, at Nassau and Liberty sts, the claim has been made that this 31-sty structure, when completed, will be the tallest office building in the city.

There are two sides, of course, to this statement, and there are champions on the side equally as positive as those on the other. The question, however, finally narrows down to the query, "What is an office building?" or, to be more specific, "When does an office building become a tower?"

Up in the dining-room of the Cafe Martin one day this week, a number of men learned in building construction and architecture were discussing the Bryant building, and a lively debate followed on the above question. The negatives were for considering the Singer and Metropolitan structures the tallest office BUILDINGS, basing their claim upon the fact that they were in truth, buildings. The positives, however, maintained that they were TOWERS, inasmuch as they were only a part of the main buildings, while the Bryant building rose straight from its foundations to roof without recession at any intermediate part.

But there was a hitch when the president of one contracting company mentioned the case of the City Investing building, which is also 31 stys high. The contention was made that the steep roof, covering three stories placed it in the category of a tower, for it was in reality a tower-roof. Two more stories could be added, it was said, to the Bryant building if the superintendents quarters and attic were figured in the total height of the building. The question was argued during the various courses of the repast, but at adjournment neither side had won the other to its way of thinking.

A special feature which the Cornell Company will install in this building is a gigantic water pump to raise the water supply to the storage tanks 31 stys above the street level. These tanks will be auxiliary to a fire protection system with which the structure will be equipped. Usually this system is divided into two parts in structures like the Singer and Metropolitan but in this case it will be only one. The most modern, up-to-date and best plumbing will be installed in this building.

Shipping Cement to Panama.

The U. S. steamer Ancon sailed from Communipaw on Thursday on her first voyage to Panama, having on board the second consignment of Atlas Portland cement under the contract to furnish 4,500,000 bbls. for use on the canal works. The Ancon carried 87,144 bags and 21,348 bbls. of cement, which is equivalent to 43,134 bbls., or 8,626 tons. Her cargo also included supplies for the Panama Railroad.

The Cristobal, now returning to New York from Colon, carried the first 5,000 tons of the big contract, and it is expected that the two ships will carry 9,500 tons each voyage when the Canal Commission is in a position to receive this quantity. The vessels are scheduled to make one voyage a month, which will mean that 19,000 tons of cement will go forward every 30 days, if present arrangements are carried out.

At this rate shipments of the 4,500,000 bbls. contracted for with the Atlas Portland Cement Company will extend over a period of nearly four years. If, however, greater quantities are needed every month, other transportation arrangements will be made.

It is said that the government will profit by handling the contract in its own vessels instead of chartered ships. Dischanging of the cargoes will necessarily be governed by weather conditions, for it stands to reason the cement cannot be handled in rain; so, if there are delays at Cristobal, the government will not have to pay demurrage as it would in case of steamships under charter.

Construction Company Moves Offices.

The executive offices of the Dillman Fireproof Construction Co. have been moved from 415 East 99th st to the Townsend Building, 1123 Broadway. The officials of this company are now ensconced in a fine suite of offices where they have more floor space than they had heretofore. The new quarters and location are considered better adapted to the demands of the company's business.

At the present time the company is completing the fireproofing of the Kings County Hospital in Flatbush and the Bossert Hotel, Montague and Hicks sts, Brooklyn. Work has just been finished by this company on the 12-sty loft buildings at 22-24 and 30-34 West 26th st, for which Street, List & Rose were general contractors. The 12-sty loft building at 483 Greenwich st, for which F. T. Nesbit & Co. were general contractors, is also being completed. The Dillman Fireproof Construction Co. fireproofed the structural steel on all the three last named buildings. The company recently signed several important contracts upon which it will begin work within the next six weeks. The company reports that it expects to have all the work it can conveniently handle during the summer.

Leadamant Pipe.

A new specialty which, if claims made for it prove well founded, will soon become a staple building material is "Leadamant pipe." It is an alloy with a lead base, so designed as to retain the desirable qualities of lead pipe and to add greater strength, hardness and stiffness, which prevent it from sagging, denting or disintegrating. "Leadamant" is also claimed to be more economical, because its strength is so much greater than lead pipe that for the same bore a lighter weight can be used. It is easily worked or soldered. The National Lead Company manufactures it.

Large Contracts for A. Perlman Iron Works.

The A. Perlman Iron Works, which has a large plant at 1733 West Farms road, the Bronx, has recently closed some important contracts in ornamental wrought iron, in which work this company makes a specialty. Some of the iron grille doors that have been made by the A. Perlman Iron Works are on some of the most conspicuous buildings in this city. The company is exceptionally busy now with apartment-house contracts in the west side and on Washington Heights

Canavan Bros.' Contract

The Canavan Brothers Co., contractors and house shorers, of 518 West 56th st., have placed two steam shovels at work in the cellar excavating job at 28th st and Fourth av., where the Thompson Starrett Co. will erect the Bryce-Hewett buildings. It has already been stated that one machine was being used on the job, but owing to the nature of the soil it has been found that the use of two of these huge appliances would be entirely feasible. The Canavan Brothers Co. which has numerous other important excavating jobs on hand at present, and which reports a busy Summer and prospects of a busy Fall, besides doing the excavating, is also doing the house shoring and sheath piling for this job under its own contract entirely.

ADVANCE REPORTS.

Cement Co., which has local offices at No. 1 Broadway, is the representative of his home county, Union, N. J., in the Legislature of that State, departed this week for a prolonged visit abroad. Before leaving Mr. Ackerman expressed himself as being confident of a speedy readjustment of prices in the cement business and said that he expected that the increase in the consumption of that building commodity would result in something like a shortage before the end of the year. Mr. Ackerman is the author of numerous popular bills which have recently been placed upon the statutes of New Jersey, among them the Civil Service Commission measure. He is also one of the world's foremost philatalists, his collection of postage stamps having been valued at half a million dollars. He is expected back about Sept. 15.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

The Record and Guide is regularly publishing for property owners and others information relative to the opening of streets, regulating and grading, curbing and flagging of same, as well as the construction of sewers, permanent and temporary.

The reader will understand that municipal improvements of this order are assessed against the owners of property, both improved and unimproved, situated within the district directly benefited. For example a given street is going to be paved. In all likelihood not only will the property be assessed that faces on the street directly in front of where the work is going to be done, but also property will be assessed in adjoining streets and thoroughfares which might receive the benefit of such improvement.

That the various stages of carrying through these proceedings may be followed with intelligence by the property owner they have been divided into three classes:

1. Public Works.
2. Condemnation Proceedings.
3. Assessments.

1. Under the heading "Public Works" will be printed petitions asking that improvements may be made, and the successive initiatory proceedings, including mention of the probable district that will have to bear the assessment.

Under the second heading will follow the announcement of the application for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment, later followed by their various reports and findings. Fuller explanation of the foregoing will be found as the reader proceeds.

Under the third and final heading will follow the details relating to the confirmation and the entry of assessments with a statement of the time within which they may be paid, without incurring penalty for arrears. In other words, if payment be not made within a given time, an interest charge, upon the amount due is exacted by the city, which must be paid by the owner of the property.

PUBLIC WORKS.

To specifically illustrate the successive steps in a proceeding for a public improvement, let it be assumed that a new street is required in some section of any of the five boroughs comprising the city of New York. A movement of this kind is usually started and agitated by some property owner, an association of property owners or perhaps considered by a board of trade. A petition is presented to a regularly established local board, whose function is to give the proceeding the first or initial official hearing and if deemed advisable by that body, recommendation for its adoption is made to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This latter body meets nearly every Friday morning at 10.30 o'clock in their room in the City Hall and has jurisdiction over all public improvements.

If the board approves of the petition the area of assessment (that is to say boundary lines are fixed, and all property owners who have holdings therein are assessed in proportion to the amount of their real estate contained within these bounds) except where physical betterments are concerned, such as regulating, grading and curbing streets, laying sewers and flagging sidewalks as well as fencing vacant lots, in which case the Board of Assessors determine the area of assessment and the assessments for benefit. Motion is then made by the Corporation Counsel for the appointment of commissioners to condemn.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

The next step is the appointment by the Supreme Court of three Commissioners of Appraisal, of which one is designated as a Commissioner of Assessment. The commission hears all objections made by property owners as to title and value. When every one has had a hearing preliminary reports are prepared by the commission containing the amount of awards and assessments which in its opinion the various owners are entitled to. These reports are subsequently filed for examination and objections by property owners or parties in interest who may be dissatisfied with the findings of the commission.

Public hearings are then in order, and objecting parties are given an opportunity to register their disapproval of the findings. The commission then prepares and files a copy of its final report in the County Clerk's office followed by the presentation of its report to the Supreme Court for confirmation.

ASSESSMENTS.

The report of the Commissioners as approved is then transmitted to the Comptroller for the payment of awards and the collection of assessments, who in turn publishes the date of confirmation or when the assessment should be paid and entry of the assessment in the "Record of Titles of Assessments." A statement is made giving the time within which such assessment can be paid, without a penalty. If an assessment is not paid within 60 days after the date of entry, it is subject to an interest change at the rate of 7 per cent. a year.

TO AVOID LEAKY ROOFS.

Among the many penalties of real property ownership none is perhaps more annoying or expensive than a leaky roof. In this connection a writer in the National Builder affirms that there can be no other excuse given for leaky roofs than absolute carelessness or bad workmanship, except in cases where the materials of which they are constructed have yielded to the laws of wear and tear, and fail longer to serve the purpose for which they were originally intended. "If the roof work of buildings is properly executed," argues this authority, "they should remain perfectly watertight so long as the material will last. Yet it is a common occurrence that leaks develop themselves with the first rain that falls after their completion, and more or less tinkering is found necessary, for the reason that when work of any kind is defective in its execution, continual repairing or renewal as a whole becomes a necessity." It is asserted that under such circumstances, owners are apt to complain and feel almost revengeful towards the parties by whom the work was done; that in an abstract view of the case such feelings are sustained by the provocations experienced.

With this in mind the following extract from the article referred to will undoubtedly assist the property owner to repair his own roofs, or direct how it can be done:

It is well known that it is difficult to solder tin when it is covered with water, yet it often happens that in removing ice and snow from a roof holes are cut in the tin by the shovel. Such holes can be stopped without much trouble by taking a piece of heavy iron, of suitable size, with countersunk holes or ordinary screw heads. A piece of thick cloth is to be cut the size of the iron, well soaked in heavy iron paint (red oxide), the cloth placed over the leak, and the piece of iron screwed down over the cloth. Holes can be punched through the tin by means of a prick punch. If the tin can be wiped dry before applying the cloth, so much the better. If water is running down the roof, a dam can be made above the leak of putty or clay, to keep the water off until the leak is stopped. In some cases white lead, iron paint or putty will do; or, if the leak is not exposed at the time to running water, the cloth and paint will do. A little varnish mixed with the paint will make it stick better. After these cloth patches become dry they will hold water as well as solder, and perhaps better, as they are more elastic.

If the flashing breaks away from the brick fire wall, it can be fastened by taking fence nails and putting them through suitable washers to enlarge the heads of the nails and driving them through the tin into the mortar joints; then the tin (where it joins the brick), can be plastered with a cement made by mixing dry sand with iron paint to the consistency of mortar. This cement is the best medicine for repairing roofs known, and is cheap enough to suit any one. If a leak occurs between wood and brick, the same cement can be used, and in many cases it can be used on gravel roofs. For repairing about chimneys this cement is unequaled. When a gravel roof is wet, it is evident it would be difficult to repair it with paint, cement or hot tar. Yet, if the roof leaks, it is at this time the repairs are required. In such a case, take the best Portland cement and, perhaps, sand, mix it with water and apply to the leak. As cement will harden under water, it will adhere to the gravel on the roof, and should stop the leak. When the cement becomes hard and dry it can be painted with iron paint or coal tar. A good cement for roofs can be made by mixing coal tar that has been boiled, or when hot has some pitch or resin mixed with it, with dry sand. This becomes as hard as stone. It is something like what cement pavements are made of. The sand has a tendency to keep the tar from running off.

THE JERSEY TUBES AND LONG ISLAND CITY'S FUTURE.

FOLLOWING the completion of any great municipal improvement the question often asked is: "What benefit will accrue to this territory or that district?" Frequently these questions are answered in favor of one community at the theoretical expense of another, or vice versa. But a peculiar benefit is expected to follow the completion of the Hudson River tunnel system more far reaching, perhaps, than the ordinary real estate holder or dealer, or even the most far-sighted speculator realizes. Furthermore, this benefit will be felt in a part of the city which, to the casual observer, would seem to be the most far removed from the transit change placed in operation this week. That territory is at the eastern terminus of the Blackwell's Island Bridge.

As the Record and Guide has heretofore pointed out, a large tract of land in Long Island City has been connected to the Island of Manhattan, with but little apparent benefit. There are no transit facilities, save for a bus line over the span; it is too great a walk for the average pedestrian, and there is no saving in the use of the structure for Long Island City manufacturers, they say, because of the greater hauling distances. Thousands of employees of factories on the other side of the East River still use the ferry at a daily round trip cost on boat and street car, to and from their place of employment, provided they live in New York, which hundreds do, of sixteen cents.

There is no noticeable building activity in the section affected by the span, and as far as many property owners in the vicinity know, there is little likelihood of any extensive undertakings of that character in prospect within the near future at any rate.

But realty values are going up. Property in the vicinity has been assessed at a higher figure than ever before within the recent past, and this burden is being borne mostly by manufacturers and owners of the few tenement houses in the affected area. Records show comparatively few transactions in that section, and the advice seems to have gone forth: "Hold for a year for your price."

Just at this point is where Long Island City will look for a practical benefit from the New Jersey tubes, even though their inception has a retarding influence at first. Long Island City is destined to become the principal manufacturing centre in New York. That is, its chief development will be in the erection of big plants for heavy manufacturing purposes. Concerns doing light manufacturing will continue to utilize the loft building and enjoy the advantages of central locations. Already the cost of sites for manufacturing purposes in Manhattan has reached nearly a prohibitive price, say experts, especially in the central portions of the Island. Harlem and the Bronx, of course, still offer opportunities, but there is the long haul or lighterage, should a concern be fortunate enough to obtain a shore front site. While it is true that shore fronts in Long Island City and Astoria have jumped in the recent past, very desirable manufacturing sites are still comparatively cheap there. This seems to be proved by the fact that some of the large manufacturing companies have and are still moving from Manhattan to that vicinity. Besides those recently mentioned in this paper, the following might be mentioned as a few instances where big companies have sought greater ground areas in the new territory, say within the last four or five years:

The Irving Iron Works, Newtown Creek, the head of which company, Walter E. Irving, was formerly employed by George A. Just, of the George A. Just Co., which has recently completed a big extension to its plant at 239 Vernon av, Long Island City; the Collins Iron Works, Ravitch Brothers, steel contractors; A. Klaber & Son, marble, which firm has also recently extended its plant; John Pirkl, iron and steel workers, which company recently established a shop at Greenpoint as a branch of its Brooklyn foundries; G. L. Stuebner Iron Works, hoisting machinery, at Vernon av and 12th st; the National Bridge Co., Lexaner Lemke Co., Astoria; James Gilles & Son, Long Island City, stone; George Call & Co., Long Island City, sandstone, etc.; Morrison's, William Bradley & Co., Shuttleworth's, Traitel Bros., mosaic, and E. Miller's Sons, stone.

With the gradual increase in the number of big manufacturing plants in that vicinity will come the necessity for more tenement houses; for, as a real estate man said recently, the factory and the tenement house go hand in hand. But with the tenement house necessarily comes the necessity of rapid transit.

It is the want of rapid transit, in fact any kind of transit, that is retarding the growth of this section. The Belmont tubes are tied up in litigation, the Sunnyside yards of the Pennsylvania Railroad are still nowhere near completion, and remains practically unused.

While this condition exists the New Jersey tunnels will retard the population of Long Island City. But it will be only momentarily, so to speak. New Jersey has its manufacturing centres in Newark, Jersey City, Hoboken, Bayonne and Elizabeth, all on tide water. The rapid transit afforded Jersey people will call many factory employees' families across the Hudson which might otherwise have gone to Long Island City, or by commuting have created a demand for tenements in that city. But soon the under-river transit facilities eastward will excel in convenience even the new tubes into New Jersey and coupled with bridge cars will land the prospective Long Island City resident within walking distance from his home, which abode will be also within walking distance of his place of employment.

This is where the New Jersey tunnels will benefit Long Island City. It will, perhaps, hamper development now, but Long Island City will grow, despite all opposing influences, and the McAdoo tunnels will eventually serve to nurture that development by the simple process, if for no other, of awakening a rivalry between New Jersey and Long Island City for the manufactory and its denizens.

SIGNING OF CONTRACTS BY AGENTS.—Many complications are liable to occur before a negotiation for real property may be considered closed, therefore more than usual attention should be given to the contract. Not infrequently contracts for purchase or sale are improperly signed by agents or regularly constituted attorneys. To avoid possible misunderstandings due to this cause it may be well to state that the proper way for an agent to sign an instrument of this nature on behalf of his principal is, "the principal by the agent," John Doe, by William Smith, agent. Should it be signed "Wm. Smith for John Doe" that would bind the principal, provided the agreement on its face purported to be made by the owner or principal; and where the agency is disclosed and the contract is within the agent's authority, the latter will not be personally bound, unless upon clear and explicit evidence of an intention so to bind; if an agent who did not possess the authority risks signing a contract for his principal, the former would be personally bound to carry out the agreement, except in the case of an auction when this rule does not apply, as when the auctioneer, carrying out his duty as such, affixes his signature to the memorandum of the sale or acquisition as the agent of the grantee as well as the grantor.

CARE OF MERCANTILE STRUCTURES.

The most important department of a real estate business is its agency department. This department grows steadily month by month provided a firm's business is going ahead and increasing in volume and profits. In this department the most capable men are needed—men of experience and exectuive ability who know how to handle the many conditions that arise week after week and which must be disposed of promptly and efficiently. To the agency department devolves the responsibility of the care of mercantile properties. Holdings of this character can be divided into three classes: (a) Business buildings rented to one tenant; (b) store and loft buildings where practically no service is furnished tenants; and (c) the modern high-class fireproof loft building where heat, elevator service and possibly janitor service are included in the rent, and power and light furnished to the tenants at an extra expense. Office buildings are not included under this head, although the management of the modern downtown office structure requires the most expert advice and should always be placed in charge of a reliable, progressive and competent agent if the best income results are to be expected by the owner.

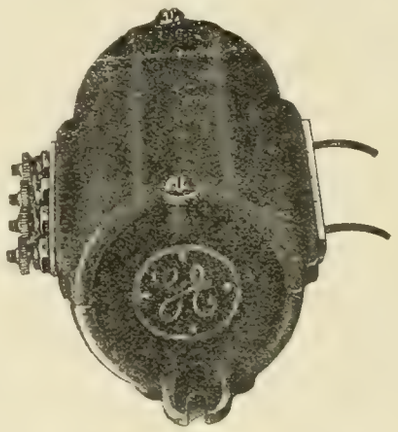
THE AGENT'S RESPONSIBILITY.

It is obvious that the easiest building for the agent to manage is the building leased to one tenant. Owners of such properties certainly make a mistake in thinking that it is unnecessary to have an agent. While with such buildings the duties of rent collecting are easy, yet the owner by employing an agent, secures the services of an expert to handle his property. The agent becomes acquainted with the tenant from personal contact, and his agency interest naturally leads to a careful study of the property itself and the neighborhood in which it is located. An agent's responsibility is something more than that of a mere rent collector. He must at all times be able to advise his client expertly as to existing neighborhood conditions and be able to correctly inform his client whether or not property and rental values are advancing or receding. From actual experience in managing a property the agent is always able to advise wisely and profitably regarding the making of new leases or the renewing of old ones. No owner has the training or experience that will enable him to grasp all conditions as well as the experienced real estate man who makes realty his life study.

The duties of managing store and loft buildings are similar to those of managing buildings rented to one tenant except that they are somewhat augmented. When there are two, three or six tenants care must be exercised to always keep the building filled, and considerable diplomacy is required to satisfy the ideas and desires of the various tenants in the matter of signs, elevator (or hoist) service, heat (when furnished), etc. Insurance is an important item in making leases for store and loft buildings, and the agent must be particular in this respect. If care is not used the business of one small tenant will often greatly increase the insurance premiums not only for the owner on the building but also on the stock of other tenants. The insurance carried by the tenants generally amounts to more than the insurance carried on the building itself. One undesirable or irresponsible tenant often leads to the loss of excellent ones. A most important point in managing this class of property is to have all leases expire at the same time so as to be able to take care of the tenant whose business is growing and who will require more space, or to enable the letting of a large amount of space to the best possible advantage.

DUTIES OF THE AGENT.

It is apparent that an agent's duties are considerably added to in the matter of managing the modern fireproof loft and manufacturing building. He must know how to divide the floors and rent them to the best advantage. He must not permit the overloading of floors, he must properly supervise the arrangement and placing of the tenant's machinery, he must be cautious against permitting a rental to a tenant whose machinery is detrimental to the comfort of other tenants or detrimental to the building itself, he must be cautious against the use of acids in manufacturing and must guard against a hazardous business. The agent at all times must be alert so as to increase the income of the property under his charge and at the same time have a building filled with contented, happy tenants, satisfied with all the rules and regulations made by the agent for the operation and conduct of the building. If a building has a power or light plant the agent should select tenants who are large power users. He must make power and light rates that are profitable to the owner, and the question of "overtime power" is often a troublesome one.



No matter what class of property an agent is managing he must see that the building and premises are regularly inspected and that the covenants of the tenant's leases are being properly complied with. These inspections should be made at least monthly, and in large buildings weekly inspections are necessary to properly keep in touch with the property. The matter of drawing leases is of no small importance, and it is a well-known fact that an owner is often more than saved the cost of the agent's service by having expert and practical advise [illegible] and leases. Much could be added regarding the cares and duties to managing mercantile buildings or any class of Manhattan property. It is apparent that to successfully manage business properties the agent must have a thorough experience and knowledge in all branches of the real estate business and a staff of experts in his agency department so as to properly handle all repairs at lowest rates, to effect insurance under the best possible advantage, to negotiate leases and to collect rents. No individual owner, no matter who he is, can possibly secure as well-directed or as competent experts in each of these several branches as those who can be found in a reliable real estate office of character, size and influence.

CHARLES F. NOYES.

ELECTRICAL REPAIRS REDUCED.

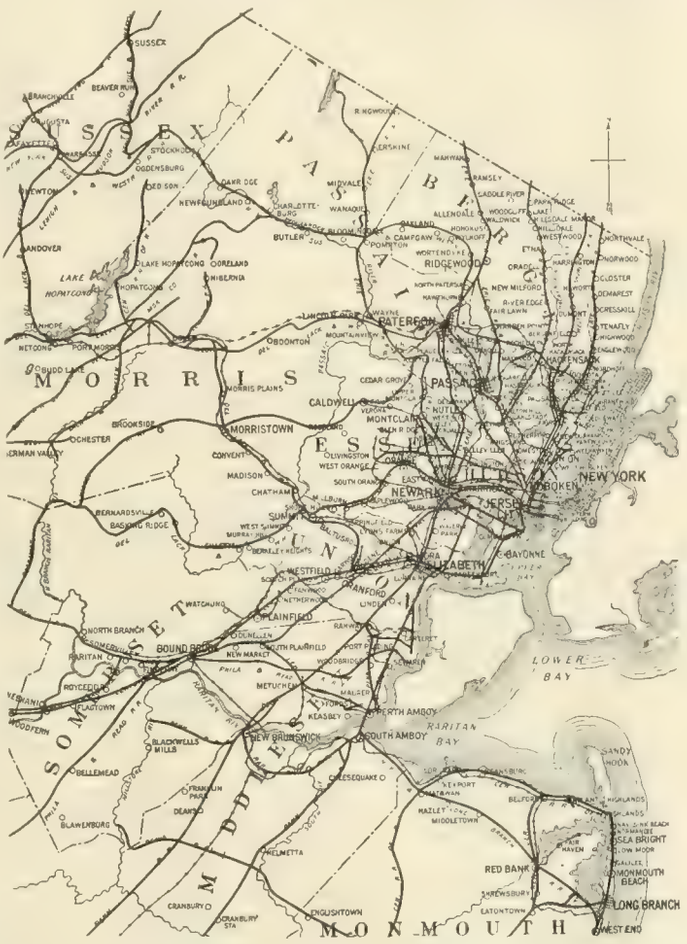
Although it is not generally known, there has recently been introduced on the market an apparatus styled a bell-ringing transformer designed to end the troubles consequent upon the use of primary batteries in connection with electric bells. The transformer will only be of service, however, where the home of the owner or tenant is already wired for electric lights. The instrument is compact and free from mechanical defects and may be relied upon to perform its work perfectly. It has a low voltage secondary winding with taps giving 6, 12 and 18 volts when the primary is connected to the ordinary 110 volt lighting circuit. The transformer will operate successfully on circuits ranging from 100 to 130 volts at the usual lighting frequencies.

A strong point in favor of the new mechanism is that a continuous short circuit on the secondary will do no damage either to the transformer or adjacent circuits. Both the core and coils are placed in a small metallic box with lugs or feet attached for convenience in fastening to the wall or ceiling.

CURRENT TRANSFORMER.

The only tool necessary in installing the transformer is an ordinary screwdriver. It is claimed that when once attached the instrument requires no attention whatever. It may also be used to advantage for operating buzzers, spark coils, burglar alarms, gas lighting and annunciator systems.

Right here it is well to state that perhaps one of the greatest sources of annoyance to owners and real estate agents is the wet or dry battery so universally used to ring door bells. Half of the time, yes, three-quarters of the time, these heretofore indispensible necessities are out of order, or suddenly disintegrate through the action of unlooked for dampness, or other causes not generally understood by the layman. The item of repairs to door bell systems in many instances is the most prominent charge against the revenue obtained from improved real estate, and owners as well as agents have every reason to welcome any invention that promises to put a stop to this perpetual drain on the pocketbook.



The apparatus described may be purchased through electricians, or from any of the large electrical supply houses in the lower section of Manhattan. No radical change in the house wiring system will be found necessary.

VALUE OF A GOOD JANITOR.—According to the New York Times, "duties of the janitor are not fully performed when he sees that the steam heating apparatus is working to the entire satisfaction of the anaemic lady on the top floor and the stout man who occupies the apartment nearer the street. He has more to do than merely to see that the ashes are carried out and placed where they may be carted away. He is, to a certain extent, the executive officer of the house, and the families in it are entitled to look to him for a certain measure of protection. The prevention of fire is much more important than the extinguishing of it after it has started, and, if all janitors were properly alive to their responsibilities, they would see to it that the possibility of conflagrations was reduced to a minimum. They know far better than the tenement house inspectors the condition of the buildings and of fire escapes, and by putting to the best possible use the knowledge acquired, and making it their business to keep fully posted relative to the requirements of tenants and of the tenement house law they can render a great service to the public."

HUDSON TUBES AND REALTY VALUES.

Opportunities Offered the Early Investor— North Jersey Realty Responds to Change.

WITH the opening of the lower tubes of the McAdoo tunnel system, which completes the direct railway connections between Manhattan, Jersey City and Hoboken, there begins the dawn of a great change in the value of considerable real estate within the commuting zone of nearby New Jersey. Owing to these exceptional means of transit to New York, an advantage has been acquired that is certain to bring about an era of extraordinary development. Even before the advent of the tunnels, New Jersey had a steady growth, without the "booming" tactics of land agents, because the country is truly healthful and beautiful, and a goodly percentage of far-seeing and fortunate citizens of the solid and discriminating sort, who knew ideal home sites when they saw them, were ever willing to locate in Jersey, despite the drawbacks of travel. But now, since the one great obstacle to expansion has been removed, and since New Jersey has come to stand on an equality with other adjacent territory in the competition for new settlers, it is evident that the demand for property will be considerably intensified. The time has come at last when Jersey must be included in all home-prospecting plans.

In so far as investments are concerned the prospective property owner now has before him innumerable opportunities for acquiring realty along the lines of any of the railroads shown in the accompanying map. Buying real estate near New York is like purchasing intrinsic wealth; it is especially true when applied to realty within the zone affected by the new tunnel system. On every side of New York City, except its Jersey side, the future has been discounted with respect to land values. By the manipulation of speculators, prices have been raised in advance of the coming of population; that is, of the actual home settler, and when he finally arrives, he will have to pay an exorbitant figure for his lot and building. The profit that should accrue to the individual buyer and builder, as his justly earned increment, will have been skimmed by the schemer and syndicator. It may well be said that today there is in reality no spot around New York, outside of the Jersey commuting district, where prices are really cheap and low enough to warrant the private buyer in expecting a substantial return on his investment, through the steady enhancement in the value of his own home and holdings. There are other considerations as well that make realty across the Hudson a desirable investment to the home seeker.

Besides the apparent opportunities for quick profits at present offered investors in Jersey realty, inducements to ownership are made still more attractive by low taxes and reasonable transportation rates. Between New York City taxes, and those paid in the average Jersey town, no parallel can be drawn. Everywhere in New Jersey the assessed values for purposes of taxation average considerably below actual values. Moreover, a recent State law provides that a large part of the taxes paid by railroad corporations must be devoted to the support of the public school system, which will further tend to reduce the burden of the taxpayer.

Still another important difference between the treatment accorded a property owner in New Jersey and New York is that the system of special assessments for general improvements in vogue in the latter State is scarcely known in the suburban sections of the former. The operation of that system has caused sad experiences to thousands upon thousands in and around the city. In countless instances assessments for benefit wiped out entire equities, or placed such heavy liens against the holdings of small owners that they staggered under the load for their life-time. Such a system as referred to consists in taxing a limited number of lot owners for general public improvements made in the vicinity of their property, such as street openings, sewers, parks, etc. To be more precise, a district of assessment is arbitrarily fixed by a board of assessors, and every man within the area defined is taxed his proportionate share of the expenses of a local improvement, on the theory that it is of special benefit to his particular property. Where this plan is in operation, no property owner knows what his taxes may be in the course of any one year. Assessment may come piling on assessment, until he finds that his taxes "eat him up."

In the past, attention has been directed time and again to the amazing difference in land prices at equal distances from the New York City Hall within a radius of 25 miles. Take any point within the limits of that circle in New Jersey, and compare the cost of land there with the cost at any point equidistant with it on the New York side, and the demonstration will be incomprehensible. On an average the disproportion will be found to stand as one to ten. That means that as a rule land prices are ten times higher in New York suburbs than for similarly located lands—as to distance—in the New Jersey suburbs. This great inequality in values is wholly without basis in reason, and cannot last long. It is a paradox, but one that is capable of explanation. In this regard, "New Jersey To The Front" argues that view and weighed in the light of all the elements that contribute to the fixing of values, suburban New Jersey prices ought to be at par with suburban New York prices.

However, hastened by the under river railroads the inevitable process of equalization has set in, and will steadily and rapidly assert its influence. Eventually, but at no distant date, values will have reached a common level, where the land has advantages in common, regardless of their location on either side of the Hudson River.

It has been estimated that the time to be saved by the Hudson tunnels as against the ferry service between downtown Manhattan and the Jersey terminals will be equivalent to that consumed by 10 miles of railroad travel. The tubes now connect Manhattan with a suburban territory 380 miles in area, or about 20 per cent. larger than the entire City of New York, and 18 times as large as the Island of Manhattan. Real estate interests are anxiously awaiting the completion of the McAdoo station near Pavonia av, Jersey City, which will connect with all lines of the Erie Railroad system. Among the villages and towns to be benefited through the opening of the under river tunnel service to the Erie, may be mentioned such places as Arlington, North Newark, Forest Hill, Belleville and Nutley, on the Greenwood Lake and Newark branches, and similar residential centres along the Northern R. R. of New Jersey and main lines.

While Jersey City realty will doubtless immediately begin to feel the beneficial influence of quicker communication with Manhattan, it is expected that the important changes in values will be confined to Bergen and Essex Counties. In fact this opinion is supported by the large number of purchases lately consummated in that quarter.

Although not indicated on the map herewith, there are innumerable places in Rockland Co., N. Y., as well, which cannot escape the beneficial influence of the Hudson tunnels. Beginning at the southern boundary line and extending northward as far as Nyack a marked change has already taken place in vacant land values, and a considerable increase in building operations throughout that section portends an unprecedented buying and selling movement.

LAW DEPARTMENT

MORTGAGE INTEREST.

The place of payment of mortgage interest occasionally becomes of vital interest as when a default of thirty days in its payment is sought to be availed of by a mortgage holder, not having a known place of residence or doing business, or a qualified agent to receive the money within the State.

A hard fought case in the courts recently was one where such a state of things existed. The lender at the time of the execution of the mortgage had a known residence in another State, and in the absence of an express agreement fixing some other place for payment of the interest the Appellate Court held that the mortgagor was bound to tender payment of interest there. The court said: "The question presented upon this appeal is whether the interest was payable at the residence of the mortgagee or whether the defendants may defend upon the ground that they were ready and willing to pay the interest in this State. The general rule is that where no place of payment is specified the debtor must seek the creditor. That rule, of course, is based upon the presumed intention of the parties. If they wish a particular place of payment other than the residence of the creditor they must specify it in the contract. * * * Where the creditor has a known residence in another State when the contract is made, the debtor should expressly stipulate for a place of payment within the State, if he does not wish to pay at the residence of his creditor."

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

What is the expense and requirement on a person who has signed in a broker's office a contract to sell a piece of property?

Answer.—The expense and requirement is simply to have a deed drawn in accordance with the contract and executed and duly acknowledged by whoever holds the title to the land, and be ready at the place and time named in the contract of sale to offer the executed deed and receive the purchase price. The cost of drawing a deed varies from five to fifteen dollars, according to the scale of charges of the attorney whom you employ, and the amount of legal attention necessary to fulfil the terms of the contract with respect to it.

We have known most lamentable results to follow on the careless signing of broker-drawn contracts of sale, without legal advice as to what the title to the land requires to be inserted.—Editor.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you please inform a constant purchaser of your paper from the newsstands if it is against the laws of the State of New York for a foreigner to own real estate in New York. Thanking you in advance for your courtesy, which I shall always be happy to reciprocate when occasion offers.

SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—The Alien Law restrictions have been almost entirely relieved from in this State, and as a general rule it may be stated that a citizen of any nation or State that accords to American citizens the right to take and hold land, is reciprocally entitled in New York. Outside of this, too, an alien may buy and sell freely unless interfered with by a State proceeding—an almost unheard of event.—Editor.

HENRY HARMON NEILL.

Henry Harmon Neill, an expert on real estate values in the Greater City, but in Manhattan especially, real estate editor of the Evening Mail since 1894, statistician, writer and connoisseur of prints and data of Old New York, died on Monday at his home 215 Tompkins av, St. George. He had been in ill health for a year.

Born at Matlock, Derbyshire, England, April 25, 1864, he obtained his primary education in his native country and at an early age came to America, where he was graduated from the Columbia University school of law and political science in 1886. He was admitted to the Bar in the same year. He specialized in real estate and finally devoted his entire time to the study of that subject until he became a recognized authority in property values in this city. His newspaper training aided materially in his successful life, he frequently said. He prepared for the Record and Guide "The Harmon Neill Rule for Valuing City Lots," issued in the spring of 1906, charts of which have since found their way into nearly every real estate office in the municipality. His real estate articles in daily press and periodicals were much sought and read. From 1903 to 1907 he was commissioner in condemnation proceedings. Mr. Neill possessed one of the most complete and valuable private collections of old Manhattan prints and pictures in existence.

Mr. Neill leaves his wife, who was Miss Mabel M. Cary, and a son, Henry Harmon, Jr. Mr. Neill's father, H. M. Neill, of New Orleans, had a national reputation as a cotton expert. The funeral services were held on Wednesday and the burial was in Woodlawn.

THE MANAGEMENT IS THE THING.

The question is continually asked, should an agent be employed to collect rents? The answer in every instance is, Yes. Owners will find in the long run a decided saving should a good, competent collector be given charge of the property in question. The man who makes the management of property a specialty is in a position to handle tenants. He knows what are their rights and when the owner is being imposed upon. He knows just how much they are entitled to in the way of repairs and at what point to stop. Then again, where the business is transacted through a third party, the owner of the building is always the gainer, for in many cases direct answers need not be given. The broker has the option of telling the tenant that he will "refer the matter to the owner of the property, etc."

Take for example an ordinary 5-sty apartment, with two families on a floor, making in all ten families in the structure. Every one of these ten households has his own idea as how to live, and it is doubtful whether any two of them will agree. One family insists that the house is not properly heated, while another says that there is too much steam on. Complaints flow in thick and fast, especially when it is known that the owner can be applied to direct. The man who is fortunate enough to possess enough money to own a parcel of real estate, is looked upon as a grinder of the facts of the poor, unless every little whim of the tenants is immediately complied with.

REASONS FOR EMPLOYING AGENT.

There are many reasons why a reliable agent will get better results out of a given house than the owner, the following being among those worthy of consideration:

1. He has a thorough knowledge of the renting business in general and is acquainted with the laws pertaining to the landlord and tenant and is familiar with the tricks and schemes of the renting public, consequently occupies a firm ground in all his transactions.

2. He can negotiate all transactions impartially and can detect the characteristics of all tenants and would-be tenants and is not afraid to reject the undesirable.

3. He is experienced in handling tenants and by his professional tact and skill, can tell promptly what to do and what not to do and with his broad experience can arrive at some satisfactory understanding, whereby good tenants are retained.

4. His office is a clearing house for prospective tenants to get what they want with very little trouble. His office is open all day, where he can be reached. He only does this one thing, and therefore can devote his entire energies to accomplishing the best results for the owner. To be sure there is a charge on the part of the agent for supervising the real estate, but the owner will find that the amount is well invested and when all is said and done he will have money-in-his-pocket at the end of the year.

PURCHASING SUPPLIES REQUIRES CARE.

The purchasing of supplies for a modern apartment house is a serious matter and should not be undertaken by anyone not thoroughly conversant with all the details of the business. Prices are continually changing and the first thing an owner knows, he is let in for a big bill that was really unnecessary. There are sometimes several ways of making the same repair, and the agent's judgment in such matters is almost always the best. He bases it on past experiences, while in the case of the owner, it is almost invariably guess work.

It is a decided mistake (and one frequently made) for the owner to place his property in charge of a man unfamiliar with the business, just because he is "cheap." This is certainly false economy. The man with large interests in store, factory and other business enterprises, will secure the best men possible for managers and consider the money paid them wisely expended, and yet without any hesitation entrust the care and management of many thousands of dollars worth of real estate to persons utterly unfitted or to those whose business interests are so varied that they give a very small portion of their time and personal attention to the management of the property in question. The more conservative owners are rapidly placing their property in the hands of men especially fitted for this work. It is not reasonable to expect an investment, of say $100,000, in a manufacturing industry to yield ten per cent. under the management of a $10 a week man. Then, why expect it in a real estate investment?

Those owners who are dissatisfied with their realty holdings will do well to place their property in the hands of an experienced and competent agent, and the results will certainly justify the additional expenditure.

RECREATION PARK FOR BRONX.—There are rumors that a local realty concern is negotiating for a lease of the triangular block between 158th and 160th sts, Westchester and Union avs, owned by Monika Geiger, with a view to placing an amusement park at that point. It is said to be the intention of the promoters to provide tennis courts for the accommodation of occupants of nearby apartment buildings.

THE WEEK.

Reports from previous centres of real estate activity warrant the prediction that there will be a noticeable quickening in investment buying when the fall market opens. This opinion seems all the more reasonable when it is taken into consideration that the acquisition of income property has become a comparatively easy matter of late through the improvement of the money market. There are always those who are not only willing but anxious to buy improved real estate for investment purposes when liberal terms are accorded. Not only is this the case during a period when low prices prevail, but it applies with equal force when high figures are being obtained. Many instances of this kind were evidenced at the time of the recent realty boom in Manhattan and the Bronx, especially at the auction sales, when it was clearly obvious that in order to secure generous figures all that was necessary for owners to do was to broadly proclaim the liberality of the terms of sale. A tight money market causes a temporary suspension in buying and selling; easy money, on the other hand, facilitates negotiations, chiefly for the reason that accommodations may be had at low cost. Since these facts are undeniable, and based upon the hypothesis that a marked change for the better in commercial conditions is beginning to manifest itself, the preceding forecast should not fall short of fulfillment to the letter.

By far the most distinguishing feature of the market for the week was the sale by Louis M. & Thomas W. Jones of the 6-sty Croisic apartments, and a 6-sty building adjoining at the northwest corner of 5th av and 26th st, to Theodore Starrett, representing a syndicate which it is understood intends to erect thereon a large office building. The property fronts 34.4 feet on 5th av, and 127.6 feet on the side street. It has been intimated that the price fetched in this transaction approached closely the $900,000 mark. Such being the case the sellers have profited well by their investment, for it will be recalled that the parcel was sold to them in January last by James D. Ireland for a figure reported at the time to have been about $750,000. The present transaction is important not only for the reason that it contributes additional assurance of the confidence shown by large investors in high class realty in that neighborhood, but chiefly because it presages the early improvement of one of the best corners on lower 5th av. It has been pointed out that the location in question is particularly suitable for office building purposes, being close to the large hotels and within easy walking distance of Broadway.

Compared with the corresponding period in 1908 the budget for the week shows a marked change for the better. One of the encouraging features of present trading is the almost entire absence of exchanges which have hitherto been numerous. There is perhaps nothing that lends a more stimulating influence to the market than the wide publicity of a long list of cash sales.

Everything considered, trading for the week has been well distributed. Below 59th st the sale of a 3-sty building on 3d av adjoining the southeast corner of 23d st furnishes an item for speculation in that the parcel was acquired by F. W. Seybel of F. W. Seybel & Co., who, it is believed, intends enlarging the structure for private use. Further uptown it will be noticed that there is a gradual tendency toward the acquisition of old dwellings, as an examination of the budget will show. Over on Riverside Drive the otherwise quiet market in that zone was given life by the announcement of the sale of handsome 5-sty residence on that parkway. The parcel affected brought a figure said to have been in the neighborhood of $325,000.

One of the topics widely discussed by brokers and owners this week is the evident revival of interest in elevator apartment house building on Washington Heights. A large number of plans for structures of this type have recently been filed with the building department and judging by this as well as by the increase in lot buying in that neighborhood, many operations will shortly be under way. In this connection it may safely be affirmed that the era of cheap flat construction on Washington Heights has disappeared. So successful has become the renting of high grade elevator apartments in the locality referred to that prospective owners in several instances have announced their intention of exacting even higher rentals than are now being obtained. Prominent among the newly projected apartments is one to be erected on Riverside Drive, 156th to 157th sts, for the Riviera Realty Co. The building will have 12 apartments on a floor, of from 6 to 10 rooms, with 2 and 3 baths. It will contain 4 elevators and a series of exterior courts. The cost of the structure will be about $1,700,000.

THE AUCTION MARKET

PROSPECTIVE bargain hunters who attended the auction sales held during the week in the Vesey Street Salesroom were doomed to disappointment by the withdrawal and adjournment of several of the offerings. The list included several attractive parcels, among which was a 7-sty loft building at 73 Canal st and a dwelling at 149 Riverside drive. On Monday at the stand of Joseph P. Day, 12 Lewis st, just north of Grand st, a 5-sty brick tenement and store, 25x100, was knocked down to the Dean Holding Co. for $20,375. The same auctioneer struck off to Charles G. Moses for $19,425 the 5-sty brick tenement and store at 617 East 16th st. On Tuesday Mr. Day conducted the sale of the clubhouse of the Builders' League at 74 West 126th st. The property was ordered sold by the Supreme Court to foreclose a mortgage of $21,658, held by George T. Whyte. The only bid in this instance was made by John P. Leo, Jr., president of the Builders' League, who secured the property for $22,650. On Wednesday out of six sales advertised to take place, five were adjourned, the remaining one being conducted by Bryan L. Kennelly. The parcel affected in this case consisted of three 3-sty cottages and outbuildings, situated on the west side of Sea View av, 381.9x829, extending to Railroad av, East Long Branch, N. J. The lot was struck off to C. R. Myer on a bid of $22,500.

TAXPAYERS' CONGRESS MEET.

The regular monthly meeting of the Taxpayers' Congress was held at their new quarters at 111 Broadway on Thursday, July 15. William Temple Emmet presided. The meeting was attended, as most of the taxpayers' organizations were represented by delegates. President Emmet told of the necessity of having non-partisan organizations of taxpayers that would exert their efforts only in the cause of good government. A resolution was passed authorizing Joseph S. Schwab, chairman of the executive committee, to appoint a committee of three to consider the advisability of conducting a weekly non-partisan taxpayers' newspaper. Harry Robitzek, of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Bronx, is chairman of this committee, and will render a report at the next monthly meeting.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M" occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Editor Record and Guide

The lien filed July 15th against Leggett Avenue, northwest corner Kelly Street, by Albert E. Davis, for $400.00, is an absolutely unjust lien. This is the first lien ever filed against any property that I owned in a business career of thirty-five years. I am responsible financially to meet all my obligations. I shall bond this lien and compel Mr. Davis to litigate the matter, which I am prepared to do immediately.

Vol. LXXXIV. JULY 31, 1909. No. 2159.

THE TAX RATE in Manhattan for the coming year will be 1.67, an increase of six points over the preceding year, and the best that can be said about the figure is that it might have been worse. At one time it looked as if the increase would amount to more than ten points. Heroic endeavors have been made to keep it down, because of the possible effect of a larger increase on the municipal election next Fall, but the success may be more illusory than real. The result may be only a postponement of the higher rate. It has been confidently anticipated that the tax rate for the coming year would at least remain stationary, but there is no assurance that such will actually be the case. The increase in the assessed valuation of real estate will be larger than it was for the current year, but it will not be so large as it was in immediately preceding years. While an enormous amount of new construction is now under way, it consists largely of fireproof buildings that will not appear in the valuation for the coming year. Neither will there be any very considerable opportunity for raising the valuations of unimproved property. There have not been any marked or extensive increases in ground value during the past twelve months. A fair guess as to the probable increase in assessed valuation would place it somewhere between $200,000,000 and $250,000,000, which would yield on the basis of a tax rate of $1.67, about $4,000,000 of additional income, and it remains to be seen whether the increase of the Budget can be kept down to that figure, and in respect to this essential element in the calculation one man's guess is as good as another's. Of course the most assiduous and determined effort will be made by the property-owners' association to prevent the increase of appropriations, but the mandatory increase will not be far from the figure named. They may succeed in keeping the increase in the Budget down to the estimated increase in income, but it is doubtful. No provision has as yet been made for really substantial economies, and the Record and Guide doubts whether such economies will ever be effected until some such reorganization as that embodied in the new charter has been successfully consummated.

IN VETOING the proposed new Building Code, Mayor McClellan did only what his character and record would lead his constituents to expect, and the reasons he gave for his action were unimpeachable. Rather no revision at all than such an entirely unsatisfactory revision as that which the Board of Aldermen adopted. What the ultimate effect of the mayor's action will be remains to be seen, but it is wholly improbable that a substantially better code will ever be passed by such a body as the Board of Aldermen. The only point of view from which the average alderman ever thinks of considering an alteration in the building regulation is the effect of such an alteration on the interest of his acquaintances or friends. In certain general respects he simply accepts the advice of experts, but whenever experts disagree and whenever a proposed regulation either threatens or benefits important building interests, his vote one way or another is merely a matter of political or personal influence. The majority of the board will not consequently pay the least attention to the Mayor's veto message. Their attention will be directed to the all-important task of trying to overcome its consequences. If the matter comes up again in the Fall it is wholly improbable that the board will pass any code that will meet the Mayor's objections to the one he has just vetoed. The whole business will in all probability be postponed until after the election, and the kind of code which the city will ultimately get will depend upon the results of the Fall campaign. If a Mayor is elected who is willing to obey the orders of the machine, an attempt will be made to enact the code approved by the majority of the Board. On the other hand, in case some independent candidate is elected, or in case the victorious candidate proves to be, like Mayor McClellan, a man of independent disposition, some compromise will have to be arranged. The strength of the political and business interests that are contending over this matter are so considerable and are so nearly equal that in any event the ultimate result will probably be in the nature of a compromise.

THE very general opposition of the real estate and building interests to the code approved by the majority of the Board of Aldermen had much to do with its temporary or final rejection, and the organizations which participated in this successful protest should not let the matter rest as it is. They should not confine their efforts merely to protesting against a vicious and over-stringent set of building regulations. They should use their influence on behalf of a code designed particularly for the purpose of improving the general standard of building at the smallest practicable cost to the builder and to the community; and they should have a code prepared that would meet these two essential needs. The general nature of such a code has already been indicated by Mr. Ernest Flagg, who deserves the thanks of the whole real estate and building interests for the energy and ability with which he has insisted upon the necessity of keeping down the cost of fireproof structures and of so encouraging their erection. Upon the desirability of the specific proposals made by Mr. Flagg in his address and published in the last issue of the Record and Guide there is no need of commenting. The best method of giving effect in detail to Mr. Flagg's general idea must of course be exhaustively considered by experts; but there is absolutely no doubt as to the validity of the idea itself, and of the interest which real estate men and builders have in supporting it. What New York needs is a code which will encourage the largest possible amount of fireproof building and the highest practicable standard of fireproof construction. The existing code and both of its proposed revisions, establish standards of fireproof construction which unnecessarily increase the cost of sound building methods, the consequence being that necessarily the great majority of the buildings erected are inflammable and the city is constantly threatened by the awful loss that would result from a widespread conflagration. Little is being done to lessen this danger. Nothing would be done by the proposed new code. Its consequence would be to increase still further the cost of fireproof construction, and to afford builders an additional inducement to avoid it. On the other hand the increasing cost of wood and the diminishing cost of certain fireproof materials have made it possible to increase the general standard of building without imposing any additional burdens on the builder. A sensible code should take advantage of this fact, but such a sensible code will never be either framed or adopted unless the real estate and building interests actively and assiduously insist on its adoption.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSION has, we believe, made a mistake in drawing up the list of express stations for the Broadway-Lexington route. It has not provided for any points at which express trains will stop between Canal street and 42nd street, and between 42nd street and 86th street. Such a distribution of express stations would result in a great deal of inconvenience to the traveling public. The aim of the commission should be to provide every important crosstown street with at least one express station. The existing subway gives one each to 14th and 42nd streets. A Seventh avenue subway, whenever it is built, must have an express station at the Pennsylvania Terminal, thereby satisfying at least in part the claim which 34th street and Greeley Square can make for this essential convenience. There remains 23d and 59th streets, and the Record and Guide believes that these streets should be provided with express stations on the Broadway-Lexington route. Twenty-third street and Madison Square are becoming a much more important business center than 14th street ever was—one of the most important in the whole of Manhattan; and it is not fair to the huge business population of this neighborhood to deprive it of the advantage of an express service. The enormous future importance of the Queensboro Bridge and its traffic gives 59th street an equally strong claim upon an express station. Such an arrangement would involve the abandonment of the 42nd street station, which would undoubtedly spell inconvenience to many people, but fewer people would suffer in consequence of the want of such a station at 42nd street than would suffer from the absence of stations both at 23rd and 59th streets. Expresses on the present subway stop at 42nd street, and the proposed new route merely parallels the line of the existing subway south of that point. The great majority of passengers who wished to reach the Grand Central Station quickly could almost, if not quite as easily travel by the Fourth avenue route. Property-owners interested in 23rd and 59th streets should protest vigorously against the way in which the commission proposes to discriminate against these important streets.

HARD FOR REAL ESTATE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

In your editorial columns of the 17th instant you speak of the migration to New Jersey naturally to be expected from the opening of the Cortlandt st terminus of the McAdoo tunnels, and state that it will be at the expense of certain living quarters of Manhattan and Bronx. This feature and consequence being recognized, the question arises can anything be done to stem the tide and counteract the effects of the tapping of the population of New York proper?

Why are we Manhattanites paying millions for new bridges—the Queensboro and the Manhattan—and allowing them, and the "tubes" as well, to draft away population into Long Island and New Jersey with no reasonable prospect of recruiting the dwelling house population, especially the class that support the small avenue storekeepers, who can hardly make a livelihood as it is when the large department stores "centralize" the trade formerly given to these provident trades people?

And when one considers that Manhattan real estate pays, substantially, for the piper's tune, he wants to know if there is no relief possible from the additional increase in the tax rate just determined upon. May it not be found feasible to devise some other form of revenue to help pay this burdensome and inconsistent charge imposed on the real estate interests, in view of the fact that the personal tax system now in vogue (?) is repudiated?

The writer understands, while on this latter subject, that in certain States the "penalty" is but four-tenths of one per cent. personal tax charge. Could it not be legislated in this community so that a discrimination might be made and the personal tax made less than one and two-thirds per cent.? In that case some people who now swear off entirely on the percentage demanded might take a "civic pride" in paying a small amount (especially if given public credit) toward municipal expenditures.

158 Broadway. LEWIS PHILLIPS.

NON-UNION TRIM, a long-standing cause of trouble, was the reason for a number of trades quitting work on a building at 7th av and 58th st. The elevator erectors, marble cutters and polishers, steam-fitters, electricians and tile-layers struck in sympathy with the carpenters, who objected to the manufactured trim because it had been made outside of the city under non-union conditions. But all the men are now back to work, and it is said on behalf of the General Arbitration Board that the charges against five of the unions for violating the arbitration plan will not be pressed. We are informed by the Secretary of the District Council of carpenters' unions that the journeymen carpenters have all the work they can do, though these unions are not now under the arbitration plan. The demand for tile-layers is even greater than the supply. Slow delivery of structural steel is the principal difficulty which the building trades have to contend with at present. This is delaying a good deal of work, and has set back some of the trades, as for example bricklaying. Common brick has fallen in price this week in consequence. Portland cement has had a small advance, as the effect of the increasing demand from all over the country, but is still obtainable at moderate cost; and it may be said of the quotations for all the fundamental materials that they continue comparatively low. Prices, however, are generally in the ascending scale—and the recessions can be only temporary—for is this not a bull market? Plans filed are fewer because of the vetoing of the proposed new building code, which would have increased the cost of fireproof construction. In building circles there is a general feeling of relief that the ordinance has been disposed of. Some of the new building projects are highly important, which does not necessarily mean that they are extremely costly. They are important because they indicate a good distribution of work as regards the variety of trades to be employed thereby. Large apartment houses for upper Broadway and large loft buildings in midtown, with all kinds of alteration projects intermingled, are very representative of the desirable kinds of work that are now coming ahead. Building money is in good volume at fair rates on approved plans, and it is to be noted that the character of the work in hand this year is of a higher general standard than New York has ever seen before.

THE BUILDING CODE VETO.

A profound silence has reigned since the hurrahs for the Mayor's veto of the proposed building code subsided. Mr. McClellan found that he could not save an intelligible and workable remainder after crossing out parts to which there was, in his view, many serious objections, so he disapproved of the measure as a whole. Seven objections he specified carefully in his veto message.

"I went over the entire code very carefully," said the Mayor, "and concluded that the best way would be to send the entire draft back to the Aldermen. There are some good things in the code and some bad things, and I have no doubt the Aldermen will make the necessary changes."

The expectation is that code revision will not be taken up again until the complexion of the next Board of Aldermen has been determined by the November elections. In the meantime Chief Engineer Lewis will have made the experiments with building materials which the Mayor has directed. Outside of political circles the action of the Mayor seems to have caused no regret, and so far as heard from it has left no sting anywhere. Alderman Doull says he is satisfied, and that he would like to make an offer to the Mayor to draw up a new code with the assistance of his experts that would be satisfactory to the Mayor, to the building interests and the public at large.

How to obtain a suitable code is a subject to which much thought is being given. Already there is a strong body of opinion that the Board of Aldermen, however competent some of its members may be, is not the best source of authority. In this connection much consideration has been given to the opinions expressed by Ernest Flagg. A prominent representative of the concrete interests, Mr. J. H. P. Perry, of the Turner Construction Company, remarked this week:

"In view of the fact that for the half year ending July 1, 1909, building operations in New York City reached a total of $149,000,000, or very nearly one-half of the total expenditure for building construction in the United States for the same period, the framing of a new building code for the city should be handled with great care.

"The constantly increasing demand among business men throughout this country for a tariff commission composed of experts competent to pass upon the technical details which go to make up a tariff is of interest in view of the expression of opinion frequently heard in connection with the preparation and passing of a building code by the Board of Aldermen in this city.

"When it is remembered that a building code is essentially the police regulation for building work and that at the same time, though to some minds illegally so, a specification for such construction, it is easily seen that a non-technical board composed of politicians is not a fit body to draft such legislation. This is emphasized by the fact that after a large number of public hearings had been held by the Building Committee of the Board of Aldermen, at which leading experts in different structural lines had appeared, the recommendations submitted to the committee were in almost every instance ignored, largely possibly through non-appreciation of their technical importance.

"The drawing of the building code should be given into the the hands of a committee of five, and certainly not over seven members, properly paid, who could investigate similar laws in the cities of this country as well as in the larger European capitals. This committee, after preparing a tentative code, should hold hearings to which would be invited leading builders, architects and engineers so that the code as finally submitted to the Board of Aldermen for adoption would comprise, first; the best features of the codes of the other cities, and as well, represent the expert opinions on new sections not covered by old codes.

"A step in the right direction was made by Mayor McClellan in instructing Mr. Nelson P. Lewis, chief engineer of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, to conduct experiments and prepare accurate stress tables and data with regard to cinder concrete construction so that the Board of Aldermen might have reliable and non-partisan information before it to aid it in framing suitable legislation."

HON. PATRICK McGOWAN, who gracefully represents the city whether the Mayor be here or elsewhere, deplores that the boroughs of Manhattan, Brooklyn, Richmond, the Bronx and Queens are lagging behind in developing their transit facilities, and that the McAdoo tunnels will draw residents of New York over to New Jersey. Fortunately, old New York has the population to spare. There will always be plenty of oil in her cruse.

MAYOR McCLELLAN acted with good sense, political courage and a full understanding of his official duty when he vetoed the Aldermen's proposed building code. He came back to New York from his vacation to assume the responsibility, and he assumed it squarely.—N. Y. Sun.

CONSTRUCTION

REASONS FOR THE MIDTOWN BUILDING BOOM

The Relation Which Locality and Construction Bear to Each Other—The New Loft Buildings of 26th and 27th Streets—Interesting Views of Experts in that Section

MOST of the brilliancy in Manhattan building operations is being focused into the Midtown sections. Downtown there are as yet but few works of note to study—no skyscraper race to watch. The work is in the new commercial districts and the particular one to be referred to at this time is embraced in 26th and 27th sts, between 4th and 7th avs. Here are to be found a dozen loft buildings of the first class in course of construction, and several more that have just been completed.

New York real estate operators are remarkable for seizing an opportunity quickly and making the most of it in short order. They cannot always work out their plans that way, but it is generally their aim. There is a reason. This is a case in point.

A WEST 27TH STREET IMPROVEMENT. Buchman & Fox, Architects.

A 12-story and basement loft building in course of erection at 119-133 West 27th street for the Realty Holding Company. This is one of three operations by the same company.

The development has a number of interesting aspects which real estate experts are studying, and let it be said that such speculations as these, involving millions, are not worked out until after they have been made the subject of a great deal of study.

A number of the matters that must be considered at such a time group themselves under three general heads: (1) the demand, (2) the location, and (3) the architecture and construction of the buildings. As to the first, it is often said that the city is being overbuilt with lofts. Most critics have this fear, and this is how they substantiate it: "Twenty years ago," they say, "the principal loft centers were south of 14th st. They are there yet; nothing has come to displace them or lessen their number. A good many loft buildings were hard to rent then, and there are a good many to rent still." Which is not an argument that there is not the best kind of a demand for large and well-lighted lofts in central sections, where the business is to be had—the business of the firms who are eager to rent such lofts. There may be too many of the kind that are hard to rent, but evidently not of the kind which previous to the panic were being erected in the midtown section between 14th and 23d sts, and now have crossed 23d st and are taking possession of a new field.

1. FEATURES OF THE DEMAND.

Brokers who have studied this demand, for example, the firm of S. B. Goodale & Son, of West 27th st, have observed several things connected with it. You can be certain that they as well as all the builders and operators in the district have carefully investigated whether or not business needs larger and more commodious quarters, and if such could be built and rented for rates that could be met by those firms which find themselves either disadvantageously situated in another part of the city, or who require more floor space than they can obtain in the buildings where they now are.

GETTING NEAR THE BUYERS.

The firm of Goodale & Son have noticed that manufacturers of fine ladies' wear, for example, want to get uptown in order to be near the buyers. The visiting buyers, as well as the resident buyers, are now to be found uptown rather than downtown, and it is easier for the salesman to get them to come over to see their lines if their salesroom is close by. Buyers from other cities are no longer to be found in equal number in the old downtown hotels; in fact, a number of the old hotels have disappeared themselves, because of the migration.

THE IMPORTANCE OF LIGHT.

Builders also understand that good light is a strong determining factor. Manufacturing firms are anxious to get good light and to be assured of its continuance. For that reason some owners are leasing adjoining houses on either side in order to control the light. Mr. Andrew J. Kerwin did this in the fine building which he erected as owner and builder at 27-35 West 24th st (100x98.9, eleven stories). He leased the dwellings on either side, and so has protected his tenants' light. This building Mr. Kerwin leased for $85,000 annually, which is almost the record for that class and size of building. For the store and basement he obtained $16,000, and for the first and second floors, $8,000 per floor. One tenant occupies the four floors, paying $24,000 per year. The third, fourth and fifth floors are also rented together to one tenant, who pays $7,500 per floor, or $18,500 in all. The sixth, seventh, eighth, ninth and tenth floors are rented at $7,000 each, and the eleventh floor for $7,500.

It is said that the success of this building started the big movement which is destined to make over the section between 23d and 34th sts. S. B. Goodale & Son sold Mr. Kerwin the site, and as a necessary preliminary outlined the operation for him just as it has turned out to be. Goodale & Son had long "preached" the convenience and bright future of the section. Sixth av was long a problem to them, as to everybody, but the coming of the Gimbel store has decided its future in the best possible way.

GET BACK FROM THE STREET LINE.

They strongly advise that builders make a covenant to place their buildings back from the line ten feet. The light would be greatly improved by so doing in all the cross streets destined for improvement. Years ago there was such an agreement in 25th st, and also on the north side of 24th st. While it makes the buildings shorter, it gives so much better light that the buildings are more desirable as investments.

Goodale & Son, moreover, are of the opinion that the next street to receive attention from builders and operators is 25th. "Manufacturers of fine ladies' wear find it to their advantage," they said, "to be in pleasant surroundings, commodious, well lighted and near the retail and hotel centers. If a firm have their office in one place and a factory in another part of the city, they must use a high priced man in between, and they can save five thousand a year by having office and factory combined, as in these new buildings."

2. THE LOCATION.

For loft buildings commercial necessities now select the best locations, and also define the building plans. Both are an evolution, the effect of processes as scientific as anything can be in city building. In a sense the locality is as much a manufactured product as the building is the product of certain processes in mechanics. For a generation a series of city squares remain a social and business void. Residential population has moved and stable business activity has not yet arrived. It is a real estate desert. Suddenly certain changes are made in the city map. A rapid transit line is cut through on the east side, another goes through on the west side, a great trunk line railroad bores a tunnel across on the north side, and other similar revolutionary changes in the local geography are made, so that the once forsaken locality is entirely a different place. It has become a center instead of continuing a dead end; and the railroad builders have thus manufactured a new field for builders' operations.

During the renting season of 1908 a few far-seeing operators and builders noticed that there was a lack of new loft buildings to meet the demands of tenants in 24th, 25th, 26th and 27th sts, especially west of Broadway and over to Seventh av. The three or four buildings then in existence were readily rented, notwithstanding the depression in the business world. The objections to 28th and 29th sts were and are the antiquated car lines that interfere with shipping and receiving goods. As regards 30th, 31st and 32d sts, values were considered too high for the purposes of these particular operations, on account of the nearness of the Pennsylvania station.

WHAT BUILDERS PAY FOR LOTS.

"Consequently," said Messrs. Heil & Stern, who are prominent in the real estate affairs of that section, "27th st became the first street of importance in this new movement. Lots sold in 27th st, between Broadway and 6th av, one year ago at from $2,200 to $2,400 a front foot, and in the most recent sale a single lot in this street was sold for $4,000 a front foot.

"Between 6th and 7th avs lots in January, 1909, were sold for $1,500 a front foot, and a 50-ft. plot was sold just a few days ago for over $2,200 a front foot. On this street there are now being erected seven 12-sty loft buildings, involving a cost of over $1,800,000.

"While this was going on in 27th st, 26th st naturally felt the effects and became active; and in this street lots have risen in value 20 to 25% during the past six months, and there are now being erected four new buildings, involving a cost of over $1,000,000.

"The builders feel somewhat elated over the very good showing that has already been made by the large amount of space rented at this early date. We are of the opinion that the next street to feel the effect of this movement will be 25th st, it being the only street with the advantages that 26th and 27th sts possess, and lots can still be secured at prices that will appear cheap in one year. Loft buildings are more in demand by investors today than ever before, and the builder, with the assistance of the very easy money market, will be able to dispose of his product at completion, for he is not worrying about renting."

3. ARCHITECTURE AND CONSTRUCTION.

On Manhattan Island the relation between the place where a building is to stand and its bulk, construction and architectural style is very close. Name the site and the experienced architect or builder will picture in his mind's eye the building that must go there, for economic reasons. The new buildings in the district under consideration will belong to the same general class, but will be divided into two orders through differences in architectural design following from differences in situation. Those west of Broadway are being erected on inside lots, and those on 4th and Madison avs have corner sites, and two facades to be ornamented.

A good standard was set in the 12-sty building erected by the West 26th Street Corporation, Emanuel Pilpel manager, and completed last Spring at Nos. 37-43, from plans by Neville & Bagge. The building was equipped with a ventilating plant, with Otis elevators having emergency doors, with a sprinkler system, a double water supply by pressure and gravity, fireproof stairways of steel construction entirely separated from the elevator hatchways, fireproof wood floors, mail chutes, kalamein front doors, window frames and sashes.

Three of the new loft buildings in West 27th st are being erected by the Realty Holding Company (Nathaniel J. Hess, pres., and E. H. Hess, vice-pres. and secy.), under the supervision of the agents, the firm of M. & L. Hess. One is at Nos. 40 and 42, on a plot 46x99, from plans by Buchman & Fox. The same company is erecting a new loft building of similar description at 22 and 24 West 27th st, and a larger one at 119 to 133 West 27th st, on plot 175x99. (See illustration.)

The last named building really consists of two separate buildings, with individual equipment. Entire floors may be had, however, with the center wall removed, giving one continuous floor extending through both buildings. The lofts in Nos. 119-127, with surface dimensions of 100x98.9, will rent for $6,000 each, or about 60 cents a square foot. The store and basement in this building are scheduled at $9,000. In the other section of the building (if considered as one), or Nos. 129-133, the store and basement are rated together at $6,500, and the lofts at $4,250 each. Sprinkler systems will be installed.

The 12-sty office and loft structure to be built by the Iselins at Madison av and 27th st, opposite Madison Square Garden, from plans by Maynicke & Franke, will cover a plot of 15,000 ft., extending through to 26th st. It means the conversion of this old residential section to retail trade. The Messrs. Adrian, Columbus and Ernest Iselin are operating as the "Neptune Realty Company," and upon the completion of the building it will be taken over under a lease by the Improved Property Holding Company, of which Henry Corn is president. Charles A. Cowen is the general contractor.

ON FOURTH AVENUE.

Good progress is being made in excavating for the 16-sty building which the Andrew J. Robinson Company, as general contractors, is to erect for H. Fillmore Hyde at the southeast corner of 27th st and 4th av, from plans of Charles A. Valentine. The Thompson-Starrett Company, as general contractor, is excavating the block front between 27th and 28th sts for the Bryce and Hewitt buildings, from plans of Clinton & Russell; and at the northeast corner of 26th st a 12-sty loft building is to be erected for the Putnam Holding Company from plans by William C. Hazlett.

VACUUM DUST COLLECTORS are being vigorously pushed in this market, with the probability that they will be soon followed by a variety of labor-saving utensils and appliances for use in dwellings, warehouses, churches, halls and clubs, as well as office buildings, theatres and hotels. British and European cities are greatly interested in these inventions. In the windows of drapers, hardware dealers, and other mercantile concerns, including some of the most prominent wholesale and retail firms, vacuum cleaners are conspicuously displayed and advertised. The principal vacuum cleaners offered for sale in the British Isles are British, American and French patents. Under the new British patent act, goods made under foreign patents must be manufactured in Britain. The different types of hand-operated vacuum cleaners in the market there range in price from $66.42; the electrically driven, from $71.54 to $168.42; water power, ordinary pressure vacuum cleaners, $121.66, plus cost of installing; water power high pressure, $292, plus cost of installing. The public everywhere is being educated in the use of vacuum cleaners, with the result that more and more frequently they are becoming a fixture of the establishment.

THE AMERICAN CEMENT INDUSTRY.

And the Part that the Hudson River Will Play in the Future—Views of E. C. Eckel, and the Government's Annual Report.

THE new position and prominence which the Hudson River region is taking in the Portland cement trade are made the subject of the principal remarks in the annual report on the cement industry of the U. S. Geological Survey. The report came to hand this week in the form of an advance chapter of "Mineral Resources of the United States." It was written by Edwin C. Eckel, C. E., the same who recently located the new plant of the American Portland Cement Company at Poughkeepsie. Mr. Eckel is surprised that New York State (of course he means more particularly the Hudson River counties, for he does not care to direct too much attention to the matter) has not assumed a more prominent position in the Portland cement industry. It is the greatest wonder in the business world why the unsurpassed advantages of the Hudson River towns for manufacturing of many kinds have not been more largely availed of. It must be because the main principle and factor, the market, which means the dividends from the business, is neglected. The Hudson River region has always had every facility for manufacturing that New England has had except water-power in great abundance. But it has had cheaper coal and it has been nearer to market.

The Lehigh is the largest producing district for Portland cement in the country, and owes its prominence to the possession of good raw materials, good labor, fairly cheap fuel and excellent rail facilities. But, says Mr. Eckel, "just as the future of the Pittsburgh steel district is definitely limited by the growth of production at Gary, Buffalo, Birmingham and the Atlantic plants, so the Lehigh district is now facing similar limitations. Each year witnesses a marked narrowing of the profitable market area for cement made in the Lehigh district. The existing plants in western Pennsylvania now control the situation, during ordinary years, in that direction, while existing and prospectve plants in West Virginia, Virginia and New York will more and more restrict shipments to the South and East."

THE STATUS OF NEW YORK AS A CEMENT PRODUCER.

In view, says Mr. Eckel, of the relation of New York State to the early history of the cement industry in this country, it is a matter of surprise that the State has not assumed a more prominent position in the present stage of the industry. A very casual examination will show, he says, that its supplies of available raw materials are large, and that it contains or gives ready access to a number of important markets. The fact that during 1908 it ranked eighth among the States as a cement producer is therefore to be explained otherwise. He then adds:

"New York State at present contains a number of Portland cement plants, but even the successful ones have been able to exert little influence on the industry at large. This is chiefly due to the manner in which they were located, when regard was paid chiefly to the limestone supply and only secondarily to questions of market. To build a cement plant so located as to yield only cement may be an interesting technical operation, but it is not good business. In order to be satisfactory industrially, a plant should produce dividends as well as cement. In the past history of the New York industry this fact seems to have been overlooked.

"When the situation is examined critically, with markets, routes, and raw materials all in mind, it will be seen that there are only a few locations in New York where today the erection of a large plant would be justifiable. In the writer's opinion the number of such areas or localities DOES NOT EXCEED FOUR. To put the matter in another way, the erection of large plants at each of these localities WOULD DOMINATE THE CEMENT TRADE NOT ONLY OF NEW YORK BUT OF NEW ENGLAND AS WELL. To add to the interest of the situation, it may be noted that in three out of the four critical areas the raw-material supplies were geographically so compact that it was by no means impossible for one company to secure complete control of all the really available rock.

"In order to compare the ideal with the actual New York locations, it can be said that a year ago three of the controlling areas were not held by any cement company; the fourth was occupied by a company which for many reasons could not avail itself of its natural advantages of location. The last twelve months, however, have brought about many changes in the cement trade, and the readjustments in New York are not among the least of them. Of the four locations noted, that at Hudson is now controlled by leading interests in the Atlas Portland Cement Company; two of the other areas are held by another established cement company, and the fourth may be developed in the near future. The result of these acquisitions is that New York State will have a new series of modern and well-located plants, and that its output may then approximate that of Indiana."

Counting the Rosendale mills with the Portland mills, New York has more mills than Indiana has now, as the latter has but 7 Portland and 12 Natural cement mills; while New York has 9 Portland and 15 Rosendale (or natural) mills. In fact, Pennsylvania is the only State having more cement mills of all kinds than New York, and her majority is only 2.

PRODUCTION AND PRICES IN 1908.

The total production of all kinds of cement in the United States during 1908, as shown by returns just compiled by the United States Geological Survey from all cement producers of the country, amounted to 52,910,925 barrels, valued at $44,477,-653. The total production in 1906, two years before, was 51,-006,445 barrels.

THE PORTLAND CEMENT production alone showed a decrease in 1908 as compared with 1907, in most of the Eastern and Southern States, the loss being greatest in Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York and Michigan. This decrease in the East and South was offset, however, by remarkable gains reported by plants in the Middle West and on the Pacific coast, returns from Indiana, Illinois and California showing large increases over the production in 1907. The total production of Portland in 1908 was 51,072,612, valued at $43,547,679, as against 47,785,390 in 1907, valued at $53,992,551.

The average price of the entire Portland cement output in 1908 was only 85 cents a barrel—36 cents below the average price in 1907. The 1908 price is the lowest on record, the previous low point—88 cents a barrel—having been reached in 1904 as the result of business depression in that year.

In 1897 the total Portland output of the entire country stood at only 250,000 barrels, as against a production of 6,900,000 barrels of natural cement.

In view of trade conditions last year the matter for surprise is not that the increase in output is so small, but that there should have been any increase at all. The producing plants in 1908 numbered 98, as against 94 in 1907. New York State had 7 plants in operation, Pennsylvania 17, Michigan 15, Ohio 8, Indiana 7, Kansas 7, Illinois 5, Missouri 4, California 4, New Jersey 3, Texas 2, Oklahoma 2, Colorado 2, Utah 2, Alabama 2, Washington 2, Iowa 1, Kentucky 1, Tennessee 1, South Dakota 1, Arizona 1, Maryland 1, Virginia 1, Massachusetts 1, Georgia 1.

THE NATURAL CEMENT produced in the United States during 1908 amounted to 1,686,862 bbls., valued at $834,509, as compared with an output of 2,887,700 bbls., valued at $1,467,-302, in 1907, a decrease in 1908 of 1,200,838 bbls. or over 41 per cent. in quantity, and of $632,793, or over 43 per cent. in value. The year 1899 was the biggest producing year in the history of natural cement, when the total product amounted to 9,868,179 bbls.

Natural cement was produced in 14 States in 1907, but in only 12 States last year. New York, the largest producer, worked only 6 plants out of 15 in 1908, and produced but 623,-618 bbls., as compared with 947,929 bbls. produced by 15 plants in 1907. In all the States, a total of only 25 plants were in action last year and 27 remained idle.

PUZZOLAN CEMENT, made by mixing blast furnace slag with slaked lime, was manufactured during 1908 at a number of plants in the United States. The output reported for 1908 was 151,451 bbls., valued at $95,468. This shows a heavy decrease when compared with the production reported for 1907, which was 557,252 bbls., valued at $443,998.

There are at present at least 10 plants equipped for the manufacture of puzzolan cement in the United States, though it is difficult to ascertain how many of these have been completely or partly dismantled. Only four plants reported production in 1908.

The imports of foreign cements during the year 1908 amounted to 842,121 bbls., as against 2,033,438 in the year 1907. The exports of hydraulic cement last year amounted to 846,528 bbls., as compared with 900,550 bbls. in 1907. There are excellent reasons for trying to increase this export trade. Approximately, the apparent consumption of Portland cement in 1908 was 51,068,505 bbls., compared with 49,918,278 in the year 1907, and 48,153,618 in 1906.

TWO MAGAZINES that should be in the hands of those interested in cement house construction are the "Architectural Record" for May and the "Cement Age" for the same month. Both contain much of great interest and value relating to the subject of concrete dwellings. In view of the fact that the architects as a class have from the beginning expressed a reluctance to encourage concrete construction, the thorough treatment of this subject by the "Architectural Record" is noteworthy. Concrete has forced itself to the front and has compelled the attention of the architect and builder. Concrete renders possible imperishable structures and it offers protection against fire; its outward appearance may be made wonderfully attractive and pleasing to the eye, and as investments concrete structures are extremely satisfying to the owners.—Monthly Bulletin of the Universal Portland Cement Company.

REFORMING AN ENGINE ROOM.

At the beginning of this year a firm of supervising engineers were retained to reorganize the engine room of a certain hospital in this city. An examination of the fuel showed that the institution was getting but six million heat units for a dollar. Now they are getting ten million B. T. U. per dollar. The boilers were found to be scaled, and they were cleaned.

Steam traps were found leaking, thus blowing high-pressure steam to waste, as well as increasing the back pressure in the engines. The hot-water system was changed so that exhaust steam was used instead of live steam, which makes an important saving for a hospital. Three pumps were found to be constantly overworked, and also in bad condition. Besides repairing these, numerous water leaks were stopped, leaving less pumping to do.

The returns of hot-water and steam from the house-heating system were running directly into the river, wasting heat and water, also increasing the pumping, and hence, in turn, the final bill. The water system throughout the house was unreliable, and sometimes a pressure failed, owing to large leaks in the pipes. The piping in the engine-room showed many feet of useless pipe, yet it was not so connected that pumps could help out each other in case of fire or low water in the roof tanks, or in any other emergency. This was altered.

Impaired piping in the boiler-room was replaced, the fire-alarm system put in perfect order. Instead of coal at $4.10 a ton, low grade fuel at $2.25 per ton was substituted, and fewer tons are used daily than were used of the expensive coal in the past. The coal bill during March, April, May and June of last year for this hospital, which does not rank as a very large one, was $2,148.57, and the bill for the corresponding period this year was $1,144.10, a saving in four months of $1,004.47.

The cost of all repairs made during the six months that the supervision has been exercised has been less than the repair bill for the similar period last year, and the management has saved in the six months an amount equal to the cost of the improvements to the plant, plus the supervising engineers' fee, and has remaining a surplus of profit.

WHAT CONCRETE CONSTRUCTION COSTS.

With reference to the relative cost of reinforced concrete compared with structural steel construction, Mr. J. H. P. Perry told the Modern Science Club of Brooklyn that concrete can be put up at a saving of from 10 to 15 per cent., on the same plans. There are several actual cases, he said, which may be cited where bids have been received by the architects for a building which could be constructed either in steel or concrete, and in every instance, for industrial purposes at least, the concrete figure had come under the structural steel figure by from thirty to forty thousand dollars on a quarter of a million dollar and larger propositions. This was owing to the expensive fireproofing of every structural member—beams, columns, girders, brackets, etc., with terra cotta, brick or concrete. The steel skeleton can be run up cheaply, but before the building is completed its cost goes over concrete most appreciably. The vibration in a steel building was liable to cause occasional trouble and there was always the question of rust and depreciation.

With reinforced concrete structures, however, the steel used consisted of small sized bars or wire, all of which was fully protected by concrete. Baltimore and San Francisco had demonstrated beyond dispute the effectiveness of the concrete protection to steel under fire action. The Prussian government and numerous other investigators had made futile further discussion of the rusting possibilities of steel bars imbedded in concrete. Tests of blocks under water, in steam baths, in sulphur vapor, and under pressure proved the impermeability of concrete and its consequent prevention of rusting.

RUSSELL STURGIS' OPINION OF FIREPROOF CONSTRUCTION.

In some reminiscences of the late Russell Sturgis, his office associate in early years, Peter B. Wight, of Chicago, tells in the August Architectural Record of the attitude of Mr. Sturgis toward fireproof construction. The great critic saw the opportunities for a newer artistic expression in architectural design in the use of new materials, as an extract from the following letter written by Mr. Sturgis to Mr. Wight in 1902 will show:

"My own feeling about the matter is that the mere exclusion from buildings of all materials that will burn is really easier than the architects will admit. I think that it is only the unwillingness to adopt such novel principles of design as the really fireproof construction would involve that prevents the improvement needed. If you or I were to be left a free hand to build without wood, our building would look very different from the old wooden buildings; it would be none the worse in design, probably better, but it would look very odd. Well, you and I have never been so very much afraid of making things look odd. Sometimes good architectural art is only to be advanced in that way, namely, by somebody bold enough to be an innovator."

A COMING FIFTH AVENUE BUILDING.

Notable among the structural improvements coming on along 5th av, south of 23d st, is the new commercial building, to be known as the "Merchants' Exchange," and which is being constructed by the Merchants' Exchange Building Co., of which Henry Corn is president. The plot where the building will stand fronts 72 feet on 5th av and 175 feet in 17th st, being the southwest corner. The construction, of course, is to be fireproof throughout, including a system of sprinklers, and floors which will be of concrete. The exterior materials on the first three stories will be of limestone, with brick and terra cotta above. A special feature will be the main entrance hall, which will be very elaborate. Four passenger elevators and two freight elevators will be installed. The intention is to have the structure ready for occupancy by December, 1909. Messrs. Maynicke & Franke, 298 5th av, are the architects.

FOREST AREA OF THE SOUTH.—The South, with twenty-seven per cent. of the total area of the United States, contains about forty-two per cent. of the total forest area of the country. The forest area by States is as follows: Alabama, 20,000,000 acres; Arkansas, 24,200,000; Florida, 20,000,000; Georgia, 22,300,000; Kentucky, 10,000,000; Louisiana, 16,500,000; Maryland, 2,200,000; Mississippi, 17,500,000; North Carolina, 19,600,000; South Carolina, 12,000,000; Tennessee, 15,000,000; Texas, 30,000,000; Virginia, 14,000,000, and West Virginia, 9,100,000. The importance of forest conservation to southern interests is clearly understood by the people of the South. The future of the South is more nearly bound up in the plan of forest preservation, with its accompanying protection to watersheds, power-streams, and woodworking industries, than is anything now before the people of this part of the country. Not only is the protection of the watersheds, which will some day furnish the power to run all manufacturing establishments in the entire South, an important matter to the South, but the industries depending upon the forest products will also be benefited by the protection thrown about the remaining timbered area.

ELECTRICITY IN DEPARTMENT STORES.

A Wide Range of Application—The Unseen Force Which Performs More Services for Patrons Than They Realize—Recent Achievements of Illuminating Engineers.

By W. HARVEY KELLEY.

IT is safe to say that of the thousands of patrons entering any one of the large department stores but few appreciate the long forward strides which have been made by that salient power we call "electricity," and its beneficial effects upon department stores in particular. The brightly illuminated interior that has such a fascinating effect, the rushing cash carrier ever ready for immediate use, the escalating stairways that have made it possible to transport a much larger number of passengers in less time than the elevator system, and a hundred other ingenious inventions that have become essential to quick, clean service, all derive their facility from electricity.

One of the largest department stores in the city generates its own power, both for lighting and power. The power plant is located in the sub-basement and is a model of modern power plant design. It is equipped with four 400 K. W. Western Electric Company's generators, each direct driven by a 600 H. P. Corliss tandem compound engine; and two 200 K. W. Western Electric Company's generators, each direct driven by 325 H. P. high-speed Corliss compound engines. These generators, with a total capacity of 2,000 K. W., supply power for the entire electrical equipment at 110 volts over a 2-wire system. The large generators take care of the heavy day loads and the exterior lighting load at night. The smaller generators carry the Sunday load and the lighting load from 11 P. M. to about 5 A. M.

Upon entering the store, the patron is immediately struck with the beauty of the lighting effects. There are 1,400 direct current arc lights, 10,600 incandescent electric lamps, ranging from 16 to 32 candle power, and 1,700 candelabra show-case lamps throughout the building.

There are four escalating stairways, each driven by a 20-H. P. motor. These convey customers from the main floor up to the fifth. Here is a striking example of compactness and utility of small space for the electrical equipment. The motors driving these escalators are installed in traps below the surface of the floors, access to which is gained through a door level with the floor, which, when opened, makes it easy to get at all parts of the installation.

The attractiveness of these escalators is apparent from the number of patrons using them in preference to the 33 hydraulic elevators operated throughout the building. It is estimated that without these escalators the circulation of customers above the second floor would be considerably less. This is accounted for by the quick dispatch with which customers are handled. The long wait occasionally required for elevators and their crowded condition tends to discourage patrons from their use. This applies particularly to the rush seasons.

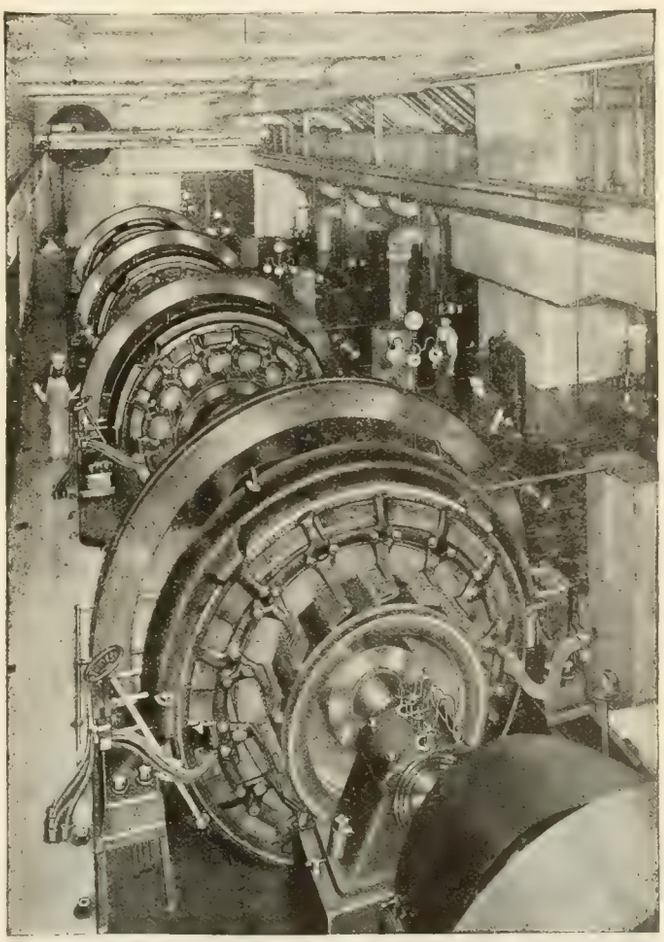
Most every shopper knows the convenience of the pneumatic tube system, as it is now a familiar store accessory, though it is not generally known that the compressed air for operating it is supplied by electrically driven blowers. These operate only when a carrier is placed in the tube and while it is in transit. This system has 300 stations throughout the building and is a marvel of ingenuity, for that which would take five minutes of a messenger's time is now accomplished in nearly as many seconds. There are three 30-H. P. motors operating this system.

THE VENTILATING SYSTEM.

The ventilation of the entire building is controlled by five blower fans and eight exhaust fans, which are operated by motors with an average capacity of 25 H. P. These fans being located to such excellent advantage, are enabled to keep the entire building at a fairly even temperature.

The telephone system is compact and thoroughly up-to-date. The switchboard is of the standard Western Electric Company's type, with trunk lines and 130 extension lines. In addition to this there is an intercommunicating telephone system for communication between the various departments. A tel-autograph system is also installed for use between certain departments and the stock-room.

This tel-autograph is one of the latest achievements of electrical science, and its uses in a store of this kind are many. Its value, however, in this establishment, is appreciated from the reserve stock-room end of the business, as it keeps an automatic check on the conditions of the stock-room, and through the transmission of the signature of the party ordering any goods, the stock keeper is enabled to know whether such party has proper authority to order.



Each of the eleven floors of the store offer interesting facts regarding electrical application. Space, however, will not permit going into each one separately, but a few installations on the various floors are worthy of special mention.

Among the more interesting features of this vast electrical equipment is a "booster" used for charging automobiles batteries. On the sixth floor is an upholstering establishment in which various machines are grouped on a line shaft, a 6-H. P. motor furnishing the power. The seventh floor is alloted to offices, which have the latest electrical time-saving devices, such as the intercommunicating telephone, adding machine, envelope addressers, openers and sealers, etc.

One of the largest restaurants in New York City is located on the eighth floor. It has a floor area of 46,080 square feet. All the electric contrivances (such as fan motors, call bells, etc.,) that aid in the comfort and convenience of patrons and quick, clear service, are embodied in this restaurant. Meals averaging 4,000 a day are served here. An attractive feature of this department is a fountain, 16x25 ft., in the centre of the room. This is very prettily banked on all sides with flowers, the centre piece being equipped with incandescent lights which produce a most beautiful effect.

ELECTRICITY IN THE KITCHEN.

The kitchen adjourning and run in connection with this restaurant is a striking illustration of what can be accomplished with electricity. Almost every operation in the preparation of a first-class meal, from the paring of the vegetables, and kneading of dough to the roasting of meats and the freezing of ice cream, is electrically performed. The table linen is cleaned, dishes are washed and knives scoured by the aid of electricity.

Electricity is also used as the motive power for mechanical conveyors, bottle washing and capping machinery, automatic fire alarm and the machinery used in the manufacturing departments of department stores, such as electro-plating, glass-cutting and cabinet making shops. There are altogether 107 motors in the building above referred to, ranging in capacity from 1/6 H. P. up to 90 H. P., exclusive of 50 extra fan motors operated during the summer months.

ELECTRIC LIGHT REFINEMENTS.

While every one of the items already mentioned has done much in its own particular field of usefulness, to advance the modern department store a step farther in the onward march of improvement, it is safe to say that nothing has received more attention or accomplished more than the subject of artificial lighting. The color of the light and the arrangement of the lamps are important considerations with the modern department-store management where upwards of one million articles of merchandise are displayed, involving in some degree almost every known process of manufacture. The color of these articles are entirely dependent upon the light by which they are seen. Objects that appear of a certain color by daylight might make a very different appearance by artificial light. Therefore, where the advantageous display of objects and the proper matching of colors are of so much importance, it is very essential that artificial light be as near daylight in quality as is possible.

This fact being fully realized has stimulated illuminating engineers to the best efforts, with the result that artificial lighting methods have been developed to a high standard of efficiency. An excellent illustration of this high efficiency, together with a vast amount of economy of power, is gained from the artificial lighting installation of the Boston Store in Chicago.

SALESROOM IN THE BOSTON STORE AT CHICAGO.
Showing combination of arc and incandescent lamp fixtures.

The electrical equipment of this store, like the Macy establishment, is entirely self-contained, and is another excellent example of successful application of electrical apparatus in the large department store. The generating equipment has been increased from time to time with the growth of the store, and at present consists of eight Western Electric Company's direct current generators of a combined capacity of 1,120 kilowatts, connected to Fleming engines. The current is generated at 125 volts pressure and distributed throughout the store by a 16-panel Western Electric switchboard of white Italian marble.

The store is lighted by 400 Western electric arc lamps, many of which are of the Hawthorn short arc lamp design, together with a large number of incandescents. The economy of power above referred to lies in the construction of these arc lamps. They are mounted in a very artistic fixture, having a large canopy, which conceals the binding posts at the top of the lamp. Each fixture has four arms, which are equipped with incandescent lamps. These lamps are connected to a separate circuit from the arc lamp circuit and the switch boxes are so arranged that at night, when the arc lamps are turned off, the incandescent lamps can be turned on, which will give sufficient light to the porters who clean the store at night. They can also be used with the arc lamps in case special lighting is desired.

From the foregoing, it is not difficult to see that the range of electrical application to the modern department store is wide indeed, and is as essential to its well keeping, as the breath of a new born babe is to its existence.

CEMENT IN SEWER WORK.—English engineers are complaining in their trade papers that Portland cement used for jointing sewer pipes causes the pipes to crack. Engineers and other practical men in England, as well as the text-books, invariably recommend Portland cement for this purpose, but in Ireland for the past twelve years architects and engineers have specified in all public and private works a hydraulic cement that is something like the old Roman cement in appearance and in composition. This cement is called Medina, and with it reliable joints can be made quickly and safely. Sand is not mixed with this cement and too much water spoils it. It is being said in London that it is nearly impossible to make a safe joint in sewer pipes with English Portland cement and guarantee it for any lengthened period, whatever brand is used. The joint may pass inspection and stand the water test for the time being; but if the ground is opened inside of twelve months and the pipes carefully examined and tested by the water test, a number of joints will be found leaking, even though the pipes are supported throughout on a concrete bed.

WHERE BUILDING MATERIALS ARE NEEDED

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS.—Plans have been drawn for new buildings to be erected at the locations given below; details as to cost of the new construction, the names and addresses of the architects and the owners are included in each item. This building news represents new construction, including alterations about to be commenced, in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, plans for the work having been filed this week in the Department of Buildings. The official plan number in each case is given at the end of each paragraph.

Building contractors and building material firms may be assured that the information herein given includes every building enterprise of every sort and description contemplated in the two boroughs. The news is absolutely complete, irrespective of cost, including both the highest and the lowest grade of operations. By carefully following the news printed in these columns weekly, contractors and building material firms can possess for their sales departments absolutely reliable and absolutely complete information as to new projects.

HOW TO USE PROFITABLY.—It is hardly necessary to do more than indicate the many ways in which this information may be used.

Architects, owners and contractors can be solicited personally for orders.

Trade literature can be distributed with the certainty of reaching its destination.

Buyers can be apprised of the values of materials and equipment.

Time should not be allowed to elapse in the prosecution of the work of salesmanship. Steps should be taken immediately to handle each case. Even orders not obtained in any single case frequently prepare the way for subsequent sales. Records should be kept of each of these "possibilities," and the results of work done tabulated. Figures will be thus obtained that will throw considerable light on the efficiency of sales methods in operation.

It will not be necessary for us to point out in detail how much information a well-informed building material firm or contractor can easily READ INTO THESE NEWS ITEMS, a constant repetition of which in our columns would only take up space without any equivalent advantages. For instance, the instructed reader does not need to be told what the average equipment would be for, let us say, a seven-story brick and stone loft building, 25x75, costing $35,000, to be built on East Broadway. Plainly an elevator is inevitable; steam heat is inevitable; fireproofing is quite problematic, considering the cost. Everyone can figure that lumber will go into such a building, and a certain amount of rough trim, plastering, window sashes, hardware, plumbing fixtures, etc., etc.

Moreover, it will be understood that as the information that we publish is of an early character, the details of construction and equipment are probably open to a good deal of discussion with the architect and the owner. Red brick might be substituted for white brick, limestone for terra cotta, or vice versa, one type of elevator for another type, and so on throughout all the elements of construction equipment and finish. These points will naturally be very closely followed by an aggressive sales department. Here is where salesmanship, the price and value of a firm's materials will count. THOUGHT AND AGGRESSIVENESS IN THE USE OF THIS INFORMATION THAT WE FURNISH WEEKLY WILL PRODUCE BUSINESS. Don't forget that the entire market for your goods in the two boroughs is here, placed under your eyes, not for reading, but for ACTION. Follow up the news!

Public School of Reinforced Concrete.

IRVINGTON, N. J.—There has just been completed, at Irvington, N. J., a reinforced concrete public school, at a cost, it is said, not exceeding the prices formerly paid for non-fireproof buildings. The construction is entirely of reinforced concrete, including the exterior walls, which are ornamented with Moravian tile panels. The roof is of slate, having copper flashings. The stairs, which are also of reinforced concrete, are equipped with safety treads to prevent slipping. The building contains on the first floor two large class rooms, principal's room and three sets of stairs leading to the second floor. The second floor has two large class rooms, teachers' room and library, and has been constructed so that future additions can be added from time to time as required. The basement contains, besides the boiler room, two large play courts and toilets. The floors of all toilet rooms are of mastic asphalt, and the floors of the play courts are of cement. All corridors and stair halls are of cement finish. The only wood floors in the building are in the class rooms, principal's and teachers' rooms. The heating is by a system of direct steam and ventilated by means of mechanical ventilation, introducing fresh air into the class rooms, at the same time removing the foul air. B. Allen, of Irvington, designed the plans, and the American Concrete-Steel Co., of Newark, erected the building.

Eugene S. Schoen, of 25 West 42d st, the architect, was in Poughkeepsie this week in company with Albert E. Schaaf, general manager of the American Fiat Automobile Company, of 1786 Broadway, Manhattan, to look over the site of the factory to be erected there from plans by Mr. Schoen. The company has secured a site, comprising nearly 30 acres of land, situated directly on the State Boulevard, which runs from New York to Albany. The plant will be about 500 ft. from the Hudson River, and in appreciation of the decision of the company to build at Poughkeepsie the city officials have given a private dock to the concern, the dock to become the perpetual property of the company. It was due to the fact that the American branch of the company has been unable for two years or so to secure a sufficient number of cars from the Fiat Works in Italy to meet the increasing demand that the American factory is to be built. The company will make one or two of its most popular models in this country, thus relieving the pressure under which the parent company is working in its Turin plant. (See also issue July 17.)

The Evolution of the Electric Elevator Machine.

As near as can be determined, the first direct application of electricity to elevator service was made in 1880, when Siemens and Halske installed an elevator in an exhibition at Mannheim. Instead of a stationary machine with cables to car and counterweight, as is the present practice, the motor was attached underneath the car and actuated pinions which ran in racks fastened to the guide posts.

In America, in 1887, Mr. Wm. Baxter, Jr., of Jersey City, designed and installed a direct-connected machine at Baltimore, Md., but it was not until 1889 that the first sucessful electric elevators were put into operation, when Otis Brothers & Co.

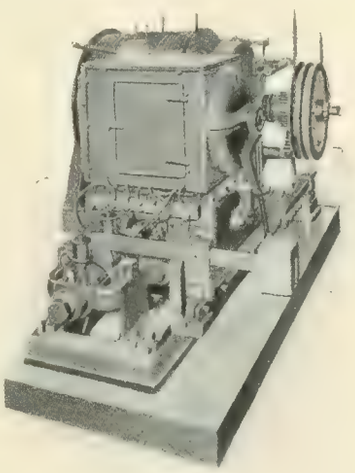

FIG. 1. FIRST OTIS ELECTRIC MACHINE.

installed two direct-connected worm gear machines in the building of A. T. Demarest, No. 335 5th av, New York City.

The motors and regulator boxes or controllers for these machines were purchased of Eickemeyer & Osterheld, being the invention of Mr. Rudolph Eickemeyer, designed primarily for street car work. These motors were selected as the most suitable out of many kinds considered, and time has proven that the choice was wisely made.

These first machines, and those built for a number of years after, were controlled by hand cable.

The illustration (Fig. 1) shows the Demarest machines, which are still in regular operation and giving good service and satisfaction. It will be noted that the brake pulley is very small, and that the brake mechanism consists of a single shoe, lever and weight.

Tying Bundles of Empty Cement Sacks.

"We receive, on an average, considerably over a million sacks a month," said a cement manufacturer. "It is not difficult to understand, therefore, that the manner in which returned sacks are bundled and shipped to us is one of considerable interest. Once in a while, in watching these returned sacks, we come across something that is new and interesting, and, as a case in point, might mention a new method of tying up bundles.

"In this shipment, the sacks had first been laid out flat in piles of 50 each. Then two ropes 40 ins. long had been passed under the pile, one about 8 ins. from each end, and a longer rope about 8½ ft. long had been laid lengthwise on top of the pile. The next step was to bring the two short ropes up over the pile of sacks and tie them tightly. This, as you will see, had the effect of rolling or doubling the sacks over the long rope. The bundle was then turned over, and the long rope brought around it, crossed in the middle of the bundle, then brought around the middle of the bundle and tied tightly.

"The result was a neat, compact bundle that could be easily carried but could not be broken open by any ordinary accident. By way of experiment we cut the long rope on one bundle, and one of the short ropes on another, but the bundle was still compact and firm, and it was still difficult to pull out any of the sacks. When we came to count the shipment, we found the full number of sacks that the customer claimed to have shipped. No sacks had been lost in transit from those bundles."

The Acme Metal Ceiling Co., of 2295 2d av, Manhattan, has opened branch offices and shops at 871 Flushing av, near Broadway, Brooklyn. The addition to this company's already extensive business was made necessary by increased orders from Kings County and because there was a need felt for bringing the company's products within convenient traveling distance of customers across the river. BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT

Material Market in Volcanic Tactics.

A tragedy upheaval disturbed the building material market this week. The embargo on cement prices was raised and went from $1.33 to $1.38, an increase of five cents. Brick tumbled from $5.75 and $6.25 to $5.25 and $5.75, a new low record for the year. Jerseys are quoted fifty cents around higher than Hudson Rivers. This, in itself is noteworthy. Southern pig iron advanced fifty cents around, for the second time within a month. Northern remained stationary, but it is liable to go upward at any time. Nearly every branch of the structural steel market reported an advance of from five to ten cents around, and the American Steel & Wire Company announced an increase in price of $2 per ton in steel wire products. Incidentally, the United States Steel Corporation, of which this and other companies supplying the building material market are subsidiaries, announced an advance in the next quarterly dividend of three per cent. a year instead of two. Lumber had a fluctuating market, but no changes in prices current. Stone prices stand. The expected advance in the price of slate was deferred. It was the most active week in the building material market that had been experienced since the late depression, when it was all the other way. This, with the exception of the fall in brick, is the reaction that the Record and Guide has been prophesying for three months.

Hudson River Brick Drops to $5.25.

Hudson River hard brick dropped on Wednesday from $5.75 and $6.25 to $5.25 and $5.75 per M, a decrease of fifty cents. This means a reduction of $2.25 and $2 from the quotation of May 8, and is seventy-five cents cheaper than prices current on June 12, immediately following the long wet spell which paralyzed brickmaking and building. The present tumble, which was reported on Wednesday, is due to the fact that steel mills and fabricators are somewhat behind in their shipments, thus holding up the bricklayers on office, loft and industrial buildings, apartment houses and public work. In the mean time the manufacturers have had good making weather, and in consequence the demand is below the supply. Conditions had been equalized during the last week or two when dealers loaded up their yards, which had been depleted, owing to the rush that followed the June cut. They are loaded now and hence the drop.

JERSEYS HAVE A GOOD MARKET.

Jerseys, on the other hand, have a good market, and are quoted higher than Hudson Rivers by fifty cents per M., an unusual condition. Those jobs that are taking Jersey brick are at Willett's Point, on Long Island Sound, where government work is under way, at Fort Totten, and at Ward's Island, at all of which places bricklaying is not dependent upon steel shipments, and in New Jersey, where most of the fabricating is done by local companies, thus insuring quick deliveries. The yards are working at about 80 per cent. of output and shipments are being regularly made.

SMITH YARDS AGAIN IN OPERATION

The Hudson Valley yards of T. H. & A. H. Smith, recently incapacitated when nearly half the racks in the yards collapsed one night recently, resumed operations this week. Repairs have been made and the company's output capacity has been increased greatly. The plant was handicapped for two weeks.

Cement Advances Five Cents.

Portland cement advanced five cents this week. The selling price is now $1.38 for cargo lots in cloth, N. Y. Since May 1 it has been $1.33. Word was 'phoned to the various agencies on Tuesday afternoon, and on Wednesday morning official circulars were received announcing the change. It is understood that they are devoid of explanation as to why the readjustment comes at this time. No official statement would be given out by John B. Wight, of the Alpha Co., secretary of the Licensees Association, when a Record and Guide man called upon him, and at the offices of the North American Portland Cement Company at 30 Broad st, equal silence was maintained.

ORIGINAL DROP WAS 20 CENTS.

On May 1 a circular was sent to members of the Association of Licensed Portland Cement Manufacturers, announcing that the price of Portland cement in the Eastern sales district would thereafter be $1.33, which was twenty cents lower than the then uniform selling price. A drop of 15 cents was also made in the prices quoted in Western states. Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia were declared to be "wide open." Their condition is said to be unchanged.

Secretary Wight, when the agreement was signed, gave out this statement:

"The manufacturers had a conference on certain existing conditions and decided for purely commercial reasons to make a drop in the price of Portland cement so that all the licensees could stand on the same platform, as to sales, conditions, etc. The prospects are that as soon as all the business interests represented in the Association are straightened out, the demand will increase and that prices will advance to their normal position, and may even go higher."

It was then stated that the life of this supplementary agreement would expire on January 1, 1911, and was made a part of the agreement of January 18, 1909. It was, however, generally believed that the readjustment would come on or about July 1. At that time a member of the association said, in explaining the failure of the association to revise the price list, that "The object for which the agreement was drawn up has been attained and only one interest remains to be placated."

Since that time numerous meetings have been held, but no readjustment came until on Tuesday, when, at noon, a compromise was reached, when, instead of placing the price back to $1.53 it was advanced to only $1.38.

The feeling is general among the cement interests that this break in price will be followed very soon by further advances. When the big drop was made the mills had a great reserve supply on hand. Today mill stocks have been greatly reduced as a result of the tremendous volume of business that has been done since the price was lowered. But this business was not all profitable. The shading of profits was very narrow and in some cases profit taking was eliminated altogether. In this the little companies suffered most,, and it is generally believed that it was the little fellows who finally insisted upon some alleviation of conditions that have been facing them for the last two months, and thus brought about the temporary compromise.

DELAYED DYCKERHOFF PORTLAND ARRIVES.

Owing to repairs that have been going on at the Dyckerhoff Portland cement mills at Amoneburg, near Biebrich, on Rhein, Germany, shipments to this port have been delayed. During the week, however, the local office received 500 400-lb. bbls. on the Str. Zeeland, of the Red Star Line, from Antwerp. It was the first consignment that had been received here for several weeks. Other larger consignments are on the way, and hereafter the company expects to ship regularly 500 bbls. a week. Heretofore the shipments have been 500 every other week.

Mr. E. Thiele, the local representative of the Dyckerhoff Portland Cement Company in this city, went abroad several weeks ago to visit the new stamping mills that will increase the output of the company to 2,000,000 bbls. a year. The addition was placed in service about July 1, and the new shipments will contain some of the material made by the new, up-to-date machinery. This company's plant is now said to be the best equipped of any on the continent.

Sharp Advance in Southern Pig Iron.

Following an advance of fifty cents announced scarcely a month ago, Southern pig iron moved up fifty cents in No. 1 foundry, steamship dock, N. Y.; No. 2 foundry spot and in No. 3 foundry, early in the week. Northern No. 1 X Jersey City, remains stationary at $17.00 and $17.25; also No. 2 X foundry, Jersey City, and $16.50 and $16.75 No. 2 plain. Some Southern companies, like the Republic Iron and Steel, advanced their prices $1. The latter company has been practically sold up in pig iron for a month.

Northern is liable to go up too. When the jump comes it may be as high as fifty cents. Pennsylvania and Buffalo have both gone forward.

The Southern price probably will remain firm until October first. Inquiries on Northern continue good and of some size. In many cases large sales have resulted. One was for 4,000 tons. These are for deliveries up to the last of the year, but those reaching over into the first quarter of 1910 are made subject to an advance of from 50 cents to $1.50 over present prices. Pennsylvania furnaces have no stocks on hand. They are sold up to output. Buffalos are shipping on time and they report some stock on hand.

STRUCTURAL IN ASCENDENCY.

But pig iron was not the only item in the metal market that moved upward. Nearly every branch of the structural department reported advances of from five to ten cents. Angles, tees, zees, beams and channels moved up five cents; round and square iron were quoted ten cents higher, machinery steel iron finish base, added ten cents, as did soft steel bars in base or ordinary sizes. Soft steel sheets ¼-in. and heavier, 3-16 and No. 8 also took on ten cents. Blue annealed, Nos. 8, 10, 12, 14 and 16 were quoted at ten cents over preceding quotations.

PRICES NOT EXPECTED TO GO HIGHER NOW.

The advance has been looked for some time and was due to a readjustment of conditions pending the reestablishment of the iron and steel business upon an even footing following the effects of the late depression. It is a natural consequence of increasing orders. The mills found that they had booked to capacity and they are now busy working this off. It is said that no change is liable to occur until after September 1, but one thing is positive, and that is: PRICES WILL NOT GO LOWER. The day of the low price of building commodities is over, and, save in the single exception of Portland cement, upward prices may be looked forward to in all branches of the building supply business.

ADVANCE IS NOT RADICAL.

The advance reported above is not so radical as would appear from first glance. It is merely a movement toward the old figures that maintained before the Steel Corporation declared an open market in March. The tendency is unmistakably in the direction of that condition and, jobbers who realize that, are getting in large stocks in advance.

SHEET METAL BUSINESS IMPROVING DAILY.

Conditions are daily improving in the sheet metal market. There is a better undertone. One indication of this is shown in the fact that one big company that usually receives a carload a day from the American Sheet and Tin Plate Company, has been unable to receive its usual supply due to the fact that the mills are behind in shipments and has been ordering through a well-known jobbing house. This is the only way that this type of concern can get its supplies because the jobber carries a big stock and can make immediate shipments. Instances like this merely show that conditions in the trade are improving.

AMERICAN WIRE PRODUCTS PUT UP.

At the office of the American Steel & Wire Co., 30 Church st, verification was obtained of the circular sent out to agents under date of July 24 announcing an increase of $2 a ton in the price of steel wire products. The circular was received on Monday, and took effect immediately. This includes the company's mesh concrete reinforcement. The price of steel wire products was reduced on May 1 last. It was denied at the company's offices that that price was to have remained in force until Jan. 1. The price probably will stand until Oct. 1. It is understood that it will not cover long deliveries.

SOME BIG CONTRACTS PLACED.

The principal fabricated structural order placed here during the last ten days was for the Vanderbilt Hotel at 4th av and 34th st, 4,600 tons. It went to Post & McCord. The American Bridge Co. will supply the material. Another was for 800 tons for a manufacturing plant for the Horton Ice Cream Co. in West 24th st, which went to A. E. Norton. Competition for fabricating work is still keen and ruling prices are low except on select work. The principal steel orders in the mills continue to be for railroads. The Receivers for Milliken Brothers, Inc., are working the plant to capacity to make deliveries on the Gimbel Brothers store contract, which requires 2,500 tons. The first deliveries must be made before Sept. 1.

Lumber Finds Fluctuating Market.

A continued demand for long-leaf yellow pine is reported from the leading wholesale lumber men with a decided improvement in the sale of spruce. For some unexplained reason there was a noticeable demand for two-inch pine planking for concrete mould making, due probably to increased numbers of concrete jobs, the lumber yard being today about the best thermometer of the amount of concrete work in progress. This may be due to the fact that possible interference with that kind of construction from the direction of the building code has been removed and contracts that have been held up for some time have received the word to go ahead. In all other branches of the lumber market business was fluctuating and no conspicuous orders were taken.

Stone Market Slowly Recovering.

Gradual improvement is noted in the stone market, although transactions are still not so numerous nor so important as they had been hoped for. Prices remain steady and the inquiry is fair, but orders do not seem to materialize. Buff limestone seems to have had the ascendency in the market during the last few weeks, but this is considered a coincidence rather than an indication of any well-defined tendency.

The John R. Smith's Sons Co. got the contract for supplying 10,000 cu. ft. of Bedford buff limestone for the Dodd-Mead building in 4th av, and the New Jersey Stone Construction Co. closed for all the stonework, including four monoliths (each 14 ft. 7 ins. high and 3 ft. thick) for the Merchants Union National Bank at Union Hill, N. J. Bradley & Sons, of Long Island City, also closed a number of important contracts.

The promised advance in the price of slate did not materialize, but it is thought that it will come within the next two weeks.

A Model Fabricating Plant.

Engineers and builders who have visited the recently completed shops and office extensions of the George A. Just Company, engineers and contractors, at 239 Vernon av, Long Island City, have expressed praise and approval of the compactness and general utility of the establishment. Situated within walking distance of the new Blackwell's Island Bridge, and almost at the door of the Belmont tubes, this company has modernized its equipment to meet the progressive tendency of the neighborhood and the constant increase in business.

The company makes a specialty of structural work for buildings and handles mainly metropolitan district contracts, although the company recently completed the second half of the Smallman & Ingram department store in London, Ontario, Canada, one of the largest buildings of its kind in the Dominion. Other work that this company has in hand is the completion of an addition to the bottling establishment of the Jacob Ruppert brewery, 90th st and 3d av, and an extension to the machine house to accommodate new and larger refrigerating machinery.

NEW FABRICATING SHOP IN THE GEO. A. JUST IRON WORKS.
239 Vernon Avenue, L. I. City.

The George A. Just Company is supplying steel for the addition to the George Ehret brewery, at 92d st, near 3d av, for which Julius Kastner & Dell are the architects. Other work now on hand is the factory building for Chas. Roos, coppersmith, at 429 East 91st st; the 6-sty addition to the North River Insurance Building, 93-95-97 William st, for which Frank H. Quinby is architect; Kent Hall at Columbia University, for which McKim, Mead & White are architects; and alterations to the brewery of William A. Miles Company, at Cherry and Scammel sts, this city. For the last-named improvement C. F. Hettinger & Co., of Boston, are architects.

Also, an extension to the varnish plant of E. Calman & Co.; an extension to the plant of the National Varnish Company; the supplying of steel work for the Wellesbourne apartments at 140 East 56th st, Manhattan, for which Lawlor & Haase are the architects; a refrigerating building for the Ebling Brewing Company, in the Bronx; and a 202x82-ft. 4-sty candlehouse for the Standard Oil Company in Long Island City are contracts which have kept this company busy in the last few months, and probably will continue to keep the shops busy during the entire Fall.

The shop that is shown in the accompanying illustration has only recently been completed. It is 75 ft. by 100 ft. and is equipped with electrically driven machinery for rapid and thorough fabrication of material.

The office is equipped with every convenience for the engineers, draftsmen and officials. The walls of the office building are concrete without furring, which, according to Mr. Just, president, answers the requirements thoroughly.

With this new equipment, this company is in a position to handle any size fabricating contract with dispatch, and, because of its central location at tidewater, it can make quick deliveries to any point in the Greater City.

A Fight Against Jersey Quicksand.

A most interesting fight against quicksand has been going on at Rutherford, N. J., where the town has been laying a new sewer system. After one company gave up the struggle the Union Building & Construction Co., of Passaic, N. J., took the contract, and with the aid of E. George & Co., of 28 South st, is successfully carrying the work on to completion, despite unusual adverse conditions. When the other company defaulted on its contract, the town readvertised the contract and relet it to the Passaic concern.

Excavations from ten to eighteen feet deep were laid along various streets and the work of laying cast-iron pipe progressed rapidly until about three months ago, when excavations were made in Railroad av. Then trouble was encountered in almost unprecedented magnitude. In digging to a depth of fifteen feet a layer of sand was first encountered. Then came in stratas of about a foot each, clay, black swamp muck and gravel. Then a sort of underground river of quicksand was encountered. E. George & Co. used one of their huge pumps at first, but later put two more to work, and for three months, night and day, each one of these suction engines have been taking out ten truckloads a day. The chief trouble was encountered in getting a pump that could draw up clay, sand and muck, ladened with decayed vegetable matter without becoming choked, and this company's pumps seemed to be the only available portable ones that could satisfactorily handle the combined material.

In laying the pipe a novel procedure was adopted. When the last ranger was placed in the 15 to 18-foot trench a board flooring of 2-inch pine was laid as a pipe rest and around the whole concrete was grouted. Inasmuch as the pipe flooring and concrete will always be under water, a permanent construction was thus effected. This sand, not being coarse enough for use in building purposes was used in filling in other parts of the trench as the work progressed. There is little prospect of the work being finished before late in the Fall.

The firm of E. George & Co. ever since it was founded in 1873 has been in business in South st, and while primarily it handles all kinds of ship pumps and other appliances, it has in recent years made a specialty of renting out portable gasolene pumps by the hour, day or week. Besides having some pumps at work for List & Rhodes, contractors, at one of their operations in 26th st, between 6th av and Broadway, it has some at Jersey City and Garfield, N. J. The company has an apparatus so simple in its working features that an unskilled laborer can handle it, the company making all repairs. In the latter particular the company by its fine organization is enabled to remedy accidents to its mechanism in remarkably short time, thus saving contractors large sums in emergencies.

Enameled Brick for Light Shafts.

Discussing with Andrew A. Ayres, of the front brick firm of Carter, Black & Ayres, No. 1 Madison av, the other day, the increasing use of enameled brick for light wells in apartment houses of the better grade, the fact was noted that considerably more of that kind of brick is being used for that purpose to-day than heretofore. Asked if that type of brick would be the principal one used for such purposes in the future, he said:

"No, I will not say that, exactly. You see the question of cost enters into the balance as to whether enameled or some light, smooth surfaced brick is to be used. But this I will say, that in high-grade apartment house operations, where they are run up to great heights, or where they are closely shut in or have a north exposure where high walls of adjoining buildings shut out a large portion of sunlight during certain portions of the day, a constantly increasing amount of white enameled brick will be used for that purpose, especially since greater permanent sanitary qualities are claimed for it."

Conspicuous among the new apartment houses now going up where enameled brick is being used for light shafts, is that being erected by Paterno Bros., the speculative builders, at 116th st, Claremont av and Riverside drive. For this operation, the architect for which is Schwartz & Gross, Carter, Black & Ayres will supply 325,000, as distributing agents for the American Enameled Brick and Tile Co., for which the former company is local representative. Another of the many deliveries of white enameled brick for use in light shafts is to the Cathedral Construction Co. for an apartment house at 110th st and Riverside drive for which 300,000 will be used.

This company is making deliveries of 800,000 Harvards for M. Reid & Co., general contractors for the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, and has just finished making deliveries of 400,000 buffs for DeSaulles & Gillespie, owners and contractors of the Nassau Hotel at Long Beach, for which Lewis R. Kaufman was architect. About 400,000 of this company's buffs were used in the recently completed Coney Island Hospital, for which Richard Hemmingham was the contractor and Helme & Huberty were the architects.

A new contract just closed by this firm calls for 250,000 Harvards and 60,000 enameled brick for the new power-house to be erected by the P. J. Carlin Construction Co., from plans by McKim, Meade & White, at Bellevue Hospital.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

The Record and Guide is regularly publishing for property owners and others information relative to the opening of streets, regulating and grading, curbing and flagging of same, as well as the construction of sewers, permanent and temporary.

The reader will understand that municipal improvements of this order are assessed against the owners of property, both improved and unimproved, situated within the district directly benefited. For example a given street is going to be paved. In all likelihood not only will the property be assessed that faces on the street directly in front of where the work is going to be done, but also property will be assessed in adjoining streets and thoroughfares which might receive the benefit of such improvement.

That the various stages of carrying through these proceedings may be followed with intelligence by the property owner they have been divided into three classes:

1. Public Works.
2. Condemnation Proceedings.
3. Assessments.

1. Under the heading "Public Works" will be printed petitions asking that improvements may be made, and the successive initiatory proceedings, including mention of the probable district that will have to bear the assessment.

Under the second heading will follow the announcement of the application for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment, later followed by their various reports and findings. Fuller explanation of the foregoing will be found as the reader proceeds.

Under the third and final heading will follow the details relating to the confirmation and the entry of assessments with a statement of the time within which they may be paid, without incurring penalty for arrears. In other words, if payment be not made within a given time, an interest charge, upon the amount due is exacted by the city, which must be paid by the owner of the property.

PUBLIC WORKS.

To specifically illustrate the successive steps in a proceeding for a public improvement, let it be assumed that a new street is required in some section of any of the five boroughs comprising the city of New York. A movement of this kind is usually started and agitated by some property owner, an association of property owners or perhaps considered by a board of trade. A petition is presented to a regularly established local board, whose function is to give the proceeding the first or initial official hearing and if deemed advisable by that body, recommendation for its adoption is made to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This latter body meets nearly every Friday morning at 10.30 o'clock in their room in the City Hall and has jurisdiction over all public improvements.

If the board approves of the petition the area of assessment (that is to say boundary lines are fixed, and all property owners who have holdings therein are assessed in proportion to the amount of their real estate contained within these bounds) except where physical betterments are concerned, such as regulating, grading and curbing streets, laying sewers and flagging sidewalks as well as fencing vacant lots, in which case the Board of Assessors determine the area of assessment and the assessments for benefit. Motion is then made by the Corporation Counsel for the appointment of commissioners to condemn.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

The next step is the appointment by the Supreme Court of three Commissioners of Appraisal, of which one is designated as a Commissioner of Assessment. The commission hears all objections made by property owners as to title and value. When every one has had a hearing preliminary reports are prepared by the commission containing the amount of awards and assessments which in its opinion the various owners are entitled to. These reports are subsequently filed for examination and objections by property owners or parties in interest who may be dissatisfied with the findings of the commission.

Public hearings are then in order, and objecting parties are given an opportunity to register their disapproval of the findings. The commission then prepares and files a copy of its final report in the County Clerk's office followed by the presentation of its report to the Supreme Court for confirmation.

ASSESSMENTS.

The report of the Commissioners as approved is then transmitted to the Comptroller for the payment of awards and the collection of assessments, who in turn publishes the date of confirmation or when the assessment should be paid and entry of the assessment in the "Record of Titles of Assessments." A statement is made giving the time within which such assessment can be paid, without a penalty. If an assessment is not paid within 60 days after the date of entry, it is subject to an interest change at the rate of 7 per cent. a year.

LAW DEPARTMENT

"DISPOSSESS" PROCEEDINGS.

As intimated by us at the time of review of the Appellate Division decision letting in again the question of sufficient steam heat as a defense to a "dispossess" proceeding brought for the non-payment of rent, the courts were once more bound to be flooded with this line of defense. No one who owes money—cash—is without some definite and plausible form of excuse why he should not be forced to pay it. We doubt greatly if the law "merchant" so called had not long ago from very necessity been settled as to the impossibility of letting in defenses to the collection of notes and other negotiable paper in current use and standing, that every failed note sought to be collected (and many others) would be defended against.

Similarly in summary proceedings a definite requirement, that of paying rent, if allowed to be the subject of every possible defense the tenant can conjure up can shortly be almost entirely defeated. If a land owner could defend against his taxes and a following tax lien if not tax sale, are there courts enough to try the defenses there would be put in?

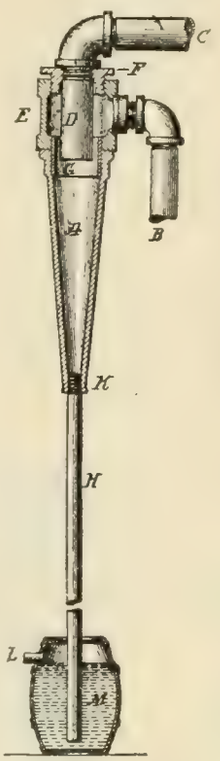
It has long been a principle of court decisions, though not of theory, that where delay may mean entire loss of the claim on the one side as against only delay or duplication of litigation (the latter of which the law abhors) on the other, that a sharp, quick remedy will be granted temporarily, leaving the later fuller question for ultimate decision. On this principle have been hung attachments, injunctions and summary proceedings for the non-payment of rent. If now to be once more opened, in the case of the last named, to equity on the other side, that can be thought up on the part of tenant or bright attorney, one year leases will not be long enough to see the end of the defenses to rent paying, that the first "cold snap" of every autumn will place in the quiver of a dilatory or disgruntled tenant.

In the case before us, and our present text, the defenses were lack of sufficient heat, poor hot-water supply, and defective plumbing. There was little left to add, but poor quality of gas!

The result following was that rent due in January stood unpaid—and all succeeding months—in July following, and the matter was then remitted by an Appellate term of the Supreme Court to a new trial, the end of which who shall predict to be within the probable termination of the lease year.

We have yet in law to learn to require that defenses tending toward delay and loss of time (which, in truth, as well as common saying, often means money) should be justified by a deposit of money to prove good faith—as also to stand by the old adage that two wrongs do not always make a right.

COMMISSION FOR SELLING LEASES.



To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Won't you let us know through your columns, what the regular charge is for selling leases. We do not mean lease-holds, but leases. A SUBSCRIBER.

Answer.—The members of the Board of Brokers of New York charge 5 per cent. for selling leases.—Editor.

A CLEANER MADE OF PIPING.

According to the opinion of a prominent West Side house agent vacuum cleaning installations have already been found to be a considerable aid when selling dwelling property. The chief drawback to the more general use of cleaners of this type has been the expense. Besides, the ordinary plant requires the operation of the gasoline or electric motor and vacuum pump. In place of the usual paraphernalia employed a substitute was lately suggested by a correspondent in the Scientific American which is designed to operate in the same way as the barometric condenser, using in this case the city water supply or a supply from a tank. It is the idea that such an apparatus could be hung at the rear of a dwelling, since it would take up no more room than required by a leader pipe.

APPARATUS.

The illustration will show the arrangement of the apparatus. A is an ordinary hose nozzle 12 ins. long, with thread for 3-in. iron pipe on large end and tapped for ½-in. pipe on smaller end. By means of the nipple G it is connected to a 3x¾ in. tee, which is bushed on the opposite end to 1 in. This bushing has a 1-in. pipe, D, extending from the inside and ending as shown in the cut, just inside of nozzle. The other end of D protrudes through the bushing F, and is then run as afterward described. The smaller end of the nozzle carries a ½-in. pipe, H, which forms the down leg of the ejector. The apparatus is placed so that the point K is at least 34 ft. above the cellar, forming the barometric column. The pipe B is connected with the water supply, with a conveniently situated valve to regulate the flow.

The pipe H is carried down to a seal pot, M, situated in the cellar. This can be made of a barrel with an overflow to sewer, as shown at L. The pipe C is carried to a vacuum reservoir, which can be situated either in cellar or attic, preferably the latter, as it means a saving in piping and less joints to provide chance of leaks. This pipe is connected to top of reservoir, and the service pipe to the various rooms also comes from the upper end, but extends to within 12 ins. of the bottom.

The service pipe has a connection for rubber hose, with valve at each floor. In order to obtain the required vacuum, all that is necessary is to turn on the water in the pipe B, when the descending column in H causes a partial vacuum in the reservoir and in the service pipes. Care must be taken that all joints are made perfectly airtight in service pipes and in C. The reservoir must also be airtight. It can be made of a kitchen boiler with a small hand hole cut in the bottom to remove dust which collects within.

GOOD PLUMBING PAYS.

If the average property owner will only take time to consider the question he cannot do other than admit that the plumbing outfit of the ordinary dwelling or flat is, after all, the most difficult to maintain in proper sanitary condition and repair. This will become all the more apparent if the person interested will but examine his pile of repair bills for cleaning out traps, installing new supply pipes, closets, basins and innumerable small parts so important to the successful operation of the plant. It is no broad statement to assert that not infrequently the cost for replacements and labor in such cases exceeds the maintenance charge of other equipment.

Usually the tenant is blamed for such a state of affairs, although in many instances the real fault may be traced to defective installation and the employment of light materials, which are unfit to properly withstand the wear and tear caused by the elements. It has often been pointed out that the method of conveying water through a building is a simple problem, requiring no especial ability on the part of the mechanic, while, on the other hand, the disposal of excrement without unnecessary odor or the violation of established plumbing regulations is an entirely different matter.

Providing the rough work has been installed in a proper manner, and heavy material is used, little trouble is likely to follow; but often an error is committed in finishing with seconds, or an inferior grade of materials, such as thin traps, pitted closets and basins or other weak or damaged parts. Under such circumstances there is but one sensible thing to do, and that is to rip them out and have the job done right and by an experienced plumber. If the building affected is an apartment the expense of a proceeding of this kind will doubtless foot up into the hundreds, although the saving in the end will justify the outlay.

HISTORY OF TENEMENT HOUSE LEGISLATION.

By ADOLPH BLOCH.

ON April 4, 1900, the Legislature passed Chapter 279 of the Laws of 1900, appointing a committee to examine into the tenement house question in cities of the first-class and to report to the next Legislature a code of tenement house laws. It was made the duty of the commission "to make a careful examination into the tenement houses in cities of the first-class; their condition as to construction, healthfulness, safety, rentals and the effect of tenement house life on the health, education, savings and morals of those who live in tenement houses, and all other conditions of the so-called tenement house question in these cities that can affect the public welfare." The commission was directed to make a full report of its work with "such recommendations as it deems wise, to enable the best and highest condition in said tenement house life in said cities to be attained."

ADOLPH BLOCH.

The Commission was appointed on April 16, 1900, by Governor Roosevelt and organized on April 20. Mr. Robert W. de Forest was elected Chairman of the Commission, Mr. Lawrence Veiller was appointed Secretary, and at a later date Mr. Edward B. Whitney was appointed Counsel to the Commission.

On February 18, 1901, the Commission submitted its report to Governor Odell, who, on February 25, 1901, transmitted it to the Legislature with the following recommendations:

"This report is commended to your careful consideration with the hope and in the belief that it will receive at your hands the attention which its importance warrants. If the proposed recommendations, after careful scrutiny, shall meet with your approval, they should be speedily enacted into law."

BILL SPEEDILY PASSED.

That the Legislature carried out the recommendation of the Governor to speedily pass a bill which contained the Code of Tenement House Laws proposed by the Commission is evidenced by the fact that on April 12, 1901, the Tenement House Law became the law of the State of New York by the approval of the Governor. In other words, in a period of less than a month and a half, the law which revolutionized the whole tenement house situation in New York, which affected every house occuupied by three or more families, numbering upwards of about 82,000 houses, and which contained all the minute details and specifications required in houses to be thereafter constructed, had passed all the preliminary stages required for the enactment of law: the printing of the proposed bill, introduction of the same in the Senate and Assembly, the reference to the Committee on Affairs of Cities in both Houses, deliberation and reports of these Committees, the three readings and final passage of the bill by both Houses, its consideration by the Governor and his final approval. It is all the more remarkable, when it is considered that the report of the Commission was, perhaps, one of the most comprehensive documents ever presented for the consideration of any Governor or Legislature. The general report alone comprised 190 pages, and annexed thereto were no less than twenty-six separate printed reports on every conceivable subject that related to the general question of tenement house legislation, including the "History of Tenement House Legislation in New York from 1852 to 1900," a volume in itself of 195 pages, "Housing Conditions and Tenement House Laws in Leading American Cities," "Tenement House Fires, A Statistical Study of New York's Tenement Houses," "Parks and Playgrounds in Tenement Districts," and many other kindred subjects.

The law itself as drafted by the Commission contained 165 sections exclusive of those which amended the Greater New York Charter creating the Tenement House Department.

RAILROADED THROUGH LEGISLATURE.

It is my personal opinion that not a single member of the Legislature ever read the report, much less considered with care the recommendations of the Commission. It was railroaded through the Legislature. No opportunity was given for a public hearing by the Cities Committee, nor indeed could any be given, because the Legislature was shortly to adjourn, hearings were practically suspended and the Committee of Rules of the Assembly was about to take charge of all pending legislation. The law came unannounced and unheralded upon an unsuspecting real estate public like a thunderbolt from a clear sky. When its provisions became generally understood, it was realized that if enforced they would, in many instances, result in disastrous losses to vested property interests. There was probably not a single house in the city occupied by three or more families which was not seriously effected by one or more of its provisions. The law, drastic in its effect, was mandatory and permitted of the exercise of no discretion whatever on the part of the officials who were to enforce it. It applied not only to the rookeries and unsanitary tenements which are properly the subject of legislative inquiry and enactment, but as well to thousands of houses which are properly and honestly constructed in accordance with all the laws that existed at the time of construction, and were respectably maintained and occupied. Thousands of owners who had invested the accumulated savings of a lifetime suddenly realized that the alterations required by the law would entail expenditures which equaled, in many cases, exceeded their equities.

ACTUATED BY HIGHEST IDEALS.

There can be no question from the character of the men that constituted the Commission that their motives were sincere, and they devoted their best thought and efforts to secure the enactment of a law which would remedy the exceedingly bad conditions that existed at the time. They were actuated by the highest ideals, but after giving to them all the credit which they deserved as public spirited men, who, without compensation, gave their valuable time and sacrificed private interests for the public good, nevertheless, the fact remains that the Tenement House Law as originally enacted did grievous injury to a large body of our citizens who had, through industry, frugality and foresight, invested their savings in real estate, believing that they could depend upon a fair return therefrom in their declining years. The legislative procedure which made possible the passage of this important law in less than six weeks, in itself, is a commentary upon our system of legislation, probably without a parallel in the civilized nations of the globe. A measure which involves such immense interests, and which had at stake the very fortunes of thousands of people, should have, as a matter of pure fairness and justice, been submitted to the people for consideration and ample time— a year, if need be—afforded to bring out all possible reasonable objections to the same. That this law was far from perfect became apparent immediately upon its passage, for a few days later, on April 25, 1901, an amendment was passed providing that buildings then in process of erection, plans for which had been filed on or before April 10, 1901, and commenced in good faith on June 1, with the first tier of beams laid before August 1, 1901, shall not be deemed applicable to the provisions of the law. That real estate owners' associations quickly sprung into existence is little to be wondered at, and that they got busy with the Legislature and courts might well have been expected. It was found, for instance, that certain forms of sanitary appliances which had been authorized by the Board of Health and largely installed in tenement houses had to be abolished within two years, and other appliances concerning whose practicability there was considerable doubt substituted at an expense that ranged from $750 to $3,000. An action was immediately instituted to test the constitutionality of that requirement of the law by the United Real Estate Owners' Associaion. The case of the Tenement House Department vs. Moeschen, has now become a leading authority in our jurisprudence. Originally tried in the Municipal Court it was successively appealed to the Appellate Term of the Supreme Court, Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, the State Court of Appeals, and finally to the Supreme Court of the United States. Although constitutionality of the law was upheld, its provisions, received severe judicial criticism. The value of this litigation cannot be underestimated. It stands as a monument to our Association and demonstrates to the municipal authorities that the rights of real estate owners will be defended by a strong and powerful organization to the very last ditch, if need be.

LAW WORKED HARDSHIP.

The provisions of the law which worked serious hardship upon owners are too numerous to mention here. The law, in its application and enforcement went a great deal further than was ever actually intended by the original framers. It was discovered that expensive alterations and changes were required that had no compensatory advantage, either to the owner or to the occupant. Many amendments have since been passed and the law has been changed in a great many respests, too numerous to be discussed in the space allotted for this article, and only very brief reference thereto can be made. As a result of conferences with Commissioner de Forest and Deputy Commissioner Veiller, the Stranahan-Kelsey bill was introduced in 1902. This bill amended some forty-eight sections of the Tenement House Act, and constituted Chapter 352 of the laws of 1902. The following year (1903), the Marshall bill (Chapter 179) was passed, which contained seventy-two sections amending the law. The law was subsequently changed in important respects at nearly every session of the Legislature since, namely: in 1904, by Chapter 346; the same year, by Chapter 739; in 1905, by Chapter 507; 1906, by Chapter 148; 1907, by Chapter 622, and also by Chapter 631; 1908, by Chapter 250. At the last session of the Legislature the New York Consolidated Laws were passed and the provisions of the Tenement House Law constituted Chapter 61, of said laws. It remained, however, until a few weeks ago, that the law was amended in such a way as to meet the entire approval of all persons, officials and others interested in the enforcement of the law.—the original framers, members of the Tenement House Commission, the Tenement House Committee of the Charity Organization Society, the Tenement House Commissioner and the United Real Estate Owners' Association of the City of New York, which represented upwards of 5,000 owners of the better class of tenements as well as the general real estate interests throughout the city. This happy result was brought about by a series of conferences which were attended by Mr. Lawrence Veiller, the Director of the Tenement House Committee of the Charity Organization Society and former Deputy Commissioner, Mr. Edmond J. Butler, the Tenement House Commissioner and a special committees of our associations. I take the greatest pleasure in making public acknowledgment of our sincere gratitude to Mr. Veiller for his valuable assistance, for without it I am frank to say that there would have been little likelihood of securing the relief we now have. There is no man in the City of New York more familiar with tenement house conditions, the law and its enforcement, than he. When the unnecessary hardships of the law were brought to his attention he readily assented to the plan of participating in these conferences to consider the law and the manner of its enforcement, section by section. We held conferences almost weekly for a period of about a year, at which objections and criticisms of the law were freely made and considered, with the result that the amendments now enacted were drawn and a proper bill introduced in the Senate by Senator Grady, and in the Assembly by Mr. Beverly Robinson, which is now known as Chapter 354 of the laws of 1909.

EXACTING COMMISSIONS ON BILLS PAID.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I am informed by some owners that they have discovered that agents employed by them have exacted ten per cent. from the payees upon all bills for running expenses of the property in their charge, and that this percentage was retained by the agents without the knowledge or consent of their employers. I am also informed that this practice is general in this city, and that agents claiming to be honest and reliable do not usually place orders for work and labor on property in their care unless it is agreed beforehand that they shall be paid ten per cent. upon each bill, so that when a bill for $100 for supplies or work is rendered to the agent, he pays only $90 on it and retains the remaining $10 and puts the bill in his accounts as a payment of $100 against the owner, and deducts same as well as his commission for collecting the rents. I have made some investigations recently on my own account and I find that the above is true. I find that in many instances carpenters, plumbers, painters, coal men and others are afraid to refuse or disallow these percentages or of complaining to the owner, fearing to lose the custom of the agents. This is a state of things that it seems to me calls for strong action on the part of the Real Estate Board of Brokers, and like associations.

Just consider the effect of this proceeding. The owner employs and pays the agent to keep the expenses down; but if the agent gets ten per cent. or anything from the men employed to do the work or furnish the supplies for the building, the greater the cost and the larger the bills, the more money in the agents' pockets, so that the inducement to work against the interest of his employer is just as strong as the inducement the other way, and in some cases stronger.

Every agent who is guilty of this practice should be disciplined and be subject to expulsion from all reputable brokers' associations. It is not only against good morals, but it is against the law, and the offending agent in such cases not only loses his commission, but it is probable that all commissions theretofore paid or allowed to him can be recovered by landlords and owners by suit. The law will not permit the servant to betray his master.

SQUARE DEALING.

COLONIAL PARK.—The City of New York is to expend $110,000 in completing Colonial Park, between Bradhurst and Edgecombs avs, from 145th to 146th sts. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment at its last meeting authorized Commissioner Smith to advertise for contracts. At the present moment Colonial Park lies in a bad condition, it is possible, however, to convert it into a pleasing recreation ground. In all, the city's holding at this point includes about 12 acres of land.

The Index to Volume LXXXIII. of the Record and Guide, covering the period between January 1 to June 30, is now ready for delivery. Price, ONE DOLLAR. This Index in its enlarged form is recognized as very necessary to everyone engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions—deeds, mortgages, leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc., for MANHATTAN and BRONX. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 11-15 East 24th Street.

ALDERMANIC BOARD FIXES TAX RATE.

Democrats Carry the Day Even Though the Republican Members Refuse to Vote.

DURING the week the Board of Aldermen fixed the tax rate for the various boroughs. This was accomplished, however, only after a spirited session, the Republican faction declining to vote on the ground that they had opposed the budget on which the rates are based, consequently must consistently oppose the rate. President McGowan threatened to enforce the provision in the charter which states that an Alderman who refuses to vote or perform other duties of his office renders himself liable to a fine of $500 for misdemeanor, and, if convicted, may be removed from office. The recalcitrant members of the Board maintained their position despite President McGowan's efforts, and finally stated that they would vote against the rate if pressed further. The requisite number of votes were finally obtained from the ranks of the Democrats and the rate was fixed.

The rates for the various boroughs are as follows:

Manhattan	$1.67800
Brooklyn	1.73780
Queens	1.72536
Richmond	1.77522

The total amount of the assessed valuation aggregates $7,250,500,559, divided in personal and real property between the various boroughs as follows:

County.	Real Estate.	Personal Estate.	Total.
New York	$5,077,150,294	$346,162,305	$5,423,312,599
Kings	1,354,809,840	84,332,190	1,439,142,030
Queens	308,112,605	9,673,200	317,785,805
Richmond	67,106,965	3,153,160	70,260,125
Grand total	$6,807,179,704	$443,320,855	$7,250,500,559

TAX RATE FOR FIVE YEARS.

It will probably interest many property owners to compare the present rate with those of previous years, so a table showing these rates for the past five years is given. It will be noticed that the rate is ten points higher than it was in 1904, though 1905, 1906 and 1907 were lower.

County.	1904.	1905.	1906.	1907.	1908.
Kings	1.57	1.56	1.53	1.55	1.67
Queens	1.57	1.55	1.55	1.53	1.66
Richmond	1.59	1.55	1.55	1.56	1.71

Taxpayers will be able to obtain their bills from the Receiver of Taxes not later than Sept. 1.

When everything is considered the rate is exceedingly gratifying to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment and to the Tax Department officials. Last year the increase in assessed valuations was very small, owing to the stagnation which followed the panic in the latter part of 1907. It looked as though the increase would amount to at least fifteen points, while when all the figures were collected it was ascertained that a six-point raise would suffice.

The tax levy will bring into the treasury of the city about $117,145,889. The total amount of the budget is $156,552,748.18, of which aggregate $34,231,062.84 will be turned into the general fund.

INVESTORS SHOULD PURCHASE NOW.

Charles A. Weber, of 410 East 149th st, who has been prominently identified with Bronx realty for several years, is enthusiastic over the situation in that borough. Business has been dull during the past two years, not only from the broker's standpoint, but also from that of the professional speculator and builder. The outlook, however, is more encouraging than for some time past, and it is the consensus of opinion among men thoroughly conversant with the underlying conditions, that activity in trading will soon commence and, as a natural result, an uplift in prices will result.

In speaking of the condition of the realty market in the Bronx Mr. Weber said:

"I find there are a few investors in the market at present, but recently I notice that a number of professional speculators are again buying property, which I consider a good indication, as the investors generally follow the professional operators, or buy from them.

"The business done by the Bronx real estate brokers for the past six months consisted chiefly of exchanging improved property for vacant lots, to builders. The outlook for the fall is very good, and we now have positive assurance that construction on the Lexington av subway will be commenced very soon, and with these extensions up the Southern Boulevard and Westchester av to Pelham Bay Park and up Jerome av on the West Side, I predict there will be considerable activity in these immediate localities.

"There never was, or never will be, better opportunities for the large or small investor than at the moment. NOW is the time to BUY."

THE WEEK.

THE majority of real estate brokers, if asked for an expression of opinion on the present realty conditions, will state that the market is dull and the actual sales consummated are few and far between. This statement, when taken together with the facts is incorrect. While everyone knows that business is not what it should be, still a careful study of the records will show that the number of parcels that are weekly changing hands at private contract are greatly in excess of the number reported during the corresponding period last year. The Record and Guide has consistently maintained that the revival of activity would be gradual and that when investors come to the full realization of the opportunities to make money in realty there would be an uplift in prices such as has never been witnessed in the city. Manhattan will not be the only gainer, but the other boroughs will come in for their share of the increase in values.

It is distinctly noticeable the number of investors who are coming into the market. For some months past the "outsider" has been buying, and if patience is practiced a handsome profit is sure to result. During the past year or so, brokers have reported that inquiries were numerous, but that difficulty was experienced when it was suggested that contracts be signed. Conditions at the present time are somewhat different. Those in the market to buy have a clearly defined idea as to what they want, and if the proper parcel is offered negotiations are brought to a speedy termination. Probably the greatest stumbling block in the way is the owners of realty themselves. They are, as a general rule, loath to part with their holdings, the result being that the concessions made are not material.

Barnard Court, a 10-sty apartment, modern in every particular, was reported sold by the builders. This property is located on the west side of the avenue, just north of 116th st, and has a frontage of 119.6 ft. on the avenue and an average depth of 70 ft. This house is beautifully located, there being a fine outlook over the river from the rear apartments and from those facing on the avenue a panoramic view of Columbia College can be obtained. There is a large vacant plot of ground on the easterly side of Claremont av at this point. No streets have been cut through west of Broadway from 116th to 119th st, and with the exception of one structure this entire plot is unimproved. This section of the city has come into favor during the past few years. There was a time when builders were afraid to invest any considerable sum of money, for fear that an adjoining property would be sold to some irresponsible concern, which would construct a building of inferior type, thereby hurting the entire neighborhood. This danger was passed, however, in the natural course of events. After the subway was completed, property enhanced greatly in value, and finally passed the point where it would be profitable to build any other than a first-class building. It was necessary to demand rentals which would preclude the possibility of the tenement or semi-tenement variety. As soon as this condition was realized, builders jumped in and a quantity of real estate changed hands.

Among the sales closed during the current week was that of the premises known as Nos. 257 to 265 West 17th st, a 9-sty loft building of fireproof construction, 127x92. This sale accentuates the growing demand on the part of investors, inasmuch as the buyers are the present tenants. This deal was in the form of a trade, the 7-sty apartment house located at the southeast corner of Madison av and 99th st, 50x100, and a plot of 10 lots on Park av and 166th st, being included in the transaction. Another good example of investment buying is found in the sale of the northwest corner of Wadsworth av and 180th st. The Hanover estate bought a plot 75x90 at that point. They are already the owners of record of the adjoining property on the street, and now control a frontage of 119.6 ft. on the avenue and 90 ft. on the street. Seventh av also came in for a sale when the southeast corner of that avenue and 54th st was disposed of. This property is improved at present with 3-sty dwellings, known as Nos. 162 to 172 West 54th st.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THE market was of the typical midsummer variety. Comparatively few parcels were offered for sale. Interest was centered in the partition sale by the Hankinson estate. While the properties were valuable, still bidding was anything but brisk, and several of them were bid in by parties in interest. This sale was held at the stand of Joseph P. Day.

In addition to the previously mentioned partition sale, there were several other pieces put up. The first one offered was No. 54 East 110th st, located 20 ft. east of Madison av. It is a 3-sty dwelling, with stores, and is 16.8x100.11 in size. It was a voluntary sale and was knocked down to T. F. Dooley, for a client, for $13,050. Mr. Dooley also bought, for a client, No. 56 East 110th st, adjoining, a similar structure, paying $12,300 for it. No. 218 Monroe st, a 5-sty tenement, with stores, 25.2x73.11, was purchased by Elizabeth Casey for $20,500. It is located 25.2 ft. west of Scammel st.

J. C. Hankinson, a party in interest, bought Nos. 543 and 545 Washington st, a 2-sty stable, 49.8x66x50x62.3; also No. 566 Greenwich st, a 4-sty tenement and store, 25.1x87.5x25x86.8. It is subject to a mortgage of $15,000. The price paid for the two parcels was $32,568. Nos. 452 and 454 Washington st, located at the southwest corner of Watts st, 46.8x68.2, was also knocked down to Mr. Hankinson, a party in interest. The purchase price was $42,900. No. 8 Caroline st was next put on the block. It is a 5-sty tenement, with store, and went to the same party for $19,800. It is located 59.4 ft. north of Duane st and is 28.5x80 in size. Michael Abrams bid $9,200 for No. 64½ Sullivan st, a 3-sty tenement and store, 15x55.9x irregular. No. 94 Weeks av, a vacant plot 280x95, located 90 ft. north of 174th st, was sold to Beam & Lawrence for a client for $23,100.

Builders Dispose of New Constructed Apartment.

CLAREMONT AV.—The Michael E. Paterno Construction Co. sold 15 Claremont av, known as Barnard Court, a 10-sty high-class apartment house, recently completed. The property has a frontage of 119.8 ft. on the avenue, and is located just north of 116th st. The average depth of the plot is 70 ft. The Paterno Bros. have been exceedingly active in this section for some years past and have built a number of apartments, modern in every particular. The firm took the stand that there were enough families in the city of sufficient means, who were willing to pay a reasonable amount for good apartments. The result of this decision has fully justified the necessary expenditure of money. In all the houses constructed by this firm, particular attention has been given to light and ventilation, and plenty of closet room has been always provided. The house just sold is the first operation of the Michael E. Paterno Co., which was formed last January about the time that this plot was acquired. There is a growing demand for good houses of this type in the neighborhood of Columbia College. There are many natural advantages in this section, not the least being the superb view of the Hudson river and its convenience to the business sections of the city. The subway opened this particular part of town, and when the improvements, now under way, at 96th st, are completed, this part of town will be even more accessible. The buyer, Louis Ottmann, will take title August 16.

An expert on Manhattan real estate lately said that to boom values in this borough, too much importance cannot be made of the fact that it is a unique commodity, and one in a class all by itself by reason of the fact that it cannot be added to owing to the peculiar conditions surrounding it. It must steadily and rapidly enhance in value as our population increases.

THE RECORD AND GUIDE

Is the oldest paper representing the interests of Real Estate and Building in New York City, and a standard authority on matters relating to these branches of industry.

REAL ESTATE RECORDS

1st.—Q. C. is an abbreviation for Quit Claim deed, i. e., a deed wherein all the right, title and interest of the grantor is conveyed, omitting all covenants and warranty.

2d.—C. a. G. means a deed containing Covenant against Grantor only, in which he covenants that he hath not done any act whereby the estate conveyed may be impeached, charged or encumbered.

3d.—B. & S. is an abbreviation for Bargain and Sale deed, wherein, although the seller makes no expressed consideration, he really grants or conveys the property for a valuable consideration, and thus impliedly claims to be the owner of it.

4th.—The street and avenue numbers given in these lists are, in all cases, taken from the insurance maps when they are not mentioned in the deeds. The numbers, it will occasionally be found, do not correspond with the existing ones, owing to there having been no official designation made of them by the Department of Public Works.

5th.—The first date is the date the deed was drawn. The second date is the date of filing same. When both dates are the same, only one is given.

6th.—The figures in each conveyance, thus, 2:482—10, denote that the property mentioned is in section 2, block 482, lot 10.

7th.—It should also be noted in section and block numbers that the instrument as filed is strictly followed.

8th.—A $20,000—$30,000 indicates the assessed value of the property, the first figures being for the lot only and the second figures representing both lot and building. Letter P before second figure indicates that the property is assessed as in course of construction. Valuations are from the assessment roll of 1908.

9th.—T. S. preceding the consideration in a conveyance means that the deed or conveyance has been recorded under the Torrens System.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the letters "P. M" occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Vol LXXXIV. AUGUST 7, 1909. No. 2160

WITH the exception of brick the majority of the materials entering into the construction of urban buildings have been steadily increasing in price this spring and summer; and if these materials are pushed much farther the cost of building will be returned to somewhere near the level of 1907. It is very much to be hoped that such will not be the case. When building becomes very expensive it ceases to be profitable to anybody but the mechanic, and he usually takes his profit in the form of a license to diminish with impunity the efficiency of his work. It frequently happens in New York and the other large American cities that high prices do not have their natural effect of cutting down construction, because under certain abnormal but frequently recurring conditions, builders can see a profit even in erecting excessively costly buildings, but whenever this occurs it means that conditions have become unwholesome and that the excess of one year will be followed in another by a very lean season. The recent increases in materials are not exorbitant; and they mean merely that the producers are becoming able to assert their right to fair profits; but if they go much farther they should be followed by a decrease of demand that would check any additional increase. Such years as 1906 always bring such years as 1907 and 1908. It will be far better to have a succession of years like 1909, in which activity did not mean inflation, and in which economy of production was not sacrificed to temporary and partly fictitious profits. As a matter of fact, it is probable that in 1910, while real estate may be more active than in 1909, building will be less so. The large amount of construction planned during the current year has consisted mostly of loft buildings, flats and apartment houses. The work of providing accommodations for the wholesale trade north of Twenty-third street will be continued in 1910, but it can hardly maintain the pace which has recently prevailed. Elevator apartment houses also cannot continue to be erected in the same numbers, while the improved means of transit under the Hudson and East rivers will diminish the demand for flats. Thus, while the impending changes in business population will justify a large amount of real estate speculation, there is bound to be a certain diminution in building, at least in Manhattan. This diminution, whatever its ill-effects, should at least have the desirable result of preventing a runaway market in building materials.

THE explanation given in the last issue of the Record and Guide by well-known authorities for the activity in building on Twenty-sixth and Twenty-seventh streets during the present year, is extremely interesting. Assuming in the first place that the time had come for the construction of loft buildings west of Broadway, between Twenty-third and Thirty-fourth streets, the question was where should a beginning be made? The streets in the vicinity of the Pennsylvania station were ruled out because property is being held on these streets at too high a price for the wholesale trade, and Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets were not available because the horse car lines on those streets interfered with the loading and unloading of trucks. Twenty-seventh street, consequently, was the nearest street to Thirty-fourth street well adapted to immediate improvement with loft buildings, and seven structures of this kind are being erected in that street. The movement has also spread to Twenty-sixth street, in which a number of buildings are also being erected; and it is confidently predicted that within the next few years Twenty-fifth and Twenty-fourth streets will be similarly transformed. The interesting aspect of this account of the causes of the activity on Twenty-seventh street is the reason given for the discrimination against Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets. A surface railroad even when horses are used as a motive power is usually supposed to benefit a street through which it passes; but in this case it has been a disadvantage to the owners of property in Twenty-eighth and Twenty-ninth streets, and the disadvantage would not be removed in case trolley cars were substituted for the absurd old horse cars. Trolley cars run more frequently at higher speed would, of course, interfere even more with the trucks than do the horse cars. The fact is, of course, that a surface railroad, while it is beneficial to a street, which is lined with shops is merely a nuisance to a street improved with loft buildings, and a similar rule applies to avenues. Sixth avenue, for instance, which is narrow and which has both an elevated and a surface railroad on it is wholly unsuitable to loft buildings, and must remain a shopping thoroughfare. On the other hand, Seventh avenue, even though it has a surface railroad, is so wide that it affords trucks plenty of room, and it is, consequently, more likely to be improved with loft buildings. Of course, it is possible that even on Seventh avenue retail trade will predominate, but as a rule the broad thoroughfare is better adapted to wholesale business and the narrow, easily-crossed thoroughfare is better adapted to retail business.

THE subway has now been in operation about five years—that is for one-fifteenth of the term included in the lease. During the year ending June 30th last it earned nine per cent. on the original $35,000,000 capital stock of the Interborough Company, and something over three per cent. on the $50,000,000 preferred stock of the Interborough-Metropolitan Company. A small part of this profit was derived from the earnings of the elevated roads over and above the rental; but these earnings do not affect materially the total result. What the figures really mean is this: At the end of four and one-half years the subway is earning enough money almost to double the value of its original capital stock, while at the same time to leave an additional profit of about $25,000,000. The Interborough-Metropolitan preferred is now selling at about 50; and the value it represents would be worth a still higher price were it not for the unnecessary responsibilities assumed by the Interborough Company in connection with the Metropolitan merger. Moreover, the subway still has a considerable margin for an increase in earnings. On Washington Heights its tracks run through a district which is only partly settled, and which is rapidly increasing in population. In the Dyckman track and in the Bronx it is now carrying only a very small part of the traffic which will eventually be developed. Finally, the business development of Fourth avenue and its neighborhood will largely increase its more profitable local traffic. The cars required for the accommodation of these increased passengers will be obtained by the improvements now being made at Ninety-sixth street, by the introduction of side doors on the expresses and by the lengthening of the trains. There can be little doubt that in another five years the original $35,000,000 of Interborough stock will have become equivalent to somewhere near $100,000,000, and at the end of another five years $25,000,000 may have been added to the original value. Thereafter the possible increase in profit will be small, because the system will have reached the limit of its carrying capacity, and because it will have to face competition along its whole route; but there can be little doubt that in the end the net profit of the Interborough Company on the original lease will be almost, if not quite, $100,000,000.

THE INTEREST of these calculations consists partly in the fact that hereafter the companies operating subways will have to share these profits with the city. Take for instance the case of the Broadway-Lexington avenue tunnel. That subway will cost more per mile to construct than did the one leased to the Interborough Company. The initial charges set aside to cover this interest and sinking fund requirements may well be fifty per cent. more per mile than they are in the case of the existing subway. On the other hand, the Broadway-Lexington avenue tunnel will probably develop a denser traffic than any other single route in Manhattan. The east side lines of the elevated roads carry a good many more passengers per mile than the west side lines; and a Lexington avenue tunnel would get a great many passengers from Park and Madison avenues who now use the surface lines. The Broadway section of the route would develop an exceptionally heavy local traffic. The increased number of passengers carried per car mile might not be sufficient to balance the increase in fixed charges, particularly in view of the fact that south of Forty-second street the Broadway route would be competing with the existing Subway and dividing its traffic. Nevertheless, it is probable that at the end of five years the profit derived from the new route would not be far from the profit derived from the old one. The city should be getting almost a million dollars a year, as its share of the net receipts over six per cent.; and thereafter, little by little, the earnings of its subway system will constitute an increasingly large proportion of its income. It is true that these earnings will not be used to diminish taxation, but they will be used for the much better purpose of increasing the efficiency and diminishing the expense of the local transit system. It is entirely possible that eventually the net earnings will be sufficient to warrant a reduction in fares, provided an arrangement to that effect can be made with the operating companies. The amount of benefit which the city will ultimately derive from this and similar bargains is, of course, a matter of speculation; but there can be no doubt that it will be very great and that in the end it will constitute an asset worth hundreds of millions to the taxpayers of New York.

THE VENTILATION OF BUILDINGS.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

It is well known that there are many buildings in this city where people are crowded together where they must breathe one another's breath for hours, and where the air becomes foul in consequence thereof, because no means of ventilation has been provided.

This, as you must know, is detrimental to health and is also disease spreading. To prevent these conditions, we believe there should be in the revised building code a clause about as follows:

"In each and every theatre, school, factory, hospital or any other building, or room in which five or more persons are congregated or employed, there shall be provided for each person a space not less than 1,500 cubic feet. If there is not space provided for each person containing 1,500 cubic feet, then there shall be positive means of ventilation provided to supply each person with 1,500 cubic of fresh air per hour, or to the amount necessary so that each person shall have a space of 1,500 cubic feet of air, or its equivalent in fresh air to breathe from."

The School Boards in all the States and the labor laws in some of the States have recognized the necessity of such law.

WILLIS J. ROYS.

913 Gates avenue, Brooklyn.

ANOTHER SMASH in the Hudson River brick market has driven prices to the lowest levels of the year and it is becoming apparent that the interruption to bricklaying by slow deliveries of steel cannot be the sole reason for the declension. The demand for brick continues to be large, and fully up to the normal of good years, though somewhat lessened by the slowing down of new operations, the cause of which has been generally ascribed to slow deliveries of steel. Particular inquiries disclose that good weather and a good market up to this time have encouraged an immense production of common brick, and the quantity is evidently more than the market can readily assimilate. The net result to builders is decidedly advantageous, whatever it may be to the manufacturers. As regards the general building market, conditions continue extremely favorable, not only for the trades but also for investors and the public at large. New projects are fewer for the time being, but as the number on file exceeds the record this is not complained of, especially as it is probable that the architects will soon be busy again, and with the tariff agitation ended, business will be better than ever this Fall.

THE CHICAGO BUILDING MARKET keeps up a fast pace, with no midsummer dullness. The La Salle Hotel is in the last stages, but has been delayed by a strike. The steel skeleton of the 21-sty Blackstone Hotel is finished, and the walls were, at the date of our advices, up to the seventeenth floor. This building has ground dimensions of 80x172, and its cost, exclusive of furnishings, is estimated at $2,000,000. The total estimated cost of new buildings for which plans were filed during the first six months of 1909 was $50,028,180, compared with $29,375,875 for the corresponding period last year. In the year following the great fire the estimated cost of building projects amounted to $45,558,200.

—Cleveland is in the estimation of the paving brick interests the best paved city in the world.

THE "H" PLAN FOR OFFICE BUILDINGS.

Adopted for the Emigrant Savings Bank's New Operation—It Solves the Light Problem.

WE print here the first picture the public has seen of the new office building which the Emigrant Savings Bank is erecting in Chambers st, between Broadway and Centre, facing City Hall Park. The building has a convenient situation for firms having much business with the city government or in the supreme courts, as it is adjacent to the municipal and county buildings, besides being easily accessible from the subway, tunnel and bridge systems.

In a number of respects it is or will be an interesting structure, and in one way epochal. Notice, first, the now popular "H" plan, with exterior courts front and rear, which Superintendent Snyder has long successively employed for schoolhouses, especially when they have interior sites, and which later was widely used for apartment houses of the first class, and now for the first time in a large office building. It solves the light problem and gives every room a direct light.

The building is being erected by the bank for investment purposes, and the ground and basement floors will be occupied for banking purposes, with entrances both from Chambers and

Reade sts. The name selected is simply "Fifty-One Chambers Street."

The building will be fifteen stories in height. It occupies a plot fronting 123 ft. on Chambers st and 125 ft. on Reade st by 151 ft. in depth. Reservations of space are now being made from May 1, 1910.

The building will be wired for dictograph, telautograph, stock and news tickers. Every office will have hot and cold water, and vacuum cleaner. Express, holiday, Sunday and all-night elevator service will be another feature. The plumbing, drainage, water supply, heating and electric and elevator services have been designed to give the highest excellence in sanitation and comfort.

The construction and equipment will be fireproof throughout. The facade is being constructed of Indiana limestone, resting on a base of granite. The hallways, floors and entrances in Reade and Chambers sts are to be of marble, with staircases of bronze in richly ornamental design.

THERE are two things you never want to pay any attention to—abuse and flattery. The first can't harm you and the second can't help you.—Anon.

CONSTRUCTION

STATUS OF BUILDING OPERATIONS IN MIDTOWN

A List of All the Buildings, Except Tenement Houses, That Are Under Construction or Planned For, Between Fourteenth and Fifty-ninth Streets, Third and Tenth Avenues

AN idea of the immense amount of work coming ahead in the middle zone of Manhattan Island is given by the following list. Here are statistics of over one hundred buildings either in course of construction or for which plans have been filed. Projects for which plans have not been filed, but which are certain in due time to reach the construction stage, are not counted. Only the work actually in sight is considered. Tenement house work is also omitted.

The list includes many large and important buildings for commercial and manufacturing purposes, besides hotels, theatres, railroad depots, schools, banks, private dwellings and garages. It shows exactly the condition of the building market in this portion of the city, and is a striking proof that good times have come again.

Furthermore, it controverts any idea that in the middle sections of Manhattan building operations have fallen off over previous good years. It illustrates forcibly the northward march of business. Contractors and material dealers will find in this list a great deal of information valuable in their business. It is up to them to apply it.

An Automatically Locking Gascock.

It has been said that while electricity is making steady progress, gas is holding its own. Thinkers are bringing out new electrical inventions daily, but as fast as they appear on the market, other thinkers and inventors are producing equally valuable appliances to render gas more useful, cheaper and, of far greater importance, safer. Everybody knows the danger from a loose gascock in the sleeping or living-room. The newspapers chronicle each day incidents of death by the accidental turning of a gas stop by a child or infirm person, followed frequently by fatal consequences.

At Nos. 20 to 30 Morton st, Brooklyn, and at No. 67 Centre st, this city, are the factory and salesroom, respectively, of Shapiro & Aronson, manufacturers of gas and electric fixtures. This is the company that has brought out another of those "long felt wants" in the shape of an absolutely safe gascock.

A SAFETY GASCOCK.

The illustration shows the device, which is known as the "S. & A. Safety Cocks." In brief, when the gas is turned off the key is locked and cannot be turned on again accidentally. To open it a lever must be pressed to unlock it. They can be fitted to any chandelier, bracket, pendant or any other kind of gas-fixture, whether it be already installed or not. In addition to the safety locking features, the device has a safety jam nut with oval lock that prevents the screw and washer from becoming loose. The safety-cocks have a quarter-turn instead of the usual half-turn, and the stop pin is screwed in, thus preventing the pin from falling out.

THE PENFIELD PATENT AND THE BRICK TRADE

It Is Possible Under This Patent to Make a Uniform Price for Common Brick—Statistics of the Clay Working Industries

ATTENTION has been attracted to affairs in the Chicago brick trade, by the resignation of C. D. B. Howell as president of the consolidation of brick manufacturing interests, styled the "Illinois Brick Company." This company is composed of twenty or more concerns supplying the Chicago market. From all accounts, the manufacturers have difficulty in making both ends meet, and they have had to take measures to render deadly competition unnecessary.

Present prices in brick will be maintained by the introduction of a new patent, which, it is said, will revolutionize the brick industry. The use of this patent is to be coupled with a fixed price for the output, although it is said no effort will be made to raise the price immediately.

R. C. Penfield, of Bucyrus, Ohio, is the inventor of the new machine, which is controlled by the American Equipment Company. This company, instead of selling its product outright, will lease the machine to Chicago brick manufacturers and take in turn a royalty on all brick made and sold in and about Chicago. In this way, the brick makers expect to get around the anti-trust law, as they believe they will be protected by the patent laws.

By the contract which the American Equipment will have with each brick company that leases the new machine, a single price on brick will be insisted on. It is said this price will be $6 a thousand, which is the present wholesale market price for common hards.

Mr. Howell admits that his resignation is due to the new plans:

"I have resigned simply because I have had an honest difference of opinion with the directors," he says. "It is true the company contemplates the adoption of this new Penfield patent, and that by its adoption a uniform set of prices will prevail.

"Of course it will be possible under the patent laws to secure a uniform price on brick, and to say that it will circumvent the anti-trust laws of the State is correct, I believe. I understand that no effort will be made to raise the price.

"I wish it to be understood that my withdrawal was not the result of anger on my part. It was simply a friendly disagreement. Mr. Forgan resigned largely for the same reason.

"I believe it is the intention of the Illinois Brick Company to adopt the new machine gradually in its yards. If it is adopted throughout it will cost the company at least $225,000."

Two meetings of the board of directors were held before a decision to adopt the Penfield patent was reached, it is known. At the second meeting President Howell tendered his resignation, and it was accepted. Temporarily he will remain a member of the board, but he intends to sever his connection completely with the company as soon as possible. William Schlake, a former Alderman and previously secretary of the company, was elected to the presidency. E. C. Pitter was chosen secretary. George S. Munroe, of Joliet, Ill., was elected to the board of directors in place of Forgan.

Since the first of the year brick prices have remained firm, due to a large demand, and also to small stocks. It is said, however, that persons interested in the Illinois Brick Company saw a possible slashing of prices ahead by independent firms. When the Penfield patent was presented to the company, it was seized upon immediately, because it not only offered an opportunity to fix the price of brick, but also to save much skilled labor and expense.

Three of the largest brick making companies in Chicago have decided to adopt the Penfield process, and other concerns are on the point of taking up the patent. This will result in what one brick company official termed an "impersonal combination of interests." R. C. Penfield, the inventor of the new process, which is said to be "automatic," virtually is at the head of the so-called trust. He controls the American Equipment Company, which leases the Penfield patent to brick companies on the guarantee of certain royalties and a fixed price on brick.

Brick manufacturers, however, while admitting that the industry in and about Chicago would be more or less unified in purposes and financial results, declare that there has been no move toward organizing or merging interests.

"We have no secrets," says William Schlake, the new president of the Illinois Brick Company, who was elected to succeed C. D. B. Howell. "We consulted our attorneys. Finding we were legally safe, we voted to adopt the patent.

"It is possible that the Penfield process may affect the price of brick in other towns by its adoption here, and it thus will enable us to reach out farther if this proves true. We haven't discussed the future price of brick, but I see no cause for a rise in present prices."

"We have not had in mind an evasion of the anti-trust laws," said E. C. Potter, the newly elected secretary. "We have here simply an essential device which we want to use. The patentee insists on certain terms. We agree to them. It is an old idea and has gone through the courts many times successfully."

The Alonzo Curtis Brick Company, one of the Illinois Brick Company's biggest rivals, is installing the Penfield process in its plant at Grant Park. This plant will be used only to demonstrate the process. The Curtis Company intends to adopt it in all its yards. The National Brick Company contemplates the early adopting of the process. B. F. Weber, president of the company, stated that his company has been considering the process and in all probability would take it up.

Among other concerns which may use the Penfield process, causing a virtual monopoly on the price of brick by the contract Penfield insists upon, are the following: Labahn Brick Co., American Brick Co., Chicago Brick Co., Glen View Brick Co., Lutter Brick Co., Bach Brick Co., Alexander Burke Brick Co., Murphy & Lorimer Brick Co., Kemnitz & Schneider Brick Co., Calumet Brick Co., Wisconsin Lime and Cement Co., Builders' Brick Co., Manteno Brick Co., Steger Brick Co., C. Harms Brick Co.

THE CLAY-WORKING INDUSTRIES.

The United States Geological Survey has just published a large chart showing the statistics of the clay-working industries in 1908 by States and products, with comparative totals for 1907. This chart shows that the clay products of the United States in 1908 were valued at $133,197,762, compared with $158,942,369 in 1907, a decrease of about one-sixth. Every State and Territory except Alaska is represented in this total, a fact which shows the widespread character of the clay-working industries. Ohio is the leading clay-working State, reporting products worth $26,622,490, or 19.99 per cent. of the total. Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Illinois, New York, Indiana, Missouri, California, Iowa and West Virginia are the next largest producing States, in the order named. These ten States produced wares valued at $98,494,107, or nearly three-fourths of the value for the whole country. The first five States produced considerably over one-half of the total output. Wyoming has the smallest production, with products valued at $52,282, or only 0.04 per cent. of the total.

COMMON BRICK.

Every State reported common brick, the total quantity being 7,811,046,000, valued at $44,765,614; this represents over one-third of the value of all clay products. Illinois is the leading producer of common brick, reporting 1,119,224,000, valued at $4,834,652, or $4.32 per thousand. New York is the second in quantity but first in value, the figures being 1,055,006,000, valued at $5,066,084, or $4.80 per thousand. The average value per thousand ranged from $3.97 in Kansas to $10.33 in Wyoming, with a general average of $5.73. Tennessee comes the nearest to the general average—$5.72. The average value in 1907 was $6 for the whole country.

There was a decrease in the value of the common brick from 1907 of $14,079,847, or 23.85 per cent., and the quantity decreased 1,984,652,000, or 20.26 per cent. The only States showing increases in output of common brick were Arizona, Idaho, Nevada, Montana, Oregon, South Dakota and Washington, and of these States Washington showed a decrease in value.

VITRIFIED PAVING BRICK.

Vitrified paving brick is one of the only two products that showed an increase in 1908. This product increased from 876,245,000 in 1907 to 978,122,000 in 1908, a gain of 11.63 per cent.; and in value from $9,654,282 in 1907 to $10,657,475 in 1908, a gain of 10.39 per cent. Ohio is the leading State for vitrified paving brick, reporting about one-third of the entire quantity and value.

DRAIN TILE, FIRE BRICK AND POTTERY PRODUCTS.

Drain tile is the other product that reported a gain in 1908, the increase being from $6,864,162 in 1907 to $8,661,476 in 1908, or 26.18 per cent. This product finds its largest use in the Middle West—Iowa, Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and Michigan reporting 89.84 per cent. of the total.

Fire brick was reported in 1908 to the value of $10,696,216, compared with $14,946,045 in 1907, a decrease of 28.43 per cent. The quantity decreased from 783,017,000 in 1907 to 552,366,000 in 1908, a loss of 29.46 per cent.

Pottery products decreased in value from $30,143,474 in 1907 to $25,135,555, a loss of 16.61 per cent. The value of the pottery products was nearly one-fifth of the value of all clay products.

FORMULAE FOR CREOSOTE SHINGLE STAIN. A good grade of shingle stain is made by thinning the oil color required to give the color to the stain with a mixture of 4 gallons of raw linseed oil, 2 gallons of creosote oil and 1 gallon liquid dryer, says a recent issue of the Painters' Magazine. The color should be permanent and non-fading, and it is best to have it of the consistency of house paint before adding the thinners referred to. If to be used for dipping, 1 gallon of paint to 7 gallons of the thinners referred to is sufficient. For brushing, 2 gallons of paint should be used.

"PULLING A HOUSE OUT OF A ROW."

DID you ever own a residence that had the misfortune to be one of a row all alike when your inclination and taste was for something distinctive? You loved the house, but oh if it were only different! It was not built to your order, or it would have represented your individuality; there would have been something in the facade, even if it were necessarily of the same height and width as its neighbors on either side, that would have given it a distinction. In your negotiations for a house you found many that you fancied, but because of their architectural individuality you either could not prevail on their owners to sell, or they considered that their value was greater than that of the "ordinary" house which you concluded to buy.

There was a house on West End av that was simply a section of a "greater" building. The stones and bricks of the adjoining house knit into this one without a break in the regularity of the bond. Same style of limestone stoops, same kind of doorways and windows! After a while it must have got on the owner's nerves, for he went to an architect and told him that he wished his residence pulled away from its neighbor. The architect did more, he has "pulled it out of the block," and has given the owner a handsome as well as a distinctive facade.

First the architect's workmen sandblasted the stonework, disclosing a pretty color and texture, which they complemented by painting the doorway and window sashes a delicate light gray—a gray that is almost a cream white. But first they replaced the ordinary double-hung window-sash with French casemate windows in every story. That was not much to do.

Before they left they set a little piece of architectural faience into the stone wall at one side of the door, hung a small bronze lantern on the other side and built a balcony off the second floor that was filled with flowers the morning we discovered it. They also changed the shape of the solid stone balustrades that looked just like the other fellow's and surmounted them with a railing to match that bronze lantern. That's all they did to the outside to make the owner realize that he had a house all his own instead of a co-operative apartment.

The interior of this house they redecorated. The "refrigerator" oak which most owners get when they buy a ready-to-wear house, had to submit to having its complexion changed. All the woodwork was refinished, and now the color scheme is mostly ivory and soft grays. The owner left it all to the architect, and the whole thing cost him but a trifle. In return he gets a home befitting a man of his ideas.

CONTRACT DESIGNING.

The men who took this commission and planned and superintended this improvement said that they aim at better things for architecture and decoration, to obtain an effect that will be satisfactory to the owner, and to accomplish this without waste. They did it under a building method called "contract designing." It obtains the services of the architect, artist and artisan best fitted to execute the particular work contemplated. It makes a single firm responsible for the entire operation, whether it be the designing and building of a bank, a church, a clubhouse or a residence. It is a system which absolutely determines and limits the cost. The owner makes the appropriation, and the firm accepting the commission makes it go as far as possible. There is a guarantee that the cost will not exceed the appropriation, and if there is any money left over it is returned to the owner.

Perfect confidence must be reposed by the owner in the builder. One-tenth of the appropriation is the charge for the builder's services and the other nine-tenths are uniformly distributed over the costs of the entire work. There never are any "extras." The form of contract may be as simple as this: "We hereby propose to furnish plans, specifications and satisfactory architectural services, also all labor and materials required, to execute the following: new buildings, including vault equipment, furnishings and decorations, for the First National Bank of —, for a sum not to exceed $50,000. We further agree, if on completion of the contract we find that the cost to us, plus 10 per cent. profit, is less than the sum named above, to credit the difference on the contract price." A New York firm which carries on business under this method gets commissions from many different States.

BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS passed through the panic unharmed and made good gains last year. Statistics issued at the annual convention of the U. S. League of Building and Loan Associations at Philadelphia disclosed 5,599 local building and loan associations in the United States, with a total membership of 1,920,557 and assets of $784,175,753. This is an increase in membership over last year of 81,138 and an increase in assets of $52,667,307. The total receipts were $519,721,570, and of this amount $134,085,170 was loaned out on mortgages, as against $209,925,072 in the preceding year. Some idea of the economical manner in which these associations are conducted may be gained when it is stated that the total expense of operation of all the 5,599 organizations was equal to seven-tenths of 1 per cent. of their assets. New Jersey has 447 associations and New York 235.

FOUNDATION READY FOR CASUALTY BUILDING.

The foundations and caissons are about completed for the new 22-sty office building which the Fidelity & Casualty Company, 97 Cedar st, is to erect at the southwest corner of Liberty st and Temple pl, as an annex to the present building at the rear, in Cedar st. The new part will cover a plot measuring 52.6x 54.5 feet, with exterior materials of granite, limestone, terra cotta and brick. The estimated cost is $350,000, according to the plans filed. Messrs. Eidlitz & McKenzie, 1123 Broadway, are the architects, and the Andrew J. Robinson Company, 123 East 23d st, holds the general building contract. The Harbison-Walker Refractories Company, 1133 Broadway, of which E. J. Henderson is general service manager, has received an order to supply 400,000 light gray front brick. Officers of the Casualty Company include George F. Seward, president; Robert J. Hillas, secretary; Dumont Clarke and William P. Dixon, directors. (See also issue March 13, 1909.)

NOTES OF INTEREST.

It is expected that the ferry service from Broadway, Brooklyn, to Roosevelt st and 23d st, Manhattan, will again be in operation before Nov. 1.

The proposed acquisition by the Jersey City municipality of the block of land and buildings bounded by Montgomery, Hudson, York and Greene sts, in order that the buildings may be torn down and the plot transformed into a concourse or plaza, has met with approval by many of the best citizens. The land needed, with the buildings thereon, is assessed for nearly $600,000.

On the recommendation of Hon. John H. O'Brien, Commissioner, Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, the resolution adopted May 1, 1900, which authorized an issue of $500,000 corporate stock for the purpose of repairing and making watertight the Millburn Reservoir on Long Island, has been rescinded. The reservoir was constructed in 1893, and cost $1,100,000. Since the installation of many wells and the construction of the infiltration gallery, the amount of water that could have been saved by storing it in the Millburn Reservoir would have been extremely small. It would not have been possible to have filled it even once during the past three years by the surface water spilled from the supply pond.

MUNICIPAL CONSTRUCTION PLANS

Large Appropriations Just Made for New Buildings and Various Public Improvements—Two Millions for New Water Mains

MAYOR McCLELLAN has approved a number of appropriations for construction work passed by the Board of Aldermen at its last regular meeting previous to adjournment for the summer vacation. The appropriations were made upon the recommendation of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, after due consideration and after hearing reports from the board's engineers in each case. The authorities have been more liberal than at any time since the panic. A number of new buildings will be erected with the money now set aside, to be located at various institutions. The sum of two million and over goes for buying and laying water pipe in Manhattan and the Bronx, which will put a great many laboring men at work.

The Board of Health has received an appropriation of $500,000, of which $230,000 is for the construction of four pavilions, necessary administration building, power plants, sewage disposal plant, etc., on property owned by the Department of Health in the Borough of Queens, and known as the "Haacke" Farm, to accommodate 240 patients; $110,000 for the construction of four pavilions on North Brother Island; $60,000 for the construction of two pavilions on the grounds of the Willard Parker and Reception Hospitals, foot of East 16th st, Manhattan; and $10,000 for extensions and alterations to buildings at Otisville.

An appropriation of $180,000 has been made for the extension of two tuberculosis infirmaries at Metropolitan Hospital on Blackwell's Island, and $35,000 for the construction of a hospital pavilion at the City Home on Blackwell's Island.

The Board of Health has also received authority to advertise for bids and award the contract for labor and materials required to erect a vaccine stable and laboratory, antitoxin bleeding room and laboratory, and for additions and alterations to stable for antitoxin horses at the sanatorium for the care and treatment of persons living in the City of New York suffering with tuberculosis, located at Otisville, Orange County, N. Y., at a cost not to exceed $15,000.

The Commissioner of Parks in the Bronx has received an appropriation of $143,000, the proceeds of which are to be applied in part as follows during the current year: Additional greenhouses for propagating purposes, Bronx Park, $18,000; filling, draining and improving the lowlands east of the music pavilion, Bronx Park, $15,000; construction of granite steps to replace wooden steps, St. Mary's Park, $8,000; fireproofing vaults, office building, Claremont Park, $5,000; erection of a drinking fountain and improvement of surrounding grounds, in addition to $3,000 now available, Macomb's Dam Park, $3,000; granite steps and walks from Jerome av to Ogden av, Macomb's Dam Park, $7,000; comfort station and additional bath houses at Orchard Beach, Pelham Bay Park, $25,000; raising and improving Colonial Garden, including replanting, Van Cortlandt Park, $20,000; providing steps at Webster av bridge, Mosholu Parkway, $7,000; railing around small parks and along walks and drives in other parks, $10,000; construction of manure pits adjacent to Bronx Park stations, $20,000; drinking fountains in various Bronx parks, $5,000.

Allen N. Spooner, Commissioner of Docks, has received authority to advertise and award a contract for building the proposed viaduct at the St. George terminal of the Staten Island Ferry at an estimated cost of $52,000. The structure will consist of a viaduct to connect the present ferry service with the new viaduct structure being built by the officials of the Borough of Richmond in South st. It is to be a post and girder viaduct to accommodate three tracks and a 10-ft. sidewalk east side. The length will be about 370 ft. It will have seven bents and seven bays, the ends to rest on abutments. There will be fifteen columns, two columns in each of the six bents from the Jay st approach towards the terminal and three posts at the terminal end.

Forty thousand dollars has been appropriated by the city for the construction of a concrete arch bridge, 80 ft. in width and having a span of 55 ft. over the Bronx River at 180th st, at a cost not to exceed $40,000.

Ten thousand dollars for improvements to the Administration Building in Bronx Park and $12,500 for a comfort station in the same park.

The sum of $2,026,100 for furnishing and laying water mains in Manhattan and the Bronx.

The sum of $500,000 to continue the construction of the new Bellevue Hospital.

Fifty thousand dollars for the construction of approaches to and footwalks on the bridge crossing the Harlem River and the Putnam Railroad at 158th st. Fifteen thousand for a bridge over Garretson's Creek, Brooklyn.

Seventy-five thousand for making surveys and plans for the Jamaica Bay improvement, and $10,000 for surveys and plans for improving the shore of Riverside Park, between 72d and 129th sts; for completing Colonial Park, $110,000; for an additional supply of water for the Borough of Brooklyn, $623,356.70; for various improvements at the New York Botanical Gardens, $25,000; for pipe rail fences at Mt. Morris Park, $15,000.

RIVERSIDE PARK EXTENSION.

Ten thousand dollars has been appropriated by the City to pay for plans to be prepared by a competent engineer or landscape architect for the improvement of the lands lying west of the tracks of the New York Central Railroad, between 72d and 129th sts, by filling them in and adding them to Riverside Park. It is believed that this improvement can be made at a comparatively small cost and that if made it will greatly increase the value and natural advantages of Riverside Park for public use.

Title to the lands was obtained by the City in 1897, but no action has been taken until now for its improvement. The proceedings are in order now in view of the fact that the Robert Fulton Memorial Association are inviting plans for the construction of the beautiful water-gate at or near 110th st. The attractions of the park would be multiplied if there were public access to the waterfront, and especially if the plans in contemplation should provide for suitable landing places for motor boats.

NEW SUBWAY STATION AUTHORIZED.

The detailed estimate by the city engineers of the cost of the proposed new subway station at 190th st and St. Nicholas av amounts to $376,915. This includes two elevators, with the machinery for operating them. The work will be done as an extra under the contract of John B. McDonald. The owners of the property on which the elevators will be placed are prepared to give the city title to the land required for the elevator shafts and their approaches, they retaining an easement permitting the construction of buildings over them.

There is now no station between 181st st and Dyckman st, a distance of about 4,800 feet. The proposed station is approximately midway between these two. As to the necessity for an additional station there is no doubt, a great number of buildings now being under construction in this locality, and a large proportion of them being 6-sty elevator apartments which will accommodate an enormous population.

TO COMPLETE COLONIAL PARK.

The Commissioner of Parks has received authority to advertize for bids and award contracts for the construction of Colonial Park, 145th to 155th st, Bradhurst to Edgecombe av, Manhattan. Chief Engineer Chandler Withington says the work is now about half completed, the upper portions, extending from 155th st down to 150th st having been laid out and improved during the years 1907 and 1908. The lower half of the park site, extending from 150th st down to 145th st, is now a vacant, barren hillside. Edgecombe av, overlooking this portion of the proposed park from the west, is rapidly being improved with large apartment houses, and Bradhurst av, on the east, is well built up. The property which has been acquired for park purposes is now unsightly and useless. The appropriation which has just been made for the construction work amounts to $110,000.

NEW BRIDGE FOR THE BRONX.

Commissioner Stevenson, of the Department of Bridges, has decided on the kind of bridge to replace the present Eastchester Bridge over the Hutchinson River, at Boston Post road, in the Borough of the Bronx. The Commissioner has selected a double leaf bascule bridge of the design of the Scherzer Rolling Lift Bridge Company. The department has built and now has in use six bridges of this type. These have proved satisfactory, being economical in construction and quickly operated. The Scherzer Rolling Lift Bridge Company will receive the sum of $6,000 for designs, plans and supervision of the construction of the superstructure, and the patent rights to construct, use and operate. This sum is specified in the bidding sheet, and the contractor must include it in his bid. The available appropriation for the construction of the bridge is $200,000, and the Commissioner has received authority to advertise for bids and proceed with the work.

A SUCCESSFUL man must know his business. He must apply this knowledge—he must work, and he must work to the best advantage. And to work to the best advantage he must work with system.—John H. Converse.

The equipment will include modern plumbing, leather chairs, and the seating capacity will be about 2,200, comprising a gallery, balcony and orchestra. The stage will be 90 ft. deep, 80 ft. wide and 60 ft. in height and will be the largest stage in New Jersey. The plot necessary for the pier will be about 100 ft. on the beach front. How far into the sea the building will go has not been decided upon yet. Mr. Rosenberg states that it is his intention to have the building ready for the season of 1910.

floors, as open lofts, contain about 4,000 square feet each, and the space will be divided into offices to suit. No manufacturing will be permitted. As the building stands on high ground at the intersection of two wide thoroughfares, it has exceptional light and air. The windows number 392. The facades are of limestone and light gray brick, with polychrome terra cotta ornamentation under the windows on the avenue side. Various trades are still employed on interior work, but they are far enough along to see that they are executing a very substantial piece of work.

Universal Fan Motors.

Propeller fans are more commonly used than any other variety largely on account of their convenience, portability and adaptability to almost any conditions. They may be placed on desk or table, sidewall, or ceiling, with facility, and readily removed with the change of season or alteration in the arrangement of furniture of office or other apartment. In very warm weather the full force of the air current is none too strong for comfort, while in less extreme weather the speed may be reduced to a corresponding extent by means of the regulator which is provided on all fans.

In winter also the fan is of great value when used in show windows of stores. The current of air blown upon the inside of the window prevents condensation of moisture, which the cold of the outside air would cause to freeze and by obscuring the glass render the window useless for show purposes.

Until quite recently it has been necessary to use fans somewhat different in construction for different positions, three different styles being recognized.

Diehl Universal Fans combine in one unit the three styles previously referred to and known as desk, trunnion and bracket fans. They may be adjusted to propel the air in any direction, and require neither extra parts nor special tools to adapt them to their various positions. The change from desk to bracket can be readily understood from the illustration. The list price of the "Universal" fans range from $22 to $38; telephone booth fans, $23 to $25; Oscillator fans, $30 to $38. (Diehl Manufacturing Company, Elizabeth, N. J.)

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT

Market Suffers a Relapse.

The building material market suffered a relapse this week. The continued delay in the arrival of structural steel, coupled with a wet day, brought Hudson River hard brick down still farther. Current Hudson River prices are $4.50 to $5. Portland cement was advanced another five cents, making a total of ten cents for the week. Further advances are likely. Northern pig iron remained stationary, but Southern moved up fifty cents around, making a total increase of one dollar in thirty days. Despite this, new business was done and another advance is likely. A quieter market is expected by practically all interests after the middle of the month. Nearly all the furnaces are bought up. Sheet metal prices are likely to go higher. Zinc and solder moved up a quarter of a cent a pound. Competition for structural steel business and fabricating continues keen. Stone showed a slight recovery in increased number of inquiries, and one or two fair sized orders were reported. Finished oak for flooring purposes is scarce and higher prices are expected. Maple is being sold at $4 over Spring prices. This does not hold in common grades of lumber.

Further Drop in Hudson River Hards.

The prices of Hudson River hard brick continue to tumble. They now range from $4.50 to $5 per M. Steel and iron for structural work failing to arrive at jobs, with the supply of brick steadily continuing to increase, and with manufacturers determined to continue shipping, the Record and Guide hesitates to predict any advance for the immediate future.

About 75 cargoes were sold last week. This is about the normal figure. While it is not confirmed officially, the slump is generally thought to be due to overproduction. The supply to-day is considerably above normal demand. Comparatively few deliveries are being made until September first.

MANUFACTURERS PAYING HIGH WAGES.

The manufacturers are paying 1907 prices for labor and therefore cannot sell for 1908 prices and make anything. There are so many brick in the market at present that profits are way down under present conditions. The Erie Railroad has been taking large shipments of Hudson River hard brick for railroad improvements.

Cement Advances Five Cents More.

Factors in tht Cement Manufacturers' Licensees Association are more harmonious to-day than they have been in several months. The company that withdrew from the organization "because of certain dissatisfactions with conditions then existing within the organization," as one man put it, "has reconsidered its action and upon the adoption of a better plane of understanding, has again become identified with the other leading companies in the compact."

This having been accomplished to the satisfaction of nearly all parties concerned, an advance of five cents was made in the current price of cement in cargo lots, cloth, and on Wednesday afternoon of this week official notices went out from No. 30 Broad st, where the offices of the North American Portland Cement Co. are located, announcing an advance of five cents more, making a total increase of ten cents within a week. This is taken to mean that interests that were opposed to receiving the company back into the association have been placated. A further advance is not unlikely within the near future.

J. Rogers Maxwell, president of the North American Portland Cement Association, said that there had been a noticeable improvement in the demand for Portland cement, and that he looked for further improvement early in the Fall.

Howard Maxwell, of the Atlas Portland Cement Co., said that he did not expect business to fall off as a result of higher prices, but, on the other hand, expressed the belief that business would pick up. "The time is ripe now for big business," he said, "and higher prices will not check the demand."

Southern Pig Iron Even Higher.

While Northern pig iron remained stationary, Southern moved up another fifty cents around. It was supposed last week that the advances had ceased when it had risen one dollar in thirty days, but when more was added this week the trade saw that business had a stability about it that savored of prosperity. In spite of the previous advances the Southern mills are unable to recover on overdue deliveries, and cannot handle new ones for deliveries prior to Sept. 15.

QUIETER MARKET NOW EXPECTED.

Pig iron people as a rule are looking for a somewhat quieter market. Already the inquiry is falling away. Two weeks of the kind of business that is reported this week will permit the furnaces to catch up. Normal conditions are looked for toward the close of the month. One reason given for the Southern furnaces's course in firming up is to permit them to hold some of the tonnage now on hand for higher figures. Nearly all the furnaces are working to 80% capacity, and those who have a few blasts idle are planning to blow in. Buffalo and Pennsylvanias may announce an increase in prices due to the increase in cost of manufacture, advance in the price of coke and the fact that ore sellers who had not covered are loading. The wages of laborers at the Northern furnaces as noted have been restored to the figures ruling on April 1, but which were subsequently cut. These latter furnaces cannot yet determine what effect this advance in wages will have upon the cost of their products.

ZINC AND SOLDERS MOVE UP.

The activity of the metal market reported in these columns last week is reflected in a slight advance in zinc and solder, both of which moved up a quarter of a cent per pound this week. Half and half in case now sells for 19¾ cents per lb., and open at 20¾. No. 1 in case brings 17¼ and open 17½ cents per lb. Zinc in cask lots now brings 7¾ cents per lb. and in sheets, 8¼. These are the only changes in prices current in the metal market this week save in Southern pig iron, already noted.

SHEET METALS LIKELY TO GO HIGHER.

Officials of the sheet metal companies are talking of an increase in prices. While concessions that have been allowed withing the last few months have been withdrawn within a week or two no firming action has taken place yet, although, it is said, conferences on the subject have been held. The situation hangs in the balance.

MORE BUSINESS WITH HIGHER PRICES.

Structural steel men say that, despite the increase in prices reported last week, business has increased rather than diminished. While reports from the mills show that the steel output for the month just closed has exceeded that for July since 1896, most of this has been for rails. In reality the business in structural steel orders has not been up to what had been expected by about 12 per cent. The improvement in this district, despite higher prices, is interpreted as being a good sign of a healthy building activity this Fall. Whether the advance will be increased, no one will venture a guess at this time. The mills are undecided, but no further advance is looked for until September anyway. It is a good time to place orders for structural steel now. "The prices will not go down," said the sales manager for one of the largest structural steel companies in the country.

Scarcity of Oak and Maple.

A gradual tightening up in dressed lumber is noted, especially in hardwoods. There is little finished oak in the market, and $4 more than Spring prices has been paid for maple. The stiffening movement does not extend to common grades yet, but the tendency is that way. The demand came when the mills were low on stocks due to letting so much of their material out at reduced prices during the Spring. One big concern, that handles finished oak, is considering the matter of operating their Southern plant day and night to catch up with the demand, and depleted stocks.

Stone Shows Slight Recovery.

Stone business shows a gradual recovery from the inactivity that has characterized it within the last six weeks. A healthier inquiry is reported, due to a seemingly general tendency to proceed with contracts and the fact that higher prices in all building materials are imminent. Marble opened the week with a good inquiry and closed with numerous fair sized orders. Most of these are for early Fall deliveries. Competition is still keen in all branches of the business.

SLATE ADVANCE POSTPONED.

In explanation of the fact that slate has failed to advance in price as prophesied two weeks ago, a leading dealer in this product gave this statement to the Record and Guide:

"While business at present is good and the improvement seems to be general, conditions do not seem to warrant the operators making any advance just now. They have not been able, so far, to agree upon what advances should be made and buyers will do well to purchase now before the advance comes."

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

The Record and Guide is regularly publishing for property owners and others information relative to the opening of streets, regulating and grading, curbing and flagging of same, as well as the construction of sewers, permanent and temporary.

The reader will understand that municipal improvements of this order are assessed against the owners of property, both improved and unimproved, situated within the district directly benefited. For example a given street is going to be paved. In all likelihood not only will the property be assessed that faces on the street directly in front of where the work is going to be done, but also property will be assessed in adjoining streets and thoroughfares which might receive the benefit of such improvement.

That the various stages of carrying through these proceedings may be followed with intelligence by the property owner they have been divided into three classes:

1. Public Works.
2. Condemnation Proceedings.
3. Assessments.

1. Under the heading "Public Works" will be printed petitions asking that improvements may be made, and the successive initiatory proceedings, including mention of the probable district that will have to bear the assessment.

Under the second heading will follow the announcement of the application for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment, later followed by their various reports and findings. Fuller explanation of the foregoing will be found as the reader proceeds.

Under the third and final heading will follow the details relating to the confirmation and the entry of assessments with a statement of the time within which they may be paid, without incurring penalty for arrears. In other words, if payment be not made within a given time, an interest charge, upon the amount due is exacted by the city, which must be paid by the owner of the property.

PUBLIC WORKS.

To specifically illustrate the successive steps in a proceeding for a public improvement, let it be assumed that a new street is required in some section of any of the five boroughs comprising the city of New York. A movement of this kind is usually started and agitated by some property owner, an association of property owners or perhaps considered by a board of trade. A petition is presented to a regularly established local board, whose function is to give the proceeding the first or initial official hearing and if deemed advisable by that body, recommendation for its adoption is made to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This latter body meets nearly every Friday morning at 10.30 o'clock in their room in the City Hall and has jurisdiction over all public improvements.

If the board approves of the petition the area of assessment (that is to say boundary lines are fixed, and all property owners who have holdings therein are assessed in proportion to the amount of their real estate contained within these bounds) except where physical betterments are concerned, such as regulating, grading and curbing streets, laying sewers and flagging sidewalks as well as fencing vacant lots, in which case the Board of Assessors determine the area of assessment and the assessments for benefit. Motion is then made by the Corporation Counsel for the appointment of commissioners to condemn.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

The next step is the appointment by the Supreme Court of three Commissioners of Appraisal, of which one is designated as a Commissioner of Assessment. The commission hears all objections made by property owners as to title and value. When every one has had a hearing preliminary reports are prepared by the commission containing the amount of awards and assessments which in its opinion the various owners are entitled to. These reports are subsequently filed for examination and objections by property owners or parties in interest who may be dissatisfied with the findings of the commission.

Public hearings are then in order, and objecting parties are given an opportunity to register their disapproval of the findings. The commission then prepares and files a copy of its final report in the County Clerk's office followed by the presentation of its report to the Supreme Court for confirmation.

ASSESSMENTS.

The report of the Commissioners as approved is then transmitted to the Comptroller for the payment of awards and the collection of assessments, who in turn publishes the date of confirmation or when the assessment should be paid and entry of the assessment in the "Record of Titles of Assessments." A statement is made giving the time within which such assessment can be paid, without a penalty. If an assessment is not paid within 60 days after the date of entry, it is subject to an interest change at the rate of 7 per cent. a year.

NEW METHOD OF CLEANING STREETS.

The Department of Street Cleaning has lately been conducting experiments with water brooms on the highways. One of these was made in Stanton and neighboring streets. The test was made with two large western tank wagons which resemble the wagons of the Standard Oil Co. Each wagon has a holding capacity of about 350 gallons of water. The water is introduced into the tank under a pressure varying from 28 to 40 pounds, and in its flow compresses the air, which in turn delivers the water through the sprinkler to the pavement. It is estimated that each wagon will cover 375 linear feet with one filling. Previously, the regulation sweepers were brought into use which gathered up the heavy refuse so that it could not find its way into the sewers. This operation was immediately followed up by a sweeping process by which the minor debris was forced along the gutters and into the catch basins.

If the plans of the street cleaning department are carried out nearly every street in Manhattan will be swept and flushed by the method several times each week. Commissioner Edwards calculates that the cost will be about 30 or 40 cents a grand square yard (1,000 square yards). The experiments were made in accordance with a bill lately passed in the Legislature which empowers the department to expend $500,000 for such work, with the approval of the Board of Estimate. While the appropriation is not available until next year, the board appropriated $100,000 to be used in cleaning the streets in the manner described for the remainder of the present year, providing the results were satisfactory to Commissioner Edwards.

NEW JERSEY-NEW YORK BOARD MEETING.

The opening of the lower Hudson tunnels, and the subsequent impetus to the real estate business, has occasioned a serious discussion at the last meeting of the Board of Governors of the New Jersey-New York Real Estate Exchange of the need of improved financial facilities for conducting realty operations. It has been charged that the existing title and trust companies of Northern New Jersey are ultra conservative in their methods of loaning moneys for building and development purposes, and that the growth of the suburban sections has been retarded in consequence of this policy.

President Otto Kempner stated that there is a constant demand for legitimate loans by operators, which are refused by the loaning institutions of New Jersey, and that many safe, necessary and praiseworthy enterprises have to be abandoned for want of capital, whose investment would be certain to yield handsome profits. This sentiment was confirmed by a recital of the personal experiences of a number of the directors present.

The board elected the following new governors: D. S. Gross, J. C. W. Rankin, H. R. Gillette and Clark Hallberg. It also elected to membership J. W. Campen, of Farmington, N. J.; A. P. Van Tuyl and Clarence H Nichols, of New York City.

"THREE CENTURIES OF NEW YORK."

The National Arts Club and the American Scenic and Historic Preservation Society have arranged in connection with the Hudson-Fulton Celebration, to hold a loan exhibition in the galleries of the Arts Club, Gramercy sq, the purpose of which will be to illustrate the growth of the metropolis from the time of Hudson's arrival to the present day.

The joint committee of the above organizations therefore invites communications from all persons who own pictures or materials of historical interest relating to New York City, stating what they possess and would be willing to loan for the purpose of this exhibition.

The objects desired are in particular, paintings, drawings, early engravings, or other pictorial or art objects bearing upon or illustrating any of the features of the exhibition.

The committee will also appreciate information as to collectors or other persons who may be in possession of such objects as would be suitable for exhibition.

The exhibition will open on Monday, 20th September, and will close on or about October 18, 1909.

DRYING NEW STRUCTURES.

Information was recently furnished by Consul Charles N. Daniels of Sheffield, Eng., concerning an English system of drying new buildings. The apparatus it appears consists of a stove with a fire-box, suitable for coke fuel, surrounded by a number of small diameter tubes, resembling gas pipes. By means of the apparatus fresh, dry outside air enters constantly into the air supply tubes, and is highly heated in the tubes surrounding the fireplace. It ascends in a dry heated state in the room, passes along the ceiling and walls, and absorbs the dampness, sinking down after being saturated with the same and re-entering the apparatus. It then mixes with the coke gases in the outlet tube for the smoke, and eventually escapes into the chimney.

It is affirmed that this constantly renewed fresh outside air furnishes an abundance of carbonic acid to the mortar, thus hardening it, and producing in a short period the same effect as if the mortar or plaster had dried in the natural way. By the use of this system it is claimed that no moisture can possibly appear later on. A striking illustration of the efficiency of this apparatus is evideneed by the fact that when used in Germany the government willingly abrogates the law which prohibits the habitation of any house until 6 months after completion.

There is no law in these parts governing the immediate occupation of new buildings, but it cannot be denied that the health of tenants is frequently jeopardized by their moving into freshly plastered rooms. Owners are not free from severe criticism by being a party to such doings, and it is therefore suggested that they employ some such system as described for the artificial drying of mortar in new buildings.

OWNERS AND MANAGERS TO MEET.—The National Convention of Building Managers and Owners will be held this fall at Detroit, Mich., on Sept. 13, 14 and 15. This will doubtless be the greatest gathering of the prominent men owning or operating skyscrapers, apartment houses and institutions ever held in the history of property management. The program covers practically all the important problems relating to construction, equipment, renting and operating of buildings. Albert J. Marshall, a man who has made a special study of the lighting question relating to buildings in New York will discuss the "Proper Illumination of Corridors and Public Space." The program will also include a stereoptican address entitled "An Hour on Elevators with an Expert," by Reginald Pelham Bolton, who is conceded to be one of the greatest authorities in the country on the question of elevators and vertical transportation. Practically every city from coast to coast intend sending delegates to this convention.

LAW DEPARTMENT

"BUSINESS SIGNS ON ROOFS."

We believe that it is a custom among our more careful renting agents to cover in leases of business property every change which a tenant would be likely to think of making in the outward appearance of the building, likely to be an eyesore to other tenants or unsatisfactory to the owner, by covenants worded to cover the danger, and necessitate approval by the owner. These covenants, however, are sometimes very generally worded and thus fail when relied on in an emergency occurring to attain the desired object.

In a prominent location of this city where an owner took great pride in the general architectural perfection and appearance of his building, a lease was at one time made of the whole building to one tenant; and changes of outward appearance as well as structural form or character, without approval, was thought to be carefully guarded against by a covenant inserted in the lease that certain alterations were to be made by the tenant at his own expense, and that "all alterations or changes in the demised premises except those specified in the lease shall be made subject to the approval of the landlord and all alterations and changes to be made subject to the rules and regulations of the municipal authorities of the City of New York."

The tenant erected on the roof of the building without permission or approval of the landlord a sign for advertising purposes some ten feet in height and ninety feet in length to the owner's intense chagrin.

The court in an action brought by the landlord to cause the removal of the offending sign gave judgment in favor of the tenant, saying "It is quite clear that the erection of this sign upon the building is not an alteration or change of the building allowed by the provisions of the lease, and neither can it be said to be an alteration or change of the building to which the plaintiff must assent. * * * So long as the use to which the tenant put the building did not in any way change or alter it, it does not seem that this clause [the covenant] of the lease applies. It is quite clear that the lessee of this property has the right to use the property in any way consistent with the purpose for which it was erected and is not restricted by the lease. If the landlord wishes to restrict a tenant in his use of the property he must depend upon an express covenant in the lease preventing a use to which he objects."

In a word there seems to be no limit of advertising signs allowed to a tenant of business property, unless covered by language much more specific than "alterations and changes," even where tending in an owner's estimation to injury of the character or beauty of the building.

PASSING TITLE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you please name the number of papers (documents, etc.) a seller of a city lot, say, 25x100, with individual residence, must furnish to buyer in Manhattan and Bronx, according to law and cost of average sale of such lot? Deed, survey, search, satisfaction, recording, etc.? More or less and where one year's taxes and assessments are not yet paid? About what is the average fee charged in New York? How many documents or papers should seller pay for? How many documents or papers should buyer pay for?

INQUIRY.

Answer.—Seller has only to furnish and pay for deed, which it would be the part of wisdom to have a good lawyer draw—charge from $5 to $10. Besides this, if there are any liens or encumbrances to be paid off and discharged from the Public Records, the seller must pay for this discharge—usually a matter of a dollar or so in each case.

The seller pays for no searches.—Editor.

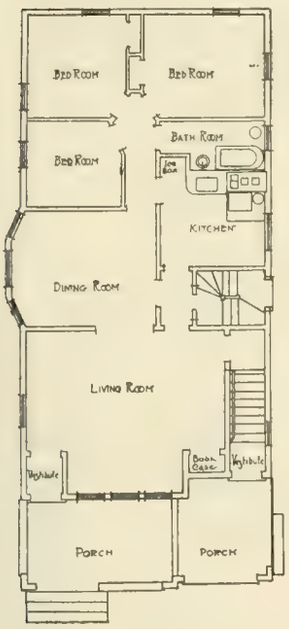
RESPONSIBILITY OF THE TENANT.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

In the lease of a private residence in New York City it is provided that the tenant shall keep the plumbing work, pipes, glass and the premises generally in repair. It appears that owing to an obstruction in the sewer connection between house and main, the cellar is flooded. Who is responsible under the lease for the necessary repairs?

Answer.—The tenant. See the similar cases of Lockrow vs. Hargan, 58 N. Y., 635; McMann vs. Antwith, 17 Hun., 163; Heintze vs. Eslacker, 1 City Court, 465; Kling vs. Dress, 5 Robertson, 521; Cohn vs. Hill, 9 Misc., 326; and Pfaff vs. Riddick, 9 Misc., 472.

EXACTING COMMISSION ON BILLS PAID.



To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

I noticed an article in your issue of July 31, signed "Square Dealing," calling attention to the pernicious habit of some agents in accepting ten per cent. commissions from mechanics employed to make repairs on the various properties in their charge. I am glad to see this question brought up and heartily endorse the suggestion that the Real Estate Board of Brokers take some action regarding it. Yours very truly,

CHARLTON W. CRANE.

UNIQUE TWO-FAMILY DWELLINGS.

IT is rapidly becoming apparent in these parts that the stereotyped dwelling of the two-family order no longer appeals to the prospective purchaser as formerly. It will be recalled that not more than six or eight years ago builders found it difficult to produce structures of the type fast enough to supply the demand. In many instances large rows were erected by construction companies and others, and it was no uncommon occurrence for owners to dispose of the greater part of their product even before they were wholly enclosed. Moreover, it is recorded that innumerable sales were made merely upon examination of the ground and plans.

The chief zone for operations of this kind originally centered around Brooklyn, especially in the Flatbush and Bay Ridge districts, later communicating itself to the Bronx. In fact, calls for the new dwelling increased so rapidly that little attention was given to plans for interior layouts or to designs for exterior architectural treatment with the result that many untenantable and totally unattractive buildings were thrown upon the market. To use the language of a large property owner, "Seven-tenths of the buyers of buildings of that type soon became disgusted with their purchases, and eventually either abandoned their homes or disposed of them to poor advantage." Besides, it should not be overlooked that in the purchase of a stereotyped two-family house, especially if it be one of a large row, the buyer is veritably labeled, so to speak, suffering no little annoyance thereby.

The conditions alluded to, together with other drawbacks equally objectionable, are responsible for the initial movement toward reform in the indicated direction. Prospective property owners are more thoroughly acquainted today with the state of affairs with respect to architecture than ever before, and for this reason architects and builders have been obliged to devote more attention than formerly toward turning out a product that will better meet the ideals of discriminating buyers. Among the new two-family houses of an improved order now being erected in these parts, perhaps the most striking are situated in Bensonhurst, on 81st, 82d and 83d sts. As will be seen by the illustration herewith these houses are unlike others of the type discussed, being built of stucco and designed to overcome many of the objections offered by buyers. The houses are of somewhat different design in the roof and attic details, but the general plan is the same.

There are two entrances, at opposite sides, and the porch on the ground floor is divided between the two families, there being no second story porch. Different levels are provided for the porches. The exterior of the house is covered with three coats of stucco, the piazza roof being of Spanish tiles, and there is no woodwork save the ceiling of the piazza, the window casings and the edge of the roof under the tiles. Interiorly the houses have a parlor or living room in front with a dining room opening from it, and back of the staircase, which runs to the upper floors, the kitchen, in the middle of the house, with a bathroom adjoining it and three bedrooms at the rear, completely shut off from the front of the house. The second story is similarly arranged with the addition of a small room over the entrance hall below, which can be used as a den or a sleeping room if so desired. On the third floor there are five large rooms, two of which go to one family and three to the other, or which can be connected into an apartment by themselves as there is a bathroom and an adjoining room which could be converted into a kitchen. To show the attention to details in the construction of these houses, it is only necessary to say that a sewer connection has been provided for the ice box. In the basement are two separate heating apparatuses and a large laundry and drying room for joint family use. The woodwork, mantels, lighting fixtures, wall paper and finish are all the same as put in the highest class private houses. With their attractive surroundings these houses are regarded as marking a new departure in building operations of this character hereabouts. The O. L & W. G. Perfect Contracting Co., owners, direct particular attention to the fact that the buildings described are cool in summer and warm in winter.

NOVEL SUBURBAN RESIDENCE.

SEMI-ANNUAL INDEX READY.

Subscribers to the Record and Guide will do well to purchase the semi-annual index which is just off the press. This index contains a complete list of all auction sales, conveyances, leases, mortgages and projected buildings in Manhattan and the Bronx covering a period from January 1 to July 1, 1909.

Without the aid of this index, considerable difficulty might be experienced by anyone desirous of looking up a record of a given parcel. In other words, assuming that it was known that a given parcel was sold in the early part of the year and that specific information was desired. It would be necessary to look through each copy of the Record and Guide to find out when the item appeared. With the index at hand this work is minimized. All that is necessary to do is to turn to the proper street, and the page on which the record appears is given, together with other records pertaining to property located on that thoroughfare.

The cost of this index is purely nominal, being only one dollar. Subscribers should be careful that all the numbers for the six months are complete and have them bound, and then a lasting record is created which will become of great value. A suitable temporary binding is furnished, for the convenience of subscribers, so that all the numbers may be kept intact until the volume is complete and ready for a permanent binding. A complete key is printed on the first page of the index which greatly simplifies the work of anyone using the Record and Guide.

As there is only a limited number of these indexes published, those desirous of obtaining one should apply immediately at the office of the Record and Guide, Nos. 11-15 East 24th st.

CAUTION NECESSARY WHEN BUYING.

One becomes careless at times when about to take title to real property. A short time ago a prominent operator in Bronx realty negotiated for the purchase of a much coveted plot of ground. After the preliminary arrangements were concluded the agent for the seller produced the contract for execution which the purchaser signed without hesitation. Upon looking over the agreement later he discovered to his consternation that he had agreed to accept a quit claim deed in place of a full covenant warrantee deed.

It should always be borne in mind that a purchaser is obliged to accept from the seller the kind of deed called for in the agreement. If it says that the seller is simply to give a deed, that is satisfied by his giving one without warrantee or covenants. If the agreement is simply to give a deed in fee, that will not be satisfied by giving a title subject to encumbrance. If the words "good and sufficient" are used, the seller is bound to convey a good title; he must give a warranty against encumbrances, and must convey the legal estate in fee, free from all other claims or liens whatsoever; the seller's wife must join in such a deed. If the contract says the "title to be satisfactory," that implies only that the title shall be "good and marketable." A quit claim deed does not give a very good title; it simply conveys whatever right or title or interest the grantor may have in the property described, at the time that he signs and delivers the deed. Such an instrument would take precedence, however, of a prior unrecorded warrantee deed from the same grantor, if the purchaser under the quit claim has no notice of the prior deed and if there is nothing stated in the quit claim which suggests an earlier conveyance; but a quit claim deed will not operate, as a warrantee deed does, to carry subsequently acquired title of the grantor. If a deed of this description is taken the purchaser can hardly be regarded as a bona fide buyer without notice of outstanding titles and equities.

THE WEEK.

ALTHOUGH the market at the present time is exceedingly sluggish, nevertheless the number of sales reported compares favorably with those reported during the corresponding period last year. Unquestionably the market is at the lowest ebb just now, and the next few weeks will see a decided increase in activity. From a builder's standpoint conditions are favorable. A large number of projects, both large and small, are well under way, and the fall will see many new operations started.

This is the season of the year that brokers are devoting much time to the renting end of the business. There is a large number of newly completed apartments which must be tenanted, and agents are devoting most of their energies to this end. The first few months of a new building usually tells the story. It is either a success or the reverse is true. Once the renting period is past and satisfactory results unaccomplished, the owner has a long, hard winter ahead of him, and is sure to face a loss of considerable size.

Renting agents are anxious to get the buildings finished as soon as possible, for they figure that they need all the leeway possible. There is a good demand for private dwellings just now, though a good house, at a reasonable rental is difficult to obtain. There are many houses for rent on the West Side, but the figures asked by the landlords are, in many cases, almost prohibitive. Boarding-house keepers are invading many streets, in that locality, where formerly strictly private families resided. This last mentioned class has been driven into apartments on account of the large rental demanded, and the fact that much of the labor of keeping house is assumed by the manager of the property.

When a street is invaded with boarding houses, it is a sure sign of the end as a dwelling house section. It is only a question of time before one of three things happen. Either the present structure is converted into a business building or it is demolished and an apartment house or loft building erected in its place. Should any of these improvements happen the property is naturally placed upon an entirely new footing and consequently on a different renting basis.

Several loans of importance were recorded during the week, including one for $1,750,000, given by the Mutual Life Insurance Co. to the Pocono Building Co. The property affected is located at the northeast corner of 4th av and 18th st. A modern office structure is going to be erected on the site by the borrowers. Another building loan was secured by the Townsend Realty Co. from the Union Dime Savings Bank. The amount involved in the transaction was $400,000 and the property is situated at the northeast corner of Riverside drive and 91st st. An 11-sty modern apartment house will be erected on the site, which is 72.4x115 in size. Messrs. Townsend, Steinle and Haskell are interested in the property. Another loan of $400,000 was made by the Lawyers Title Insurance & Trust Co. for five years at 5% to Reginald de Koven, the composer, on the property known as the Lyric Theatre, on the north side of 42d st, 200 ft. west of 7th av. This holding has a large frontage on 43d st.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THE offerings in the salesroom were composed of legal sales entirely, and were of the ordinary run. The lack of interest on the part of the investment public was distinctly noticeable, the bidding being slow. The attendance at the various sales was small. It is realized that July and August are the worst months in the year to put property up at auction, and those owners who can retain their holdings are unwilling to take a chance and advertise it for sale. It is not the best thing in the world for an owner to bid in property at auction, for if the price is low, it sets a value not only on it, but on similar parcels in the neighborhood. The stated consideration will remain permanently a matter of record and prospective buyers are apt to see it, and conclude that it is a fair price.

At the stand of L. J. Phillips & Co., 68 Willett st, 5-sty front and rear tenements, 24.9x100, were sold to the plaintiff in the action for $29,432. The amount of the judgment was $7,922.51; taxes and other charges aggregating $531.08. The property was subject to a prior mortgage of $25,000. The vacant plot, 50x98.11x50x99.2, located on southeast side of Valentine av, 108.9 ft. northeast of 198th st, was sold to the plaintiff for $13,050. This sale was the result of an action brought by Abraham Kaufman against M. E. Stein et al. The judgment was $6,758.71; taxes, etc., $24. The property was also subject to a prior mortgage of $6,250.

At the stand of Joseph P. Day, among other parcels, 2388 Arthur av, a 4-sty tenement with stores, 37.6x84.8x37.6x84.10, and located 112.6 ft. north of 186th st, was knocked down to the plaintiff for $22,506. In addition to a prior mortgage of $15,000, the property had a judgment filed against it amounting to $3,723.97 and taxes and other charges amounting to $1,503. Herbert A. Sherman advertised the sale of a plot, 473.3x823.4x irregular, on the west side of Ferris av, 816.3 ft. south of some land owned by St. Joseph's Institute for Deaf Mutes. The sale was adjourned to Aug. 17th.

GOOD ROADS AND REAL ESTATE.

With the rapid increase in the number of automobiles owners of real property in the outlying districts are beginning to evince considerable interest in the question of dustless thoroughfares. It cannot be denied but that dealing in improved real estate in some localities is being retarded as a result of the present condition of many of our leading highways. Reports from the suburban towns and even within the boundaries of Greater New York indicate that owners of both dwellings and flats situated in affected sections are not only finding it difficult in many instances to sell their holdings, but are experiencing no end of trouble in keeping their buildings rented as well.

Lest no unnecessary fear be awakened with respect to the ultimate outcome of the situation, it can be stated that owing to the influence of persons of prominence, property owners' associations and other taxpayers' bodies, there is under way a strong movement toward a quick reform in the indicated direction. Commenting on the matter of good roads the American Contractor says:

It is now pretty generally recognized by highway engineers that the macadam road is, for modern conditions, obsolete, and that from now on first-class roads must, by the admixture of proper ingredients, have a mastic property, by virtue of which dustless roads will become a reality and undue depreciation from disintegration of the road be avoided. The good roads problem, although precipitated by the automobile, has been left alone for generations and extends in its far reaching importance and effect much farther than the consideration of its relation to the automobile; in fact, as far as any economic question can reach. The automobile is broadly a medium of communication and traffic upon which the very life of the nation depends. Roads are simply media for facilitating traffic, incidental to animate and mechanical road traction, and not an end in themselves. This last should be obvious, but some seem to think the preservation of roads out of date for modern purposes is the great desideratum. But progress in fundamental matters cannot wisely be impeded by incidental considerations. It is clear that the automobile is an improved method of accomplishing a fundamental function.

Our roads of the present day were developed for horse-drawn traffic, in the case of which the elements affecting the making and preservation of roads are materially different from those of automobile traffic. The effect of horse hoof impact is plain. The effect of rolling and driven motor wheels is, in great part, at least, understood. It is a fact that for the same speed an automobile injures a road less, or, at least, no more, than a horse-drawn vehicle. On a properly built road the effect of automobile traffic is beneficial, not injurious.

Very few well-informed highway engineers will state that the automobile alone injures an ordinary macadam road more than a horse-drawn vehicle alone. The rapidly growing theory is that the meat of the problem lies in the combined horse and motor traffic—horses cutting up the roads and automobiles stirring up and displacing the material thus cut up. The automobile is not an abnormal or a flagrant offender even on roads which were never constructed for it. Even if it were more of an offender, it must, as a medium of progress, be provided for adequately.

An irresistible movement for the construction of good roads is under way in this country. The members of the highway commissions in many states are able men, bending every energy to road progress, finding the best specifications for modern roads, and how to construct and maintain them. The United States bureau of good roads is doing a great deal of efficient work, having recently begun a series of tests, cooperated in by members of the Association of Licensed Automobiles Manufacturers, to secure reliable data on the actual effect of automobile and horse-drawn traffic on roads. There are many technical and financial problems in the whole large question, which problems, it is very gratifying to note, are being taken up in a rational, thorough and, in all probability, successful way.

TIME ONLY WILL TELL.—We must not lose sight of the fact that, although a building may not at the end of 100 years be completely worn out, the character of the business may so change that the buildings are not adapted to it, and that they will be rebuilt, as we have seen the older buildings replaced with new ones of different style.—BUILDING MANAGEMENT.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the lettrs "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

July 30, 31, Aug. 2, 3, 4 and 5.

Vol. LXXXIV. AUGUST 14, 1909. No. 2161

ACCORDING to every indication, business has now completely recovered from the panic of 1907 and the depression which succeeded it. In the short space of less than two years the country has passed through one of the worst financial crises in its history, and an equally acute shrinkage in the volume of trade, and has recovered therefrom, whereas both in 1873 and in 1903 the period of recovery required some four or five years of economy and business re-organization. The whole episode has constituted an extraordinary instance of financial and industrial vitality; and yet there can be no doubt that we have not exaggerated the facts, and that the recovery is real and sufficiently stable. The prices of leading railway and industrial stocks have reached a level much higher than the highest one, which was reached in 1906; and they are being advanced still higher without any apparent strain of credit. Railroad earnings are in many cases going beyond those of 1907. The steel manufacturing industry cannot keep up with its orders. Labor is being better employed all over the country; and the usual cry is being heard of the dearth of men to harvest the crops. The railroads are giving out large orders for new equipment in anticipation of an unprecedented volume of business. The crops are all that the most enthusiastic farmer could desire, and they will be sold at high prices. The tariff has been revised without bringing in its train any radical transformation of the situation confronting the average American manufacturer. There seems to be no immediate fear of an acute revival of anti-corporation legislation; and the bills looking towards railway regulation, which the administration will urge upon Congress at its next session, will apparently ameliorate rather than injure the legal standing of large railroad and industrial combinations. Just at present there does not seem to be a serious cloud in the sky; and the average American business man is indulging in glorious anticipations of expansion and prosperity.

THE QUESTION which should be seriously considered by everyone who is capable of influencing the future of American finance and industry is the course which should be steered in order to prevent this industrial and commercial expansion from traveling too far and too fast. No business man in his senses wishes to repeat very quickly the experiences of 1906 and 1907; and it is into a condition of this kind which American buoyancy and optimism is always pushing the industries and the finances of the country. One difficulty both in 1903 and 1907 was that the country was trying to do too many things at the same time. It was trying to conduct an enormous and expanding business, improve its manufacturing plant and its transportation facilities, put up the prices of stocks and bonds, digest enormous issues of new securities, augment the speculative value of real estate, and increase in every part of the land the rate of wages and standard of living. It is desirable now as it was in 1906 or in 1902 that all these objects should be accomplished; but the amount of capital and labor existing at any one time even in the United States is limited, and it is not enough to carry on every kind of development all at once. A selection has to be made or else the prosperity of the country turns sour in the mouths of its supposed beneficiaries, and the wholesomeness and comparative permanence of any period of business prosperity depends upon the fact of such selection and the intelligence which guides it. Unless the current business expansion is to be soon checked or distorted, such a selection must soon be made; and there can be little doubt as to the class of business development which should be temporarily sacrificed for the good of the whole movement. The period of speculative increase in stock values must cease for a while, and the credit of the country must be used for other purposes. During the past eighteen months there has been a more or less continuous bull market, which has almost doubled the value of the great majority of stocks. This market has been justified, and has not only anticipated the business revival of the country, but has effectively contributed to that revival. It was absolutely essential that the credit of the large corporations should be restored before they could resume a policy of expansion. But the purpose of the upward movement in stocks has now been accomplished, and in case the movement is continued much farther it will become a hindrance rather than a help to additional business expansion. Stocks cannot be continued to be put up without an increasing use of credit; and the credit of the country will be needed for other purposes. It will be needed above all by the railroads for the purpose of making their facilities equal to the demands which business expansion will put upon them. During the past year they have been raising funds chiefly in order to liquidate expensive loans contracted a few years back; but hereafter they must resume their work of improvement, and will require several billions for the purpose. The credit of the country will, of course, also be needed by manufacturers and merchants for their own legitimate purposes. It is essential, consequently, that a period of rest should supervene in Wall Street, and that the attention of financiers should be directed not towards increasing the prices of old securities, but towards the issue and digestion of the new stocks and bonds which must soon be issued.

PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSIONER MALTBIE confirmed during the past week the recent intimation that the official plans of the Commission would include a lower West Side route. About a month ago it was announced that the contractors interested in the Broadway-Lexington avenue route were prepared to bid on a West Side extension; and it is now definitely stated that the plans for such an extension will be submitted to the Board of Estimate early in the Fall. The fact that the Broadway-Lexington route is to include such an addition very much diminishes the force of the objections previously made thereto; and the Manhattan resident and business man will have the comfortable assurance that in any event the contracts given out next year for the construction of new Subways will not neglect such an important centre of business and traffic as the Pennsylvania Terminal district. The acceptability of the proposed addition to the Broadway-Lexington Subway depends, however, to a considerable extent upon the route which it follows. The line originally suggested extended merely from Seventh avenue and Thirty-fourth street down Seventh avenue and Varick street to Canal street. At Canal street it connected with the Broadway and Brooklyn lines, and at Thirty-fourth street it connected with Lexington avenue. Such a Subway would have its value; but its value would be much reduced by the lack of an upper West Side connection. A much better route would be obtained in case the proposed Subway were extended along Seventh avenue to Fifty-ninth street and there connected with the Lexington avenue Subway. The additional mile of tunnel to be constructed would pay handsomely for its cost, and it would enormously increase the value of the extension. It would give the Pennsylvania Terminal a much needed connection with Times Square and the theatre district. It would give the patrons of the Lexington avenue Subway a much needed connection not merely with the shopping district, but with the theatres and restaurants north of Thirty-fourth street. Finally an extension north to Fifty-ninth street could be ultimately continued westward across Fifty-ninth street and under Central Park West, and would serve that part of the West Side now most in need of express tracks. It is very much to be hoped, consequently, that the proposed extension will not terminate at Thirty-fourth street, but will be continued up to Central Park.

THE INTERBOROUGH COMPANY certainly seems to be beaten in the competition for new subway routes. The only explanation of the attitude of the Public Service Commission is that the Commission is trying to construct an independent system, which will compete with the existing Subway, and which will be leased to some powerful corporation, such as the New Haven Railroad Company. The attitude of the Commission is inimical to the Interborough

Company and favorable to its possible rivals; and it looks as if the decision had already been substantially made to give the preference to the latter. In that case the Commission must have been offered strong inducements to abandon its habitual policy of favoring a unified control of any single public service; and the Record and Guide has always suspected that this inducement consists of a vast Subway and tunnel system connecting all the Boroughs. The different parts of that system would consist of the New Haven lines and the new Westchester road in the Bronx, the Fourth Avenue Subway in Brooklyn, and the Broadway-Lexington-Seventh-Avenue route in Manhattan, and these parts would be tied together by the Connecting Railway between the Bronx and Queens and the Pennsylvania tunnels under the East River. The Pennsylvania and the Long Island Railroads would unite with the New Haven in building up a vast system of interborough rapid transit. If this suspicion proves to be correct, a strong argument can certainly be made on behalf of granting these railroads the franchises they need; and the Interborough Company would necessarily be left out in the cold. We do not see any way in which the Interborough company can block the establishment of such a vast competitive system, save by the bold expedient of itself submitting a bid for the Broadway-Lexington route. This route does not follow the line which the company really needs; and it parallels the existing subway unnecessarily, but it should be a very profitable subway to operate. If the Interborough company is bound to have competition, it would surely do better to compete with itself than to permit the rivalry of a new corporation. If the management of the company is wise, it will not play a losing game by sticking blindly and stubbornly to its own plans; but it will forestall competition by bidding on the routes of its rivals. Those routes would cost more to construct, but they could be made to pay handsomely.

THE STATE OF EMPLOYMENT in the Building Trades of New York and vicinity no sooner reached the highest average in several years than it began to recede a little. Bricklayers are less busy than they have been, and the last official report from the unions stated that the work was but "fair," instead of being "good," as it was for a period. Many operations, started early in the year, are being closed out, and there are, consequently, intermissions which are natural and seasonable. Some new work has been delayed by slow deliveries of steel, following from a congestion of orders, but on the whole the building trades are better employed than for years. Reports of more work than there are mechanics to handle it are still coming in. The plasterers are the latest to find that they have more applications for mechanics than they can fill. Stonesetters, stone masons and tile layers have been similarly favored for several weeks. Notwithstanding minor irritations occasionally arising, the relations between employers and journeymen continue amicable in general, and they are believed to be upon an enduring basis. Against this solid buttress of peace minor controversies can hardly prevail. The housesmiths and bridgemen have again applied for reinstatement through representatives in the General Arbitration Board, which is a testimony of appreciation of the plan beyond doubt; but the question arises as to the expediency of receiving back those who have separated themselves, or have been cast out for cause. The Painters also have applied for readmittance to the shelter of the plan, and the members of the General Arbitration Board are deadlocked on both applications. Both trades have found by experience, since they have lost the protection of the Plan, that it is a convention which involves wages as well as ethics. So desirous are the iron handlers of reestablishing themselves under its benefits that one of their delegates has publicly expressed the opinion—and presumably it is merely his own opinion—that his union will strike in September if not let in. This is the only cloud in the sky, and it is a small one. The Building Trades Council of the American Federation of Labor has not been informed of any demand that iron men propose to make, and without the approval of the Council they would hardly venture. The rules of the Federation require that a demand shall first be presented to the Council for approval or disapproval not less than fifteen days before it is to go into effect, and that it shall be read at two meetings before final action shall be taken. The "open shop" is now in force against three large trades; namely, the carpenters, housesmiths and bridgemen and the painters; but while the employers no longer recognize the organizations as such, they honor union cards and give union men the preference as individuals over non-union mechanics. The relations between the two parties are, therefore, not so discordant as they seem. All the other trades continue under the protection of the Arbitration Plan, and the probabilities bring testimony that there is no likelihood of anything resembling a serious fracture of the peace,—notwithstanding those vacant chairs in the General Arbitration Board. That absent representatives find it hard to get back should make those who are in more content to stay.

FOURTH AVENUE'S LARGEST MERCANTILE BUILDING

The two 12-sty fireproof twin structures to be known as the Peter Cooper Building, to be erected at the southeast corner of 4th av and 28th st and the northeast corner of 4th av and 27th st, on a plot measuring 185x98.9 ft. and 166.8x98.8 ft., will have entrances on the side streets as well as on the avenue, with basements, stores and eleven floors of lofts, so arranged that they may be advantageously divided. The first story materials will be of granite, the second and third stories of Indiana limestone, and the upper floors of light matt finished glazed brick. Work on the excavation is now under way. Being on corners and having a court 40 ft. wide, faced with light brick, permanent and abundant light and air will be secured. The equipment will be of the most approved and modern type provided with first-class service in all departments. There will be in each building five Otis electric elevators, two for passengers and three for freight, also two sidewalk elevators; all of the latest type and provided with safety devices. The plans provide for toilet rooms on each floor, sprinkler and automatic fire alarm systems, standard United States mail chutes. There will be vaults under the sidewalks on 4th av 20 ft. wide by 15 ft. wide in 28th and 27th sts. The janitor's apartments will be built on the roof. The Hewitt Realty Co., 50 Church st, is the owner; Clinton & Russell, 32 Nassau st, the architects, and the Thompson-Starrett Co., 49-51 Wall st, the general contractor.

WHAT ESTIMATING COSTS.—Five representative general contractors in Chicago were each asked to give an estimate of the cost to them of making bids on buildings during one year. The cost to each contractor averaged $125 for each building; the average cost of the buildings estimated was $100,000 to $150,000. The cost of the estimating of the sub-contractors and material men was $378 in addition to the general contractors' expense, making a total of $503 for each general bid. As there are at least six of these for each building, and often many more, the total cost of the bids for each building was at least $3,018, which would be 2 to 3 per cent. of the total cost of the building. In addition to this, the statement from the contractors showed that the average number of jobs bid upon by each one was 72, and out of the number 10 jobs were secured by each one; so that each contractor averaged one job to every seven on which he figured. Computing then the expense of these five contractors, their sub-contractors and material men for estimating during the year, it is found that it cost these men $180,583 merely to estimate the cost of these buildings. These figures are apparently an argument that competitive bidding, by reason of the time spent by a large number of bidders, adds materially to the cost of buildings.

—Some of the best known apartment houses, such as the Lorington, Dorilton, Chatsworth, Van Dyck and Severn, Mayfair, Spencer Arms and the Lorraine have adopted the policy of supplying refrigeration and either giving light free with the rent or selling it at a reduced price, believing that the renting results warrant this course.

CONSTRUCTION

GRAND BOULEVARD NEARLY FINISHED.

Will Be the Main Line of a Wonderful Building Movement—Two More Crossings to Finish—Will Be Opened This Fall.

PROBABLY before the end of the coming Fall the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, with one exception the noblest drive in the whole city, will be opened to public use. At this writing road-makers are at work surfacing the few unfinished portions and it is the opinion of Chief Engineer S. C. Thompson that the whole job, so far as the building and surfacing of the Boulevard itself is concerned, could be finished within two months' time.

When the road is turned over to the city by the contractors the Bureau of Highways will take charge and much will be done to adorn it during the years to come, but as a construction proposition the great road that has been seven years in building and was agitated for long years before that, is to all intents and purposes very nearly finished.

Of five subway crossings for important transverse roads, one at Kingsbridge road, one at Tremont av and one at Burnside av, are finished. Those at 167th and 204th sts are being completed. The photograph given of the Tremont av crossing illustrates the other four as well.

Running two-thirds of the length of the Bronx, the Concourse begins at 161st st, between Walton and Sheridan avs, and ends at Mosholu Parkway. It is 182 ft. wide. Planned in accordance with chapter No. 546 of the Laws of 1890, work upon the construction of it was begun on Sept. 11, 1902.

A BUILDING MOVEMENT IMMINENT.

With the drives still unopened, there is, of course, no signs yet of a new building movement, at least on the parkway itself. Sewers are in, but water mains, gas pipes and electric conduits have not yet been installed. These latter will go behind the curb—under the sidewalks. Inquiry elicited that builders were skeptical as to the nearness of the time for the opening of the road. If the building movement along the Concourse is to compare in rapidity and intensity with what followed the opening of Riverside Drive and the paving of upper Broadway after the opening of the subway, great times are only just ahead for this region.

At present the public seems to be putting more faith in the probability of rapid transit on Jerome av as an inspiration for a building movement than on the completion of the Grand Boulevard and Concourse, expecting that the next line built in the Bronx will be an elevated extension on that avenue. President Haffen says the annihilation of the debt limit obstruction to the building of additional subways is practically assured. The Legislature has voted to submit to the people, at the next election, a proposed amendment to the State Constitution whereby municipal bonds issued for rapid transit railroads and dock extensions and improvements that are self-sustaining will be excluded from the city debt limit in computing the legal borrowing capacity of the municipality. It seems to be as certain as a future event can be, that the amendment will be adopted. This will make possible the early construction of Bronx subways by the use of the city credit, as was done in the construction of the existing subway. The Board of Estimate and Apportionment and the Public Service Commission have adopted and approved rapid transit plans that are commensurate with the needs of the borough. Jerome av and all the territory within West Bronx, are embraced within a comprehensive system of transit that will revolutionize existing conditions in the zone outside the present subway and elevated lines.

On Morris av, which lies between the Boulevard and Jerome av, builders are more active than on any other thoroughfare under the influence of or likely to be benefited by the opening of the Boulevard. William E. Diller is building ten 3-sty brick houses on Morris av, suitable for either one or two families, but planned primarily for two. They are not mere flats, but houses of quality. Farther north on the same av, between Tremont av and 179th st, August Jacob & Son have improved two whole block fronts with 3-sty brick houses and have had the road paved with wood block. Sixteen houses were completed last year and sixteen this year. On two corners of Morris and Tremont avs 6-sty apartments and stores are under construction.

The Greatest Building Centre.

It has been said that the leading local industry in the Bronx is the erection of new buildings. President Haffen says in a pamphlet he has just issued that the assertion is based on something more substantial than fancy or a figure of speech and is proved by the building statistics. The remarkable growth and prosperity of the borough is perhaps best attested by the number and cost of the buildings constructed in the last dozen years. No section of any city in the world can exhibit a similar record of progress and expansion. Official records show that since 1895, 25,864 buildings of every description constructed in the Bronx at an aggregate cost of $262,000,000, which is the cost of buildings alone, and does not include the value of the land on which the buildings stand.

The substantial character of the building operations is indicated by a comparison of the average cost of new buildings erected in the borough, with the average cost of new buildings in other outlying boroughs of Greater New York. The average cost of 3,097 filed in the Bronx in 1908 and the first five months of this year was $13,200, against an average of $5,900 in Brooklyn, and $3,500 in Queens. The average cost of buildings erected in Chicago in 1908 was $6,367; Philadelphia, $2,036; St. Louis, $2,644. From Jan. 1, 1908, to May 31, 1909, plans were filed in the Bronx Building Bureau for 635 apartment houses to cost $21,862,500, or an average of $34,270 for each house. This is an extraordinary record, unequalled by any city in the world or by any borough except Manhattan.

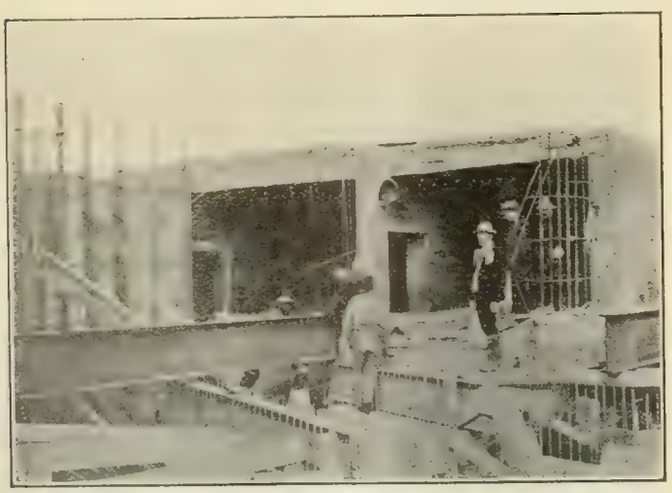
Sewer Construction in the Bronx.

The most important of the 27 sewer contracts in force at the present time in the Borough of the Bronx is the Webster av storm relief tunnel sewer, extending from Webster av near Wendover av to the Harlem River, about 231 ft. north of High



PILE FOUNDATIONS OF AVENUE A SEWER.

Bridge. This sewer is being constructed to relieve the Webster av sewer and its outlet, the Brook av sewer, which together have proven of insufficient capacity to satisfactorily care for the drainage of the Mill Brook watershed. The tunnel sewer will be the equivalent of a circle of 13 ft. diameter, and will fully provide for all the storm flow during the heaviest storms.

The total length of the sewer will be 6,870 lin ft. The excavation, except in Webster av and near the Hudson River, is practically completed, and it is expected that the whole will be finished this year, and about 1,700 lin. ft. of sewer construction is practically finished. The total work contracted for amounts to about $790,000, of which work estimated to cost $270,000, remains to be done.

Altogether the sewer contracts in force represent a total estimated cost of $1,654,338.64. This year the outlet sewer in Av E, between 152d st (Lacombe av) and Westchester av, has been completed at a contract cost of $402,490. This work was started in May, 1907. This sewer is 6,576 ft. in length and at its outlet is equivalent to a circle 13 ft. 9 ins. in diameter, and at its upper end, near Tremont av, is equivalent to a circle 7 ft. 6 ins. in diameter.

The sewer now being constructed in Lafayette av, between Westchester Creek and Av A, and in Av A, between Lafayette av and Green lane; Green lane, between Av A and Westchester av; 172d st, between Av A and Parker av, and in Parker av, between 172d st and Westchester av, is another important part of the outlet system of sewers for the Westchester and Unionport sections. The total length of this sewer is 6,000 ft., and its size at the outlet is equivalent to a circle 16 ft. in diameter. The total estimated cost is $656,137, and it has been partially completed to the extent of about $300,000. The main outlet for these two sewers (Av E and Av A) will be through Lacombe av and White Plains road to East River, which outlet improvement has been authorized by the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. Plans are underway and the same may be awarded at any date. The estimated cost of this work is $829,000.

THE FINEST FERRY TERMINAL

The Jersey Central's terminal at Liberty st is the handsomest and most spacious on the island. It is at last completed, after several years of work, for the operation formed part of the general West st widening scheme. The facade, which is made of copper, is a remarkable piece of construction in itself. It stands 130 ft. back from the old street line, and has a length of 500 ft. The ferry building, which was the last portion of the work to be finished, takes 172 ft. of the total frontage, and the rest is taken by the freight station and steamboat accommodations.

For the ferry passengers there is first a spacious lobby, with the usual ticket offices on one side and baggage room on the other; but the room, while having the same uses as other ferry lobbies, has what most others have not, distinction in design and finish. From this lobby stairs ascend to other waiting rooms above, and beyond, on the first floor, is the main waiting-room, which has an area 60x70 ft., with the height of two stories. The second story has an approach by a bridge over West st, and this has several waiting-rooms, one particularly for ladies, and another set of ticket offices. This floor contains also seven offices and lounging-rooms for employees.

Quartered white oak is extensively used in the interior trim, with ceilings in ornamental plaster and decorative glass panels. Floors in the waiting-rooms are of marble mosaic. Asphalt, wood block and "granolithic" are used for passenger exits, driveways and certain other passageways respectively.

The structural frame is of light steel, with hollow tile partitions, on a substructure of piles capped with concrete piers rising to the floor level, and having reinforced concrete girders between piers supporting a slab 9 inches thick of the same material. The second floor and roof consist of reinforced concrete slabs carried between girders about 5 feet on centers. The concrete was a 1-2-4½ mixture, Dragon cement being principally used. Hydrex felt was used as a sheathing behind the exterior copper work.

Altogether, it was an exceptional piece of work and brought together a variety of trades rarely found contributing to the same operation. In the current issue of the Architects' and Builders' Magazine will be found a series of illustrations, together with an extended description. The structure was designed and supervised by the engineering department of the railroad company. Charles T. Wills was the general contractor for the building, and V. J. Hedden & Sons Company for the interior trim.

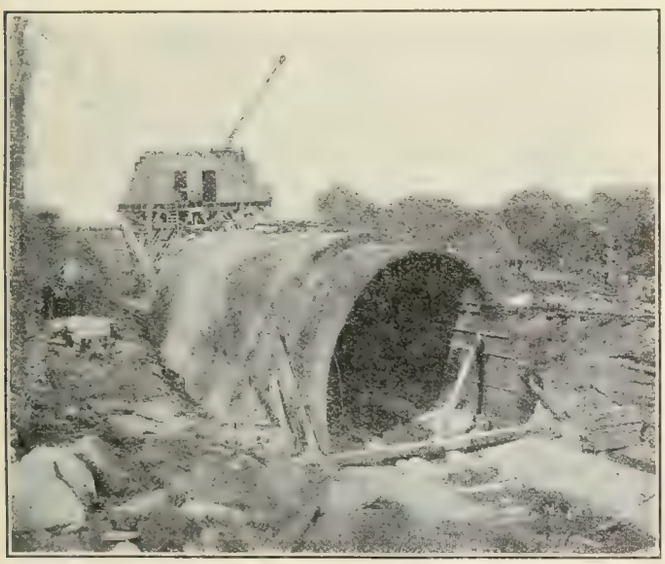
GAS METERS MAKE GOOD.—During the two years ended June 30 last the Public Service Commission tested only 3,460 meters of the Consolidated Gas Company. Fully half of that number were meters tested at the request of the company, the balance having been tested at the request of consumers. Of the 3,460 so tested 1,619 turned out to be absolutely correct and others were shown to be running "slow" or against the company. While the companies have always refunded money to consumers where "fast" meters were found, they have never sought to collect from consumers in the case of "slow" meters through which gas has been consumed but not registered.

THE PENFIELD PATENT.—The brick manufacturers for this market were greatly interested in the Record and Guide's account of the doings in the Chicago brick trade with relation to the Penfield patent brick machine. Later information comes from Mr. Penfield himself, written on the paper of the American Clay Machinery Company, manufacturers of clay-working, pottery, sand-lime brick and cement machinery, with general offices at Bucyrus, O., and a New York office at 50 Church st. R. C. Penfield, the president and general manager, states that he and his associates are working on a brick-setting and handling machine and expect to have an outfit in regular operation in the near future, but are not yet in a position to offer machines to Eastern brick manufacturers.

PUBLIC MONUMENTS OF 1908.—During 1908 there were expended, according to records carefully kept by "Monumental News," four million dollars in the making and erecting of some hundred and fifty public monuments, which ranged in cost from $5,000 to $753,100. Eighty-five, erected or contracted for, were of the more imposing class, usually involving large architectural structures or sculptured bronze groups. These eighty-five cost about $3,500,000. The Prison Ship Martyrs' Monument in Brooklyn and the Soldiers' Memorial Temple in Pittsburgh and the Pilgrim Memorial at Provincetown—the latter two under way—were the most important.

CONCRETE ALL THE WAY.

The City Sections of Aqueduct to be Built By the Cut and Cover Method With Concrete, the Same as the Country Sections.



PROBABLY reinforced concrete will be the form of construction used for the Catskill aqueduct that will convey the water from Hill View Reservoir, in Yonkers, under the Boroughs of the Bronx and Manhattan and beneath the Harlem and East rivers as far as Brooklyn. The aqueduct, so far as its construction has advanced, is being built of concrete by the cut-and-cover method wherever possible. Its dimensions in general are 17 ft. high by 17.6 wide. The tunnels on the hydraulic gradient also have a height of 17 ft., but their width is reduced to 13 ft. 4 ins. The valleys of the Rondout, Wallkill, Moodna and Croton rivers will be crossed by pressure tunnels, deep in the rock, having a circular water way about 14 ft. 6 ins. in diameter.

While the engineers have not fully decided, every probability points to the selection of concrete as the material of construction for the city divisions, the same as for the outside divisions, rather than some other material. For the high pressure service recently installed a huge iron pipe was used. The aqueduct, so far as planned, will eventually take 4,000,000 barrels of cement, but the deliveries will be distributed over a rather long period. The contract of McArthur Brothers Co. and Winston & Co. will take, for example, 1,100,000 bbls. At the first of this year their contract for the Ashokan reservoir was only 7 per cent. completed after more than a year's work, and the date set for the completion of the contract is 1915. It will take them eight years to finish the 1,100,000 bbls., or an average of 137,000 bbls a year.

THIS YEAR'S PRINCIPAL CONTRACTS.

Contracts made this year by the commissioners include the following:

Contract 16 was made with King, Rice & Ganey, for a section of cut-and-cover work at St. Elmo, in the Wallkill Valley. Contract No. 17 bears date of April 1, 1909, and was with the American Pipe and Construction Co. Contract No. 20, dated June 18, was let to the Mason-Hanger Co., and covers the Moodna Syphon. Contract 22, dated March 24, to Patterson & Co., for the Breakneck Mountain cut-and-cover and the Bull Hill tunnel. Contract 23, dated March 25, to the Glyndon Construction Co., for the Hunters Brook (Yorktown) cut-and-cover section. Contract 24, dated April 13, for Yorktown cut-and-cover and Turkey Mountain tunnel, to the Bradley Construction Co.

CUT AND COVER AQUEDUCT UNDER CONSTRUCTION, NEAR PEEKSKILL.

Contract No. 45, dated June 4, to the Pitts Construction Co., for a part of the Orange County cut-and-cover. Contract 47, dated April 1, with the Degnon Construction Co., for the south half of the Bonticou-Wallkill Syphon and cut-and-cover. Contract 85, April 12, to C. W. Blakeslee, for the Croton cut-and-cover, and Chadeayne tunnel.

LAST YEAR'S CONTRACTS.

In addition to the contract for the Ashokan dams, four other main contracts have been let, as follows: Contract 2, dated April 10, 1907, was awarded to the Thomas McNally Co. It covers the construction of about 42,000 ft. of cut-and-cover aqueduct and also about 15,000 ft. of grade tunnel. Work on this contract, which is east of the Hudson River and just north of the Croton watershed, has been in progress during the past year, and had been about 13 per cent. completed in January of this year.

Contract 12, dated June 12, 1908, was awarded to the T. A. Gillespie Company. It covers the construction of about 24,000 ft. of deep pressure tunnel under the valley of the Rondout as well as about 3,000 ft. of grade tunnel. Eight shafts, ranging in depth from about 380 to 700 ft., are being put down for the purpose of driving the pressure tunnel.

Contract 11, dated August 5, 1908, was awarded to the Stewart-Kerbaugh-Shanley Company. It covers the construction of about 34,000 ft. of aqueduct in cut-and-cover, and about 3,500 ft. in grade tunnel. The work under this contract extends from a point about a mile below the Olive Bridge dam to the north side of the Rondout valley. Contract 15, dated September 9, 1908, was awarded to the Elmore and Hamilton Contracting Company. It covers the construction of about 16,000 ft. of cut-and-cover aqueduct located just south of the valley of the Wallkill.

PORTAL OF GRADE TUNNEL AT CAT HILL, NEAR PEEKSKILL.

At the Hudson River crossing, opposite Cornwall, the Board of Water Supply is carrying on the work of sinking two test shafts with its own forces. These shafts are being put down so that drill borings can be made from them for the purpose of determining the elevation of the rock profile beneath the river bed. The putting down of vertical holes in the bed of the river has proven to be a very difficult undertaking on account of the great depth of cover over the rock and the interference due to vessels and tows in the river. Even should a number of vertical holes be put down to the rock it would still be necessary to depend upon horizontal borings for a final determination of the character of the rock.

THE JAMAICA BAY IMPROVEMENTS.

The Jamaica Bay Improvement Commission has obtained an appropriation of $75,000 for making surveys and plans to show types of bulkhead, general treatment of the shore front and provision for railway connections and terminals.

Colonel John G. D. Knight, the resident representative of the War Department in this district, in a report to the Chief of Engineers of the United States Army, recommends cooperation on the part of the Federal Government in the Jamaica Bay improvements, by the opening and maintenance of an approach to the bay at Rockaway Inlet and the construction of a main channel involving a very large expenditure by the Federal Government.

As a result of this report the River and Harbor Bill passed by the last Congress directed the Secretary of War "to report as soon as he is satisfied that the City of New York is prepared to undertake the work to be done by it preliminary to or contemporaneous with any dredging to be done by the United States Government as recommended in the report and plan of the Secretary of War transmitted under date of February 25, 1909, for the improvement of Jamaica Bay and its entrance at Rockaway Inlet and Dead Horse Inlet."

NOVELTIES.

Things You May Not Have Heard About Yet That Will Make the Building More Desirable.

KITCHEN SINK WITH CHAIR ATTACHED.—The housekeeper has been shopping all day. She returns home, throws herself in an easy chair and watches the hands of the clock slowly move around to the hour when she must prepare the dinner. It means that she must be on her feet at least an hour more. If she gives way to her desire for rest, husband will come home, dinner will be late and he will be cross. One company has on the market a sink with chair attached. When not in use it swings out of sight on a hinge attached to the iron leg of the drain board. The housekeeper can sit and peel potatoes, stir sauces, etc., etc., etc., at the sink, and when she does not want to use it she does not have to take extra steps around it as would be the case with a kitchen chair. In apartment house kitchens, where the gas range is usually near the sink, this would afford a seat for the cook while preparing dishes that require constant watching. This should prove a tenant getter.

CLOSET BOWL HANGS FROM WALL.—The bane of the concrete builder is the necessity of putting holes in floors through which to run plumbing. The newest thing in this feature of plumbing is the water-closet bowl that is suspended from the wall. This is especially adapted for buildings of reinforced concrete or steel construction. Holes in the floors weaken spans. This closet permits the soil pipe to pass through the wall. The closet sets near the wall and requires less piping. It is said, that it cannot stop up or clog out of easy reach, it has prompt, powerful action and requires little water for perfect flush and permits easy scrubbing of the floor. It is more sightly than the old type.

QUICK REPAIRS FOR WORN STAIR TREADS.—A well-known firm is in the market with a quick and cheap method of repairing stair treads when they have been worn down by years of constant usage. Furthermore, it is unnecessary to remove the old tread. At the same time the old weakened surface is made stronger than it was before. The hollow is filled in with a special preparation and a cork composition and over that an iron tread is placed. The value of the whole improvement rests in the latter feature. This is composed of a base of rolled, unperforated steel or hard brass (delta metal) with dove-tailed grooves filled with lead or carborundum. It is impossible to slip on this device even though the step is covered with ice or oily substance. They may be inset in granolithic steps and sidewalks.

FRESH AIR WITHOUT DUST.—Every occupant of an office knows the annoyance of trying to get fresh air through an open window and at the same time keep papers over which he is working before him. Every housekeeper knows the annoyance of trying to ventilate rooms and at the same time have clouds of dust sweep into the apartment. A device has just been perfected to overcome these difficulties, and it is now on the market. It is made of cold-rolled steel, copper plated, and is therefore rust proof. It is made without the use of wood and therefore does not warp with use and cannot crack. Within is a dust-proof screen of fine brass or copper wire through which the fresh air passes under the base of the window-sash, where it is placed when in use, yet keeps out dirt and all impurities. A noiseless slide on the inside of the ventilator controls the supply of air. It is made in sizes to fit any window from 20 to 74 inches wide. It fits so closely into the window-frame that it is entirely out of the way of curtains or shades. An attachment comes with it, to permit of locking the window with the device still in place as shown in the illustration. Only two inches of it shows from either inside or outside. There are no valves to get out of order and it is rain and snow proof.

A PAINT THAT LAYS CONCRETE DUST.—The introduction on the market of a preparation that will lay cement dust promises to ultimately increase the popularity of cement floors in office buildings and factories. One serious objection to a concrete floor is that it continually dusts, and despite frequent sweepings and washings each abraisure results in small particles of silica and lime floating through the air. In places where delicate machinery is in operation this is sometimes a serious fault. It is well known that oil should never be put on a concrete floor. It has been found that fatty acids in the oil forms a combination with the concrete, causing the floor to expand and blister. This new composition consists of a filler and paint, and is painted on the cement floor after it has cured from three to four weeks under proper conditions, should the floor be new. It is not necessary to wash the floors before applying the material. They should be dusted off thoroughly. It can even be applied where oil has soaked into the concrete from machinery. After the filler has been applied, a coat of the paint is given. These materials will spread 300 square feet to the gallon. When, through wear, it is necessary to repaint it is unnecessary to apply a new coat of filler. A special preparation is made for laboratories where acids are used and for lavatories and toilet rooms.

GUARDS AGAINST SPONTANEOUS COMBUSTION IN HOUSES.—The use of asbestos lumber and shingles have long been known to the trade, but it is only recently that it has been applied to the manufacture of wasteboxes and storage cases for factories, offices and residences. The wastebox is made of asbestos boarding, 30x30 ins. and 42x42x48 ins., and is reinforced at the edges. This is used for the storage of cans containing combustible materials such as oil, etc., while the wastebox is 18 ins. square by 4 ft. high and contains two separate apartments. This is used for the storage of oily rags and other materials that are likely to take fire if left lying neglected about the premises. Being made of asbestos and tightly closed air cannot get in and may smoulder for days without harm to property. The device commends itself to factory owners and office building tenants.

ONE PULL UNLOCKS AND OPENS WINDOW.—This is a device more applicable to factories, dynamo stations or stores where, during the day, it is desired to throw open the entire rear window equipment for fresh air and at night be sure that they are all safely locked, yet are placed at such heights from the floor that it is inconvenient to close them all by hand. When the window is closed, an iron ball attached to the end of a wrought-iron band falls over a bar of the same metal, securely fastening it above. A chain connects this with a similar fastening device at the bottom of the sash. From the top fastener falls a brass chain, which is within reach of the operator. When this is pulled, both balls fly up, and the window falls forward. Here is where another improvement comes in. It is well known that most appliances of this character permit the window to "spin." The company that has this device on the market corrects this by placing just above the axis a brace with a groove in its end which fits over a bar attached to the window frame. When the window is open to its fullest extent these braces check it and bolt it firmly so that it cannot be blown shut by the wind. The pulling chain is also fitted with the usual fuse block tested to 155 degrees.

EDISON IMPROVES CEMENT MAKING METHODS.

THOMAS A. EDISON has discovered another improved method for the manufacture of cement, which, coming upon the eve of the perfection of the poured concrete house which he expects to build for $1,250 for persons in moderate circumstances, would seem to aid in paving the way toward the realization of the distinguished inventor's pet scheme. The latest accomplishment of the West Orange Wizard is the result of several years of study and the expenditure of a great deal of money in making experiments.

Soon after the Edison Portland Cement Company's mills were established in New Village, N. J., Mr. Edison stood one day watching some laborers drilling and blasting the face of a cliff. He saw the blast "shoot," dodged with the others to avoid the shower of debris, and then he watched the laborers redrill and blast several large boulders which were blown from the working breast. He glanced at his watch and was surprised to note how long he had been watching that operation. That set him to thinking. "Why not devise some means for crushing those big boulders and thus save labor, time, dynamite and money?" he asked himself.

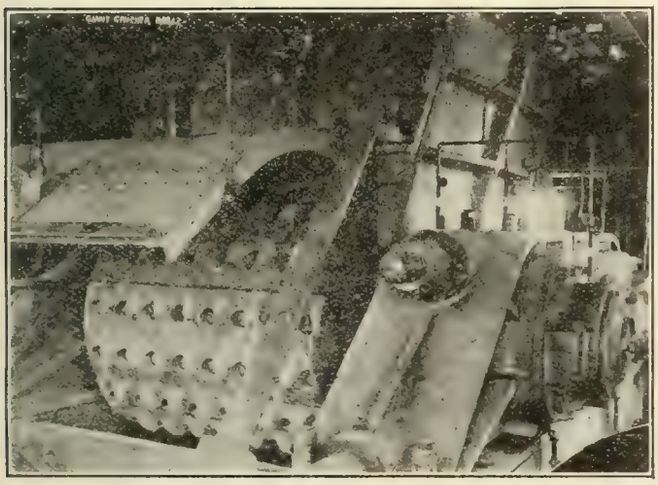

FIG. 1—SHOWING THE ROLLS DIRECTLY BELOW THE HOPPER.

To-day at the New Village, N. J., mill the result of that visit to the quarry is in operation and, having proved itself a success, has just been placed on the market. Heretofore the use of the steam shovel at a quarry has been limited. By Mr. Edison's invention their use is augmented. The contrivance is known as a "giant roll crusher," and bears its inventor's name. It consists of two large rolls six feet in diameter and seven feet in width. They weigh 110,000 lbs. each, the complete machine containing 860,000 lbs. of iron and steel. The rolls are built of such strength and massive proportions that no shock or strain, however great, can break or injure them.

These rolls have octagonal faced mandrels, on which are fastened corrugated plates, and the high speed of the rollers brings the bumps against the surfaces of the rock with such force that they are literally chewed to bits in a few seconds. Rock weighing from twelve to fourteen tons, and from seven to eight feet in diameter, are devoured in an instant. A description of the operation of this giant device is interesting.

FIG. 2—SPECIMEN BOWLDERS THAT THE ROLLS CRUSHED IN FIFTY SECONDS.

In front of the machine a freight car is backed up. On this conveyance is a huge steel scoop containing a bowlder of cement rock that weighs about fourteen tons. It is from a foot to two feet higher than a good sized man, and three men could hide behind it. An electric hoist picks up the scoop and holds it over the hopper. The giant rollers under the hopper are attached to a pulley riding on a steel shaft almost a foot thick by a huge belt. A terrific speed is developed and then, at the operator's word, the bowlder is dropped into the receptacle.

Like a pebble in a child's hand, it is tossed about as the rollers strike its surface. It seems to be a thing of life, so lightly is the 14-ton rock tossed about. But the impression lasts only a minute, for in scarcely that time it disappears, and when the eye seeks it at the discharge it is transformed into thousands of small rocks, six inches or less in diameter and of such size as to permit of ready crushing in a smaller machine. Before another car can be backed up to the hopper and the scoop raised, the greedy steel maw is ready for the second bowlder. With the use of several 100-ton steam-shovels the rolls will crush an average of 750 tons an hour, or 7,500 tons a day of ten hours. This average has been demonstrated at the mills.

To cement manufacturers in particular and to companies operating quarries for road work or for the manufacture of concrete stone in general, the invention of Mr. Edison seems to have a special interest. Stone cannot arch in the course of transit from the crusher to the rolls. In this particular one of the most prolific sources of waste is removed.

Although the machine has been on the market only a short time, orders have been received and installations are being made to six quarry companies in New York, Michigan and Illinois.

STANDARDIZING GOVERNMENT PLUMBING.

The United States Treasury Department has completed specifications covering all branches of plumbing work that will hereafter be installed in post offices and Federal buildings throughout the country, Hawaii and the Philippines, with a view to standardizing equipments hereafter to go into those structures. Similar specifications have been prepared by order of the Quartermaster General of the United States Army. This in time will follow in all commodities installed in any treasury and army building and it is thought that other departments will take up the idea.

Following out the specifications to the letter, the Federal-Huber Co., of this city and Chicago, have issued two illustrated books, one handsomely bound in real seal and kid lining and the other devoted to the Treasury Department needs, bound in black paper with gilt inseals conforming strictly to the needs of architects, inspectors and contractors directly interested in the United States Treasury or Army Department construction work and more especially that part relating to post-office work. In its compilation no attempt has been made to make it a catalogue although in the book are shown fixtures that this company has installed for post-office work where the general specifications have not applied and in addition plumbing accessories suitable for this class of work. In cases where appliances conform to the Treasury Department specifications, the fact is noted under each cut.

BRICKLAYING SPEED AND COSTS.

As a result of the very careful investigation of the Sewer Department of the city of Boston, Metcalf & Eddy, consulting civil engineers to the Boston Finance Commission, present in a recent report some facts regarding the cost of bricklaying by municipal employees. Comparing the smaller sewers built by the Massachusetts Metropolitan Commission with those built by the day labor force of the city of Boston, the engineers find the prices ranging from $9.04 to $18.34 per thousand on the day labor work by the city, whereas on the Metropolitan work done by contract the highest price was $4.23 and the lowest $2.77.

Based on the number of brick laid, the difference between the day labor work of the city and the contract work of the Metropolitan Board is as noticeable as is the difference in cost. These items are particularly interesting when it is noted that upon the city work, taking the average for a whole week, the number of brick laid per mason per hour was as low as thirteen, and the largest number was 242, as against 94 and 570, respectively, upon the Metropolitan work. The highest number per hour for the average of an entire job done by the Sewer Division was 78, whereas the lowest average upon Metropolitan work was 165 and the highest 384.

TIME SCHEDULE FOR ELEVATORS.—Where schedules are not maintained in operating elevators, loads of starting and of acceleration, and, in electric elevators, those of retardation, come together in excessive amounts. The main feature of schedule operation, however, is, according to Reginald Pelham Bolton, the convenience afforded on upper floors, by the accessibility of a car passing at regular intervals. To hold back each car until it is filled would, and does where practiced, produce a series of gaps of time when no car is available, while at other times several cars are passing a floor simultaneously in the same direction. The schedule interval, which is obtained by dividing the round-trip time by the number of cars, is a measure of the convenience of the service, and it has been found that where it exceeds 20 seconds, in rapid business service, complaints soon arise.

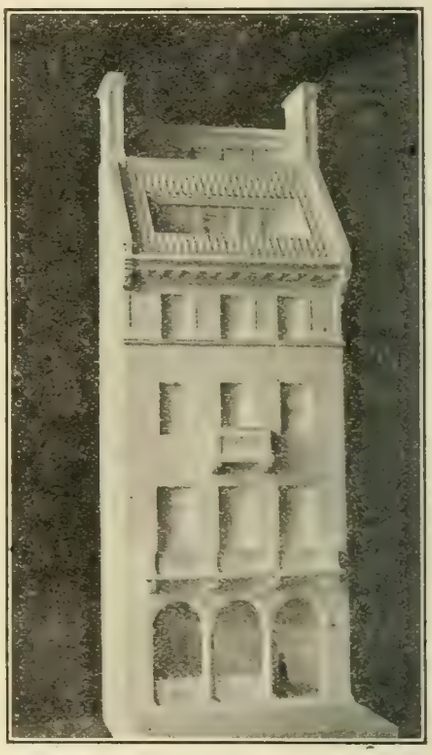
The three top stories are fitted up with all the up-to-date apparatus necessary for machine shop, etc., etc. Special accommodations have been made for the comfort of chauffeurs.



The building is constructed in the best manner in every respect, and will be of heavy construction. An electric light and power plant will be installed. The equipment of the present garage of the Automobile Club is to be connected with the new building, and the whole structure when completed will be the largest and most up-to-date and perfectly equipped structure of its kind in existence. But then August was always a dry, smothery, lazy month in the city, and good only for farmers' crops.

The John T. Brady Company has the granite walls of the new Bronx courthouse about two-thirds up.

The site is being cleared for the new Millbank Building, at the southwest corner of 4th av and 25th st.

W. L. Rouse and L. A. Goldstone, architects, have formed a partnership, under the firm name of "W. L. Rouse & L. A. Goldstone," 12 West 32d st.

Mr. Morris R. Sherrerd, chief engineer of the Department of Public Works, Newark, N. J., has been retained as consulting engineer by the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission.

Mr. Orin F. Perry, general manager of the Rockland-Rockport Lime Co., which has offices in the Fuller Building, went to the company's quarries at Rockland, Me., this week. He will return on Monday.

The quantity of manufacturer's material imported into the United States in the fiscal year just ended exceeds that of any earlier fiscal year in the history of the manufacturing industry of the country.

Mr. Albert Moyer, manager of the sales department for the New York office of the Vulcanite Portland Cement Co., Fuller Building, is in Canada enjoying a short vacation. He is expected back on Monday.

Building statistics from other cities naturally show large gains over the corresponding portion of last year, because building was dead in 1908. The statisticians should make their comparison with a live year.

Mr. Frank C. Jennings, of Bruce & Cook, sheet iron and metals, of 170 Water st, is spending his vacation in camp in the Adirondacks. He will be back at his desk after Labor Day. Mr. Jennings recently was in the finals in the contest for the principal golf trophy at the Shinnecock links.

H. E. Eastman, who has been representing the Woodbury Granite Company in the West for three years, is now representing the Eastern territory as sales manager for his company, which has offices at No. 1 Madison av. Mr. Markham, the local representative, will continue in his former capacity as usual.

William Dean Ham, originator of the Concrete Builders Exchange, and president of the Monolith Hollow Wall Company, of 45 West 34th st, who has been at Hot Springs, Va., for the benefit of his health since January, is reported to be about the same. His work here is being looked out for by Donald Hope, vice-president of the Exchange and of the Hollow Wall Company.

At an election recently held at the Atelier Jallade, 218 East Forty-second st, New York City, the following officers were elected: Gerard Betz, massier; A. Goldner, secretary; L. A. Abramson, treasurer and financial secretary. The reports of the officers showed that the Atelier has been successfully launched, and its first season closed with a clean record for all problems submitted in competition with the other Ateliers.

The Gillette Safety Razor Company is the latest large concern to locate its factory in the McAdoo tunnel zone of New Jersey—but not in Jersey City. It has bought a tract 809x1,042 feet in size, or about two acres, at Freylinghuysen and Evergreen avs, in the Waverly section of Newark, which cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, and will erect thereon about $200,000 worth of buildings. The present factory in Boston will be abandoned.

The Pennsylvania Railroad has dissolved its advisory board of engineers, as the more important questions in the development of the tunnel project has been disposed of. The board consisted of Gen. Charles W. Raymond, chairman; Mr. Charles M. Jacobs, chief engineer of the North River Division; Mr. Alfred Noble, chief engineer of the East River Division, and Mr. George Gibbs, chief engineer of electric traction and station construction. The president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Mr. James McCrea, has conveyed to these officers the thanks and appreciation of the company for the satisfactory discharge of their weighty responsibilities.

Tenants of the Engineering Building.

In a petition for the placing of a station on the proposed extension of the McAdoo underground railroad at 39th st and 6th av, New York, the secretary of the United Engineering Society, Mr. F. R. Hutton, prepared the following details of occupancy of the building and attendance at various meetings held in the building during the year 1908. List of societies occupying offices in the Engineers' Building and statement of membership:

American Society of Mechanical Engineers, 3,800; American Institute of Electrical Engineers, 6,400; American Institute of Mining Engineers, 4,300; N. Y. Electrical Society, 950; American Gas Institute, 1,300; N. Y. Association Opposed to Woman Suffrage, 2,060; Electrical Manufacturers' Club, 50; Wire Inspection Bureau, 24; Empire State Gas and Electric Association, 75; American Association of Electric Motor Manufacturers, 200; National Electric Light Association, 3,065; Museum of Safety and Sanitation, 50; Boone & Crockett Club, 173; Association of Edison Illuminating Companies, 68; Technical Society of New York, 150; Explorers Club, 110; Society of Naval Architects and Marine Engineers, 870; American Street and Interurban Railway Association, 1,000; Illuminating Engineering Society, 1,065; Municipal Engineers of City of New York, 565; total, 26,215.

Hudson River Brick Statistics.

The value of the brick manufactured on the Hudson River in the year 1908, according to a report just issued by the New York State Geological Survey, averaged only $4.75 a thousand, as compared to $5.20 a thousand in 1907.

The total number of common brick marketed from the Hudson River region in 1908 was 817,459,000, as compared with 1,051,907,000 in 1907. The largest production was in 1906, when it amounted to 1,230,692,000, or about 50 per cent. more than that for 1908.

There were 114 plants in operation last year with an average product of 7,171,000 against a total of 122 plants and an average product of 8,622,000 in 1907.

The decline in the production was generally distributed over the nine counties of the region, and all reported a smaller total than in 1907, though the largest falling off was in Rockland and Ulster Counties. Ulster County stood first in size of output, as in the preceding year, with a total of 179,166,000, valued at $816,947. Rockland County maintained its place as the second largest producer in the region and reported a total of 172,926,000, valued at $800,603. Orange County's total was 151,869,000, valued at $747,637. Dutchess came next with 132,000,000 brick, valued at $605,371.

A SUMMARY.

On the whole business last year was poorer than for a long time,' says the State report, with prices throughout at so low a level as to afford little or no profit to the manufacturer. An unfavorable factor was the large number of brick carried over by the yards from 1907, amounting to fully 300,000,000, according to reliable estimates. The season of manufacture was very short. The prevailing prices in the early part of the year averaged about $4.50 a thousand. As the season advanced there was a gradual improvement; and shipments were made at $4.75 and $5 in the summer. The upward tendency continued throughout the fall and early winter, with the revival of building operations, and at the close of the year prices reached as high as $6.75 and $7.

The Outlook in the Asbestos Trade.

The asbestos trade suffered little in the recent depression, and though the outlook for the coming year is for lower prices on the lower grades of material, high-grade crudes and fibers will probably remain at the present prices. The whole industry is better established now than ever before, and with stable trade conditions must greatly increase in volume.

USES OF ASBESTOS.

The variety of uses of the fireproof and insulating qualities of asbestos is constantly increasing. One of the notable applications in recent years is as a pigment under the name "asbestine," which on account of its fibrous structure has the property of holding up other heavier pigments in the paint. Mixtures of asbestos with various compounds play an important part in fireproof construction. Such materials are asbestos building lumber, century shingles, asbestos slate, asbestic for stucco and plaster, and asbestolith.

ASBESTOS IN THE GRAND CANYON.

The best asbestos yet found in the United States is near the bottom of the Grand Canyon of Arizona. It is cross-fiber chrysotile of exceptional quality. The outcrop is extensive, but as the product must be packed on donkeys about 12 miles down one side of the canyon and 4,000 feet up the other side, and thence be hauled 20 miles to the railroad, only the hand-cobbed, best grade of material can be shipped at present.

GENERAL STATISTICS.

All the asbestos mined and sold in the United States in 1908 was mined in Georgia and Vermont, and the total output of the various grades was 936 short tons, an increase from 1907 of over 42 per cent. The total value of the output of refined asbestos in 1908 was $19,624, as compared with $11,889 in 1907, an increase of 64 per cent. According to the report on asbestos by J. S. Diller in the "Mineral resources" series of the United States Geological Survey for 1908, the increase in value thus indicated is due to the greater production than ever before of chrysotile, the variety of fibrous mineral which is best adapted to textile processes and commands the highest prices. The main source of raw material, however, continues to be Canada, whence came all but $1,646 worth of the imports into the United States in 1908, valued at $1,068,322. Much over half of the asbestos exported by Canada came to the United States. The United States leads all other countries in the manufacture of asbestos products.

A Portfolio of Satisfied Clients.

The most satisfactory form of praise is expressed satisfaction. When the Water Supervision Company, of 3 Park Row, started in business three years ago, it first had to begin a campaign of education. It had to tell the houseowners and tenants in Gotham that they were losing money by paying more than they received in value and that it had a way of actually keeping dollar bills in the burdened taxpayer's pocket. A few days ago this company issued an attractive brochure containing sixty-three of the hundreds of letters of appreciation received from clients who have been faithfully and profitably served by this company. It is the most convincing proof that this company actually does what it says it will do.

Thousands of water meters are inspected and reports made on them each month by this company. Among them are meters used by estates, corporations and individuals. Railroad managements realize, they say, that the Water Supervision Company's system increases net earnings. Real estate managers have tried the system under most exacting conditions and have retained the service. This is what the company does:

It has a corps of trained meter inspectors and plumbing experts. Once each month one of these employes visits the premises receiving this service, and inspects the entire equipment, from meter to rooftank, noting the action of the former and inspecting every possible outlet on each floor. If a tap leaks, there is a source of waste. The installation of a new one is advised. Perhaps a pipe leaks. It is discovered before the constant dripping weakens the plaster and rusts and finally causes other pipes to leak, doing great damage. To install a new pipe would mean a trivial cost. Without the inspection, that pipe might have leaked unnoticed for months then, some day, other pipes might have burst, the walls or ceilings might have dropped. Tenants, annoyed, might have moved out and thus entailed additional loss. For a nominal fee each month, all this is avoided. It pays and stays.

BUILDING MATERIAL AND EQUIPMENT

Midsummer Lull Affects Building.

Building material interests are feeling the usual midsummer lull, prices are low, save in iron and steel, and new enterprises are not going ahead. There are some instances where the number of sales have been normal, but there is little noney in them. Furthermore, no decided improvement is looked for until the first of the month. Brick has not recovered from the prices quoted last week. Shipments are still coming in, but not what is generally accepted as first-class material. Cement is holding its own, but deliveries do not extend over ninety days. Most of the mills are busy, the majority working to capacity, but this is thought to be due to replenishment of depleted stocks rather than to new business. Prices still stand at $1.43. Lime is sluggish. Lumber finds a gradually improving market with the approach of the Fall season. Pine flooring seemed to take the lead in sales this week. Stone is still dull, with little local business. Most of the quarries are rushed, but that business is mostly from the West. Collections are good.

Brick Market Still Sluggish.

The brick situation remains in the same condition reported last week. Market quotations range from $4.50 to $5 for common hards. Several instances were reported where $5.25 was obtained, but these are exceptional, and do not represent prevailing prices. The feeling is general that prices will not drop any further, but on the other hand no prophesies are being made as to when conditions will improve.

Transactions last week were: holdovers, 16; arrivals, 69; sales, 74. Eleven cargoes held over for this week. These are normal figures, and show that the shipments met a slightly improving market.

From one source it was learned that if the present condition continues manufacturers will stock up their sheds and stop making, or at least ease off for a while. An unprecedented run of good brick making weather is responsible, in a large measure, for the present over-supply. Some dealers are taking advantage of present prices and are stacking, but this would be more general if better grades were coming in. As it is few are loading heavily.

STEEL DELIVERIES IMPROVED.

Dealers report that improvements have been made in deliveries of structural work and that jobs that have been held up for the last two weeks are now going ahead. This may permit of a larger consumption here, but some think that even with this barrier removed, the demand at this time will not be greater than the supply.

KEEN COMPETITION IN LIME.

The lime business has been the victim of a chain of unusual circumstances this year, and now when it should be getting on its feet it is assailed by exceptionally keen competition. Some prices have dropped, others, such as the better grades of Rockland-Rockport and Palmer, have remained at the old figure and have offered only high grade goods. Some of the other brands have been compelled to reduce their former quotations to meet the figures put forth by competitors. There is said to be little profit in lime when it is selling at present prices for cheaper grades and no improvement is looked for, apparently, until the Spring. Rockland-Rockport "L" standard brand is now quoted at $1.05 and Rockland-Rockport Special, 320 lbs., is $1.37. Select finish is still sold at $1.62. These figures illustrate the present situation in a nutshell. The competition is in the cheaper grades, while those who want high class lime are willing to pay for it at the old rates. Palmer held to its old figures.

It was explained that the conditions cited were caused by a number of smaller companies coming into the field. The Spring proved erratic, the early Summer months were spasmodic in sales, and present conditions are not what they should be. This is due to a lull in building operations. Another two months, doubtless, will bring about some improvement. It was said that if this had been a good business year in lime, the little fellows would soon be sold up and the standard companies would be doing a larger business in cheap grades. In a dull year the little fellows flourish.

Cement Business Holds Its Own.

Nearly all cement interests in this city report good sales since the change in current prices last week. "Business is holding its own," said one man. Most of the sales so far are for short deliveries, there being still hesitation about tying up for deliveries continuing to the first of the year. Most of the new business is for ninety days and under. There were one or two exceptions to this, but as a rule the short delivery business is enthusiastically taken.

The Vulcanite Portland Cement Company reports having all its mills in the Lehigh Valley in operation. Atlas, Lawrence, Alsens, Alpha, Edison and Lehigh report similar activity. All the companies are trying to cover their depleted stocks to ward off a shortage at the end of the year. Few big sales are reported, but there are great numbers of small ones.

Northern Pig Iron Moving Up.

With prices as high as they are there is little current business. A big decrease in tonnage and inquiries has been noted since a week ago Thursday. There is almost nothing on the market to sell. Buffalo sold at the lakes at $15.75 and $18.15 here. There is some Buffalo in stock, and even at the price quoted it went quickly. Pennsylvania went up, but Buffalo was firm. Northern advanced this week. Southern stood at last week's quotations. The new figures are: For No. 1 Jersey City, $17.75 and $18.25; No. 2, $17.25 and $17.75, and No. 2 Plain, $16.75 and $17.25. This is an advance of twenty-five cents on minimum and fifty cents on maximum.

JERSEY FURNACE BLOWS IN.

A little greater activity was noted in coke this week, due probably to new furnaces blowing in. The mill at Oxford, N. J., blew in last week and was the destination of large consignments ordered through this city. Another mill to blow in was at Catasuqua, Pa.

STRUCTURAL STEEL DULL.

The boom that is being experienced at the mills is not being reflected in the local structural market. Prices are better and there is a better feeling, indicating that business is on the mend, despite the presence of the usual mid-summer lull. The steel manufacturers are busy, but this is mostly in railroad work. The fabricators find competition keen. This is an indication of slackness in new work. Architects are holding back until steel prices come down. Work is going ahead rapidly in New Jersey, however, especially in Jersey City and Hoboken. Building operations aggregating $2,000,000 are under way within three blocks of McAdoo tunnel terminal in Hoboken. A number of big bank operations aggregating $1,400,000 are contemplated in Jersey City. In the latter case, operations are temporarily hampered because of the high price of structural steel. The steel corporation is now running within 9 per cent. of capacity. The Cleveland furnaces have withdrawn all previous schedules.

TIN AND SHEET METALS QUIET.

The tin and sheet metal markets are feeling the midsummer lull. The business is healthy and collections are good, but there is a shrinkage in volume. Assurances from architects' offices are to the effect that the Fall will be a good building season, but that the real boom is looked for in the Spring. Deliveries are constantly growing worse. In five weeks, it was said, material will be actually scarce. While the feeling is pretty generally concealed, it is plain that sheet metal people think that the strike at the sheet metal mills will be more serious than was at first anticipated. This has been heightened by the encouragement the strikers received when the Independents signed the Amalgamated scale.

Tin prices advanced about fifteen points as a result of London speculation and the presence of a stronger tone in foreign markets. Lead is firmer.

Pine Flooring Leads Lumber Sales.

Reports from the various wholesale lumber companies show that the leading sales this week have been in good pine flooring with a strong demand for West Virginia Spruce. Business on the whole has been fairly good for the retailers, but the wholesalers are still slack, although some improvement has been noted. Wholesalers are advising buyers to lay in stocks now for early Fall. An advance on Eastern cargoes of from $2 to $3 is expected because of curtailment of production in mill centres, Maine and Canada. Already the prices on clear spruce stock has been advanced a little. Hardwood continues to firm up on better grades of chestnut, oak and ash.

Stone Still in a Rut.

New business for building stone in this city is still reported light. Some companies like the New England Granite Works, the Woodbury Granite Works, the Benvenue Granite Works, and A. Klaber & Son, marble, report fairly good business, but save in the last two instances much of that business is not in this city. Numerous small contracts, of course, are being received by all of these companies, but the really big work is out of this city. As proof of this, the case of the Woodbury Granite Co., of No. 1 Madison av, is typical. This company is cutting and shipping Woodbury Pink for an M. E. Church in Astoria, L. I., and some of their pink granite to the Jersey City High School, for use in construction of approaches. Those are the principal local contracts. Out of the city the company is cutting and delivering the following granites for these jobs:

City Hall, Chicago, $1,500,000 of gray; Pro-Cathedral, Minneapolis Minn., $500,000 Bethel white; State Capitol, Masison, Wis., two wings and dome, $2,500,000 Bethel white; post office, Grand Rapids, Mich., $500,000 Woodbury gray, and the Youngstown, Ohio, Court House. In the latter case there were three contracts, first the base, then the cornices and finally the approaches. It can readily be seen that the value of almost any one of the out-of-town contracts is greater than the local ones.

One company reported that it had $8,000,000 worth of business at its quarries and that only a very small percentage of that business was being sent to what is defined as the Eastern District.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

The Record and Guide is regularly publishing for property owners and others information relative to the opening of streets, regulating and grading, curbing and flagging of same, as well as the construction of sewers, permanent and temporary.

The reader will understand that municipal improvements of this order are assessed against the owners of property, both improved and unimproved, situated within the district directly benefited. For example a given street is going to be paved. In all likelihood not only will the property be assessed that faces on the street directly in front of where the work is going to be done, but also property will be assessed in adjoining streets and thoroughfares which might receive the benefit of such improvement.

That the various stages of carrying through these proceedings may be followed with intelligence by the property owner they have been divided into three classes:

1. Public Works.
2. Condemnation Proceedings.
3. Assessments.

1. Under the heading "Public Works" will be printed petitions asking that improvements may be made, and the successive initiatory proceedings, including mention of the probable district that will have to bear the assessment.

Under the second heading will follow the announcement of the application for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment, later followed by their various reports and findings. Fuller explanation of the foregoing will be found as the reader proceeds.

Under the third and final heading will follow the details relating to the confirmation and the entry of assessments with a statement of the time within which they may be paid, without incurring penalty for arrears. In other words, if payment be not made within a given time, an interest charge, upon the amount due is exacted by the city, which must be paid by the owner of the property.

PUBLIC WORKS.

To specifically illustrate the successive steps in a proceeding for a public improvement, let it be assumed that a new street is required in some section of any of the five boroughs comprising the city of New York. A movement of this kind is usually started and agitated by some property owner, an association of property owners or perhaps considered by a board of trade. A petition is presented to a regularly established local board, whose function is to give the proceeding the first or initial official hearing and if deemed advisable by that body, recommendation for its adoption is made to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This latter body meets nearly every Friday morning at 10.30 o'clock in their room in the City Hall and has jurisdiction over all public improvements.

If the board approves of the petition the area of assessment (that is to say boundary lines are fixed, and all property owners who have holdings therein are assessed in proportion to the amount of their real estate contained within these bounds) except where physical betterments are concerned, such as regulating, grading and curbing streets, laying sewers and flagging sidewalks as well as fencing vacant lots, in which case the Board of Assessors determine the area of assessment and the assessments for benefit. Motion is then made by the Corporation Counsel for the appointment of commissioners to condemn.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

The next step is the appointment by the Supreme Court of three Commissioners of Appraisal, of which one is designated as a Commissioner of Assessment. The commission hears all objections made by property owners as to title and value. When every one has had a hearing preliminary reports are prepared by the commission containing the amount of awards and assessments which in its opinion the various owners are entitled to. These reports are subsequently filed for examination and objections by property owners or parties in interest who may be dissatisfied with the findings of the commission.

Public hearings are then in order, and objecting parties are given an opportunity to register their disapproval of the findings. The commission then prepares and files a copy of its final report in the County Clerk's office followed by the presentation of its report to the Supreme Court for confirmation.

ASSESSMENTS.

The report of the Commissioners as approved is then transmitted to the Comptroller for the payment of awards and the collection of assessments, who in turn publishes the date of confirmation or when the assessment should be paid and entry of the assessment in the "Record of Titles of Assessments." A statement is made giving the time within which such assessment can be paid, without a penalty. If an assessment is not paid within 60 days after the date of entry, it is subject to an interest change at the rate of 7 per cent. a year.

MUNICIPAL IMPROVEMENTS

PUBLIC WORKS.

LACOMBE AV.—Proceedings were lately initiated by the Local Board of Chester for regulating and grading, setting curbstones and flagging sidewalks a space of 4 feet, laying crosswalks, building approaches, drains, walls, etc., and erecting fences where necessary in Lacombe av, from Bronx River to White Plains rd, and all work incidental thereto.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

210TH ST.—Opening and extending East 210th st, from Jerome av to Wayne av; Wayne av, from Reservoir Oval West to Gun Hill rd; Tryon av, from Reservoir Oval West to Gun Hill rd. Commissioners Peter J. Everett, August Gross and Harold C. Knoepper give notice that the abstracts of estimates and damage in this proceeding have been deposited in the Bureau of Street Openings in the Law Department of the city, Nos. 90 and 92 West Broadway, Manhattan, and will remain there until September 9, 1909. Provided no objections are filed, the reports as to awards and as to assessments for benefit will be presented for confirmation to the Supreme Court on November 18.

SPOFFORD AV.—Relative to acquiring title to Spofford av, from Longwood av to Tiffany st and from Tiffany st to the Bronx River. Commissioners John F. O'Ryan and Jacob Katz give notice to all persons interested in this proceeding that they have completed their supplemental and amended estimate of assessment for benefit, and that objections may be presented in writing, duly verified, at their office, 90 and 92 West Broadway, on or before August 30. Provided no objections are filed, their supplemental and amended final report as to assessments will be presented to the Supreme Court on November 16.

VALUABLE FOR INSULATION.

According to a foreign publication a firm in Munich has succeeded in artificially rendering asbestos waterproof, and has placed upon the market a product known as asbestos slates, which are thus described:

"These asbestos slates, it is claimed, are as hard and as strong as the natural slates, and can therefore be laid on wall or roof constructions without any wooden laths being necessary. They are very easily worked, and can be bored, nailed and cut just like wood, without any danger of splitting. They form a fire proof covering for inside and outside wooden walls, are valuable for insulation work of all kinds, even for electrical purposes; are of great use in building carriages as insulating material under the seats, for use in postal telegraphic work for insulating switches; for covering iron and wooden constructions; for use as fireproof doors for closing off single rooms in stores, warehouses, etc.; for lining wooden doors, and for covering walls and ceilings of all kinds so as to protect them from fire, heat, cold, dampness, disease, germs and vermin."

ALTERING CONTRACTS.—It is not an uncommon thing to see a contract for the purchase of real estate badly mutilated by alterations. Both parties to such an agreement should bear in mind that a material alteration of any written portion by one of the parties to it, without the knowledge or consent of the other, not only discharges the latter from all liability upon it, but if fraudulently made will release him also from all liability upon the consideration for which it was made.

INTERESTING CONTEST PROMISED.

TAXPAYER'S SUIT COMMENCED TO ENJOIN CONSTRUCTION OF RESERVOIRS IN CROTON VALLEY.

A TAXPAYER'S SUIT to enjoin the Aqueduct Commissioners from constructing additional reservoirs in the Croton Valley has been brought in the Supreme Court of New York County by James H. Killough, acting on behalf of the Merchants' Association of New York.

On March 23, 1909, the Aqueduct Commissioners formally adopted plans for a proposed new reservoir at Patterson, the estimated cost being $3,250,000, and the Commission has since filed plans with the Corporation Counsel as a preliminary step to the acquisition of the necessary lands.

The complainant contends that in the adoption of these plans the Aqueduct Commission has proceeded in violation of law; that the city has already provided for all necessary increase of water supply by the Catskill project; that water from the Catskills will be available before the proposed Patterson reservoir can be constructed and filled, and that the latter is therefore unnecessary; that the Croton watershed is already overdeveloped, and that the Patterson reservoir when finished will be practically useless; and that its construction is therefore a waste of public funds.

The complainant sets forth that under the act creating the Aqueduct Commission the plans for all works shall be prepared by the Commissioner of Water Supply, that they may thereafter be modified or rejected by the Commissioner, and that the approval of such plans by the Commissioner of Water Supply is essential to their legality. The law also requires that before final adoption of any plans public hearings shall be held thereon. The complaint alleges that none of said plans or maps have been prepared or approved by the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, as required by the law, nor have the Aqueduct Commissioners given public notice of any hearing respecting suc hplan or plans. It further alleges that the act of the Commissioners, in preparing said plans and transmitting them to the Corporation Counsel without the authorization and approval of the Commissioner of Water Supply, is illegal and contrary to law.

The complaint declares that "notwithstanding the existence of the various statutory provisions which purport to continue the functions and powers of the Aqueduct Commission, it has long been generally understood that its duties were substantially completed and that the capacity of the Croton watershed to supply water to the City of New York had been fully met by the construction of the aqueduct and the various dams, reservoirs and other work heretofore performed by the Aqueduct Commissioners."

It is alleged that "the Aqueduct Commissioners, other than the present Mayor and Comptroller, have for years past resisted every attempt of public bodies and citizens to obtain legislation limiting their functions and duties or for the abolition of the Commission. They maintain a large and expensive staff at great and unnecessary cost to the city and in the making of agreements for work are free of the restrictions imposed by the charter upon offices of the city government in the letting of contracts."

The complaint alleges "that it is and it has long been their purpose to continue themselves in office notwithstanding the completion of their duties; that for years past they have been actively at work to prevent legislation which might terminate or abridge their functions and have employed various influences in order to prevent such legislation, to keep the Commission alive, and if possible extend its functions."

It is further alleged "that the Commissioners are not actuated by any genuine desire to serve the interests of the City of New York, but that their purpose is, now that the work of the Commission is substantially finished, to perpetuate themselves in office; that they have for some time past been engaged in an effort to create a public impression that more water might advantageously be stored in the Croton watershed than is provided for by existing reservoirs and that the Patterson reservoir should be constructed in the northeasterly part of said region, and to sound public opinion in order to see whether they might prudently venture upon their fraudulent and sinister scheme to build such additional reservoir at Patterson, although they well know that sufficient water cannot be impounded in said region to fill said reservoir at all or except after the lapse of several years after its completion, too late to render it of value; that the cost of such reservoir would be so great as to be almost prohibitive, and that the utmost addition to be obtained to the city's daily supply from storage in such reservoir would not exceed about 7,000,000 gallons per day." Continuing, the complaint declares that "the reasons speciously advanced by said defendants for the construction of such a reservoir is that it can be built as planned and that it can be filled with water all within three years from the present time; that an additional supply cannot be obtained from the Catskill region before the year 1914, and that 'the building of the Patterson reservoir means the difference between continued security and a disastrous water famine,' whereas the said defendants well know that they have no intention of completing such reservoir within three years; that in all probability it could not be finished within that time even with the utmost dispatch; that even if completed within that time there is no certainty that rainfall conditions will permit it to be filled for many years to come, and they propose to build it although in the best view of the matter the reservoir will be useless as an emergency expedient unless completed and filled with water within three years." It is further set forth if the drought conditions that are advanced as a reason for its construction prevail, the employment of efficient methods to save 5 per cent. in water waste would ensure more water for justifiable consumption than could be counted upon after the proposed Patterson reservoir were built, and that if utilized as an emergency expedient to tide over such a drought, the draft upon stored water would be so enormous as to render a substantial percentage of all the storage useless because of depreciation in its quality.

The complaint further continues:

"Said defendants are well aware that all engineers of character and standing who have studied the subject for years past concur in the opinion that the development of the Croton watershed has reached its economical and sanitary limits, and plaintiff charges that the purpose of the said defendants in planning to construct such additional reservoir is selfish and sinister; that the expenditure that would be involved in the construction of said reservoir and its appurtenances would be a fraud upon the city and constitute a waste of its money; that they well know the said reservoir to be uneconomical and unnecessary for many reasons, including those herein set forth; but that the said defendants realizing that their functions and duties have been completed and fulfilled and that they should forthwith transfer all their papers and records to the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity, prefer to embark the city in this unnecessary, improvident and wasteful expenditure, rather than surrender their offices and relinquish the salaries and emoluments incident thereto."

The complaint sets forth that a Board of Water Supply has been created to take all the necessary and proper steps for the additional water supply of the city, and it is shown by the accompanying affidavits that the supply from the New Catskill System, which will be ample for all the needs of the city, will be available before the new Patterson reservoir can be constructed and filled, and therefore the outlay for the Patterson reservoir will be unnecessary and wasteful.

The allegations of the plaintiff are supported by affidavits by John R. Freeman, James H. Fuertes, eminent hydraulic engineers, and others, who set forth in detail the capacity of the Croton watershed, the fact that it is already overdeveloped, and that the Patterson reservoir can serve no useful purpose.

An order to show cause why the injunction asked should not issue has been granted by Justice Blanchard.

PRESENT DAY MORTGAGE CONDITIONS.

That the real estate market, from the point of view of the borrower, is in a good healthy condition, is doubted by few. Money is more plentiful, at the present time, than for some years past, and consequently interest rates are lower. The prevailing rate is four and one-half per cent., and borrowers are experiencing but little difficulty in obtaining any reasonable loan on improved real estate at these figures.

Lenders are only too anxious to place their money on desirable realty. This statement is borne out when the vast amount invested in this form of security is realized. During the current year over $246,000,000 has been loaned, as against about $211,000,000 during the corresponding period last year. Added to this enormous total about $55,000,000 worth of mortgages has been extended. The banks and trust companies are lending money more freely on bond and mortgage for some time past.

Julius Bachrach, of the firm of William & Julius Bachrach, in reply to a request for an expression of opinion on the general mortgage condition, said:

"Mortgage loans are very easily obtainable at four and one-half per cent., and I personally have placed three mortgages within the past two months at four per cent. on East Side tenements; they do not appear under the head of mortgages, as they were taken by assignment. I look forward for an active market in the fall, the reason for same being the good business commercial houses are doing and who most always put some of their surplus money in real estate."

Louis J. Levy, president of the Rosehill Realty Corporation, takes an optimistic view of the entire realty situation. In speaking of conditions in general, he said:

"I believe that more people are suffering from the after effects of the late panic, than they are from its direct cause. I have found quite an improvement in the real estate market within the past six months, especially the renting direction, in which there has been an exceptional great improvement. I also believe we will have a much better fall, with a very good spring. In regard to loans, I have never seen a better market than the present for placing loans, especially the four and one-half per cent rate, which shows the confidence of the money people in the real estate of this city.'

ADVICE TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

FIRE WASTE WILL BE LESSENED IF THE FOLLOWING RULES ARE CONSPICUOUSLY POSTED.

Every owner of improved real estate, especially tenement and factory buildings, should acquaint himself with the various methods of checking the spread of fire. Having done so it is his duty to communicate with all tenants and advise them both orally and otherwise as to the most expeditious way to proceed when a building is threatened with flames. Ordinarily, the average flat dweller becomes bewildered at the cry of fire and cannot be counted upon to render much assistance on such occasions. With this in mind a circular was lately issued by an inspector in a western fire bureau, who is co-operating with the National Fire Protection Association in an effort to lessen the enormous fire waste throughout the country, giving specific directions to be followed in case of fire.

If the blaze is just starting, throw water on the material that is burning—not at the blaze. One bucket of water will do more good if thrown on by handfuls, or with a broom, than dashed on at once. A small fire may be smothered with a rug or blanket, or beaten out with a wet broom. If you cannot put out the starting fire in a minute, yell fire, and then, if in a city, call the fire department. Everyone living in the house should know the telephone number to be used for getting the firemen, and it should be on the wall by the telephone for strangers to use. There is no time for looking in the directory, even if one should not be too nervous to find a number. Everyone should know where the nearest fire-alarm box is, and how to use it.

Do not leave a door open when you run out to give an alarm. If the doors and windows are closed when a fire starts one can always get the firemen there in time to put it out while it is in only one room. The fire soon consumes all the oxygen in a closed room and may die out if it get no fresh air. The fire-alarm box in the street is quicker and surer than the telephone. In using it one telegraphs to the engine house the number of the box. The firemen know, by the number, where the call comes from and get their engines and ladders to it quickly. Nearly all fire alarms are worked by a hook. To turn in an alarm, one must pull a hook, which is just inside the door, down as far as he can and then let go. That is all. This makes a gong at the engine house sound the number four times, so the firemen may be sure of the count.

Before pulling the hook in this kind of box one must open the door. In nearly all boxes this is done with a key. The keys of some boxes are kept in a building near by, and there are signs which show the building. In other boxes the key can be seen behind a piece of thin glass in the door. One can get it in an instant by breaking the glass with a stick, a stone or a knife handle. The glass falls out of the way as soon as it is broken. After the firemen are called, work at getting out the things you want most to save. Don't throw the clock from the window and then carry out your clothing, as some persons have done. If awakened in the night by the smell of fire, don't dress. Wrap yourself in a blanket or quilt from the bed and get out the quickest way you can. Shut the doors you pass through. After calling help look in and see where and what is the danger. You can then tell if it is best to try to carry out the household goods. If the fire is on the first floor it is very dangerous to go above, because heat and smoke ascend.

One can often get out through a hall filled with smoke by going on his hands and knees, when he would fall choking if he ran. The smoke is thickest at the ceiling. Holding a wet towel or anything made of flannel, or even a coat collar, over the mouth greatly lessens the danger of injury to the lungs, or death from the carbonic acid gas in the smoke. Most fires start in the first floor or basement of the building and burn a hole up, through the roof. In a house the flames travel by the stairways; in a big store or hotel they go quickly up the elevator shaft. After reaching the top the fire spreads and slowly goes down, burning the wood that is left. If a man working in a big store or factory sees a fire starting he should turn in the alarm, if there is a box in the building; try to put it out with the water in any pail near by; then use a chemical extinguisher, if there is one.

If one is in a burning building with no fire-escape and the stair below is burning or the hall is filled with smoke, he should shut the door and transom to keep out the deadly gases. Then he should throw open the window to get cool air and to let the firemen and neighbors see where he is, so that they may bring a ladder to the window. One should wait at the window for help until he is scorched or choking. By that time the firemen may be holding a big hoop covered with canvas, in which to catch him when he jumps, or the neighbors will hold a blanket to catch him. If no one is near he should throw out the bedding, tick and all, and jump on that. It is safer to jump into the top of a tree than to the ground.

The foregoing suggestions were promulgated in an effort to check fires in their incipiency, and to aid as well in preventing unnecessary loss of life and limb through ignorance in not knowing just what to do at such times. Property owners can better conserve their interests by posting similar notices in conspicuous places on their buildings.

QUICKENING AT HUNTS POINT.

There is perhaps no section in the City of New York which has undergone such a complete transformation in so short a period as the Hunts Point district. While in some respects the geological situation of that territory insured for it an earlier development than other localities not so favorably situated, its remarkable growth has been brought about mainly by the keen judgment and far-sightedness of several of the large operators and property owners in the eastern Bronx, who conceived the idea of improving their holdings with dwellings and apartment buildings of a higher order than may usually be found in new and sparsely settled neighborhoods. The success with which these pioneers have been meeting, especially those who have built with the idea of investment, demonstrates the wisdom of their undertakings.

It will be remembered that but two or three years ago the Hunts Point section was comparatively a wilderness. Gradually the barren fields were broken and a new street or two was opened, quickly followed by others. It was not until actual labor was commenced in cutting through these streets that speculators initiated the boom in Bronx real estate. The result of this movement stimulated small building undertakings in that zone to such an extent that large operators and builders were encouraged to enter the field. Among the first promoters may be mentioned the Henry Morgenthau Co., James F. Meehan, Gaines-Roberts Co., Geo. F. Johnson's Sons, Geo. C. Edgar's

MODEL APARTMENTS.

Sons & Co. and others. The excellent products of these firms soon attracted the attention of prospective tenants of the better class which later warranted the building of elevator apartment houses of generous dimensions.

The accompanying illustration shows a row of new type flats owned by the Henry Morgenthau Co. completed early in the spring. The buildings are situated on the east side of Kelly st, between Intervale av and 163d st, and are within easy walking distance of the subway station at Prospect and Westchester avs. All told there are nine houses in the row, each being 4-stys, with brick and limestone fronts. The apartments contain six and seven rooms, renting from $34 to $42 each. Among the installed improvements pleasing to the average tenant are burglar alarms, special compartments for milk bottles, tankless water closets and washstands in bedrooms.

Immediately adjoining the buildings described, Contractor James F. Meehan is erecting for the Henry Morgenthau Co. a large 6-sty brick and limestone apartment house at the northeast corner of Kelly st and Intervale av. The apartments in this building contain from three to six rooms, the smaller being equipped with kitchenettes. Many of the apartments are now receiving their finishing touches and the owner expects to complete the operation by Sept. 15. Included among the other undertakings of the Morgenthau Co. may be mentioned the large 5-sty elevator apartment now in the course of construction at the southwest corner of Southern Boulevard and 163d st. This building is the largest of its kind in the Bronx and will contain 500 rooms and three elevators. The structure covers 13½ lots.

It is not always safe to make rosy predictions where real property is concerned, but if present indications may be accepted as a criterion the new Hunts Point section is about to enjoy the benefits of a wholesome real estate boom.

The Index to Volume LXXXIII. of the Record and Guide, covering the period between January 1 to June 30, is now ready for delivery. Price, ONE DOLLAR. This Index in its enlarged form is recognized as very necessary to everyone engaged or interested in real estate and building operations. It covers all transactions—deeds, mortgages, leases, auction sales, building plans filed, etc., for MANHATTAN and BRONX. Orders for the Index should be sent at once to the office of publication, 11-15 East 24th Street.

STATEMENT BY COMMISSIONER PURDY.

The Commissioners of Taxes and Assessments, through President Lawson Purdy, have submitted to Mayor McClellan the complete statement of the principal transactions of the department for the official year, together with an appendix tabulating the legislation enacted at the request of the commissioners and the more important decisions bearing upon the work of the department.

In the tables of comparative assessments of real estate three classes are distinguished—ordinary real estate, real estate of corporations and special franchises. The tangible properties of public service corporations situated in streets and public places, together with the privilege of maintaining and operating in these thoroughfares, are classed as special franchises, while real estate of corporations is almost exclusively private rights-of-way and improvements on these. The former are assessed by the State Board of Tax Commissioners and in the labors of the local department for the official year considerable difficulty has been encountered in determining whether some particular property should be assessed by the State board or by local authority. To end frequent litigation the assessing of properties of public service corporations as a unit by a mathematical rule is suggested.

The tables, containing revised and complete figures, give the present aggregate value of all real estate in the city as $6,807,179,904. The most important tables show comparative values in the residential boroughs and the effect of the shifting of population to outlying sections. The total value of all classes of real estate in the Bronx is $462,704,008. In 1907 the Tax Commissioners appraised Bronx properties at $396,687,730. In two years $66,016,278, or 16.66 per cent., has been added to values. In Queens values have increased from $217,668,775 in 1907, to $309,122,605 in 1909, or 41.55 per cent.

While there has been no radical shifting of Bronx centres of activity in the period covered by the report the opening of new residential territory in Queens by the completion of municipal and private improvements has effected the most rapid increases in values in comparatively new sections. The greatest increase is in the Third Ward of that borough in which are embraced Flushing, Whitestone, Malba, College Point and the new exclusive north shore residential sections. The Fourth Ward is a close second as the result of flat and 2-family house construction in Jamaica and contiguous sections.

Wards.	Valuations, 1907.	Valuations, 1909.	Per cent. of Increase.
2	47,276,370	63,529,970	34.53

ACTIVITY IN REAL ESTATE.

When the real estate market is active, it is a sure sign that business prosperity is general. It means, as a rule, that all lines of trade are booming and prices good. One of the reasons for this statement, according to a well-known investor, lies in the fact that after a period of depression realty is about the last to respond to the return of prosperity. On the other hand, it is about the last to be affected by a depression. This condition is one of the strong arguments in favor of the purchase of real estate, because when prices are on the ascendency it is certain that general conditions are good and, should a slump come, plenty of warning is had and an opportunity afforded to sell.

This statement is particularly true of Manhattan realty. There is no city in the world where such a market exists as in New York. It is not an uncommon thing for investors in other cities to be compelled to retain their holdings for years, before a purchaser is found, and if the holding is put up at forced sale, the result is almost invariably disastrous. The recent panic in the money market furnishes a good example. Realty values were not materially lowered. There was a large number of parcels put on the bargain counter, but in practically every case the reason was that the mortgage was overdue, and the holder had urgent need for money to protect him in some other line, whether stocks, bonds or his own business.

The panic, as far as real estate was concerned, amounted only to a period of inactivity, in which the broker and professional speculator were the only sufferers. The man who owned an apartment house, having a fair equity, was able to retain his possession, though in some instances he was forced to pay a higher rate of interest, when renewing his loan, due to the scarcity of that commodity.

Shortly after prices in Wall st recovered, there was a return of confidence and outside business lines reported an increased amount of business. Then came along renewed activity in the realty market. At the present time there is a dullness, due, principally, to the season of the year. That few parcels are transferred at this time of year is a normal condtion. Were the reverse true the situation would be abnormal.

Rentals are as high as ever; owners demand as much, if not more, for their properties as ever, and when all is said and done there are no more vacancies. On the other hand, the houses are becoming each year more habitable. New improvements are continually being installed and builders are competing with each other to see who can give the most for the money. They have learned the lesson that the tenant of an apartment or office building in this city has clearly defined ideas as to what he wants and what he should pay for it, and is not easily fooled.

An important reason for the present inactivity in the market is due to the position held by the owners themselves. They are not willing to meet the buyer anything like half way, but name their figure and are unwilling to make any considerable concession.

SUPPLYING PURE WATER TO APARTMENTS.

It is hard to overestimate the importance of the attraction which pure, clean and sparkling water has for tenants in apartment houses. It goes without saying that every one prefers it, not only for drinking, but also for cooking, washing and laundry purposes. Many people are not willing to drink the ordinary Croton water. The result is a large number of companies have been formed to supply families and offices with pure spring water.

As a matter of economics, from the landlord's standpoint, a pure water system will pay for itself many times over. Owners of buildings who feed their boilers with clean water save considerable money at the end of the year, because their repair and coal bills will be directly affected. Dirt is responsible for many leaky faucets, which though a trifling expense, nevertheless has a tendency to make the occupants dissatisfied. Often they get an erroneous impression. They think that if the faucets continually get out of order, the rest of the plumbing must be on the same plane and be unsanitary. It does not take a great while before the entire neighborhood hears the news, and the reputation of the property is materially affected.

Then again porcelain and white enameled fixtures are discolored by unclean and muddy water, and while no serious damage is done, still it is one of those unnecessary annoyances which simply make tenants grumble. It is a big advertisement for a house to be able to state that pure water is supplied.

The system does not involve a large expenditure of money at the outset and occupies only a small amount of space in the cellar. It is connected with the main supply pipe to the building. The water is purified, as it enters the structure. The owner who takes care of the trifles will always have his house well tenanted. The larger things will, as a rule, adjust themselves.

ACTIVITY ON AQUEDUCT AVENUE.

Property owners across the Harlem River are speculating as to the probable extent to which the building of elevator apartments in the Aqueduct av section is likely to go this fall. For some time past the construction of this type of apartment in the Bronx has been confined to the Longwood and Hunt's Point neighborhoods, but lately operators have been giving their attention to Aqueduct av near the easterly end of Washington Bridge, in the West Bronx. The section referred to occupies a high elevation above the Harlem, commanding a superb view of the valley to the east, and is regarded as particularly suitable for residence purposes. It will be recalled that the development of this territory was long held back by the holding intact of the Ogden estate. This large property was auctioned off several years ago, and among the many purchasers were persons who bought with the ultimate intention of building. While it is to be admitted that the Aqueduct av section cannot boast of adequate transit facilities, present accommodations are equal to those in many parts of Washington Heights.

At the northeast cor of Aqueduct av and Featherbed lane The Apartment Building Co. is erecting an imposing 6-sty elevator apartment on a plot of about 10,000 sq. ft. The frontage of the plot is oval and the site overlooks the Sacred Heart Convent and the Harlem River valley. The building will contain 5 apartments of 5 and 6 rooms, and all the rooms except the kitchen and bathrooms are from 12x12 to 18x13 in area. The cost of the operation, including the land, is supposed to equal $200,000. Plans were filed lately for another building of the same order to be erected on the opposite cor by J. Harris Jones. If all of the projects of this kind now being considered are carried out there will shortly be a veritable colony of elevator apartment houses in the vicinity of the Washington Bridge.

FEATURE IN MODERN APARTMENTS.—Perhaps the latest feature in the designing of apartment buildings is to have the rooms so arranged that every suite has a front view. To do this it is necessary to have a light court in the centre of the front extending from the top of the first floor to the roof. In the construction of this kind of building having apartments of 3 and 4 rooms, builders have generally found it imperative to arrange some of the rooms in the centre, with no windows except those overlooking a central court. This difficulty has been obviated in a measure by having 3 separate courts—one in the front, one in the centre and one in the rear. From the front the houses appear to be semi-detached, but joined together at the first story up, from which the court runs.

THE WEEK.

THE market was of the midsumer variety, though a number of interesting deals were reported by brokers. Operators and builders are in the field for large plots, though considerable difficulty is being experienced by them in locating a desirable parcel at a reasonable price. Owners are exceedingly stiff in their prices, and it is the complaint of brokers throughout the city that sales are difficult to put through, though their clients are willing to give fair prices. A prominent broker, who has been in the business for many years and has made a careful study of the present situation, said the other day that practically every owner of property thinks he has a little diamond mine in his back yard, and it takes a lot of persuasion to convince him that such is not the case. It is perfectly natural for an owner to try to get all he can for his holding, but he should not complain if, after being offered a substantial profit, he has to hold his parcel indefinitely. He usually expects the loaning institution, from which he borrows, to take his optimistic view, and feels very much injured should the reverse be true. At this point he is apt to get discouraged and consider real estate a bad investment. All this trouble could easily have been avoided had ordinary business judgment been exercised. Certainly he would have been the gainer in the long run.

Many leases were reported during the current week. In fact this branch of the business is one of the features of the realty market. Of course it must be taken into consideration that the fall renting season is under way. The large percentage of private dwelling leases expire on October 1. This is particularly true of the middle West Side district. There has been practically no advance in rents this fall, and the desirable houses are being rapidly taken. Tenants have found, by past and bitter experience, that it does not pay to put off "house hunting" until the last minute, for after the season is well advanced only the undesirable houses, or the ones for which the owners ask too much rental remain on the market.

A lease of considerable importance affecting the southwest corner of Hudson and Duane sts was put through recently. The tenant will be the firm of Morse & Rogers, wholesale shoe dealers, at present located at No. 134 Duane st. The annual rental will be $90,000. They will take possession of the premises on January 1, 1911, after a new building has been built on the site. Another lease of note involves the entire block front on the east side of 5th av, between 125th st and 126th st. This property is improved with a new 3-sty building and will be tenanted by two firms, the Buckley-Newhall Co., furniture dealers, who will occupy the 125th st side and the 126th st store, and Wood's Business School, which will have the two upper floors. The Buckley-Newhall Co. recently purchased Nos. 145 and 147 West 125th st, with the intention of building for their own occupancy. The plans were subsequently changed, and the present lease is the result.

Several sales of significance were closed during the week, including Nos. 116 and 118 East 14th st, 50x106.6. This property was acquired by a resturanteur, who will make extensive alterations and combine it with his present holdings, which adjoin. Abutting on this parcel, and fronting on 13th st, is the new theatre and office building purchased in the early part of the year by Timothy D. Sullivan and George J. Kraus. This property has a frontage on 14th st, adjoining the parcel just disposed of. The two 3-sty buildings Nos. 114 and 116 West 26th st were purchased by Mary Matz, of Arverne, L. I. The seller recently took title to No. 116, and bought the adjoining house, only a short time since. This property will, in all probability, be improved with a modern mercantile building.

Property along Madison av, below 42d st, has been coming into prominence of late, and it would seem as though the conversion of this district into a business one was, at last, an assured fact. As has been pointed out many times in the Record & Guide this avenue must, in time, take care of the overflow of business from 5th av and the adjacent side streets. It took the boom on 4th av, however, to give it the real start. Property along this thoroughfare is largely in the hands of professional speculators, who have been buying during the past few years in anticipation of the movement.

Considerable disappointment has been expressed from time to time that inquiries were few and far between. It would seem as though everyone was afraid to make the necessary start, as did Dodd, Mead & Co. on 4th av. The demolishing of the structure at the southwest corner of 27th st and Madison av and the erection of an office building and a similar project at the northwest corner of this avenue and 38th st are the first two operations of importance, but many other minor improvements are contemplated.

THE AUCTION MARKET

THERE were no voluntary offerings in the salesroom during the week, all the properties advertised for sale being by the order of the Court. All told there was only an even dozen, the smallest number advertised in many months. The results obtained were not particularly encouraging, and owners have come to the realization that the present time is not a propitious one for selling property at public sale. About every class of property was represented, including dwellings, tenements, factories, loft buildings and vacant lots. The bidding was slow, and the prices obtained, in the main, were unsatisfactory.

The first parcel of the week to fall into outside hands was the 5-sty tenement No. 316 Delancey st, located 50 ft. west of Goerck st, 24.7x100. Aaron Zwerdling was announced as the buyer and the purchase price was $26,300.

The 10-sty brick factory Nos. 36 to 40 Fletcher st, 69.2x61x irregular, was knocked down to the plaintiff for $81,319. The judgment amounted to $104,032.22; taxes, etc., $1,158.07. The property was also subject to a prior mortgage of $50,000. The parcel in question is worth more money than it brought, and it is to be regretted that the stated consideration, in this case, must go on record, for an erroneous idea of its value is sure to be created.

LAW DEPARTMENT

COMMISSION BY ARRANGEMENT.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Will you kindly answer through the columns of your Record and Guide to settle a dispute "Is there a law governing a broker's commission for the sale of real estate?"

V. HOFFMAN.

Answer.—No statute law. A commission for the sale of real estate is but a fee paid by arrangement of owner to agent employed. By custom it has become regulated to certain fixed rates when not agreed upon before sale. A great many decisions of the courts made in differences between owners and brokers have been added to regulate the subject, where distinct preliminary agreements have not been entered into between the parties, or construing the terms of them, if existing.—Editor.

WHO PAYS ASSESSMENTS?

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

Where assessments in Manhattan or Bronx have been confirmed by Supreme Court on day of sale or before selling lot (but assessments not yet entered for payment by Board of Assessors to pay) who pays these assessments confirmed only by Supreme Court (not yet entered for payment by Board of Assessors) does the seller pay them or does the buyer pay them, according to law to-day? I have heard stated that assessments confirmed by a New York Supreme Court in New York County (but not yet entered for payment by Board of Assessors) must be paid by seller before or day of closing title-selling property—though I still believe, too, that until an assessment in New York City is entered for payment by Board of Assessors, the owner is not liable by law, to pay, unless either seller or buyer agree to pay such assessment. What is the New York City law in this matter?

ANXIOUS.

Answer.—Section 159 of the Charter provides that, "An assessment shall become a lien upon the real estate affected thereby ten days after its entry" in the record of the Collector of Assessments and Arrears. However, an assessment does not become a lien when confirmed and not until ten days after it is entered. Where there is a confirmed assessment, it is not necessarily payable by the purchaser; in fact, it is not payable by the purchaser unless title is closed within ten days after the entry of the assessment. Taxes become a lien as provided by the Charter on the first Monday of October.—Editor.

HARD ON THE BROKER.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

A short time ago we consummated a sale of a certain piece of property, the purchaser and the seller both agreeing to price, terms, etc., and the contract was drawn in the office of the seller's attorney, and we, as brokers, represented the purchaser at the time of the signing of the contract.

Just as he (the purchaser) was about to leave his office to sign the contract, the attorneys for the seller advised that they had just found certain restrictions against the property which were not known to us when the contract was drawn up.

Naturally the purchaser refused to buy the property until he could look into the restrictions. After doing so we found them to be of such a serious nature that the seller could not have them removed to make the proper sale to the purchaser, therefore the transaction ended. Are we entitled to our commission?

Answer.—No.

SECURING A MORTGAGE.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

What would be about the average charge for drawing up (and how many documents are needed) to take a mortgage on a city house and lot, 25x100, with counsel fees, etc.?

REGULAR READER.

Answer.—The drawing of a bond and mortgage is a matter of ten to fifteen dollars. The borrower pays for this, for the recording of the mortgage, for the mortgage tax, for the cost of law fees in examining title to the property mortgaged; and if the loan be obtained through the services of a broker, the borrower pays a commission to the broker also—usually of one per cent. on the amount of the loan. Roughly figured in general terms, a borrower usually pays from two to two and a half per cent on the amount borrowed, in obtaining a fair sized amount on first mortgage.—Editor.

ARCHITECTS' FEES.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

What percentage is an architect entitled for drawing plan and supervision? Is any price set by law?

Answer.—It is generally a matter of contract between the parties. The custom is to charge 5% for the plans when the architect also superintends the construction of the building, and 2½% when he simply prepares the plans.

MORTGAGES

NOTE.—The arrangement of this list is as follows: The first name is that of the mortgagor, the next that of the mortgagee. The description of the property then follows, then the date of the mortgage, the time for which it was given and the amount. The general dates used as headlines are the dates when the mortgage was handed into the Register's office to be recorded.

Whenever the lettrs "P. M." occur, preceded by the name of a street, in these lists of mortgages, they mean that it is a Purchase Money Mortgage, and for fuller particulars see the list of transfers under the corresponding date.

The first date is the date the mortgage was drawn, the second the date of filing; when both dates are the same, only one is given.

Subscribers will find mortgages in this list with the wrong block number attached. The block number we give is taken from the instrument as filed.

Mortgages against Bronx property will be found altogether at the foot of this list.

Aug. 6, 7, 9, 10, 11 and 12.

THE MACAULAY BUILDING is a fine example of the strong, simple, ever-enduring type of business structure possible through the use of

EDISON PORTLAND CEMENT

The building is reinforced concrete throughout, to make which 4,000 barrels of cement were used. Edison Portland was selected over all other cements because it is

COLORS IN MARBLE WORK.

THERE are certain principles of color decoration recognized among artists who work with colors, and these principles should be followed, as nearly as possible, in dealing with the natural colors of marble. One of the first rules is that the lightest colors should be applied to the largest apparent surfaces.

No color in a decorative composition should appear isolated or strike attention on account of its singularity. To avoid this and to provide a generally harmonious effect, the same color should be repeated in other parts of the composition. The darker and heavier colors should occupy the lower part of a composition, and the lighter colors the upper parts.

The primary colors are usually sparingly employed, blended tints being mostly applied to large surfaces. In marble the pure primary colors are not available in large sizes, as their effects are subdued by means of veins and blended colors.

In ceilings or in similar situations, bluish grey or bluish white marbles will best produce the desired affect—that of distances and size.

A sense of coldness is produced by a composition in which blue and white predominate, while red, yellow and gold convey the impression of warmth.

It is an error to employ too many colors in one composition. Some of the finest decorative effects have been produced by not more than three varieties of colored marble.

COMPARATIVE WAGES PAID BY MUNICIPALITIES AND PRIVATE PARTIES.

In the case of 32 cities an inquiry showed that the length of day in the sewer departments to be 8 hours in twenty-two cases, 8½ hours in two cases and 9 hours in the others. The nominal rate of pay ranged from 17 cents per hour to 28⅛ cents per hour, and the actual rate from 17.2 cents per hour to 28.7 cents per hour. Varying conditions were found with regard to pay for holidays and allowance for sick leave.

In about one-third of the cities the laborers are permitted to have half holidays on Saturday, although in about one-half of these cases the half holidays are restricted to the summer months. In several of the cities where half holidays are granted the length of day is so arranged that the laborers work 48 hours during the week.

In New York City the rate of pay for unskilled labor on municipal works is 25 cents per hour, for eight hours' work per day. There is no half holiday on municipal work for unskilled labor, but overtime is paid for at double rates. In private practice the prevailing rate is the same for this kind of labor, but in some lines the laborers who help are organized and receive better pay.

In the city of Boston, according to the investigations of the Finance Commission of that city, the nominal rate of pay per day for common labor has increased from $1.75 in 1878 to $2.25 at the present time; while during the same period, the nominal length of day has been reduced from ten hours to eight hours. The present rate of pay per day based upon an eight-hour day (28.1 cents per hour) does not indicate the actual net cost to the city of labor. In 1891 the city granted its labor force Saturday half holidays with pay, which custom has prevailed up to the present time. Making allowance for the Saturday half holiday, the rate of pay per hour at the present time becomes 30¾ cents. It has been customary to allow full pay for legal holidays, and in numerous cases pay has been continued when employees are away on account of sickness. A consideration of all allowances show them to amount to 10.86 per cent. of the total 313 possible working days of the year. Calculating the rate of pay on this basis, the consulting engineers show that instead of a nominal wage of $2.25, the city is paying $2.52 per day, or 31½ cents per hour.

ELEMENTS IN THE VALUE OF A MANUFACTURING PLANT.

Into the market value of a plant enters the broad element of location, with its varying hours and price of labor; skill and abundance or scarcity of operatives; cost of transportation of raw material, supplies, and finished product; cost of fuel or power; cost of construction and equipment; and rate of taxation. Also the narrower and more restricted element of the physical condition of the plant and its relative value to a new plant constructed upon modern principles, and constructed with all regard to the economical production of a finished product of the best quality of the goods manufactured. The standard of value should be a modern mill so constructed and located as to avail itself of as many combined advantages as possible.

The ultimate value of a plant is its capability of producing a profit, and into the possibility of producing a profit enter all of the above items and perhaps some not mentioned.

The question of management is a personal one, and must not enter into the problem, except so far as to make sure that with good management the business would be successful. The business of a large and valuable plant might be conducted in such a manner as not to realize a profit; but it might, nevertheless, have a great value, and would bring a large amount if offered for sale.

On the other hand, a plant not nearly so valuable might, with skilful and close management, yield a profit; but if offered for sale would bring very little. Although the past profits of a concern will have some influence in determining its value, that is not a measure of its value, because a purchaser might by different management reverse the profit or loss, or the changes, real or anticipated, in trade might do the same thing. We must therefore eliminate as far as possible all personal equations from the problem.

CHARLES T. MAIN.

Rental of Machinery Upon Municipal Day Labor Work.

In their study of the efficiency of work done by day labor in Boston, Mass., Messrs. Metcalf & Eddy, of that city, consulting civil engineers to the late Boston Finance Commission, the fact was revealed that it was customary for the Sewer Department to rent the machinery used upon its work. Their report, recently published, discusses the basis upon which such rental should be charged.

It is frankly stated by the engineers that it is somewhat difficult to determine what is a fair rental for machinery upon this class of work. It not infrequently happens that such machinery is abused by those operating it, and it is also at times injured when being moved, and in cold weather it is liable to be damaged by freezing of water in pipes and boilers. The owner must take all of these conditions into consideration in fixing his price.

In view of all the circumstances, it did not appear to the Commission that a rental amounting to 5 per cent. of the first cost of the machine for each month's use is unreasonable, although at first glance it appears to be very high. Hence, the Commission recommended that the city adopt the policy of owning its own machinery, but if it became imperative to rent machinery, the rate of rental should in no case exceed 5 per cent. of the first cost of the machine, per month.

Vol. LXXXIV. AUGUST 21, 1909. No. 2162

THERE are a great many owners of railroad and industrial securities in the United States who are feeling very complacent over the recent rise in the price of stocks and bonds. The great majority of them can probably figure that their investments would sell in cash for one-third more than they would a year ago, and in most cases their current value would total a substantially larger amount than they did during the closing months of 1906. Such calculations are very pleasing, but before taking too much satisfaction in them the investor would do well to look a little deeper and inquire wherein he will really profit by these increased prices. What can he buy with them that will bring him an increased income? Manifestly he cannot very well expect to benefit by the transfer of his holdings from one railroad or industrial stock to another, because they are all selling at substantially the same level. Insiders may know that the securities of any particular company are still selling below their probable future value, but there is no reason at the present time why an investor with only public information at his disposal should expect to gain anything by shifting his investments. It will be very difficult for him to convert the increased capital represented by his securities into increased income. During the coming winter a certain number of railroad and industrial corporations will increase the rate of distribution on their common stocks, but the prices at which these stocks are now selling already pretty well discount every probable occurrence of this kind, and an investor, well acquainted with the general financial situation will realize that the chance for substantially larger dividends than those now enjoyed by the owners of stocks is very remote. Even if the country is entering upon another few years of business prosperity, the increased net earnings of the great corporations will for the most part be absorbed in paying for necessary capital expenditures. All of them still have many millions of dollars to spend upon the improvements that are absolutely necessary for the quick and economical transaction of a considerably increased business; and there is small chance for the present at least that the share-holders will obtain any substantial portion of the increased earnings. Those share-holders will indeed be lucky in case the money market does not become congested with the mass of new flotations and in case even the increased capital value of their securities does not shrink as fast as it has swollen.

THERE is, however, one way in which a wise investor may convert his increased capital value into increased income, and that is by using it to purchase improved urban real estate. During the past year and a half there has been no general increase in realty prices corresponding to the increase in the prices of stocks and bonds. One hundred thousand dollars will buy just about as much improved real estate now as it would in the spring of 1908. Of course there are not so many bargains to be picked up now as there were then, but on the whole the statement that the investment value of real estate has not substantially altered during the intervening period is unquestionably true. It is also true, no doubt, that real estate did not suffer in 1907 any depreciation in price corresponding to the fall in the price of securities, and it may look, consequently, as if the rise in security values were merely a recovery which places them once more on a parity with real estate. But while there is some truth in this qualification of our general statement, it is not the whole truth. As we have already seen, the values of securities have gone substantially higher than they were early in 1907, and one cannot understand how they can be pushed to a still higher level except at the cost of severe subsequent reaction. On the other hand, the turn of real estate is still to come. It is still selling at about the same level as it was late in 1906, when call money was very high, and when the very best industrial preferred stocks could be bought so as to yield almost seven per cent. Assuming, then, that better times are coming and that there will be an imperative trade demand for land, real estate certainly looks like an extremely good investment purchase. An investor who sells stocks or bonds that are bringing him in less than five per cent. should be able to buy improved real estate which would bring him in a decidedly larger net income, and a much more probable increase in capital value. The real estate would be more trouble to take care of, but it would pay for the labor spent upon it. There seems to be no other sure way in which an investor can take advantage of the recent increase in value of his securities and make it equivalent to more spending money without assuming any unbusinesslike and merely speculative risks.

IT is only a question of time when the reasons contained in the foregoing paragraph will appeal to a great many security-holders; and the man who will make money out of the situation will be he who will anticipate the inevitable rise in the price of real estate to a parity with other sources of income; that is, the man who buys his real estate next fall. It always takes the majority of investors a long time to understand that a radical change has taken place in the comparative value of different classes of property. Most of them will not begin to buy real estate until they see the first plain indication of a movement towards a higher level of prices in that class of property. But we believe that the first signs of such a movement will be very much in evidence during next winter and spring. It can be prevented by only two possible obstacles. One would be a sudden halt in the existing impulse towards business activity and prosperity, and that is wholly improbable. The other would be the gradual coming of another season of tight money. If the rates for money are allowed to become as high as they were late in 1906 and early in 1907, there will not be much room for an increased investment demand for real estate. In that case the prices of securities will probably work towards a lower level, and the parity between the price of stocks and the price of realty will be reached, not by an increase in the value of the latter, but by a diminution in the value of the former. It is evident, however, that in either event the man who sells stocks at present figures and invests in real estate will make money. He will get a better price for his stocks now than he would later and his real estate, if wisely purchased, would not have diminished in value. But we do not believe that any excessive rates for money will prevail during the coming year. It is absolutely necessary for the railroads that money should remain cheap, because their coming capital requirements will be very large; and while they and their agents, the bankers, may not be able to prevent it from becoming dear, it is probable that, if necessary, an abundance of foreign capital will be available to keep rates down. An American investor can hardly go wrong, in case he takes a certain proportion of his capital now invested in stocks and puts it into improved city real estate.

THE statement issued by the Public Service Commission during the past week again shows very plainly that it will not approve the plans submitted to it by the Interborough Company; and it is a great pity that public opinion is not fully alive to the damage which the commission is thereby doing to the cause of a well-balanced and economical rapid transit system. The "Times" is the only daily journal that understands what the city will lose because of the stubborn persistence of the commission in sticking to its plan of building a subway which competes with the existing subway, instead of supplementing it; and the attitude of the commission is all the more singular because it has in several of its previous decisions distinctly favored the creation of monopolies in providing local public services. Yet in the most essential public service of all it abandons all the advantages which might result from a single rapid transit system, all under one management, and transferring at many different connecting points. So far as the Record and Guide can see, there are only two ways whereby the advantages to the city of a single coherent and well-articulated rapid transit system can be preserved. One would consist in the refusal of the Board of Estimate to consent to the plans of the Public Service Commission, but it is improbable that any such event will take place. Although certain members of the Board of Estimate are on record as favoring the Interborough's plans, they will hardly dare to push their opposition to the plans of the commission so far as to refuse to accept the proposals of a responsible bidder for the franchises officially laid out by the commission. They know that in the public interest any rapid transit, even an inferior and costly brand thereof, is preferable to none at all. The only other way in which the Interborough Company can preserve its monopoly will be by putting in a bid itself on the official plans of the commission; and the management of that company will be very foolish, in case it allows such a chance to escape. The Broadway-Lexington avenue route will undoubtedly develop a profitable traffic, and as long as it is bound to be constructed, why should not the Interborough Company seize this profit as some compensation for the loss which the existing subway line will suffer in consequence.

MIDSUMMER SYMPTOMS IN THE BUILDING TRADES are often peculiar, if not inconsistent, one with another. But always the prevailing tone is clearly manifest. Thus, at the present time comparatively few plans of importance are being filed, yet the estimated aggregate value represented by those already on file is double the estimated cost of the buildings for which plans were filed last year up to this time. That is to say, taking last week's statistical footings, the value of the projects of this year to date, in the three principal boroughs together, is estimated at $159,000,000, to compare with $79,000,000, as the record for the corresponding period last year. But this is not so significant as a comparison as when the value of this year's projects is set opposite those in the boom years of 1905 and 1906. Then we find, taking the three big boroughs together again, that we are still thirteen millions ahead of 1906, and about one million behind the year 1905, for the corresponding period in each case. In the month of August the record of the year 1906 stood almost even with that of the year 1905, up to that time, for Manhattan-Bronx; but Brooklyn, it will be remembered, was making a phenomenal record in 1905, If we take into consideration the operations in Queens, then the city's record for this year to date, for new building projects, is still ahead of any corresponding period in the past. Up to date, 1909 is still the biggest boy in school!—Another phase of the season is the somewhat contradictory state of affairs in the building material market. The prices of common brick and cement, for example, have been very low in the face of remarkable activity in building operations. Rather, this was true until a few days ago, as prices are at this writing advancing. But in a general way it can be said that it is a particularly fortunate state of affairs for builders that material prices are so moderate in the midst of more building activities than the city has ever seen before. We are authoritatively informed by officers of the building trades that the state of employment is, to use the official term, "good," and not merely "fair." Mechanics are working over-time, and some of them are making sixty and seventy dollars a week. The carpenters, tile-layers and cement masons are particularly busy. And remember that the season has not yet reached its height; the heavy work, slow in getting under full headway, is still to make its best impression. Everybody expects continued peace and increasing prosperity.

A BUSY FALL.—Mr. Wright D. Goss, president of the Empire Brick and Supply Company, looks for a busy fall season. He cannot account for the present lower rate of activity in mason building, except on the ground of a natural intermission between contracts, which is to be expected at this stage of the year, and also the longer time required for heavy work to get going than is necessary for residential work and apartment-house operations. Notwithstanding the slower movement of building materials, a large aggregate of business remains. So far as Mr. Goss has heard, the money market continues favorable for building operations.

FULTON WATER-GATE.—For the purposes of the Fulton-Hudson celebration, the general committee, in co-operation with the municipality, is building under contract a temporary landing-place at the foot of West 110th st, Riverside Park. It is to consist of a bulkhead wharf with two arms, or piers, each 300 ft. in length and 16 ft. beam, spaced 300 ft. apart, and enclosing three large landing floats. There will be a connecting bridge over the tracks of the New York Central Railroad.

—The largest reservoir in the world was recently completed at Honor Oak, a suburb of London. This reservoir was built entirely of brick manufactured on the ground, the clay used being secured from the excavation which necessarily preceded its construction. The building of the reservoir required the use of 19,000,000 brick.

A PORTRAIT HOUSE.

FREEDOM from a number of restrictions, so frequently imposed upon architects as to be almost the rule, permitted the architect of the Morris Schinasi residence on Riverside Drive to design and supervise a work as pleasing to the principals as it is to the public eye. The site was ample, the appropriation liberal and the contracts preferential—not competitive. A broad-minded and artistic client desired a "home" in harmony with his own ideas of what a home should be—rich in materials, as far as possible faultless in execution and a consistent architectural treatment on all sides. William Burnet Tuthill, the architect, says it is what might be called a "portrait house," in that the house the owner was seeking was designed for his intimate home-living and without particular reference to any conventional claim or social function. Mr. Schinasi will open his new house upon his return from Europe.

It stands at the north corner of 107th st, its walls all of Vermont marble, the whiteness of which is relieved by a roof of deep green tiles, by green vases and planted shrubs, and by bronze terminations for the roof lines, balcony panels and doors. Architecturally, this is a four-sided house, and exquisite from any side. The style is what might be called a free expression of residential French Renaissance. In the ornamental carving there is a consistent use of the foliage of the tobacco plant, which every observer may not notice. (The owner is a large tobacco grower.) The front approach is by wide marble steps, through a gateway of bronze and marble, flanked by balustrades and a garden wall of the same beautiful stone, the markings and veinings of which were kept at an artistic minimum. The layman might not detect at first that a peculiar beauty in all the stonework comes from what is called "phrasing" it; that is, by bringing the natural markings at the last handling into harmonious relation.

The emotion of regret which comes to every New Yorker when gazing upon a white marble building, because of his knowledge of what incorrigible vandals the smoke and dust-laden air currents of the city are, is believed to be an unwarwanted emotion in this case; for a definite requirement of the owner was for the installation of a pumping plant of sufficient power to bring every part of the exterior within cleansing distance.

INTERIOR INCIDENTS.

We have it from Mr. Tuthill himself in the pages of the New York Architect for July that the interior is not particularly large in respect to dimensions, but that it is large in effect, by reason of the "vistas" obtained, in part by the aid of mirrors. In this connection the decorative scheme was carefully thought out, so that no discordant color should intrude itself into any vista line. The walls of the vestibule are in Skyros marble (Greek) which, as everybody knows, is particularly choice in its veining and subtle coloring. The ceiling is in Rookwood faience. The marble of which the entrance-hall is built is Breccia Stazzema (Italian), with the larger panels filled with designs in mosaic, and the raised panel members in marble. The staircase hall is built of white oak throughout, relieved by gilded panels and rose silk wall covering.

The library, the most novel and effective room in the house, is finished in East India teakwood, with carved details of imported Indian workmanship. Walls are covered with a dull blue fabric called "Egyptian tapestry," and in the ceiling is an elliptical dome finished in gold and glazed in soft irridescent colors.

CONSTRUCTION

NEW PALACES ALONG FIFTH AVENUE

An Extraordinary Amount of New Work and Alterations— Private Residences Rising on the Lenox Library Square

UPPER FIFTH AV and the adjacent blocks on the lateral streets have provided more contracts and odd jobs for builders this summer than in some years. A number of palatial residences are under construction and important alterations are numerous. Going up the avenue the first operation of note is at the Astor residence, which was formerly arranged as two dwellings, and which is now being made over from plans by Carrere & Hastings into a single house. The work amounts to almost an entire reconstruction of the interior. First, the old central stairhall, 40 ft. square, and the reception hall, opening upon the picture gallery, are being rebuilt, with a vaulted ceiling of decorated glass and bronze; and there is to be a fountain, a colonnade of twelve columns at one end and a loggia leading into the picture gallery, which is also used as a ballroom. The plan and construction of all the principal rooms are being changed for Colonel Astor's occupancy, and the mansion, which represents an investment of fully two million dollars, will be more beautiful than ever. The decorations will be in the style of the Louis XVI. period, finished in white and gold. Marc Eidlitz & Son have the general contrace.

Mr. George Gould's new stone mansion at 67th st is still in the hands of the decorators, but it will be ready soon. Horace Trumbauer, of Philadelphia, is the architect. Mr. Gould's investment here is half a million for the site and as much more for the building. At 60th st the home of Mrs. David Dows on the north corner of the avenue, a spacious brick house with brownstone trimmings, is being made over, architecturally and otherwise. At the south corner of 5th av and 75th st the site for Edwin Gould's house is being excavated. Mr. J. J. Wysong's new stone mansion on the north corner of 76th st, from plans by Hoppin & Koen, architects, is in the hands of the plasterers; the George Mulligan Company is the general contractor. It will be a fireproof building with floors and roof of reinforced concrete. Mr. Philip Livingston's house is having Vermont marble substituted for the yellow brick in the facade, by George Vassar's Sons. At the north corner of 85th st and the av, John T. Brady & Co. have the limestone walls of Mr. James B. Clews' new mansion up to the height of one story. Horace Trumbauer is the architect. At 92d st the house of Mrs. Warburg was recently finished from plans by C. P. H. Gilbert, the architect.

IN THE SIDE STREETS.

At 13 East 80th st Deissler & Stevenson have Mr. Bloomingdale's new house of red brick and marble enclosed. At 8 East 79th st, Fountain & Choate, general contractors, have a massive granite residence, from W. C. Pelton's plans, enclosed. J. E. Dutton was the granite contractor. In 70th st, behind the Lenox Library, several private residences are being erected. One is for Alvin W. Krech, one for Cornelius W. Luyster, and a third is for Mr. D. H. Morris. The last mentioned house was illustrated in last week's Record and Guide. Thornton Chard is the architect and the Andrew J. Robinson Company is the builder. A fourth residence (the block is restricted to private residences) is for Mrs. H. D. Bookman, from plans by Warren & Wetmore.

A RESIDENTIAL FACADE WORTHY OF IMITATION.

OF late years in New York City many hundreds of old brownstone houses have been replaced with residences designed apparently with the express purpose of avoiding any possible similarity of appearance. Nothing remotely resembling an acceptable convention has yet emerged. The dwelling illustrated herewith, which Messrs. Carrère & Hastings designed for Mr. George L. Rives, possesses in the estimation of the Architectural Record the sort of facade worthy of being imitated, and which if reproduced with variations in many other examples would constitute a peculiarly acceptable convention. It would combine, as do all really acceptable conventions, a particularly appropriate material and form with abundant opportunities for individual refinement and distinction of treatment.

The building material that was used is stone. A limestone of dark blue color, and pleasant in texture, so that it avoids the cold and partly unpleasant characteristics of some stones that are yet called ornamental. The Architectural Record says the increasing appearance of this stone in New York residential streets is a matter for congratulation:

> One can hardly indulge in the hope that it will come into general use, because certain other materials are cheaper; but there can be no doubt of its superiority from every esthetic point of view over its competitors, and so far as possible its use should be imposed upon architects and owners by the authority of a convention.

In the view of the critic, the setting-up of certain conventional designs for different classes of buildings is a necessary condition of American architectural improvement, and a great advance in this respect has been made in this country in ten years. But in no class of buildings has this forward movement in architectural design been slower than in the New York dwelling, for which an appropriate style is peculiarly desirable at this time. The facade of Mr. Rives's new house is referred to as a desirable model for imitation in similar buildings:

"The triple division of a five-story facade, with the central member, consisting of the second and third story tied together by pilasters, dates from French examples of the end of the 18th century; and these French examples have a good claim to be considered as the source of the most appropriate conventions for domestic street architecture. The facades of the old buildings on the Place Vendome in Paris, have simplicity without attentuation, and dignity without pretension. At the same time the design of each individual house has no meaning or propriety except in relation to its neighbors. Modern French architects have sought sedulously to improve on this early model, but it may be doubted whether their improvements have been worth the ingenuity expended upon them. The houses on the Place Vendome are wholly admirable types of a gentleman's city residence, and Messrs. Carrère & Hastings have shown their usual good sense in adapting the design to the conditions of a contemporary private residence in New York."

BONDING NEW CONCRETE TO OLD.

By ALBERT MOYER, Assoc. Am. Soc. C. E.

Clean off with clear water and stiff broom the surface of the old concrete. Mix 1 part commercial muriatic acid or hydrocloric acid and 3 parts water, or use bonsit or ransonite, mixed according to direction with hot water; make several applications, one after another, with a brush containing little or no metal. This will not injure the concrete, as the acid does not sink to a sufficient depth before it is neutralized.

This will have the effect of removing the cement from the top surface of each grain of sand or piece of stone and the other aggregates that may have been used, exposing the clean surface of these aggregates in exactly the same condition as they were before being mixed.

After applying the acid wash the surface with clear water, scrubbing with a stiff broom or brush, removing all the dead particles. While the surface is still wet (and it should be thoroughly wet) apply the new concrete. Protect this new concrete by keeping it damp for at least a week. Do not let it dry out at any time during the first week.

It will be found that the new concrete will bond to the old as strongly as if both had been mixed at the same time,

THE NEW OFFICE SECTION.

BETWEEN Fourth and Lexington avenues there is a quarter that is entering upon an era of considerable improvement. It is in the district served by the 28th street Subway station and not far from Madison Square. The directors of the Young Women's Christian Association selected this quarter as the site of the office building which they completed last year, a building that has frontages on both 27th and 28th st.

"THE TWENTY-EIGHTH STREET ARCADE." F. C. Zobel, Architect.

This improvement was apparently the inspiration for the fine office building that is now being completed on the same block, to the west, and which has been named the "Twenty - Eighth Street Arcade."

These two new buildings represent, with the Fourth av rebuilding now in hand, a foresight in anticipating the natural overflow or spreading of high-class business from Fifth av. It is a desirable locality for offices not strictly commercial, but which wish to be near a center of interest. For example, the State Department of Labor has taken offices in 28th street, in the same block with the Arcade Building.

Very considerable improvements have commenced on the Fourth av corners of 27th and 28th sts, as well as of 25th and 26th sts, indicating that the section is in a rapid transitional state.

For the "Twenty-Eighth Street Arcade," the architect, Frederick C. Zobel, has designed a facade that combines the artistic and classical with the utilitarian requisites of successful designs for modern buildings of this character.

The Arcade Building is located at 118 East 28th st and 121-123 East 27th st, the two streets being connected by an arcade which will make an attractive thoroughfare for its stores.

Four high-speed Otis electric elevators have just been placed in commission, the halls are wainscoted in marble, and all the appointments of the building are of a quality and character equal to those in large modern office buildings in the financial centre of New York City.

BROOKLYN DRY DOCK FAILURES.—A serious situation prevails at the navy yard at Brooklyn by the continued effect of the quicksands and it is reported that the contractors engaged in the construction of the new dry dock have concluded to abandon their contract. The chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks is conducting another investigation. He was recently at Brooklyn with the Secretary of the Navy and on that occasion Mr. Meyer expressed his desire to have the dock finished as soon as possible. If the contractor does not wish to go on with the work, the bureau will take it up and probably complete the project by hired labor and the purchase of material. The alternative of having the work done by contract will, of course, have to be considered by the departmental authorities. Those who are familiar with the conditions at Brooklyn are surprised at nothing which may occur there, since it has been known all along that the dock site is in treacherous ground. There is no intention to change the location of the structure on account of the experience of the latest contractor who has attempted to complete the work.

SPECTACULAR LIGHTING.—It would have been easy to have "outlined" the Singer tower with strings of incandescent lamps, but that sort of lighting had been done before, as in "Dreamland" and a thousand imitators. Thirty-one searchlights with 18-inch lenses play upon the tower from the roof of the main building, without being seen themselves, but making the tower stand out as a column of light. Fifteen hundred 16 c. p. incadescent lamps with reflectors are disposed about the tower to "even up" the illumination, as the beauty of the whole scheme depends upon the uniformity of the distribution of the light rays.

BUILDING HUGE IRRIGATION WORKS

One of the Great Development Projects of the Country; Engineered and Financed from New York

IRRIGATION is now the trump card to play in the great game of CONSTRUCTION, the noblest game since the world began. In our time it is the game which commands the best American brains and employs the most capital. It builds towering cities and makes deserts blossom into empire States. It spells what the present calls Progress and the future will call Creation.

Years ago the best card in the game was Railroad construction. It made Americans the kings and princes of the financial world. Recently the Electric card was the trump. A great era of power development set in. Waterfalls and electric generators were hitched up together to deliver electric current for light and power over miles and miles of territory. No longer is it necessary for a manufacturer to be on a raceway in order to get water-power; let him plant his works on tide-water, back it up with a railroad switch, and hitch on to an electric power cable from the falls of the Esopus or the Wallkill. Then he can tell the coal merchant to fade away, and send his ships out to conquer the markets of the world.

Irrigation is the newest field of enterprise for American engineers.

The public would be surprised to hear the names of the men in New York who are back of some of the new irrigation developments of the West. The Idaho Irrigation Company, to mention one, is essentially a New York City enterprise, with New York capital and New York builders. The company has secured the segregation of an extensive tract of public land in the vicinity of the town of Shoshone and surrounding the town of Gooding in southern Idaho, together with sites for storage reservoirs and rights of ways for canals, and has obtained the necessary permits from the State Engineer to appropriate and divert a more than ample supply of water. A satisfactory contract has been entered into with the State, which provides for the construction by the company of complete irrigation works and the sale of water rights. Considerable construction work on the project has already been done, a dam for the diversion of water to one of the tracts, together with about fourteen miles of main canal leading to that tract having been completed.

HERE IS THE FINANCIAL PART.

The estimated total cost of the project is $3,045,000. During the first twelve years the receipts are estimated at: water rights on 120,000 acres at $35 an acre, $4,200,000; water rights on 5,000 acres at $25 an acre (school lands), $125,000; 1,900 town lots at $200 each, $380,000; interest on water contracts, $1,051,800; total, $5,756,800. The ultimate capitalization (stocks and bonds) will exceed $13,000,000.

All lands to be watered are situated on the Oregon Short Line Railroad. They are just north of the Twin Falls tract, which was opened in 1905, and which has been a pronounced success. A town to be known as Richfield, formerly Alberta, has already been located within the project on the Ketchum Branch about twenty miles northeast of Shoshone, containing approximately 1,900 lots of which several lots have been sold at prices from $280 to $1,000 each. A second town will be located on the new segregation on the main line of the Oregon Short Line east of Shoshone. Water will be taken from the Big Wood and Little Wood Rivers, which are important tributaries of the Snake.

THE CONTRACT WITH THE STATE.

The contract between the State of Idaho and the irrigation company provides for the construction and the completion of the works on or before August 21, 1912; for the sale of water rights to persons filing upon portions of the segregated lands, and also to the owners of other lands not segregated, and for the transfer of ownership, management and control, including up-keep, of the irrigation system to a corporation to be composed of the purchasers of the water rights, as the water right for each acre of land carries with it the issue of one share of stock in a reservoir and canal company, which company is finally to own and operate the system. The provisions of the contract with the State for the organization of this reservoir and canal company and for the transfer to it of the final control and management of the canal system safeguard the company's interests and relieve it eventually of the management and up-keep of the entire irrigation system.

Under the contract, the company may charge $35 per acre for water rights, except that on about 5,000 acres of school lands it can charge only $25 per acre; $3 per acre must be paid on account of the water rights at the time of application and filing for the land, and the balance in nine annual payments. The deferred payments, bearing 6 per cent. interest, are, under the State law, a first lien upon the land for which water is taken. This land manifestly becomes more valuable as it is cultivated under irrigation and as it is improved with buildings, fences, etc, thus increasing the security of the first lien water contracts or mortgages. The work on the ground is being carried out under contract by J. G. White & Company (Inc.), of 43 Exchange pl, New York. All legal steps in connection with the financing and carrying out of the project are being taken by Messrs. Ivins, Mason, Wolff & Hoguet and have been approved by Messrs. Byrne & Cutcheon, of New York City.

This is a bare outline of one of the great development projects that are being carried on outside of the city at the present time. The contractors in this case are interesting people. They are organized into several different corporations, the names of which flash out frequently from all quarters of the globe.

AN ARTISTIC VARIATION.

A number of new high-class houses are to be erected in Prospect Park, between White Plains and Scarsdale, Westchester County, N. Y., by the firm of W. and W. F. Crockett, of New York City. The first design shows an artistic variation from the old English architecture, with a pleasing suggestion of the Italian pergolas in piazzas and porte cochere flanking each side, and diagonally away from the open terrace across the front. This, with many other individual characteristics, will make a decided departure from some of the suburban customs, and develop perhaps further designs of carefully studied schemes. The proposed improvement of Prospect Park includes new roadways, water, drainage, gas mains, electric lighting and landscape gardening, extending from the present developed section, which is one of the most picturesque, and well settled parks near White Plains, to the estate of Lewis A. Cushman; which it is understood controls large property interests on Prospect Hill, and is desirous of establishing a substantial colony of artistic places for the discriminating home seeker.

REVIVAL OF WOOD-CARVING.—A general revival of the decorative arts is one of the encouraging features of the day in house building. Wood-carving is to be found in most new residences and apartment houses of the better class, as the taste for it spreads among the educated classes. It is good to study the old masters but not to copy them. For modern American purposes the greatest difficulty will be in choosing subjects.

—Price commodities, still moving upward, show an increase of about 10 per cent. in ten years and that the index figure for Aug. 1 was the highest on record except in 1907.

REVOLUTIONARY METHODS IN INTERIOR DECORATING.

A gentleman of unlimited means went to an architect of this city whose reputation is both national and international and gave him carte blanche in redecorating the interior of his home. No expense was spared. His parlor is done in most expensive mahogany panels, inlaid with gold and a rare white hardwood. His ceiling is bird'seye maple. The music room is finished in satin pink. At great expense he had pictures of mandolins and guitars, and harps and lyres inlaid in the side walls. A rich painting adorns the ceiling, depicting Orpheus being carried into the clouds by the cherubs.

His dining-room received the same lavish attention. The effect there is that of a refectory upon an Oriental roof, from which, between trellised vines of wisteria, the placid Mediterranean is seen in the distance. Here the ceiling is sky-blue, dotted with snowy clouds. All this was done in rich and rare woods. But the bathroom received the most startling attention of all. In this room the floors and walls represent the bottom of the ocean. Marine plants and fish are painted on a dark green background. In another bathroom the scene represented the beach at Atlantic City, and among the bathers are the man and his family. This work was done by a well-known artist. The house is probably the most lavishly decorated in New York State, and the cost was figured in the thousands of dollars.

The reader will doubtless think that such luxury is far out of the reach of even a more-than-average wealthy man. He doubtless has the impression that even a man of considerable means could not afford to give way to a decorative hobby of such stupendousness, because decorations of that character, as a rule, do not last. The veneering will peel, craise or crack. If the brush is used, time will work its ravages upon the pigment and charm and lustre will give way to shabbiness. Think how long paints would last upon a decoration as described for a bathroom. How long could oils withstand the changing temperatures or sweating walls. "Absolutely visionary," the reader declares. "It is not permanent enough to be even rarely practicable," does the writer hear?

When this owner gave his instructions to the architect he left the city shortly afterward and only recently returned. He was charmed with the effects his friend had produced for him, and about the first person he invited to see his new home was the head of a big Western car manufacturing company. He proudly escorted his guest about the house. The latter was pleased; he praised the artistic plan, the novel ideas embodied in the decorations of the various rooms; but, wonder of wonders! the car manufacturer displayed absolutely no curiosity as to the identity of architect and artist.

The proud host was somewhat crestfallen, and after displaying the richly adorned bedrooms, he invited his guest to the smoking-room, also suitably decorated in apparently weathered oak, in which the Muses were etched, and filmlike figures seemed to reach out through the faint tinge of light blue tints worked in the placques.

They smoked on awhile, discussing various topics, when suddenly the host turned to his friend, and said:

"Who do you suppose did that decorating for me?" He watched his guest through the curling smoke of his Havana.

"Why, the American Joxyl Company, of course. We use their product in some of our finest cars, and in some of the other kind, too."

"American nothing," said the host, indignantly. "That was done by —— and —— the architect and the artist."

"Who and what is this Joxyl concern you just mentioned?" asked the owner of the house, after telling his friend of the tremendous cost of the work and the eminence of his artists.

And so the car manufacturer explained the interesting story of the revolutionizing of the method of interior decorating as perfected within the time that his host had been in foreign fields.

"Everything that is commercial is subject to change," he said. "We got along very well with the mail until the telegraph came. Later we used the telephone. Then we used the wireless telegraph, and now we are perfecting the wireless 'phone. We used the quill until the fountain-pen came along. We rode our horses or walked until the carriage came. Then the trolley car. We used that until they became too crowded; then we used the newly invented automobile. So we used to decorate our homes in the old way.

"In the march of progress we came near forgetting art. But over in Brussels a certain concern was busy trying to bring art within the reach of the moderately well-to-do and that vast body of house owners whom we style the middle class. He found a way to do that for which you have paid thousands of dollars, for a few hundred, and at the same time not only reproduce these rich works of art so that even an expert would be deceived if asked whether it be genuine or not, but, what is more, make it permanent, so that varying temperature, soap and water, washing compounds, boiling water or steam will not effect it in the least."

The manufacturer saw that his friend was interested, and continued:

"The word 'Joxyl' denotes a decorative and ornamental product arrived at by the application of a chemical and mechanical process to porous substances, particularly wood, by which the most practical and beautiful results are obtained. The invention combines, by the transparent and absorbent results of the process, the decorative effect of the design with those of the natural structure of the wood, if wood is used, greatly enhancing the beauty of both. If other material than wood is used, the same peculiar and distinctive results may be obtained by a silghtly different process. An asbestos fireproof panel can be made to appear like a piece of natural mahogany, with rich inlaid devices upon it. That shows what a wonderful process this company has. As to cost, why, the other day I was down at their offices in the Terminal Building, 30 Church st, and they showed me a door panel that had been down to the exposition at Atlantic City, when the Car Manufacturers were in convention, that looked like a solid piece of richly inlaid and grained solid mahogany, costing $200 at least, that they made for less than $15. But I digress.

"You see, I've looked into this thing thoroughly, and I know that it is good, because I use it in my cars and I know that other manufacturers are doing the same.

"Well, this process can be applied to wood of any thickness, or to a veneer so thin that it can be rolled up or made to adhere like wall-paper, and always with the same remarkably beautiful and artistic effects. It can be applied to any kind of wood, hard or soft—ash, birch, mahogany, walnut—and, as I have said, to fireproof materials as well.

"The result of the use of 'Joxyl' is to make the wood impervious so as to preserve its surface indefinitely and to prevent its being penetrated by any liquid substance. A panel, be it as thin as a visiting card, can be washed with soap and water or antiseptic solutions and the surface remains unaffected. The face of the wood or other material treated by joxylized process resists not only the wear and tear of the ordinary use, but even the action of acids, better than the hardest woods. It is not possible, as far as my experience goes, for a surface thus treated to crack, peel or blister.

"But I could go on and tell about this revolutionary idea in interior decoration indefinitely. Why don't you go down to the Hudson Terminal and see for yourself the many different panels in beautiful decorative effects?

"I was talking with Charles H. Spotts, the general manager, the other day, and was informed that Edgard Josz, one of the inventors of 'Joxyl,' who is president of the American Joxyl Company, is at present in New York in connection with the plans for establishing a large plant to manufacture 'Joxyl' in this country under the strongest financial auspices.

"The American Joxyl Company has been capitalized for $1,250,000, and pending the installation of the American plant, 'Joxyl' panels are delivered from stock or from the European factory.

"It is the intention to maintain the highest degree of perfection in the different styles of decoration. As an example of the beautiful reproductions possible by 'Joxyl,' I want to show you a panel picture. The first gives a detailed view of the panels made out of ordinary birch, and made to look like inlaid mahogany for doors or wall panels. It demonstrates what possibilities are offered for reproducing permanently any design or figure in any number of colors upon a wall."

MADISON SQUARE IMPROVEMENT.

The new office and loft building which will cover a plot extending from 26th to 27th sts, taking in the southwest corner of Madison av and 27th st, Nos. 56-60 Madison av, 23-25 East 26th st, and 18-20 East 27th st, will form an ell around the building of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Work on the foundations is now going on, and some of the structural steel has been erected. The building will be known as the "Neptune Realty Building," being erected by the Neptune Realty Co., 36 Wall st, of which Adrian Iselin is president; Columbus O. D. Iselin, vice-president, and Ernest Iselin, secretary. The plans, which are by Messrs. Maynicke & Franke, of 298 5th av, specify every convenience of the highest type. There will be twelve stories, measuring 98x60x90x197.6 ft., occupying an area of approximately 15,000 square feet.

The exterior will be of limestone up to the fourth story windows, with brick and terra cotta above. The floors will be of concrete construction. In all there will be six electric elevators.

Upon the completion of the building it will be taken over for a long term by the Improved Property Holding Co., of which Henry Corn, 320 5th av, is president. The estimated cost is placed at about $500,000. The general contract has been awarded to Charles A. Cowen & Co., of 1123 Broadway. The architects, Messrs. Maynicke & Franke, now at 298 5th av, will have their offices on the top floor of this building from Feb. 1, 1910.

ORNAMENTAL STONEWORK ABROAD.—As the Emperor Augustus found Rome of brick and left it of marble, so it may be just as truly asserted that the reign of Queen Victoria witnessed a development in the art of stone decoration in the United Kingdom which is quite as noteworthy. In pre-Victorian days the principal materials used for the interior decoration of the most important buildings and institutions were paint, paper and plaster. But a change has taken place. The decoration which was so greatly favored during the latter years of the ancient Roman Empire has been revived in the British Isles, and the hemispheres have been ransacked for the beautiful ornamental stones, the lavish use of which made Rome the admiration of all the world.—London Stone Trades Journal.

EDUCATIONAL BUILDING ON CATHEDRAL GROUNDS.

The new home of the New York Training School for Deaconesses, about to be constructed on the grounds of the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in the north side of 110th st, 248 feet east of Amsterdam av, will soon be under way. Workmen are now clearing the site. The building will be in the Gothic style of architecture, of the best fireproof construction, five stories in height, and have ground dimensions of 125x64 feet. The exterior material will principally be Indiana limestone. It is estimated by the architects, Messrs. Heins & La Farge, 30 East 21st st, that the cost will not exceed $150,000, and that one year will be necessary in which to complete the work for the opening of the fall term in 1910. The old Training School for Deaconesses, now at No. 228 East 12th st, was founded by the late Rev. Dr. William R. Huntington, rector of Grace Church. The F. T. Nesbit Company, 116 Nassau st, recently received the contract to erect the new building.

NOVELTIES.

KEEPS OUT SUN, LETS IN FRESH AIR.—Letters patent will soon be issued for an awning that corrects the principle defect in many window protectors of that kind, in that it will keep out the sun and yet permit at all times of a steady flow of fresh air in the room. The awning appears from the street like any other, but upon close inspection it is seen that it is not fastened by any eyelets or hooks. Instead, it is fastened to a telescoping galvanized iron bracket adjustable to windows of varying heights. Two bracket-holders bind this frame to the window but leaves an aparture about the whole upper part of the window of about an inch. This permits the foul air near the ceiling of the room to pass out as fresh air enters through the raised lower sash. It is unnecessary to climb out of the window to remove the awning, the fasteners being entirely within reach of a person standing safely within the room. To remove the awning it only is necessary to lift the bracket from its telescoped shell without loosening a single hook or string. The device makes the awning absolutely safe, as it cannot break loose from its fastenings even in the highest winds. It costs fifty cents more than the ordinary kind, installed.

BURGLAR AT DOOR RINGS ALARM.—The aged or infirm when left in an apartment or private dwelling alone need not fear the visitation of burglars or insistent peddlers. A device was placed upon the market only recently and is being installed in some of the new Bronx apartment houses that not only foils the person who would forcibly enter through the front or rear door but sounds an alarm as well. The contrivance is simplicity itself. It consists of a strip of stout chilled steel, which is fastened to a hinge plate at the lower part of the door, about a foot from the floor. The door closes and the end of this steel brace slides along the floor until it engages a cleat in a metal plate imbedded into the flooring. A bolt underneath falls into a blind hole. It is not necessary to lock the door or fasten it in any other way. When the intruder pushes upon the knob, the bolt under the floor brace slides up and pushes a spring which rings a bell until the pressure against the door is removed. When not in use it is fastened to the door panel by a metal clip. The device is an effective barrier against anyone—even if he is equipped with strong prying implements—entering the apartment or house through the door fitted with this attachment.

A COAL SHUTE WITH A GLASS DOOR.—Usually the coal shute is utilized for the intaking of fuel only. Whoever heard of that contrivance being used as a light shaft, too? This is what one company is doing. It has perfected and on the market a coal shute with a glass door for use on single dwellings, two family apartment houses or semi-detached dwellings. The flume protrudes slightly from the surface of the foundation wall and instead of the metal cover a heavy glass one is substituted. When the shute is open for use, the glass, by being slid to one side, is out of danger of dirt and breakage. It fits tightly in a metal frame which in turn fits tightly over the top of the shute, thus keeping out cold air and at the same time permitting daylight to enter the cellar.

WHERE BUILDING MATERIALS ARE NEEDED

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS

AN AID TO ALL SALES DEPARTMENTS.—Plans have been drawn for new buildings to be erected at the locations given below; details as to cost of the new construction, the names and addresses of the architects and the owners are included in each item. This building news represents new construction, including alterations about to be commenced, in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, plans for the work having been filed this week in the Department of Buildings. The official plan number in each case is given at the end of each paragraph.

Building contractors and building material firms may be assured that the information herein given includes every building enterprise of every sort and description contemplated in the two boroughs. The news is absolutely complete, irrespective of cost, including both the highest and the lowest grade of operations. By carefully following the news printed in these columns weekly, contractors and building material firms can possess for their sales departments absolutely reliable and absolutely complete information as to new projects.

HOW TO USE PROFITABLY.—It is hardly necessary to do more than indicate the many ways in which this information may be used.

Architects, owners and contractors can be solicited personally for orders.

Trade literature can be distributed with the certainty of reaching its destination.

Buyers can be apprised of the values of materials and equipment.

Time should not be allowed to elapse in the prosecution of the work of salesmanship. Steps should be taken immediately to handle each case. Even orders not obtained in any single case frequently prepare the way for subsequent sales. Records should be kept of each of these "possibilities," and the results of work done tabulated. Figures will be thus obtained that will throw considerable light on the efficiency of sales methods in operation.

It will not be necessary for us to point out in detail how much information a well-informed building material firm or contractor can easily READ INTO THESE NEWS ITEMS, a constant repetition of which in our columns would only take up space without any equivalent advantages. For instance, the instructed reader does not need to be told what the average equipment would be for, let us say, a seven-story brick and stone loft building, 25x75, costing $35,000, to be built on East Broadway. Plainly an elevator is inevitable; steam heat is inevitable; fireproofing is quite problematic, considering the cost. Everyone can figure that lumber will go into such a building, and a certain amount of rough trim, plastering, window sashes, hardware, plumbing fixtures, etc., etc.

Moreover, it will be understood that as the information that we publish is of an early character, the details of construction and equipment are probably open to a good deal of discussion with the architect and the owner. Red brick might be substituted for white brick, limestone for terra cotta, or vice versa, one type of elevator for another type, and so on throughout all the elements of construction equipment and finish. These points will naturally be very closely followed by an aggressive sales department. Here is where salesmanship, the price and value of a firm's materials will count. THOUGHT AND AGGRESSIVENESS IN THE USE OF THIS INFORMATION THAT WE FURNISH WEEKLY WILL PRODUCE BUSINESS. Don't forget that the entire market for your goods in the two boroughs is here, placed under your eyes, not for reading, but for ACTION. Follow up the news!

Brief and Personal.

Two days of storm made a short week for outside operations.

Charles F. McKim, the architect, is reported seriously ill at St. James, L. I.

George Doan Russell, the lawyer, of 154 Nassau st, is spending his vacation with his family in the Adirondacks. He is expected back on Aug. 25.

Mr. L. Peckitt, president of the Empire Iron Furnaces, who is in Europe, is expected back shortly after Labor Day.

Mr. John B. Wight, secretary of the North American Cement Company, has returned from a vacation trip of two weeks.

Mr. Wright D. Goss, president of the Empire Brick & Supply Company, is spending week-ends during the summer at his place on the south shore of Cape Cod.

In the construction of the foundations for the railroad terminal that is being built by S. Pearson & Son, Ltd., at Vera Cruz, Mexico, approximately 3,000 Raymond concrete piles will be employed.

Mr. Harriman is on his way home across the sea. If he has obtained a controlling interest in the New York Central, it is hoped he will improve the suburban train service of the system. The Central might have favored the northern expansion of the city more than it has.

FASCINE is a decorative material which New York architects and owners are becoming more and more interested in. It is a clay product burned at a high heat and glazed with bright or dull finished glazes. It can be used in innumerable ways for ornamental effect.

At the northeast corner of Madison av and 70th st a brownstone residence of graceful proportions has taken on a new distinction by having the side entrance (on 70th st) inclosed with plate glass in a setting of ironwork. It is a shelter from the elements and an ornament as well.

A meeting of the executive committee of the Realty Operators and Builders' Association will be held Tuesday, August 24, 1909, at 320 Broadway. The most important matter under discussion will be the proposed arbitration agreements with the various contractors organizations.

Growing Popularity of Metal Ceilings.

The fact that the metal ceiling has come to stay seems to be proved by the fact that some of the local dealers are opening branches in Brooklyn and in the suburbs. Some of the more progressive companies now have offices or representatives in New Jersey, and, if the word of a man who has had wide experience in this business reflects the experience of other companies, there seems to be little doubt that the "opening" of New Jersey to metal ceiling manufacturers will prove a source of unlimited profit and enterprise.

An interview with Samuel Shanker, of the S. Shanker Metal Ceiling Company of 520 Fifth st, showed that the field across the Hudson is not to be neglected. He already has located agencies for the Kanneberg Roof & Ceiling Company, of Canton, Ohio, of which he is the sole Eastern representative, and a large stockholder, in Newark, Jersey City and Hoboken, and it is probable that in time offices will be opened in Elizabeth, Paterson and Passaic.

This company, which always carries a large stock of exclusive designs, is constantly growing. It is represented in Brooklyn by the Eastern Metal Ceiling Company, of 1234 Myrtle av, and by E. P. Backie at 359 Court st. The company also does a large exporting business from its main office in Canton.

Modern Ornamental Iron Works.

Conspicuous among ornamenal iron workers in this city is the name of John Jordis, whose modern factory and offices are at 142d st and Robbins av, the Bronx. The reason Mr. Jordis has taken a leading part in his particular line in this city is because of his ability to turn out finished work in first-class shape in remarkably short time, and because many of the designs he works out are original.

His factory is of brick construction, built in 1907, and is adapted to the work that is done there in every particular. Some of the most recent work that this firm has done may be seen on some of the newest apartment houses in all parts of the city. He has just finished installing all the iron stairs at the Hotel Nassau at Long Beach, and in the Greenpoint, Fulton, Stuyvesant, Lincoln Square theatres, and for numerous buildings in this city. A specialty is made of all kinds of ornamental wrought and cast iron work.

Pulp Plaster.

Elastic pulp plaster contains no sand or lime. One of its most important parts is fibrous wood pulp, made by a patented process that retains the fibre and strength of the wood. This fibrous wood gives to the plaster elasticity, toughness, lightness and strength. Freezing does not affect elastic pulp plaster. Being waterproof it does not fall off the lath when water pipes burst and flood the ceiling.

As it is already for use, except for the addition of water, there is no chance for the mason to overload it with sand. Being elastic instead of brittle, it will dent like wood when struck or jammed, instead of breaking. It adheres equally well to brick, stone, common lath wood or iron, and it dries in one-fourth the time that ordinary mortar takes.

Asbestos Lumber.

The list of fireproof materials for structural purposes receives frequent additions. If the forests should go, we would still have asbestos. Doors, trim, wainscot, partitions, flooring, ceilings, outside shutters, all are now being manufactured of asbestos. When used for doors it gives handsome and practical results.

The two sides for a door are molded in single slabs made solid around the edges, cemented with fireproof cement and securely drawn together during manufacture by the contraction of numerous countersunk rivets, and the whole bound with iron to prevent accidental abrasion The countersunk rivet heads are covered with Alignum, in the style under consideration, and no metal whatever, save the knobs and butts, is in any way exposed to the direct action of fire when the door is closed.

This construction produces a hollow or air-spaced door; and as Alignum is in itself a non-conductor of heat, an intense heat on one side is hardly appreciable on the other. Trims are made in the ordinary strips for miter or blocks, or in entire frames as usually provided for cabinet trim, and in either event designed to be secured to the wall or partition by screws. Alignum asbestos lumber floors are susceptible to all combinations of color and design, laid in cement. They are fireproof and thoroughly sanitary, are resilient, not hard enough to be slippery and are pleasant to the tread.

New Clayworking Book.

The new "History of the Clayworking Industry in the United States," compiled by Heinrich Ries, Ph. D., and Henry Leighton, A. B., is now on the market. This book is revised to date and is based on statistics so far as obtainable covering the history of the industry from its infancy in this country to the close of the year 1907. It first takes up briefly the history of the various branches of the clay industry and follows this with more complete data covering the industrial progress in each State. The compilation is a very important one and should be in every clayworker's library. John Wiley & Sons are the publishers, but copies can be obtained through this office at the selling price of $2.50, postage paid.

Welsh Tin-Plate Industry.

At the end of May, 1909, there were 398 tin-plate mills and 52 sheet-steel mills in operation in South Wales, and the total number of employees was 22,500. Large consignments of tin plates are exported to the Far East, China, and Singapore, and the United States continues, under the drawback clause of the tariff, to be a steady market for this special trade. During the month of April the following quantities, in tons, were exported to the countries mentioned: United States, 6,250; British East Indies, 4,692; Germany, 2,989; France, 1,895; Netherlands, 3,752; all other countries, 19,685; total, 39,263 tons. During the same month 5,683 tons of black plates were exported.

ELECTRIC POWER IN BREWERIES.—Abroad, electric power is used in breweries for driving malt mills, hoists, barrel hoists, grain conveyors, pumps, centrifugal pumps, portable pumps, mash tun, mash rakes and refrigerators. Only enclosed types of motors are recommended for breweries because of the amount of steam and dust present in the atmosphere. The condensation of moisture on the walls and machinery will sometimes lower the insulation resistance of a motor to a dangerous degree.

Prices Firm in Dull Market.

From brick to stone the market was dull this week. Prices, however, held firm as a rule. Brick advanced 50 cents and there are prospects that it will go higher. The demand was a little better. Cement stays at $1.43, with the majority of the companies reporting business slack. Deliveries are still limited to thirty days. Pig iron stands at last week's quotations, but reports little new business. Structural steel held on small orders only. Spelter, having moved up to $6 a ton, may boost all galvanized sheets. Others may follow. Agents are not seeking new business. October first is the ruling delivery limit. Another raise in structural shapes is expected. Lumber is dull both in wholesale and retail. Local stone orders of any size are still scarce. A gradual improvement is noted both in new business and prices. Quarries are continuing to take in Western orders.

Brick Moves Up a Shilling.

Following a little better demand for Hudson River hard brick, manufacturers' cargo quotations moved up 50 cents this week, making the ruling prices on the market at this writing $5.00 to $5.50. Most of the week-end purchases were for $5.50 for the better grades, while on Monday or Tuesday, everything was tied up. Wednesday opened stronger and the fact that the wet weather also forbade making, combined in part to equalize the situation. Up to Tuesday noon few sales were reported on the Exchange.

Arrivals for the week ending last Saturday night at 6 o'clock (Aug. 14), were 71; sales, 77; and holdovers for this week, 7. The holdovers for the week preceding were 11, showing that the demand is moving.

STORM DID NO YARD DAMAGE

The fact that the storm broke on Sunday night up the river, when all the yard material was protected, saved the manufacturers from heavy damage. The steel shipments have greatly improved, although not all jobs are getting material as quickly as desired.

MANUFACTURERS TALK OF EASING UP.

Further talk was heard this week regarding the threat of the manufacturers to ease up on output until the market becomes more satisfactorily adjusted. The small yards are hard pushed to manufacture at present prices. The dealers look for a continuation of low prices for a week or two, but manufacturers say they cannot stand the strain that long and will ease up if the local market does not improve.

MUCH WORK AHEAD, SAY DEALERS.

The dealers are optimistic. They look for a great deal of work this fall although they say that conditions are only fair now. The prophecy was made that the demand, which is hardly normal now, will be greater than the supply within another month.

FULTON FETE AND THE BRICK MAKERS.

While it cannot be said that the brick manufacturers up the river are going into unbounded rapture over the Hudson-Fulton celebration, the aid and counsel that two of its foremost representatives, General George Moore Smith, and Captain John B. Rose, are giving the Newburgh celebration committees, cover the absence of any special exuberance on the part of their fellows. Captain Rose is on the banquet committee and also on the general military and naval committee, while General Smith is on the last-named body and also on a local committee. In the words of General Smith:

"Newburgh is going to have the greatest celebration it has ever known and, there will be a pagaent that has never been equalled in any town of its size in the country. I cannot go into details about that now, because we haven't it in ship-shape formation, but in a week or two I can give some idea of the stupendousness of the enterprise. It all depends upon how many ships will go up the river. I am daily receiving assurances that lead me to think that there will be a generous fleet on hand. There will be two celebrations, one day being devoted to the firemen and the other to the military."

Better Feeling in Cement.

The cement situation is slowly clarifying. The average order is taken on 30-day delivery, which indicates that the sales departments do not feel satisfied that the $1.43 rate now operative will last. As soon as the delivery terms are extended, longer delivery conditions will be made. Until then it cannot be said that the cement industry is on an even keel. At $1.43 every company can make cement, market it and skim off some profit. In other words, the producers are not selling below cost, as they were at the old rate of $1.33. An advance of ten cents will adjust matters. This may come within ten days. The only conditions governing the present situation is the old law of supply and demand, and just at present the demand is not great.

While none of the mills is working at present to anything like its capacity, yet most of them are restocking. There is only one mill that has shut down and that is the Whitehall plant, because "it does not pay to operate under present conditions," as one man said.

RETARDING INFLUENCE FELT.

It was said this week that there is a strange retarding movement felt in the trade. The Atlas, Lawrence and the Pennsylvania are not as busy as they had expected to be, and the Alpha and Alsen companies are the only ones that report even good business. Steel is high and that may account for the condition of affairs. When structural steel is inactive cement sales fall away. Most of the deliveries being made now are on old contracts, and little new business of any size is being taken, owing to the embargo on delivery periods.

Pig Iron Business at Standstill.

With prices as high as they are likely to go at present, and most of the furnaces stocked, inquiries fell off this week. Those that were received asked for deliveries that did not appeal to the agents. Some wanted up to the first and for the first half of next year. The new mill at Catasqua, Pa., blew in on Monday and heavy shipments are being made there. The iron companies are catching up on their shipments, but are still behind on basic. This is a steel-making iron, which accounts in no small measure for the backward deliveries of the structural mills.

On the whole, foundry iron is backward, and there is little in the way of new business. A little order, not more than 500 tons, of No. 2 X Northern foundry, was made for September and October at full prices, while inquiries for somewhere about 3,500 tons for shipment over the last quarter were in hand. Prices quoted last week stand.

THE STEEL MARKET STRONG.

An absence of large orders characterized the steel market this week. Spelter has moved up to $6 a ton within the last two weeks, and this is bound to affect galvanized sheets soon, although the ultimate advance in these prices will depend largely upon supply and demand. It is possible that the rise in spelter may cause an upward shift all along the sheet steel line.

Pending the change agents are not taking much new business. None of it is going in for delivery later than Oct. 1. Of course premium orders are being taken for third quarter deliveries, but as the premiums are high, business of this kind is the exception and not the rule. In still rarer cases these deliveries are being contracted for up to Jan. 1. The premium is somewhere around $2.

SHEETS MAY JUMP $2.

When the advance in sheets does come it may ultimately go to $2. If it is over that figure it will not cause surprise in the trade. There is a better feeling everywhere. The strike at the steel mills is beginning to affect local prices, and deliveries from jobbing houses are being held off while the prices are firming up.

STRUCTURAL PRICES UP.

The prices of the various types of structural steel are likely to go up farther. Only sixty and ninety-day delivery orders are being taken here. Bar iron continues in demand and the market is firm. Coke is fairly active for small lots. Lead has a fair demand and the market is steady at the old quotations. Zinc is up another quarter of a cent, making sheets in cask lots eight cents, and plain sheets eight and a half.

Lumber Dull in Retail and Wholesale.

While dullness marks the lumber business in both the wholesale and retail departments, there is evidence aplenty that conditions are bound to improve within the next few weeks. The wholesalers are laying-in, in expectation of a heavy Fall demand, and the retailers are beginning to see their way to a generous distribution for local and suburban operations. An advance in spruce is likely to come at any time. The hardwoods are still scarce, the demand exceeding the supply. Hence, advances are looked for in that direction.

Stone Improvement Gradual.

A gradual improvement in the condition of the stone market is reported, the cutters and quarrymen now being within 75 per cent. of normal. Two weeks ago the percentage was 60. There is remarkably little business being done in marble, most of the reports being granite contracts. The companies handling this building material report good business. Limestone is also a leader.

The New England Granite Works, for instance, have closed some important contracts within the recent past, among them a 32 catacomb receiving vault for the Greenwood cemetery in Wheeling, West Virginia. This company is also cutting Concord granite for the Historical Society of Concord, Mass., for which Guy Lowell of Boston is architect and the Central Building Company of Concord are general contractors. It also has the St. Louis Cathedral, which will be done in Concord granite, and it is also finishing the Hartford, Conn., Public Library, which is being done in Westerly, R. I., red, the same material being used in the Ethical Culture Meeting Hall in Hartford. The New England Granite Works are also cutting and shipping Westerly red for the National Fire Insurance Company's building at Hartford, for which E. T. Hapgood is architect and Mare Eidlitz is general contractor.

Slate still holds its own, but the expected shift in prices is still held off. It is a good time for prospective purchasers to fill in. An advance is near and it promises to be a stiff one when it does come.

New Jersey's Handsomest Mausoleum.

As far as local records show, a mausoleum, which the New England Granite Works, of the Depew Building, 5th av near 42d st, this city, is cutting granite for, will be "the handsomest in New Jersay." It is being constructed for the estate of Joseph B. Dickson, the coal man, whose death occurred a year ago, and it is to be set in the Evergreen cemetery, Morristown, N. J., from plans by Charles W. Romeyn, the architect. The cost will be not less than $40,000. Save for one or two, among them being the tomb of Daniel J. Lamont, who was Secretary of War under President Cleveland, in Woodlawn cemetery, it will probably be one of the finest in this part of the country.

The first shipment was made from the Westerly, R. I., quarries on Friday of last week and received at the cemetery by J. L. Wegenaar, who has charge of the monumental department of the New England Granite Works. When completed the mausoleum will be one of the finest examples of highly finished red granite in America, no expense being spared to procure stones of fine, rich grain and for this purpose a new breast in the quarry is being worked. An idea of the size and magnificence of the crypt may be had from the fact that each of the four gables is to be cut from one solid piece of granite, 15 ft. square and weighing about ten tons.

Venetian mosaic, brought to this country from abroad, especially for this structure, will line the whole interior, floor, sidewalls and dome ceiling. The roof will be of bronze, as will be the doors and window frames. The windows themselves will be of leaded stained glass representing Bible characters. The doors will weigh a ton apiece. The catafalque will probably be of bronze, although this detail has not yet been decided upon.

Novel Electrical Devices for Col. Clowry.

Not long ago Col. Robert C. Clowry, President and General Manager of the Western Union Telegraph Company, decided to equip his house and grounds in South Broadway, Tarrytown, N. Y., with electricity. He cast about for some competent electrical engineer who was equipped mechanically and financially to put in a service that would embrace several pet schemes that he had been nursing for several years. One of these was to equip his green houses with electrical service which would not only provide for lighting the extensive conservatories but, should he so desire at some future time, would also heat the houses in winter with electricity. But there is another thing that gave the distinguished resident of Tarrytown more concern than that.

Almost since Colonial times he and his forebears have been summoning their servants by means of long silken ropes attached to the end of which were elaborate tassels, which when pulled rang bells in the pantry. Now Col. Clowry did not propose to permit this feature of his household to give way to the march of progress, so he determined to retain this novelty yet combine it so as to utilize electricity.

He called in George H. Shuman, who has electrical engineering offices at 13 East 30th st. The conservatory installation was simple enough. The problem there was simply a matter of insulation and proper gradations of wiring, to provide against the ravages of humidity and consequent electrolysis. But the tassel call bells were a different matter. There were none on the market, it seems, that answered Col. Clowry's requirements, so Mr. Shuman took up the problem and within a few weeks the special appliance was at hand. This consisted of a lever and push button hidden in the ceiling, so that when the chord is pulled, the lever pushed the button within the flooring above and rings a bell as any other contrivance would, in the servants' quarters. Every room in the house is being fitted with this device. Mr. Shuman makes a specialty of all knotty little problems like this one and that is why, during the recent depression he was busy when others were idle.

Some contracts he now has on hand are: An apartment house for the Garnett Realty Co., 140th st and Broadway, from plans by Summerfield & Steckler, for which Fleischman Brothers are general contractors; a building for H. F. Huber & Co., decorators, 13 East 40th st., which is being built by J. V Schaefer, general contractor, from plans by J. H. Freelander, architect; the City Athletic Club, at 48 and 50 West 54th st, Frederick Lewisohn president; Herts & Tallant, architects; office building at 149th st and Bergen av, for William Astor Chandler, which is being built by John H. Deeves & Brother, from plans by Taylor & Levi, architects; a store and loft building for the Title Insurance Company, at 108th st and Broadway, for which Oddie & Stafford are general contractors and William L. Rouse, architect; a cafe, restaurant and lodge rooms, for the Cafe Stuyvesant, at 142 2d av, for which J. W. Fisher is architect; and a store and loft building at 115 and 117 West 27th st for the Aurora Investment Co., which is building from plans by George Fred. Pelham, architect.

Forward Strides in Brick Manufacturing.

The Empire Brick Manufacturing Company has for some time used electricity successfully in its works at Stockport for operating a trolley railroad by which sand and clay are transported from the bank to the machines. The company has not yet tried electricity for energizing machinery, but it is predicted that most of the brick yards on the river will do this in time. The Empire Company also makes use of two steam-shovels for excavating its clay and sand, which is as great an improvement over the pick-and-shovel as the electric railroad is over the horse-and-cart, for brick manufacturing.

The company is now towing its product to market with its own steamer, instead of depending on the Cornell Towing Line. Four barges were added to its fleet this spring, making sixteen in all. This fleet is capable of bringing down between seven and eight million brick at one time, which is enough to build a row of seven 40-ft. flathouses. The Empire Brick & Supply Company employs between six and seven hundred men in its works at Stockport. It also has works at Glasco, Ulster county. Its city yards are four in number; one is on the Hudson, 47th to 48th st; one on the East River at 150th st, Bronx; one on Newtown Creek, and one at foot of 25th st, South Brooklyn. The general offices are at 103 Park av.

The large interests and operations of this company are an indication of what an important industry Hudson River brick manufacturing has become, and the certainty is that it will grow as New York City grows, and with no likelihood of outside competition so long as the cargo price keeps under $8 per M.

Vacuum Systems for Cleaning Machinery.

The cleaning of textile machinery by compressed air has been adopted in some of the largest mills in the United States in connection with humidifying systems. In these systems compressed air is used to atomize or vaporize the water.

Engineer Moves Offices.

Putnam A. Bates, whose engineering offices for the last five years have been in the Forty-two Broadway Building of this city, has recently completed the equipment of considerably larger offices on the top floor of the United States Express Building, No. 2 Rector st, into which new quarters Mr. Bates moved the early part of this summer. These offices, which occupy the southeast corner of the building, extend 100 ft. on the south and the same on the east side of the building, have in addition to the windows, skylights over the drafting and clerical rooms, which makes them especially suitable.

As an engineer Mr. Bates specializes in electrical and mechanical equipments, and in this line he has been identified with important work, having designed the heating, lighting and power plants of the Engineers' Club Building of this city, which was the gift of Andrew Carnegie; the Quintard Iron Works Company at the foot of East 12th st; the Sevilla Home for Children in the Bronx, and the J. P. Morgan art galleries, now being completed as an addition to the Wadsworth Athenaeum in the City of Hartford, Conn.

Big Business in Electrical Supplies and Machinery.

Preliminary returns of the Western Electric for July show that the company's business for that month ran approximately 46 per cent. ahead of July, 1908. The eight months' returns indicate a gross business for the year of about $47,000,000, but it is expected that the improvement in industrial conditions, which is now setting in, will enable the company to show nearer $50,000,000 in round figures, which will be close to the Western Electric's second best record.

In respect to electric lighting supplies and electrical machinery, last month was the largest in the Western Electric's history.

The demand for telephone supplies for use in train despatching has increased largely during the last year, and will doubtless expand more rapidly when the idea becomes better grounded and its practicability more widely demonstrated. The railroad companies which have adopted this method install and operate their own systems.

Of late there has been considerable activity in the foreign departments. The recent order by the Chinese government for an experimental telephone system for the city of Pekin is important rather as an indication of the rapidly changing attitude of China, than for the size of the contract, which amounted to about $150,000.

In answer to those who assert that the A. T. & T. purchases its supplies from the Western Electric because the latter is a subsidiary company of the former, the officers of the Western Electric assert that the A. T. & T. purchases of the Western Electric because of the superiority of the latter's products and back their claims to excellence of output and efficiency of methods by pointing to the company's exploit in rebuilding the Gutenberg exchange in Paris, which was destroyed by fire last fall, and to the recent contract with the Chinese government.

Abroad they say there can be no question of interlacing interests, and the company which lands a contract with a foreign government does so because of better goods and better prices. They also assert that in the face of the competition of the world the Western Electric Co. does more than 50 per cent. of the telephone business done outside of the United States.

OF INTEREST TO PROPERTY OWNERS.

Valuable Information Given Weekly Showing Status of Municipal Improvement Proceedings in all Branches.

Owners of real estate frequently get an unpleasant shock when they have sold a given piece of property, and title is about to pass. The attorney for the buyer, or title company, brings out a memorandum which shows that besides certain charges, such as taxes, water rent (in all probability known to the seller), there are one or more assessments which have been a lien against the property for a long or short time, as the case may be. Naturally the seller is annoyed and states that he was unaware that these liens existed. To overcome this condition the Record and Guide publishes all of these proceedings, under classified heads, and in ample time to give the owner abundant opportunity to make a protest, should he deem it advisable. Much confusion and disappointment can be avoided by weekly glancing at this column. At the end of each proceeding the official number is given, and should the owner desire to secure the full particulars of any given improvement, it will aid him materially. This information will be found to be of great use to the real estate broker. It gives him additional information for his files, and should be of considerable aid to him in consummating sales. As an example, should he learn that a proceeding for the acquiring of title by the city to a street on which he had property for sale, he would have an additional argument to place before his client, which otherwise might have escaped his notice.

The Record and Guide is regularly publishing for property owners and others information relative to the opening of streets, regulating and grading, curbing and flagging of same, as well as the construction of sewers, permanent and temporary.

The reader will understand that municipal improvements of this order are assessed against the owners of property, both improved and unimproved, situated within the district directly benefited. For example a given street is going to be paved. In all likelihood not only will the property be assessed that faces on the street directly in front of where the work is going to be done, but also property will be assessed in adjoining streets and thoroughfares which might receive the benefit of such improvement.

That the various stages of carrying through these proceedings may be followed with intelligence by the property owner they have been divided into three classes:

1. Public Works.
2. Condemnation Proceedings.
3. Assessments.

1. Under the heading "Public Works" will be printed petitions asking that improvements may be made, and the successive initiatory proceedings, including mention of the probable district that will have to bear the assessment.

Under the second heading will follow the announcement of the application for the appointment of Commissioners of Estimate and Assessment, later followed by their various reports and findings. Fuller explanation of the foregoing will be found as the reader proceeds.

Under the third and final heading will follow the details relating to the confirmation and the entry of assessments with a statement of the time within which they may be paid, without incurring penalty for arrears. In other words, if payment be not made within a given time, an interest charge, upon the amount due is exacted by the city, which must be paid by the owner of the property.

PUBLIC WORKS.

To specifically illustrate the successive steps in a proceeding for a public improvement, let it be assumed that a new street is required in some section of any of the five boroughs comprising the city of New York. A movement of this kind is usually started and agitated by some property owner, an association of property owners or perhaps considered by a board of trade. A petition is presented to a regularly established local board, whose function is to give the proceeding the first or initial official hearing and if deemed advisable by that body, recommendation for its adoption is made to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment. This latter body meets nearly every Friday morning at 10.30 o'clock in their room in the City Hall and has jurisdiction over all public improvements.

If the board approves of the petition the area of assessment (that is to say boundary lines are fixed, and all property owners who have holdings therein are assessed in proportion to the amount of their real estate contained within these bounds) except where physical betterments are concerned, such as regulating, grading and curbing streets, laying sewers and flagging sidewalks as well as fencing vacant lots, in which case the Board of Assessors determine the area of assessment and the assessments for benefit. Motion is then made by the Corporation Counsel for the appointment of commissioners to condemn.

CONDEMNATION PROCEEDINGS.

The next step is the appointment by the Supreme Court of three Commissioners of Appraisal, of which one is designated as a Commissioner of Assessment. The commission hears all objections made by property owners as to title and value. When every one has had a hearing preliminary reports are prepared by the commission containing the amount of awards and assessments which in its opinion the various owners are entitled to. These reports are subsequently filed for examination and objections by property owners or parties in interest who may be dissatisfied with the findings of the commission.

Public hearings are then in order, and objecting parties are given an opportunity to register their disapproval of the findings. The commission then prepares and files a copy of its final report in the County Clerk's office followed by the presentation of its report to the Supreme Court for confirmation.

ASSESSMENTS.

The report of the Commissioners as approved is then transmitted to the Comptroller for the payment of awards and the collection of assessments, who in turn publishes the date of confirmation or when the assessment should be paid and entry of the assessment in the "Record of Titles of Assessments." A statement is made giving the time within which such assessment can be paid, without a penalty. If an assessment is not paid within 60 days after the date of entry, it is subject to an interest change at the rate of 7 per cent. a year.

PLANNING A NOTABLE MEETING.

It is expected that a large delegation of property owners and others will attend the National Convention of Building Managers to be held at Detroit on Sept. 13, 14 and 15. The management has planned to hold the 3-day session at the Cadillac Hotel, where ample accommodation has been arranged for. Speakers have been secured from many of the principal cities from coast to coast. Hughes Bryant, familiarly termed the Dean of Building Managers in the West, will discuss "The advantage to be derived by managers working in conjunction with the architect in initial construction." Mr. Bryant enjoys a national reputation as a progressive manager and as a man who has acted as consulting manager for many properties, and is particularly able to qualify as a speaker on this interesting subject.

Mr. W. K. Brown, of the Safe Deposit Co. of Pittsburgh, will deliver an address on the importance of the manager being familiar with various materials and equipment in office buildings. In this connection it may be said that under Mr. Brown's direct control are several business properties, including the Peoples Bank Building. His own experience in this work will be the substance of his address. The committee believes that this talk and the discussion by the delegates will amply repay any manager or property owner for coming.

No less interesting and instructive will be the talk of Mr. C. T. Coley, who is connected with the Douglas Robinson, Chas. S. Brown Co., of Manhattan. The subject to be canvassed will relate to the percentage of net and gross cost of operation to income of office and loft buildings and apartment houses in New York City. Mr. Coley will tell how to secure this percentage, what it ought to be to make the investment profitable, and perhaps most important of all, explain how to apply his method to any property to ascertain whether it is bringing in the revenue and is maintained at a minimum of cost.

Mr. Claude B. Ricketts, another well-known manager, will have much to say on "The manager's personality as a factor in successful superintendency," and Mr. John Fedeler, superintendent and managing engineer of the New York Produce Exchange Building, will relate his experience in supervising repair work in office buildings. Other papers to be read will touch on the care of offices; hours and system of operating a janitor force; the cleaning problem; cost of janitor service per square foot of rentable space, and practical rules and regulations for operating large office structures.

To those who attend the gathering an elaborate entertainment will be tendered, including a steamboat ride, automobile rides and luncheons. Detroit has the repuation of being one of the most delightful centres out West. It has unequalled hotel facilities, drives and promenades. But above all, Detroit has no equal for its pleasure and entertainment opportunities.

DEFENDS TAX DEPARTMENT.

To the Editor of the Record and Guide:

At a luncheon in the City Lunch Club, Mr. Allan Robinson, president of the Allied Real Estate Interest, made an address in which he charged that real estate owners in the City of New York suffer great annoyance from grafting city officials.

He stated a particular case, implicating the Tax Department, which I will repeat in Mr. Robinson's own language.

"'I understand, Mr. B.,' said the Inspector, 'that you are trying to have your real estate assessment reduced.'

"'Well, not exactly that,' answered Mr. B. 'It seemed to me that my property was being assessed for more than it was worth, and I was considering an application for a lower appraisal.'

"'Just leave that to me,' replied the Inspector. 'I'll fix it up for you all right.'

"'None of that fixing business for me,' said the real estate man. 'It costs too much. I'll apply to the proper authorities and see that the thing is done in the regular way.'

"'All right. You'll be sorry if you do,' and the Inspector walked away.

"Sure enough, instead of reducing his assessment the city added $80,000 to the taxable value of Mr. B.'s realty, and he is paying taxes on that every year."

The tax books are open for public inspection from the first Monday in January until March 31 of each year. Any property owner can compare the valuation of his property with that of adjoining property. If assessed too high he can apply to the proper authorities to have the valuation reduced, which is a very simple process.

Mr. Robinson's friend undoubtedly knew how to go about it. If he did not succeed but instead the taxable value of his property was raised $80,000, and "he is paying taxes on that every year," it is pretty good proof that the assessed valuation of his property was much too low when he made application to have it still further reduced.

The owner of a piece of real estate usually knows at least its approximate value. Mr. Robinson's friend, therefore, must have had guilty knowledge of the fact that the taxes he paid on his property were grossly inadequate in proportion to its value. Not satisfied with this, however, he tried to "graft" still more upon the city by having his taxes further reduced.

Mr. Robinson concluded his address by stating that there are thousands of similar cases of graft, and he appealed to the real estate men to put a stop to these conditions. As Mr. Robinson has since departed for Europe, I cannot take up this question with him personally, but in fairness to the Tax Department I cannot leave his charges unanswered. In my experience of 20 years as a real estate man, I have never been asked for a dollar by any tax assessor. I have found the men employed as tax assessors and in other capacities an intelligent, honest and reputable body of men who can well be compared with the employees of other departments in this and in other cities. Considering the small salaries they receive, it is surprising to find so much efficiency and integrity among them.

To prove that the Allied Real Estate Interest is not wholly composed of lambs who are being shorn by corrupt officials, but that some of its members sometimes do a little shearing of the city on their own account, I will mention a case that came to my notice recently. I can vouch for the facts hereafter stated and give names of parties and description of property if necessary.

The assessed valuation of a piece of real property belonging to a member of the Allied Real Estate Interest was raised to conform to the actual increase in the value of said property. The owner did not want to bear his just share of the burden of taxation, but intended to use the influence of the Allied Real Estate Interest to have his taxes reduced and incidentally to have the assessor reprimanded or perhaps discharged for inefficiency. He stated to an appraiser, whose appraisal was to be used against the tax assessor, that he would sell for less than the increased assessed valuation. The appraiser could not in justice to himself appraise the property for less than the tax assessor had done. He also brought a bona fide purchaser who was ready to buy the property at its assessed valuation, but this offer was declined by the owner. The offer was finally raised to an amount which was 50 per cent. higher than the assessed valuation, without being accepted by the owner. Under the circumstances I am afraid the valuation of the assessor will stand, and this owner also "will be paying taxes on that every year."

These eminently respectable gentlemen should "come in with clean hands," as the saying in equity goes, before they accuse officials of one of the best conducted departments in the city of dishonesty.

EDWARD POLAK.

WILL HOLD INTERESTING LECTURE.

The Entertainment Committee of the Taxpayers' Alliance of the Borough of the Bronx has arranged for a public meeting of the Alliance to be held on the evening of the 8th of September next. Following the regular business of the meeting a free stereopticon lecture vividly illustrating the imperative necessity of cheapening the rates of wharfage and the cost of other port facilities at New York will be given. The lecture will be given at the meeting-rooms of the Alliance at the Masonic Temple Building, Bronx.

The lecturer and speakers will dwell upon: (1) The development of our harbor and tributary waters. (2) The increasing of our docking facilities and more public piers. (3) Providing adequate and economical port terminals. (4) The abolition of any railroad differentials against this port, in favor of competing ports. (5) The enlargement of our State canals. (6) The general reduction of the extortionate port charges at New York and Buffalo, which are driving the commerce naturally tributary to these ports to competitive points on the Atlantic seaboard and their tributaries, where better inducements are offered, as at Newport News, Baltimore, Portland, Montreal, St. Johns, Boston and Philadelphia.

The speakers will be Major Edward R. Gilman, Hon. John Jerome Rooney, Captain Charles Campbell and other prominent speakers, who will entertain the audience in a masterful manner on the waterways problems, which is the paramount political, city, State and national issue of the hour. Also, the Hon. Herman A. Metz, Comptroller of the City of New York, has assured the committee that he will positively be on hand to address the delegates and their friends on Modern Municipal Finance.

All citizens of the Borough of the Bronx will be formally invited. Invitations will be sent out in the course of the next few days to the members of the Alliance and every owner of real estate in the Borough of the Bronx.

The Alliance will take an active interest in the next campaign, and have already sent delegates to the Taxpayers' Conference and the Taxpayers' Congress of the City of New York. The delegates are Harry Robitzek, chairman; J. B. Powers and P. J. McKinley. The Alliance will endeavor to get the best available men to fill the positions of city government.

The officers of the Alliance, recently elected for the year 1909, are as follows: Adolph C. Hottenroth, president; Douglas Matthewson, 1st vice-president; James B. Powers, 2d vice-president; Harry Robitzek, corresponding secretary; William M. Browne, recording secretary; Charles McRae, financial secretary; Peter J. Stumpf, treasurer; Joseph A. Goulden, chairman board of directors, and Rufus R. Randall, vice-chairman board of directors.

THE CORPORATION TAX LAW OF 1909.

Every Real Estate Corporation and Insurance Company Vitally Interested in Its Provisions.

EVERY corporation, joint stock company or association represented by shares and every insurance company is vitally interested in the Act of Congress, approved Aug. 5, 1909, imposing an annual tax of one per cent. upon the net income, over $5,000.

So many corporations have been organized in this State for the purchase, sale, improvement or holding of real estate wholly or mainly, many of which are owners of income-producing properties, that the information given in a pamphlet published by the Title Insurance Co. of New York, in advance of the official publication of the law, will be welcomed by the officers and stockholders of such companies.

MAIN PROVISIONS OF THE ACT.

Tax rate, one per cent. of net income for calendar year over $5,000. Annual tax including year 1909.

Corporations to make returns under oath as to income, etc., to Collector of Internal Revenue by March 1st.

Tax to be assessed and notice thereof given on or before June 1.

Tax payable without penalty on or before June 30.

If not paid on or before June 30, 5 per cent. added to tax and 1 per cent. per month interest.

For refusal or neglect to make return or for false return, penalty not less than $1,000 and not more than $10,000. Officer of corporation making false return or statement with intent to defeat or evade the tax, guilty of misdemeanor punishable by fine or imprisonment or both. Corporation's books and papers may be examined by Revenue Agent and its officers, etc., examined under oath.

NET TAXABLE INCOME of corporations, etc., organized under the laws of the United States or of any State or Territory to be ascertained as follows:

FROM THE GROSS AMOUNT OF THE INCOME RECEIVED FROM ALL SOURCES WITHIN THE CALENDAR YEAR ENDING DECEMBER 31, DEDUCT THE FOLLOWING:

1. All the ordinary and necessary expenses ACTUALLY PAID WITHIN THE YEAR OUT OF INCOME, in the maintenance and operation of its business and properties, including all charges such as rentals or franchise payments, required to be made as a condition to the continued use or possession of property.
2. All losses actually sustained within the year and not compensated by insurance or otherwise.
3. A reasonable allowance for depreciation of property, if any.
4. Interest actually paid within the year on its bonded or other indebtedness to an amount of such bonded and other indebtedness not exceeding its paid-up capital stock outstanding at the close of the year.
5. All sums paid within the year for taxes imposed under the authority of the United States or of any State or Territory thereof, or imposed by the government of any foreign country as a condition to carrying on business therein.
6. All amounts received within the year as dividends upon stock of other corporations, joint stock companies or associations, or insurance companies, subject to the tax imposed by the United States Corporation Tax Law.
7. In case of insurance companies, also the sums other than dividends, paid within the year on policy and annuity contracts and the net addition, if any, required by law to be made within the year to reserve funds.
8. In case of banks, banking associations and trust companies, also all interest actually paid within the year on deposits.

From the balance remaining after making the above deductions, deduct the sum of $5,000, and the sum then remaining is the amount taxable at one per cent.

The most noticeable provision of the law is that the net income taxable over $5,000 is the difference between the total or gross income received from all sources during the calendar year ending December 31 and certain enumerated expenses, losses, interest, taxes, etc., paid within the year.

TITLE COMPANIES' POSITION.

As Mr. Edgar J. Levey, President of The Title Insurance Company, formerly Deputy Comptroller of the City, who has made a special study of taxation, is at present in Europe, Mr. Cyril H. Burdett, its Secretary, was asked as to the position taken, or which would be taken, by it and by other title companies and realty corporations in respect to the law. Mr. Burdett said that the Act had been so recently passed and its precise provisions so little known to the officers of realty corporations or members of the bar that any expression of opinion on his part would be to a great extent merely conjecture as to what opposition, if any, would or could justly be made to its enforcement. He had discussed the matter to some extent with only a few officers of corporations affected, and he found the details of the act, although of vital interest to many, were so little known that he deemed it advisable to have it printed in its entirety and circulated for the information and careful study of all whose interests might be affected. The affairs and methods of business and realty companies were so varied, and their receipts or profits derived from so many different sources, that until the exact bearing of the law in its application to the circumstances of each were ascertainable, and the views of these immediately affected known, no definite conclusion could be drawn as to whether the act, if capable of enforcement, would receive any united or general opposition.

Nearly all corporate officers with whom he had talked believed that any additional indirect tax on real estate by taxing its income, already overburdened by State and local taxation and special taxation for local improvements, was unjust alike to corporate owners and to tenants upon whom the burden must in many cases finally be shifted; that it was equally unjust for the taxing power to discriminate between corporations owning productive real estate and natural persons owning similar property. Nevertheless there were some who believed that as the act made the returns under oath of corporations to the collector of internal revenue, of the details of their gross income or earnings when filed public records open for inspection to any one, it would thus afford to investors and lenders on mortgage accurate knowledge of the productive capacity of properties, thereby attracting investors, a result that in the end might benefit real estate more than the imposition of the tax would temporarily injure it.

Personally, however, Mr. Burdett expressed grave doubts as to the validity of the law, or if valid, as to the possibility of its enforcement without causing great annoyance and expense to both the government and realty corporations. It had been hastily drawn and enacted. Its provisions had not been made public so far in advance as to receive general consideration or discussion, and, while to some extent, formulated after former income tax laws, its framers were apparently but little informed, not only as to the details of business methods, but, in so far as it was intended to include realty corporations, of real estate business and judicial precedents. It is wanting in that exactness and completeness which is necessary in tax laws to obviate substantial questions as to its purpose, effect and application to individual cases which always are raised by taxpayers against a taxing law which, for any reason, is deemed to be unjust or assailable.

ACT POSSIBLY INVALID.

Asked as to why he believed the act to be possibly invalid, or its application uncertain, Mr. Burdett stated that there were some objections which appeared to him, at first view, of great force. How far the act was open to question by corporations generally he was not prepared to say without more careful examination of its provisions and information as to the business methods and sources of income of particular corporations. In respect to realty corporations, and more especially as to those whose income was derived wholly or in greater part from rentals, a serious question he thought as to the validity of the act or as to its application to such corporations was presented. The Constitution of the United States gives Congress power "to lay and collect taxes, duties, imposts and excises . . . but all duties, imposts and excises shall be uniform throughout the United States" and to make all laws which may be necessary to carry into execution the power so given.

The Constitution further provides that "no capitation or direct tax shall be laid unless in proportion to the census," etc. Congress has frequently passed laws imposing a tax upon the business profits and income of corporations organized under State laws, as well as of individuals. So far as these laws have not involved either directly or indirectly a tax on rentals from real estate, they have been upheld as constitutional, as in the nature of an excise upon the business of the class of corporations mentioned in the statute imposing the tax. But where the act of Congress involved an imposition of a tax on income derived from the rentals of real property, they have been declared by the Supreme Court of the United States as unconstitutional and unless the act of 1909 differs substantially in its application from the prior acts in this respect, it would seem to be open to the same objection. The Supreme Court of the United States in 1895 held that the Revenue Act of 1894 providing for a tax upon the income for the preceding year of every person from any kind of property, rents, interest, etc., and from all property owned and of every business, trade or profession, so far as it provided for a tax on the rents and income from real estate or personal property was a direct tax within the meaning of that term as used in the Constitution and was void. The decision in substance held that the act in imposing a tax on the rents and income of real estate imposed a tax upon the real estate itself and accordingly was a direct tax and void because imposed without regard to the rule of apportionment.

The authority of that decision has since been questioned but not overruled. The act of 1909 apparently attempts to escape the effect of these decisions by calling the new tax "a special excise tax with respect to the carrying on or doing business by such corporation" namely a tax upon the privilege, right or facility given to carry on or do business as a corporation. Whether the distinction is sufficiently substantial as to all, or in respect to any business which requires no corporate organization, is undoubtedly a point which may be the determining factor and as to which lawyers may possibly differ.

In the next place, can Congress tax a real estate corporation organized under the laws of the State owning and receiving an income from real estate within the State and not an individual likewise owning and receiving such income? A real estate corporation under the statutory construction law of this State is included in the term "person," and section 3140 of the Revised Statutes of the United States relating to Internal Revenue provides that "where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof, the word 'person' as used in this Title, shall be construed to mean and include a partnership, association, company, or corporation, as well as a natural person." Can Congress provide for taxing all alike for one purpose and exempt natural persons on taxing for another?

A further question, Mr. Burdett said, as to the constitutionality of the act is presented by the procedure provided for ascertaining the net taxable income. The provision for deductions allowable from gross income may, in their application to realty corporations as capitalized and as they are operated for profit or income, be open to serious question in respect to their securing substantial equality in the application of the law. Although the Supreme Court in some cases has held that the constitutional requirement as to "uniformity" in tax or excise legislation refers only to geographical uniformity, nevertheless the authority of such decisions has been assailed and the claim more justly made that uniformity requires substantial equality and prohibits the exemption from the burden of taxation of corporations or natural persons having similar property and carrying on similar business.

If the provision as to deductions allowable from gross income will in application result oppressively and greatly differentiate between the corporations in the same class, as for instance in respect to the deduction allowed for interest on indebtedness not exceeding in amount their capital stock, it may be justly claimed that the act was beyond the power of Congress. Until, however, the result of its application to the varied business corporations of the country are definitely ascertainable, any expression of opinion as to the validity of the act to corporations generally would be more or less conjecture. But in respect to realty corporations, at all events so far as their income is derived wholly or in part from rentals, Mr. Burdett was of the opinion that there was much doubt in respect to its constitutionality. Equally so as to any part of income derived from city bonds, in respect to which the act is silent. Possibly the courts may hold that realty corporations, so far as they derive any income from the sources mentioned, are not taxable, thus leaving the act to operate in all other respects.

BUSINESS METHODS DIFFER.

Mr. Burdett thought that the first actual difficulty officers of realty corporations would meet was in the preparation of their returns of receipts, etc., to the collector to apply the law to the circumstances of the respective business so as to determine the items chargeable to "gross income" from all sources and the deductions allowable therefrom. The business methods of realty corporations differ so greatly that it will be difficult in many instances to determine the application of the words "gross income." For instance if these words include all corporate earnings or profits or gains during the year such as the profit upon the sale of land purchased for speculation, and, if so, shall they be included although such profit is not represented by money actually received.

What if profit is represented by a mortgage taken or secured by bond or note? If such profit is cash and expended upon improvements made upon other property of the company is it deductible as an ordinary and necessary expense "in the operation of its business or properties?" Where a real estate corporation has taken title to real property subject to but has not assumed an outstanding mortgage can interest paid thereon be deducted from gross income? Is such interest a charge required to be made as a condition to the continued use or possession of property? Is it a charge upon the company's indebtedness? For here the question arises as to the status of the company with respect to the mortgage debt depending to some extent upon whether the principal of the mortgage indebtedness is or is not over due.

If such interest may be considered as deductible in toto under the general provision as to expenses incurred for "the maintenance and operation of its business properties" or as an expense "required to be made as a condition to the continued use or possession of the property" is it not limited by the specific provision as to deductible interest, namely, on its own indebtedness not exceeding the paid-up capital stock of the corporation outstanding at the end of the calendar year?

Again, what is a reasonable allowance for the depreciation of property? Where a building upon land has depreciated for any cause can such depreciation be allowed if rentals for the calendar year for which return is made continue the same or the property as a whole has appreciated? If rentals receivable continue the same for the calendar year can "depreciation" be claimed although the trend of business or of residence is in another direction that gradually will reduce and to some extent may have reduced the salable value of the property as a whole? Moreover, what is meant by limiting the deduction for interest paid on indebtedness "not exceeding the paid up capital stock of such corporation"? Does it mean the nominal par and incorporation certificate value, or the actual book or market value of its capital stock? If the par value, has Congress not discriminated so as to render unequal the burden of taxation so that a corporation having a stock certificate paid up value of $100,000, although its actual value may not exceed $10,000, is it to be allowed a deduction of interest on $100,000, while a corporation having a certificate or par value of $10,000, although its stock is actually worth $100,000, can deduct only interest on $10,000?

In other words can an equal and constitutional tax be laid according to nominal certificate value and not actual values? A larger, and perhaps more important question, is whether deduction of expenses can be measured by a purely arbitrary rule or standard which may relieve some corporation entirely and charge others in the same business having the same actual capital and deriving from its use the same income.

The above, Mr. Burdett said were but a few of the many questions which would receive full consideration when the law had been carefully examined by those interested.

POINTS ABOUT INSURANCE POLICIES.

INSURANCE CONTRACT SHOULD BE STRICTLY APPLICABLE TO THE CONDITIONS OF A RISK.

Narrowed down to a fine point, there are comparatively few property owners who are sufficiently posted on matters pertaining to fire insurance policies. Since it must be admitted that the subject is of vital interest to every holder of improved real estate, any literature that serves to throw additional light on the meaning of the various clauses in the standard form policy is acceptable at all times. The necessity of having insurance contracts strictly applicable to the conditions of a risk is important in every instance. Recently there was issued by the Fire Insurance Committee of the National Association of Credit Men a circular covering the points referred to. For the information of readers of the Record and Guide, part of the suggestions contained therein are reprinted for future reference:

"When you received those insurance policies you had a lot of things to do, and you put them in a safe place, intending to look them over—some time. Perhaps you noticed that the amount of insurance was what you called for, but that crowded print in the lower half of the document, and those little pasters, which your agent said he would take care of, you could not stop to read. Any time would do to satisfy your curiosity on these points. Perhaps you were led to think that all that it is necessary to have is enough policies. But that's not a safe conclusion. There's another thing to consider—Do they fit? That's important, too. Is it reasonable to suppose that this standard policy form, full, as it is, of conditional and restrictive clauses and intended only to supply a basis for contracts to insure all sorts of risks, is going to apply exactly to every property or stock of goods—everywhere? Emphatically—No. And it is just here that we find the reason why policyholders have to take settlements on their losses which they think are unfair. The policy contract between you and the insuring company doesn't fit the risk, or, to put in the other way, the policyholder has not been living up to the requirements of his policy, though if he had known them he could and would have done so, or else had the policy altered to cover the needs of his business.

"As you probably know, the law in all but a few States requires the use by all companies of a standard form of policy, to which it is expected there shall be attached such special clauses, conditions and privileges as may be required properly to cover the risk. Hence, when you understand the required printed conditions of one policy you have grasped the basic conditions of all, and it remains for you to read simply the special clauses, conditions and privileges on each policy, which are attached by the agent, and these, if correct, should be exactly alike in all the policies applying to the same property. It was recentiy told by a man who knows whereof he speaks that, owing to defects in policies, claims amounting to many millions of dollars are each year compromised and the smaller places suffer more from this than in larger cities. All this is not half so likely to be the fault of the insurance companies as the policyholder. Why? Because men treat no other business contract so lightly as a fire insurance policy. Every other business arrangement may receive your minutest attention, every possibility of misunderstanding is eliminated, but your insurance policy—which may become the only barrier between you and bankruptcy—is seldom examined much deeper than to see that it bears your name and is for the amount you called for.

"As a buyer of insurance you are entitled to policies which cover the property you want to insure and fit the conditions of your business affairs. You want to know what things you can do under your contract with in insurance companies without giving them an advantage over you when it comes to settling a loss. Now is the time to get your policies out and inspect them. Read one of them thoroughly and compare it with any others that you may have. If there is anything about them which isn't perfectly clear, you have a right to full explanation. Write the home office of the insurance company and let them settle your doubts. After the fire your policies are unalterable, no matter how glaring the errors which appear and how far the policies are from what you expected. It's the forehanded man who wins—you know."

INFORMATION FOR THE TENANT.

By H. R. CROW.

The renting business has been run on such a loose business principle in this city, that tenants are not altogether at fault, owners are mostly to blame, they run their renting business merely as a side line, letting their property take care of itself and letting tenants do as they please, no thought whatever, but to take in the money without paying anything to keep their property in repair. Many good tenants have lost patience with the careless landlord and would do almost anything to get even. Many landlords do not know how to handle property right, they don't know conditions and renting laws as well as the average tenant.

Why Tenants Should Sign Leases.

It's the safest, best and only way to do business. You know then how long you can stay, otherwise you may get a notice to move just at the time you don't want to. It's better for both the tenant and the landlord. The best tenants are those who sign leases, they stay longer, don't move in and out so much. It is better to live in an apartment or dwelling where leases are required. Tenants with leases make the best kind of neighbors. REMEMBER, dead beats, floaters, kickers and questionable people never want to sign leases. They only want to stay a short time. There are some nice people who are afraid to sign a lease. A lease will not hurt anyone. Don't move your family where such loose management exists. It is not fit for them. There is a moral obligation attached to every lease. Every good tenant will respect a lease, and a tenant who respects a lease is the kind of a neighbor you want every time. By all means sign leases, you can sublet in case of emergency.

Leases Are Binding.

A lease is a lease and it is binding, and don't let a lease breaker tell you it is not. The trouble is, some landlords do not enforce them. It's worth something to find the tenant out. Be careful, you may pump into the wrong man. So many tenants have no respect for their word, character and reputation, they will do most anything for a cent. If one landlord does not enforce a lease, it is no excuse for the next one not to. We make leases in good faith and on business principles and look to every tenant to fulfill same. If we are compelled to fight for our rights, we go the limit and work entirely on principle. Business is business and tenants should not blame us if they break a lease and compel us to force payment. We will do it, as we must act by the landlord's instruction. You will always find us to be very agreeable in trying to get a settlement, and we are willing to meet you half way in every case.

Why Tenants Should Keep Rent Receipts.

It's business, keep a receipt for everything you get. You may never know when you will be called upon to pay your rent twice. We don't want any tenant to pay rent twice if we can help it. We are satisfied to get it once. We have many tenants and mistakes will happen, we may call upon you to show us your receipt. Insist upon getting a receipt from us when you pay your rent. We want you to have it. We want you to have one for every month's rent. We trust that we will never need to call on you. Get your receipt and keep it, you will then be on the safe side.

Why We Require References.

We want to know who we are renting to, we must know something about every tenant we have, their business and their reputation. Good tenants want to know where they are moving their families, the class of people they must live with. They have a right to be particular and we want them to be, we want to be able to tell them what class of tenants we have in every apartment we manage. The best tenants will never refuse references, when they do, we don't want them as tenants. Once in a while we get a bad tenant, but not often. Our experience and knowledge of the business and the great number of people we come in contact with, places us in the best of position to judge good tenants. When we get a tenant that is not satisfactory, we soon get rid of them.

Why We Don't Return Deposits.

If we did, what would be the use of demanding a deposit? Business is business, and our time is worth money. We do our part in good faith and it is no fault of ours that tenants change their mind. We would never know where we were at if we would do business in such a manner. We should not be expected to pay for a tenant's loose way of doing business. We cannot return a deposit unless we re-rent the place, then, of course, we shall be glad to return the money if we get any for the time which we hold the money to cover, less our commission for rerenting, as we do our work once. It always makes double work for us to rerent places.

How Tenants Want Things When Moving In.

Everything must shine, they would not live in such a dirty hole, they are all good, clean housekeepers, how could the tenant who just moved out be so dirty and destructive? It is a shame to do this and that. If you will put on new paper, put on new shades, polish the floors and fix everything up in good condition, we will keep it that way, as this is just what we want, everything is arranged so nice and it is just lovely. We are the best of tenants and take the best care of property; we pay promptly and will stay two or three years, as we do not want to move. We hear this from almost every prospective tenant, it sounds very nice indeed, but——

How Tenants Leave Things When Moving Out.

——You ought to see the place when they move out. After a few short months everything is different. All the bad points about the place we hear, nothing good, the change is wearing off, getting tired of one location, not satisfied, too much matinee, a little slow with the rent each month, kicks coming, pressed for rent, makes fault finding possible, cannot pay the rent until such and such a time, getting ready to move, want to get even by telling us (just as if we don't know about it and that this is the only case we every had of this kind) that they are going to move. If you ever want to find out anything about a person, as to true conditions, reputation, character and business principles, their landlord can tell you more than any one else under the sun.

SURFACE LINE HEARING HELD.

A public hearing was held on Friday last, before the Public Service Commissioners of the First District, on the application of the 3d Av. Bridge Co., for a certificate of public convenience and necessity, to run cars through East 57th st, between 2d and 3d avs, thence north on 2d av to 60th st and thence across the Queensboro Bridge to Jackson av, Long Island City.

It was conceded by Mr. Robinson, the attorney for the 3d Av. Railroad Co., that the 3d Av. Bridge Co. was a "dummy" corporation, composed of clerks of the parent concern and that the same was being financed by Receiver Whitridge.

Considerable opposition was adduced by the Manhattan people, represented by I. T. Flatto, counsel for the Blackwell's Island Bridge Protective Association, who submitted after cross examination of the witnesses, a careful brief in opposing, John C. Coleman, counsel for the 57th St. Property Owners' Association, and Mark Goldberg, member of Assembly of the district effected. The opposition centralized as follows:

First: That no arrangements had been made with the 3d Av. Railroad Co. for a transfer system at 57th st, and therefore it would cost the people of Queens ten cents to reach Manhattan.

Second: That objection was made to building a line on 57th st, as an entering wedge, in effecting the most valuable residential property in the city, on 57th st, between Lexington and 8th avs.
